A. They produce a full range of aircraft. They produce the AV8B Harrier co-produced with McDonnell Douglas. The Hawk, which is the trainer the Navy has just adopted. The Tornado, which is the European standard fighter. They produce the BAE 146 which is a short range jet. The Jet Stream 31 which is a commuter aircraft in service to American Eagle and that kind of operation. They have come out with a new advanced turbo prop aircraft which is going into commercial marketing. They make part of the air frame for the air bus.

Q. Can you --

A. And then they also make weapons systems like Sea Wolf and Rapier.

Q. Where are you of the most assistance to them?

A. Well, most of the advice I have been giving lately has been in the commercial market not the government market, strangely enough; I thought it would be the other way around.

Q. Commercial buyers of the aircraft themselves?

A. Yes.

Q. Who would they be? I mean what type of person would they be? The company.

A. It would be a CEO of a company.

Q. Are you talking about a company that runs a commuter airline or company that might use them for private purposes?

[redacted] Off the record a minute.

(Discussion off the record).

BY [redacted]

Q. Is it fair to say that their market includes not only the United States defense market but the civil --

A. Commercial market.

Q. Civil commercial market?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you found that you have been of assistance to them?

A. Well, they have just renewed my contract so I assume that perhaps they regard me as having been of assistance.

Q. It was renewed the period beginning when?

A. The period beginning first of June.

Q. 1987?

A. Yes.

Q. At the same price or more?

A. Same. It is simple renewal. Same terms and conditions.

Q. Is there a letter or anything to that effect?

A. Yes. Just signed the contract this morning.

Q. So you assume, then, they are happy with your services?

A. I have to proceed on that assumption or I doubt they would have renewed my contract. I had lunch with [redacted] in London last Wednesday.

Q. Did --

A. I just have to assume here.

Q. And he indicated no displeasure for what you have done?

A. They never indicated any displeasure to me.

Q. That was the second person or contact that you had?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you tell me who the next was?

A. LTV.

Q. And what individual?

A. Largely through [redacted] who is their senior vice president for government affairs, I believe.

Q. And what is your arrangement with them? First of all when were you contacted?

A. Summer of last year. I can't give you the precise time.

Q. And what was your arrangement with them or what is your arrangement?

A. 8,000 a month. 96,000 a year.

Q. And what does that contemplate that you would do for them? That is a consultancy also?

A. Yes. Involving not only sales to the Department of Defense but foreign sales as well. We call it FMS, foreign military sales.

Q. What are their products?

A. LTV makes parts of the air frame for the B1, parts of the air frame for the 747, I believe, though they are no longer a primary air frame contractor. They make the multiple launch rocket system which is a rocket artillery system. They are into projectiles, ASAT.

Q. Which is what?

A. Anti satellite.

Q. Anti satellite missile?

A. An anti satellite attack system.

Q. With respect to the B1 bomber, for instance, is that a product that they would hope that the United States Government might purchase, continue to purchase?

A. I don't think they would hope so any more. I think that the prime contractor and all the subs have come to the conclusion there would be no more purchases of the B1. This was an aircraft that was acquired on a quick acquisition basis over a period of about three years. They are already on the down side of the curve now on the B1 and it was for a hundred aircraft. Everybody is going out of the B1 business.

Q. What is it that you would say that they make which the United States might be interested in purchasing, the Defense Department?

A. Well, they currently do purchase the multiple launch rocket system and they recently got a contract for retrofitting the A7 which is light attack aircraft which was originally made by them as prime contractor.

Q. What were the contract prices on these?

A. I can't tell you what is the per copy contract was. I had nothing to do with it. I was not involved in it at all so I can't give you finances.

Q. I am trying to get some sense of what it is you can do for them?

A. It was published in Defense Daily. It is no secret.

Q. Just trying to get some sense for how you helped LTV vis-a-vis the Defense Department.

A. Primarily foreign sales.

Q. And those would be -- well, they are not interested in B1s and I assume 747s.

A. They will probably continue to be a sub for Boeing [and] on whatever aircraft they produce. Their manufacturing is very much the last whisper, they are very efficient, well automated. So I would assume that they would be in the air frame subcontracting business for some time.

Q. And the anti satellite systems?

A. Anti satellite of course is an experimental system.

Q. That has a future?

A. That has a future.

Q. Both here and abroad?

A. No, just here.

Q. Just here?

A. Yes. There will be no FMS potential on that. Multiple launch rocket system is the one with the greatest foreign potential, it is a NATO standard weapon.

Q. Are there any members in the Defense Department, in the broadest sense, Air Force, Army, Navy, Marines, who at any time worked for you or under you or gained their knowledge in this field?

A. Yes, [redacted] was [redacted] on the Armed Services Committee.

Q. Would he be in the position where you might evaluate the efficacy or the likelihood of the government purchasing these things?

