SUMMARY OF INFORMATION:

The main color of the target is blue. It is sometimes a greenish blue and other times a purple-like dark blue, but mostly it is blue.

The target has land, water, air, and much energetics. It is bright, has a round shape and something coming out of the middle of it like light or air. It has a cool, outdoor, yet musty smell. It is smooth, jagged, curved, and fuzzy. The target is a large, wide, rounded thing with fuzzy edges. The edges are soft and they move. The entire target moves. There is also something that moves downward, like on a conveyor belt. It has many jagged objects on it and they are falling down on something, possibly to a central figure. Not all objects are the same, but they are very similar, they are all jagged. There is very much energetics or activity associated with this target. There is a high pitched sound at the target that gives me a headache, a sweet smell and a whooshing sound.

Inside the target is much movement. It is flickering, shaking and moving in many directions at the same time. The target seems to be large, immense, wide, ranging, and global. AOL's include the planet earth, the sun, and a large hot air balloon.

SUMMARY OF INFORMATION:

The target is wide, full, and overwhelming. It is beautiful. It seems to be free and floating in air. It is bright, rounded and curved. It is mostly blue in color. It seems to be glowing or shining. There is something like light or energy coming out of the middle of it. There is much energetics inside this target. There is chaotic/excited movement in all directions. The target is a perfectly round sphere with many things inside of it, all moving around in chaos. It spins and rotates, moving in different directions. Many things affect its movement. This target seems to be global, scientific, and ecological. It is originally designed to be organic, having to deal with science. But it does have military applications. The main purpose is "to grow".
