2. (S/NF/SK) The target was the Devil's Tower in Wyoming. Perhaps best known for it's role in the hit movie, "Close Encounter's of a Third Kind", this tall monolithic natural stone outcropping dominates the high wyoming terrain in this area. Roughly conical in shape, its flat top and striated lines present an almost mystical appearance in the chaparral country and nearby forest.

3. (S/NF/SK) Source moved quickly to a site of rolling hills and windy terrain where the air was either too dry or too cold since it, "hurt my lungs, its harsh, dry". There, according to Source, was a large rounded structure at this site which was, "stony, hard, blocking, natural, dividing one part from another". At this point, Source apparently found little else to report on pertaining to this structure and chose to move to something else in an attempt to locate something of possibly more interest. This other thing appeared to be a town, "modern, producing, marketing, with the smell of "yuck" burning, big heat, placing hard things into the heat for a while, big fires, dirty". It should be noted that in this area there are towns within a two hour driving distance that are basically mill towns and used to smelt the natural ore found in this area. Still not satisfied, Source move to something more sinister and began describing, "special areas, railings, circular, things go in there to make things occur, domed shaped rooms, cold, testing, controlling, innovative, shiny, new with people working around it". None of the other items described are located near the actual target, a fact duly reported by Source. A subsequent check found that in the area there are several US Defense missile silos.

