Summary of Information

The target is associated with crumbled rocks, dirt roads and harsh conditions. The area of operations is dusty, windless and has a very old or prehistoric feel about it. The target is a large, wheeled vehicle which either resembles, or works within the vicinity of, an over-sized earth mover. This vehicle is associated with earth or soil manipulation, terrain manipulation, earth/soil movement or transport. It accompanies other types of vehicles along roads.

There are currently delays in production of this particular vehicle because there is not enough of a market right now to justify conditions.

It is rather "cheaply" made in general although it has spots/portions which are "high tech". It has an austere interior which is small, self-contained but uncluttered. There are maps/planning maps located inside of it. The interior has at least one flat surface that is bright and a flat, rectangularly shaped metal box which contains some of the "high tech" stuff. There are 2-4 people inside of it but generally only two are present.

~~SECRET~~

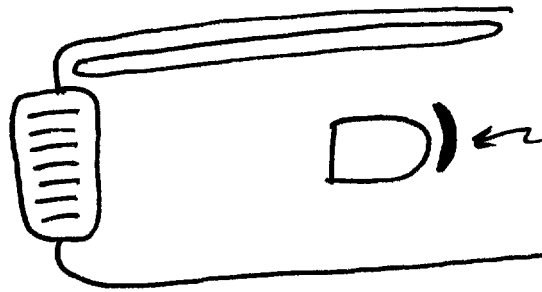

It is vaguely seismic related in that it is used for sensing or sensory purposes associated with the earth, soil and/or terrain. It contains an object that is either stuck in the ground and then retracted, or stuck in the ground and left in place.

There is a sense of southern asian associated with this; either its origin or where it is currently located. The term (phonetically) "KA-LOOK-A" is associated with it as well as "WANDER-.... or WONDER-....". There are two ^{red}parallel zig-zag characters upon a dark green or brown background somewhere on the vehicle.

On the exterior is a dark blue, triangularly shaped panel with a large white figure on it. This figure resembles an "8" but it is more of an abstract figure or motif rather than the number "8". It carries a long, tube-like object which generally sits horizontally on the vehicle. However, this object is occasionally placed in a vertical position.