A. He might do that, but let me say that it would be a very unethical relationship.

Q. I am not suggesting anything improper?

A. But I want to make it very clear, I am very conscientious about this, and don't use my contacts in any but the most ethical way. If I have ever any doubts I get a legal opinion.

Q. I am not suggesting that. I am suggesting you might know him and he might know you to be a person that knows what he is talking about and therefore give more attention to than someone --

A. Yes, but usually I am trying to get information from him, can you check this program and see the status of it now.

Q. But it is very helpful to you?

A. It is helpful, of course.

Q. The next arrangement then -- well, you were talking about the summer of 1986. When did you enter into the agreement with LTV? Was there an agreement?

A. Yes, it was a six month agreement that was renewed about two months ago. I am led to believe at this point that maybe Rockwell was the next after LTV. I can't guarantee the chronological sequence.

Q. At this point it doesn't make any difference.

A. Let's say LTV probably.

Q. You say they renewed the agreement, which was a six months agreement two months ago?

A. Two or three months ago.

Q. And there is an agreement and you will check with counsel to see if the financial portions of it can be provided?

A. Well, it is a flat 96,000 retainer.

Q. Plus expenses?

A. Plus any expenses I incur.

Q. Do you have a limit --

A. That doesn't include routine clerical and that is part of my overhead. Even phone calls. But unusual travel or that kind of thing.

Q. Well, if you entertain for them here in town, you could --

A. They will pick up the tab for it. Yes. Which I have done. Host a party for a visiting dignitary and they pick up the tab for it.

Q. And has there been any indication that they are anything other than satisfied with your services?

A. I don't have any indication of anything other than satisfied.

Q. There was no hesitancy on their part to renew it?

A. No.

Q. The next arrangement that you entered into was?

A. Rockwell International.

Q. Does that have anything to do with [redacted]

[redacted]

A. No. It is the company that [redacted] developed but then he left it. He got into a fight with his Board of Directors and got out of it and divested himself of any interest he had in it.

Q. Rockwell International, who is the person that contacted you?

A. [redacted]

Q. Where are their offices? Main offices?

A. Pittsburgh.

Q. That is where his office is?

A. Yes. See, the headquarters remained there after [redacted] left.

Q. I see.

A. Rockwell International -- well, it doesn't matter.

Q. When did that --

A. That contract expires the first of July.

Q. How long was it for?

A. One year.

Q. And what were the terms?

A. 10,000 a month, 120,000 a year.

Q. And what period of time, or the length of the services in the form of consultancy were you expected to perform for that amount?

A. Oh, about 30 days, roughly.

Q. And this also was plus your expenses?

A. Only unusual travel expenses. For example, they summoned me out to their plant in California, they would pay my air fare and hotel bill.

Q. But not to Pittsburgh?

A. Or Pittsburgh, perhaps. But really they just have corporate headquarters in Pittsburgh. Their big activity is in California.

Q. What is it that --

A. But long distance calls, taking somebody to lunch, that sort of thing I would absorb myself.

Q. Have you had any discussion with them as to whether they are going to renew that?

A. I have not directly. They have talked to my lawyer in Dallas. It is unlikely that the contract would be renewed under the present terms and conditions. I can't tell you right now, because I have to find that out later today or tomorrow.

Q. When you say under present terms, meaning if a financial arrangement can be reached it would or would not be renewed?

A. Some of the issues they were interested in have already been resolved and I must say that I don't regard myself as being that valuable to them at this point. I think I have been underutilized by them.

Q. Well, are you suggesting that your value to them isn't as great as it might have been or that it could never be as much as they would have wanted?

A. That is a very speculative question.

Q. You say it has been underutilized, it doesn't mean that you couldn't be of value to them but they have not used you?

A. They just haven't called on me very often.

Q. Do you expect you will enter into an agreement with them for something?

A. I can't say. I will know in the next couple days. But I don't know now.

Q. Is there an agreement at the moment?

A. Yes. Contract.

[redacted] You will check that one also?

[redacted] Okay. [redacted] if you want to just drop me a letter with the information you want, we will take care of it.

[redacted] I am trying to keep a note of what I asked for and I will try to do that.

[redacted] Good.

BY [redacted]

Q. What did you anticipate that you would be able to do for them as a result of your discussions with them?

A. I think primarily I felt I could be an advocate. I already had been an advocate before I ever had any notion of going with them of a couple systems they produced.

Q. Which?

A. The B1 and the MX.

Q. We have discussed the B1. What is the status of the MX?

A. The MX it looks like they are going to deployment of an additional 50. Hopefully they would. In my view they need an additional hundred. That would be my view whether I was associated with Rockwell or not, because I look at it from the standpoint of our strategic deterrent capability and our negotiating position.

