I sensed I came upon a large, mound structure or object. It was flat & smooth. I sensed some sort of details outside the structure and I sensed points. I sensed that at the back of the object was more rounded in the back at the bottom. I sensed thick sides that were more rectangular. I sensed that once inside the object I had a climbing effect and many points going up. At one point I felt that the tops were all the same, outside I sensed a reflection ~~at the~~ outside the object but not always a reflection, only during the day.

Inside I sensed a crashing down. I sensed a climbing up and crashing down. I sensed that there was a closed in feeling sometimes but I sensed a light, airy feeling - a feather. I sensed enjoyment.

I sensed that outside the object there was an entering in the rear, smoothly attached to the object.

Inside, I sensed that something must be placed inside. It was long at the top & flat and pointed outward at the bottom. This was movable and could be put inside the object. ~~to make~~ It was a very natural to the object and an integral part.

When the object was opening, I sensed the walls opening, flappable.

Rays came out from the core but the rays
did not penetrate the sides but the sides were needed to guide the rays.

I sensed men always with the object. Liking the object, you have to read to know it. Men have a nickname for it - Bird.

At one point I felt a submission or a part of a submission.

I felt this object
was stored in an open
square ~~or~~ wooded structure.
