SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

SG1A

The crew ship [REDACTED] is currently located on the eastern shore of Honduras in a area identified as the "Laguna de Carcatasco" where it is currently unloading a sizeable amount of hashish being stored amidships. The hashish is disguised in the general shape of a cigar (ENCLOSURE 1) within and among a load of "lobelia", a herbaceous plant comprised of leaves and tops of indian tobacco. Specifically, the illegal contraband is stored directly below the steward's cabin.

SG1A In about a week or less (about 20 December 1988), the [REDACTED] will be located about 140 miles south of "Pointe au Fer", Louisiana, at geographical coordinates estimated as 27 degrees 20 minutes N and 92 degrees W. The [REDACTED] can SG1A readily be intercepted at this location. The [REDACTED] will then sail northeast to New Orleans where it is projected to unload its cargo for further dissemination to various destinations in the US.