Q. What does that mean in terms of revenue for Rockwell?

A. I can't tell you total revenue.

Q. I don't mean that, I mean contract. What is an MX going for these days?

A. About -- I don't know.

Q. Anything that the Safeway shopper would recognize?

A. Let me emphasize I am not a percentage man, I work on pure retainer as an advisor.

Q. I recognize that. I am just wondering what it is, what is at stake here for that.

A. I think they would have to tell you that.

Q. Well, there is plenty of discussion --

A. I am not in the business of pricing.

Q. There is public discussion?

A. Yes, it is all in the public domain.

Q. Just an idea, I mean. Are we talking per one MX, 150 million?

A. We are talking about a multi billion dollar program. You consider not only the deployed elements but the spares, training systems, all that.

Q. They are seeking an additional 50, you say, at the moment?

A. The Defense Department is.

Q. And Rockwell would of course like to sell them as many as they could?

A. Well, I guess you would say that anybody that sells anything to the government would like to sell as much as they could. That is a pretty good generalization of why people are in the arms business in the first place.

Q. Are they the --

A. I would not advise the government to buy more than a hundred of them if I were --

Q. They are the prime contractor?

A. Prime.

Q. On the MX?

A. Yes.

Q. And is that regardless of the launching system that is decided upon?

A. Yes, that is the missile.

Q. That is just the missile?

A. Yes.

Q. So it doesn't make any difference how it is deployed?

A. Right.

Q. They wouldn't lose the contract because they went to a deployment of something other than contemplated at the moment?

A. Put them on trains, trucks, plus the space basing holes, whatever.

Q. Who else do you have any financial arrangements with, for a consultancy or otherwise?

A. One I recently signed on with is Hicks and Associates. They are a consulting firm that have retained me as a consultant.

Q. What is their business?

A. Mostly it is strategic planning for producers of defense materiel.

That is [redacted] R&D at DOD until his job was abolished by the reorganization.

Q. And what is your financial arrangements with them?

A. A hundred thousand dollars a year.

Q. And you say there is an agreement?

A. There is an agreement, yes.

Q. And the terms?

A. That was only recently concluded.

Q. When did it begin?

A. Begins -- it was backdated to May 15.

Q. Plus expenses?

A. Plus reasonable expenses.

Q. And considering that they are a consultancy, do they charge out your time?

A. What?

Q. Do they charge out your time?

A. Again, it is an approximate proximate 30 days type thing. I am on call, any time they call me I should respond. If they call me every day for 45 days, it doesn't matter.

Q. Are they retained by the Department of Defense --

A. They are not. They are retained largely by private contractors.

Q. I understand, thank you.

Plus whatever reasonable expenses are incurred, are you entitled to be reimbursed for those?

A. Yes.

Q. Where are their headquarters?

A. Washington. LTV by the way it headquartered in Dallas. You didn't ask that question. Though I have been advised not to volunteer information, I do anyway.

Q. Mrs. Tower didn't follow that advice either.

A. Mrs. Tower used to give me that advice.

Q. She didn't follow it.

Any excitement about this new position with [redacted] on your part?

A. Yes, I like the people. So they are the kind of people I like to work with.

Q. Do they have as clients the companies that you like to work with? I am not going to ask who they are?

A. They have as clients people that I do not currently work with, but my interface will be directly with them, not with their clients. Except maybe on some unusual circumstance where they would want me to.

Q. What other consultancies or financial arrangements, if any, do you have?

A. That is all I have right now.

Q. What are you working on?

A. Wait a minute, let me think this through. I am chairman of Pergamon-Brassey defense publishers which is a British publishing outfit, for which I am paid $4,000 a year.

Q. Four?

A. Yes. And 500 each for two board meetings, total 5,000 a year.

Q. Who is the person there?

A. [redacted] is the president of it.

Q. How do you spell that?

A. [redacted] They office out here in McLean. They are not trade publishers, in other words they don't produce what we call trade books, books that sell in books stores and everything, they are highly specialized.

Q. When did you enter into that relationship?

A. About a year ago.

Q. What do you do for them?

A. Nothing but preside over two board meetings, have my name associated with them.

Q. Is it a publication that is well thought of in the industry?

A. Yes, they are highly respected in the industry. Well, I get free books.

Q. Anything else that you are doing of a financially rewarding nature?

A. I am in the faculty at Southern Methodist University. I recently asked them to suspend payment to me because I was supposed to teach a course last semester but the Tower Commission intervened and I had to cancel that course. I did do some spot lecturing in various courses during the spring. I don't think they resumed payment for the spring semester.

