Summary of Information

Three elements were significant to the site--an object with an exterior of soft, curving contours that emits a crackling sound when manipulated, and an interior that was grey and malleable like modeling clay; a person that was tanned, stocky, broad faced, dark hair, burly, with a broad nose, glinting eyes, thick hands, and stubby fingers, and was squinting; and a structure with a red, bumpy roof, surrounded by a masonry wall with a wrought iron gate in it. There were persons in the presence of the individual at the site who were taking orders or direction from the individual.
