

In 1984 Zhang Baosheng, one of the leading Chinese psychics, was under the control of the Institute of Space-Medical Engineering team. In an ISME film Zhang passed a marked medical pill through a glass container. This was photographically recorded at 400 frames per second. It is an important sign of the military support of the field that this film was awarded a "Scientific Research Achievement Prize" of the second class by the Spaceflight Department in 1987, a recognition which must be unique in the history of parapsychology.
