Summary Of Information

#1:

- * Item of interest is a shiny container.
- * It is hidden within a little used compartment of a ship.
- * The compartment lies along the outside wall of the starboard side; there is a grated walkway which runs across the front of the compartment.
- * The compartment is very dirty and contains discarded objects reminiscent of rags, boxes or rope. There is an area below the grate which is filthy.
- * Within the outside wall is a niche or panel which contains variously shaped mechanical objects ie. cogs, bars, levers; these mechanisms have something to do with locking or securing and have not been used for their intended purpose for a long time.
- * The item of interest is hidden and secured just left of center within this recessed area. There is possible access to the interior of this panel compartment from the bottom. This access is either hidden or partially hidden.
- * The compartment is small with doors on either side of it.
- * The compartment is located just above the waterline and almost to the bow. It lies below the anchor chain room.
- * The vessel itself has a sense of oddity to it. It does not conform to the usual classification list of vessel types/styles. It has an unusually high bow section with mast-like objects sticking up from the center portion.
- * The vessel is located approximately 1000 miles west of San Francisco. It is traveling in generally an easterly-northeasterly direction towards San Francisco.
- * At a point southwest of Monterey Bay, the vessel changes course and heads southeast, paralleling the coastline. It stops within the vicinity of the SEPARATION ZONE between the north/south traffic lanes south of PORT HUENEME. At some point in time, it heads northwesterly towards SANTA BARBARA.

Scrub

#2:

- * The object of interest is located within an open area within a wooded or forested locale.
- * It appears to be hidden within or below a clump of bushes, brush or scrub.
- * The object of interest is wrapped with something reminiscent of clothe, dark clothe.
- * A fallen log or tree sits to one side of the scrub clump; beyond this log/fallen tree is a steep embankment or drop-off.
- * Opposite of this are scattered trees with a wooden wall or fence running parallel to the scrub clump.
- * Above the clump are rolling hills with thinly scattered trees; the ocean is located nearby in this direction and the previously aforementioned direction.
- * Below the target it is open and grassy; a bare linear area reminiscent of a path or trail runs from this area up to the scrub clump.
- * Something is sliding or being dragged across the ground.
- * There is a sound reminiscent of a small explosion or light bulb popping.
- * Within the vicinity is an area crowded with people closely pressed together; some are moving and some aren't.
- * There is also a rumbling sound.
- X * There is a red hut, sometimes vacant, with racks and ropes; there is a wooden bench nearby.
- * There are gears or large wheels hidden or hiding.
- * Something appears stuck or jammed, it's progress halted.
- * Electricity smell; snapping sounds; circular, spinning motion; stack of flat objects nearby; heat.
- * Black triangles; something holding smaller objects.
- * Someone is looking at something in the same manner one would study a map.

X * The location of this item of interest is in the vicinity of Pigeon Point and Point Año Nuevo: $37^{\circ} 20' N$
 $22^{\circ} 40' W$
