SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

The target area has many aspects to it. The first place of interest to me was the monument (see sketch #1). This monument was located in a park like place with grass and trees all around. There were people walking along concrete walkways and dirt paths. I was aware of buildings which were much higher than the monument which almost surrounded the area. These buildings were 3 or 4 stories high, some even more. There were streets with traffic on them which did not seem to be too heavy at the time.

Another aspect of the site was a hill that was covered with trees but I could still see to the top where there was a large building. This building was probably four stories high, with lots of windows. To the left of my position was an athletic field or street (see sketch #2). There was a small chainlink fence between me and the street. It was cool and sunny -- a few clouds blowing quickly across the sky.

There was no major attraction of activity that I could see -- just business as usual at this place with people walking around moving quickly from one place to another.