Q. Do you feel that you could resume that position?

A. I can do spot lecturing. I would have to advise them not to pay me 50,000 a year. That is for a nine-month school period, which is what my original arrangement with them was. Which is roughly a little over $5,000 a month for a nine-month period. And --

Q. 5,000 a month for a nine-month period?

A. Yes. But I don't feel inclined to accept that kind of payment since I can't perform the way I originally hoped.

Q. What would your spot lecturing bring you?

A. Well, it would be -- fall semester required a lot of spot lecturing, this semester I only spot lectured four times.

Q. What did they pay you?

A. Nothing this semester, they paid me $5,000 a month during the fall semester. I told them to suspend payment to me in January when I was so absorbed in the commission I could do it no longer.

Q. I am going to get into this obviously, of course, but did you work on the commission at the time of your other consultancy?

A. It obviously took time away. I had to catch up.

Q. They didn't complain about the role you took in that?

A. No, as a matter of fact I contacted each one of them and said I would understand if they wanted to break my contracts and none of them chose to do so.

Q. Is it fair to assume that you felt that your work on the commission enhanced your marketability?

A. Well, what it has enhanced I think is the honoraria that I get for speaking.

Q. That is part of it, though, isn't it?

A. But I suppose it gives me something of a reputation as a gray eminence on national security matters. I am not in a position to evaluate that, that is for others to evaluate. I do have a contract that I failed to tell you about.

Q. You have a what?

A. There is another contract.

Q. Sure.

A. I have contracted with Littlebrown Publishers, to write a book on Congressional encroachment on presidential primacy in the foreign policy national security process. For which I have received an advance which I have put in escrow until such time as I produce a manuscripts.

Q. Is there an agreement?

A. Yes, there is.

Q. How much have you received already?

A. The way the publishers do this, I have been given an advance of 125,000, however they pay you a portion of that when you sign the contract, another portion of it is paid when you deliver an acceptable manuscript, and the remainder of it is paid when the book is actually published and distributed. And my front end payment was around 53,000.

Q. So that is the first one.

A. Yes. And I just put that in the bank, I will not touch it until I produce the manuscript because I would be obliged to give this back for any reason I can't produce.

Q. The advance is against what?

A. Against royalties.

Q. How much?

A. The royalties will run around 2,60 a book and once they recover what they paid for me, then I will receive a royalty -- now, subtracted from that 2,60 will be what my agent gets, my agent gets 15 percent. And I am retaining a writer who will get a percentage and I don't have that figure right now. I will get about half of it.

Q. Half of the royalties over -- is the advance against total royalties or is the advance a minimum in addition to which you get royalties?

A. It is against royalties. In other words, they would have to sell X number of books to recover what they have paid me in advance before I start drawing royalty checks.

Q. You are entitled --

A. I don't know the cutoff point, so many thousand, after that I would begin to get royalty collection.

Q. But once you deliver and they publish you are entitled to an advance?

A. I am entitled to have my advance completely paid then, that would be 125,000. And if they sell less than that in books, they have to eat it. But if they sell a number in excess of that royalty amount, total, then I start drawing royalty checks.

Q. Have you got a period when they have asked you to get --

A. I am trying to produce a manuscript by September. By the end of September for March publication.

Q. Have you discussed with them potential sales, revenues to you?

A. Yes, we have discussed potential sales. I am not writing a Washington expose' type book, not a Dave Stockman type book, I could have gotten half a million advance if I wanted to write like that. It is really an institutional study.

Q. You said half a million?

A. Yes, probably.

Q. I didn't know if you said million or billion.

A. Maybe even a million. I am not going to write that kind of book. The idea is to write a think book that can be used, and maybe as a trade book, so I will draw from my experiences and what I learned on the Tower Commission.

Q. This is, for lack of a better word, and it is not a good word, but it addresses the oversight problem; is that correct?

A. It addresses Congressional intrusion into the policy formulation and implementation process.

Q. Who is [redacted]

A. [redacted] La Jolla, California.

Q. Can you think of any other consultancy?

A. I have given you SMU. I may go back on the payroll at SMU in the fall semester but at a reduced amount. I am in the business of raising money for SMU.

Q. Who is [redacted] that you are contemplating?

A. [redacted]

Q. You have a [redacted] do you not?

A. [redacted]

Q. Is that a woman?

A. No, it is a man here in Washington.

Q. [redacted] Agency?

A. Yes.

Q. And what is your going rate these days?

A. 10,000 for colleges, 15,000 for trade and professional associations.

Q. When did you enter --

A. Sometimes I will do one for 12.5, but 15 is my basic rate. My agent gets 20 percent. That is my fee plus travel and accommodations.

Q. When did you enter into the agreement?

A. With [redacted]

Q. Yes.

A. Right after I came out of Geneva.

Q. April?

A. April. I had had a tentative arrangement with him when I first came out of the Senate but that was canceled when I went on the Geneva delegation. I went back with him.

