Summary of Information

Site includes a squarish, angular, masonry structure on a high point of ground that slopes away in at least several, and perhaps every direction. The structure is composed of relatively thick, solid, somewhat uneven grey and beige walls, but seems somehow not to be complete--as if either it hasn't been finished yet, or has been partially disassembled. Bright red colors are present, and the setting is bright, sunny, warm in the sun but somewhat chilly otherwise. There is a certain feeling of austerity to the terrain and environment. The air seems thin and cool, reminding me of mountain air. People are here who are non-US, do not speak English, are short, swarthy, some with wrinkled faces and with dental problems. They wear bright-colored, non-Western style clothing. One person is of central interest, who is respected and deferred to. His authority seems to be more of a cultural or religious, rather than political nature.
