WORKING PAPER

SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

Robert Polhill is currently located at the same location in Beirut as previously reported on 18 August 1988. Polhill is able to sit up daily; he is now aware of the possibility of release from captivity. The efforts of a US negotiator phonetically identified as "Strud/Studdle", a tip-off provided by HUMINT/SIGINT, the assistance of the Syrians, all appear to facilitate the early release Polhill from captivity.

The release of USMC LTC Higgins is scheduled to take place before the release of Polhill. "Strud/Struddle" also facilitates the release of Higgins who is currently located at Ash-Shuwayfat located south of the Beirut International Airport and immediately north of his last reported location at Khabah. See ENCLOSURE 1.

Terry Waite, Terry Anderson, and Jesse Turner are currently located in the Beqaa Valley at Area 1 of ENCLOSURE 2. Thomas Sutherland who was previously in the Beqaa Valley area was transferred to Beirut.

Joseph Cicippio and Alan Steen are currently on their way to "Aynata" via an area identified as "Bayt Yahun/Kunin"; they are somehow involved in "some sort of cross-fire activity (not further described). They will be "dumped" in an area located in the immediate surroundings of "Aynata". The captors will then proceed east towards "Nasir". See ENCLOSURE 3.

Thomas Sutherland was transferred to an area located immediately southwest of the Fire and Police Station at the Beirut International Airport and identified as the "Underground Aqueduct (ENCLOSURE 4.). He is being kept in a vault, that resembles a "forum" (stage) that is partially underground.

Edward Tracy, finds himself with Rudolf Cordes, the German national, and Frank Reed; they are located north of the military barracks. The military barracks is fast becoming a holding area of secondary importance.

The ultimate purpose remains to transport the hostages to Iran via chopper; this has not been accomplished to date.

There are no other hostages with Higgins; he will be the first to be released from captivity.
