SUMMARY

USMC LTC Higgins will be released from captivity on or about the 20/22 April 1988. The negotiator (previously mentioned in the Washington Post) by the name of Rukers (from Kuwait?) will be largely responsible for the pursuit of negotiations that will lead to the release of LTC Higgins. "Papers" are/were submitted (to the US) to obtain "agreements" that will facilitate this release.

Yus
The hijacking of the 747 Kuwaiti Airline jet transport will not unfavorably affect the release of LTC Higgins. That episode, the hijacking of the 747, will end within about six days. The aircraft will not leave Algiers, Algeria, for any other location. It will remain at its current location where the hijacking issue will be resolved. There will be no further loss of life.

Khomeini did not like the idea of having the highjacked Kuwaiti Airline on Iranian soil. It did not fit into his game plan; he neither wanted nor desired that kind of publicity at this time. Khomeini is in sort of "hiding", he is removed from public attention. Activities that will lead to a "shift of power" to a dual seated form of government is ongoing. The resultant shift of power will allow for a more westernized and liberal form of government in Iran. Iran's war with Iraq will continue despite an evident favorable change in power. There is no evidence for of a mutual basis of agreement for the discontinuance of this conflict until about December 1988 or January 1989.