Q. So he really benefited from the appointment to the Tower Commission?

A. Yes.

Q. It wasn't as a result of that --

A. Certainly benefit from the standpoint of income. I incidentally did turn down a contract or two while that was going on, which means I am really recovering some that I lost by having an increased fee.

Q. I am sorry, you say you turned down a contract or two from another agent?

A. No, from private business.

Q. You mean a contract speaking engagement?

A. No, no. Consultancy.

Q. Oh, you have turned some down?

A. Yes.

Q. For what reason?

A. Because of the work of the Tower Commission. These were consultancies on particular projects. Sort of one-shot deals. One was for 25,000, for example.

Q. But nothing that now over with you cannot be of help to them?

A. Yes.

Q. Would they come back on something else?

A. No. I don't know, they might. But I would look at them on an ad hoc basis to decide whether or not I want to or can help them.

Q. How many speaking engagements have you had?

A. I have had --

Q. Let's take the colleges at the $10,000 level.

A. Okay. I think maybe if I run through this to organize it and supply it for the record, that might be the easiest way to do it. I can recite them. The number I would have to count.

Q. Starting in April?

A. Okay, starting April 1.

Q. Of what year?

A. This year.

Q. That was the first time?

A. Yes. I did some last year but I don't have that with me. But I think it would be reflected certainly in my income tax.

Q. Did they provide any listing of funds on an annual basis, what they have paid you, a W-2 form or something like that? Not W-2, but it has to be reported?

A. Yes, I think it would all be on my income tax. [redacted] I don't think we have provided you with 1986 income tax information.

BY [redacted]

Q. But April 1987?

A. Okay, Notre Dame on the first.

Chase Manhattan International Advisory Board in New York on the sixth.

Q. That is a 15?

A. That would be a 15. I think there are one or two 12.5s in here that I might have contracted for earlier, but I can supply this for the record.

Touche Ross in New York on the ninth.

Q. That would have been 15?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay.

A. American Textile Association, New Orleans, on the 11th. Orlando Central Florida College on the 30th. Central Florida College. I think that is Central Florida University, actually, on the 30th of April.

In May, ~~Fort~~ Spencer Stewart in Houston.

Q. That is 15,000?

A. It is a management consulting outfit and that was for 12.5. Remember my agent gets 20 percent of all this.

Virginia Commonwealth University on the 15th of May. No, that is on the 16th.

Sweet Briar College in Virginia on the 17th.

Ohio State on the 20th.

University of Tennessee on the 21st. I have one day after tomorrow in Peoria, Illinois, Illinois Bankers Association, on the 17th of June. No, the 11th of June, beg pardon. Illinois Bankers Association. That will be 15. I have no other scheduled in June.

Q. Do you have July or August?

A. I have July, none scheduled in July.

Q. September? August?

A. One scheduled in August for McDonald Corporation on the 18th. One in September for Miami University but it is in Oxford, Ohio. Very fine old school.

I have one, and I don't know the name of the organization, in Boca Raton on the sixth of October.

Another at Foothill College near San Francisco on the ninth.

American Truckers Association, New York, the 26th.

Spring Industries in Greenbrier, West Virginia, on the 29th. No, that is on the 30th actually.

None scheduled for November. Nor December.

Q. Prior to April of this year --

A. I didn't do any. I was too busy.

Q. And before the commission last year --

A. I don't have that with me.

[redacted] I think we will take a break now.

(Luncheon recess: 1:25 p.m.)

AFTERNOON SESSION -- 2:30 p.m.

BY [redacted]

Q. The chronology, I believe, that we discussed earlier took us up until the time where you returned to the United States, ended your position with the State Department as arms negotiator, began your consultancies, is that correct, in 1986?

A. That is right.

Q. And I guess the next event that I would like to cover just briefly is the appointment to what has been now called the Tower Commission.

A. Correctly, that is the President's Special Review Board. I was just using the journalistic shorthand for it.

Q. Well, I think that the popular name is the Tower Commission. And I am happy with that.

Can you tell me when that began, for lack of a better word?

A. [redacted] called me on the 25th of November. Just a minute, I think I can check.

Q. That is fine.

A. What?

Q. That is close enough.

A. And asked me if I would serve on such board, would chair it along with [redacted] and [redacted] and asked me if I could be in the president's office on the first of December. On the first of December we got our commission and our mandate from the president. Immediately went to work.

Q. Did any of your current staff work on that commission? Current as of that date.

A. Current as of that date, no.

Q. Did any prior --

A. Because [redacted] and [redacted] were my sole staff and neither one of them were on the staff of the board. The former staff members of mine were on it.

Q. So your only staff then was [redacted] and [redacted] were your staff as of the end of November.

A. That is right.

Q. [redacted] in Washington, [redacted] in --

A. [redacted] in Dallas.

Q. Dallas. Now, former staff members who served on the commission with you were whom?

A. [redacted] who was the [redacted]

Who had been my chief staff on the Armed Services Committee.