RETURN TO YOUR SANCTUARY 13 46

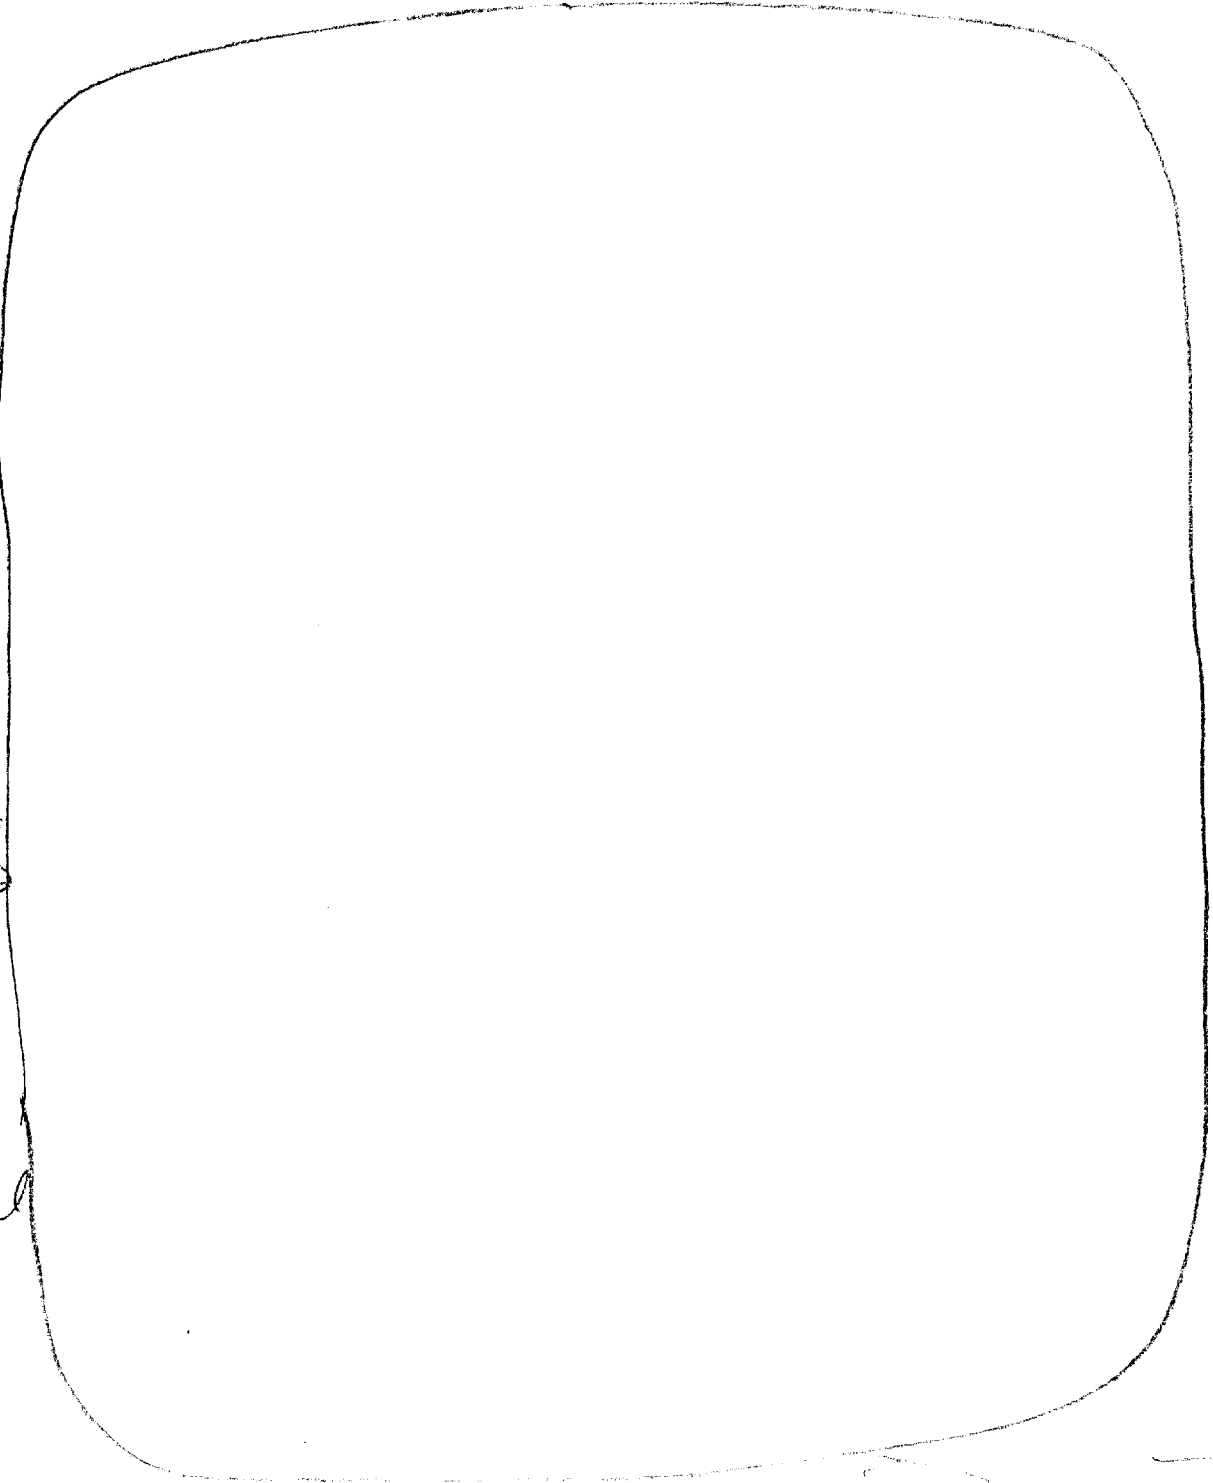

At first I felt I was in a natural setting with hills and the wind hurt my voice. I did not know whether it was hot or cold but I felt that my voice was rasping. I had a willowing effect.

I then felt I was hovering over a black big hole and I could feel the vast depthness of the whole.

I then felt I came upon a large white stone which had the purpose of blocking, dividing. I sensed people moving and I sensed men working maybe in uniform. I felt as though this large white stone represented a wall and had some sort of history to it.

I then felt that city was nearby & I floated to the city. I must of been in an old section of the city because it was dirty and the people worked so hard. I could smell fire. ~~I sensed the work had something~~ I kept getting the feeling of a factory and burning and fire and blasting.

Now, I felt that the ~~stone~~ large stone had something to do with history and maybe a war. I kept getting the feeling of separating peoples on purpose. I sensed the men in uniforms (I think) controlled the movement of people & things in & out passed the stone.
