Summary

The site is a hot, high structure/land/water interface with old, thick, massive structures and wide walls made out of natural stone blocks. It is an old city which is underdeveloped or primitive with off-white house size dwellings made out of basic natural materials and dirt streets or pathways. At this point, I detected semi-dark skinned, thin, foreign people with draping, wrapped clothing and bare skin areas. I had the strong feeling that this was a foreign culture. At this point, it was difficult to figure out what time frame I was viewing in. Confusion break of Syria, India or the Mayan/Aztec/Incas. Although both women and men were present, I was under the impression that it was a society predominantly controlled by men. The people were busy talking in small groups while in standing, squatting and sitting positions. The AOL-signal of a bizadre came to mind. The people were interacting during their daily activities setting up gold and pottery (arts and crafts) preparing to trade or sell these articles for their livelihood. The people were working sociably and religion for this culture is a way of life. This site reminded me of a baghdad movie.