Q. Anyone else?

A. [redacted] who had been my [redacted] [redacted] in Geneva.

Q. What was her position?

A. She was [redacted] to me in Geneva.

Q. Who was she on the commission?

A. On the commission she was [redacted] She was at that time the [redacted] of the START delegation in Geneva. See we borrowed people out of various government agencies.

Q. She was [redacted] on the commission. She was your [redacted] in Geneva.

A. Yes.

Q. What --

A. She had been promoted by my successor [redacted] to [redacted] of the START delegations. Strategic arms talks is what that stands for. Let me think. I believe that was the extent of my former staffers.

Q. Well, at the time you appointed her your [redacted] [redacted] in Geneva what position did she hold? [redacted] [redacted] to start?

A. At the time I put her on the commission, yes.

Q. No, at the time you appointed her as [redacted]

[redacted]

A. In Geneva?

Q. Yes.

A. She was [redacted] to the delegation from the State Department. She was called [redacted]

[redacted]

Q. Well, what is that, is that an employee of the State Department?

A. Yes.

Q. Did she have any particular expertise?

A. Yes, expert in arms control. [redacted]

[redacted]

Q. So let's see, [redacted] then, when you came to Geneva, was the State Department -- had been already a State Department advisor, right?

A. She had been in the [redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q. Who was that?

A. [redacted]

Q. Is that where you first met her?

A. Yes.

Q. And she was [redacted] to the State Department member?

A. Yes.

Q. And you say that she was an expert in arms control and had [redacted]

A. Yes.

Q. What were they?

A. I don't know, [redacted] [redacted] something like that. [redacted]

Q. So on the commission you put [redacted] [redacted] and who else?

A. That is all of my former staff. Let me think that over a minute and think of the personnel, though I am almost certain. They were put together from the various agencies and those were the only two that had previously worked for me.

Q. The commission's work --

A. Our [redacted] I don't want to mislead you, worked on the Armed Services Committee staff for Senator Stennis but was not under my direct control though I had some association with him before.

Q. But for my purposes I guess the only staff you had at that time was [redacted] and [redacted] and you put them both on the Commission?

A. No, no, they did not go on the Commission. They remained in my private employ.

Q. When was the Commission's work ended?

A. The Commission's role ended 30 days after the submission of the report. We only met perhaps once or twice after the submission of the report and that was purely for housekeeping purposes. Our work was for all practical purposes concluded with the submission to the president on February 26.

Q. Were you paid during that period?

A. Yes, we were compensated on a consultancy basis. I can provide you the figures if you want them, but it was not a great deal.

Q. Whatever it was. Would they also pay for your expenses?

A. We got some expense money. I think the total that I was paid for that period of time was something like $10,000, a little over $3,000 a month. That was consultant fee, so-called. I think we were paid as consultants because we were an advisory board. And per diem.

Q. Where did you -- did you stay at the Jefferson?

A. I stayed at the Jefferson. One of your partners is my landlord.

Q. Well, every little bit helps. I am sure he is treating you very well?

A. Very well.

Q. I guess that is the only diversion that you had then with your consultancies; is that correct?

A. That is right.

Q. And you said that as a result of the Commission's work you didn't spend enough time --

A. I didn't spend a great deal -- occasionally, particularly in the first couple of months, I would sometimes get back to my 21st street office for perhaps an hour in the evening at 4:30, five o'clock, spend an hour in the office, maybe a few phone calls occasionally but conducted no business from the NEOB down the street where we were officed.

Q. Let me now ask, it is a good time, about your 21st street office. Where is it and what are your financial arrangements?

A. It is 21st and L Street, Northwest. I have been in that office rent free since April 1 last year. I will start paying rent on the first of July on a proportionate per square foot basis.

Q. Do you know what the charge would be?

A. I don't know what the charge is going to be yet.

Q. And whose offices are they?

A. The offices of Dickstein, Shapiro & Morin.

Q. How did that arrangement come about?

A. Largely through [redacted] They knew through mutual friends that I was looking for space and they had an unused room, which they have let me use up to this time.

Q. Were you providing any services to them in return for the use of this space?

A. A little consulting and advice from time to time to various members that had problems, usually related to the defense industry. And I also might have -- I think I did bring in one client to the firm, maybe another.

Q. Were they charged for your services?

A. No.

Q. Was there any arrangement or any discussion as to any association with the firm?

A. No.

Q. It was simply landlord/tenant without payment of rent?

A. Yes. I guess that is a fair way to describe it.

Q. It was the space and not the business that you were really -- there were no trades as such?

A. No. No direct trades. Sometimes I would be called to ask my advice, even make a phone call or two occasionally.

Q. Did you pay for your telephone calls?

A. Paid my own telephone calls.

Q. Own [redacted]

A. My own [redacted] I paid my [redacted]

Q. Who is your [redacted] is it [redacted]

A. Yes.

Q. And the only other employee you had was [redacted]

[redacted]

A. In Dallas, [redacted] yes.

Q. How long had [redacted] been your employee, yours exclusively?

A. Mine exclusively from the first of April last year.

Q. 4-1-86. You say you resigned from the Senate in 1985, January?

A. Yes.

Q. At that time she was a [redacted]

A. She was a [redacted]

Q. Did she become your -- before she went to the State Department or one of the groups --

A. She was the [redacted] in my office here in Washington for that brief interim period before I went to Geneva.

Q. She worked for you in D.C. then from --

A. From 3 January to whatever time she went on the State Department payroll.

Q. That was 1985, January 3, 1985?

A. Yes.

Q. Until?

A. Until she went on the State Department payroll. Or ACDA payroll. I think she was paid by ACDA as well as my other secretary.

Q. What is ACDA?

A. Arms Control Disarmament Agency.

Q. But let's see if I can understand, you left on January 3, 1985, you went to Geneva in February or whatever?

A. I went to physically Geneva in March but I went over to the State Department earlier than that.

Q. In February?

A. In February. For a time I worked out of two offices, my private office and the State Department, and then finally shut the private office down.

Q. So you are talking about a month?

A. Yes.

Q. The rest of January, little bit of February?

A. Maybe six weeks.

Q. Then she goes to the State Department, and she is not on your payroll any more?

A. No.

Q. Then after you returned?

A. I was entitled to two secretaries and I took her and [redacted]

Q. To State?

A. Yes.

Q. And then they stayed at State until your return from Geneva; is that correct?

A. Until April 1..

Q. Of 1986?

A. They stayed on the State Department -- well, let me state it this way, stayed on the government payroll until the first of April last year.

Q. And then on your return here, [redacted] started to work for you?

A. [redacted] went on my personal payroll.

Q. Or returned to your personal payroll?

A. Yes.

Q. With respect to [redacted] her situation then?

A. She worked for me pro bono for part of the time, was paid by the Tower Senate Club part of the time while I was in Geneva.

Q. Let's stop for a second. As of January 3, 1985, she was working for you after you were no longer a Senator, she worked for you pro bono and for the Tower Senate Club?

A. No. The Tower Senate Club and I shared the cost of the three staff members. See, I was still in the process of closing down my Senate operation and still had a great deal of correspondence, had the franking privilege for 60 days.

Q. Who would have been the three?

A. [redacted] and [redacted]

Q. Then so how long were they still -- were they there for the 60 day period?

A. I am sorry?

Q. How long did they still share between you and the Tower Senate Club, the three of them?

A. Only for that brief period of time. [redacted] eventually went pro bono.

Q. So the Tower Senate Club -- they went off the Tower Senate Club after that brief period of time, [redacted] went to State, [redacted] went to State, [redacted] what, remained just on your private --

A. In Dallas.

Q. On your private --

A. And for the better part of that period in Geneva she was pro bono.

Q. And she was pro bono for you?

A. Yes. I believe that for the better part of that period, let me say that I won't swear that is absolutely the case.

Q. [redacted] is a --.

A. It is my belief that.

Q. --[redacted] type person?

A. And [redacted]

Q. And [redacted]

A. [redacted]

Q. [redacted] is [redacted] and [redacted]

A. Yes.

Q. And [redacted] is?

A. [redacted]

Q. Well, that then gets me into some questions that I wanted to ask you about the Tower Senate Club. In June, end of June 1984, do you know approximately how much money you had in the Tower Senate Club?

A. End of June?

Q. Of 1984. Well, let me just -- well, go ahead.

A. Probably around $900,000. Again, I can't be sure but that would all show I think in the FEC filings.

Q. When did you decide that you were not going to run for a new term?

A. I made my final decision in, oh, late July/early August of 1983 and announced it on I believe it was August 22 of 1983. 22 or 23, I am sorry, I can't remember with absolute certainty. Possibly even the 21st, but I think it was on Tuesday, the 22nd.

Q. When had you thought that you wouldn't run?

A. Oh, I had given some thought to it for several weeks beforehand. I finally made the decision.

Q. Would it have been as early as -- would you have decided as early as January 1983?

A. No, I don't think I would have finally decided -- matter of fact I had sort of come around to the idea of going ahead and running again after I had given some consideration to geting out. Then I decided, well, I would go ahead and give it another term and then I finally said no, I am going to pack it in.

One of those things you can't pinpoint in time, you know. It was kind of a decisionmaking process that goes on in your mind for sometime and that you can't be terribly precise about.

Q. Is there any particular event you could tie it to?

A. No.

Q. Once you decided in July or August of 1983 that you were not going to seek another term, what happened to all the money?

A. Well --

Q. To be more fair with you, let me just see here. To be perfectly fair there was -- I will show you a document we will have marked as Exhibit 1.

(Exhibit No. 1 Marked For Identification).

BY [redacted]

Q. If you look under that first page, that cover letter there, I think there is a document that you are more familiar with than I am, but I think it may reflect that about that time you had about a million and a half dollars in there?

A. Well, that was 1983 and you asked me about 1984.

Q. Well, sorry. At or about the time you had announced, though; is that correct?

A. Yes, about a million and a half. Ball park.

Q. Million and a half at the time, the end of June I guess it was, of 1983?

A. Yes. When I made my decision, we wrote to all that had contributed that year and asked if they would like their money back.

Q. All who had contributed that year?

A. Yes.

Q. You mean in 1983?

A. Yes.

Q. How long had the contributions, though, really been received for your Senate Club?

A. Oh, all through the period from my reelection in 1978 through that period of time.

Q. So what was the basis for deciding that you would just write to the people who had contributed the first half of the year?

A. I think because a lot of the money had already been disbursed for political purposes and I am not sure we could clearly identify -- I don't remember what all the reasons were, but the decision was made to -- I believe it was all those contributing in 1983 maybe back through a portion of 1982, but no longer than a year preceding.

Q. I think that the contributions for that period preceding July 1 --

A. There had been a big dinner in April of that year and I think those are the contributors we addressed.

Q. But it is fair to say, though, that as of -- that the total sum of $1,514,000 reflected contributions in excess of what had been made during the prior six months?

A. I am sorry, would you repeat that?

Q. In other words, assuming that there is $1,514,000 in July 1, 1983, that was an amount far in excess of what you had contributed to the fund --

A. Oh, yes.

Q. -- during the prior six-month period?

A. Yes. Wait a minute, now I am not certain I know what you mean by in excess.

Q. Well, there was a million and a half dollars in the fund?

A. Yes.

Q. That had been contributed over a period of time?

A. Yes. Over a period of time including --

Q. Longer than just six months before.

A. Yes.

Q. That is all I am saying?

A. Correct.

Q. But the decision was made nevertheless to write to certain contributors?

A. Yes, those that had supported the dinner in April. And some others that had contributed during that period.

Q. Was there a reason for picking that dinner as an event around which to send out notices of your decision to not seek reelection and at the same time offer to refund their money?

A. It just seemed to be fair and reasonable at the time. I believe we might have gotten a few letters from others that contributed earlier who asked for their money back and we honored that, we didn't turn anybody down who asked for their money back regardless of when they contributed, but those are the only ones we circularized.

Q. Let me ask you with respect to the money that remained after those who had requested a refund, which is noted in here; what happened with the money that was left, which seems to be, approximately any way as of the end of the reporting period December 31, 1983, I think

A. Yes. In other words, what happened to the difference?

Q. Yes. And that is essentially a million dollars there at the end of 1983?

A. Some of that was returned. Are you talking about the difference between 1,170,000 and 1,524,000?

Q. Yes.

A. Some of that was money returned.

Q. Well, it wouldn't have been. I think that money that was returned would have been an expenditure out of that period of time. So to have been returned subsequently to that?

A. Some went to repay the senatorial campaign committee here in Washington for money that they had expended in my behalf.

Q. That would be reflected in the financial statement?

A. Yes. And this is, what, December 31 here?

Q. Yes.

A. And I may have already by that time made some individual contributions out of it to candidates.

Particularly Republican incumbents.

Q. Any other --

A. I am doing this from memory and I will not attest as to the accuracy of my memory on all this.

Q. I want to be fair with you. I am trying to ask in your mind what else would it be appropriate for, what did you use it for? You say you gave it back to the Senate campaign?

A. Some went back to the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

Q. Did that go back to reimburse them?

A. To partially reimburse them. I don't think we fully reimbursed them but partially reimbursed them for money spent on my behalf.

Q. You say some money to other campaigns?

A. [redacted] was [redacted] of the Republic Senate campaign committee at the time.

Q. What other expenditures were made which you felt were appropriate?

A. I made various public appearances around the state, it was typical that money came out of the fund. If I addressed the North Texas Council of Boy Scouts of America, I always paid for it out of that fund, or addressed small civic groups in small towns, it was borne out of that fund. I still was a very active politician in my state and this was legitimate expenditures.

Q. Well, when you review some of the expenditures -- I mean this fund went on actually right up to the end of 1986; is that correct?

A. Yes. As a matter of fact it is still there with a little money in it in case we get an audit.

Q. In case you get what?

A. I have ordered -- asked that it be closed down, but I think that the fellow who is operating that fund wants to retain some in case there is an audit of it for a reasonable period of time. I would have to get details on that, that is something [redacted] pretty well watches.

Q. Would it have been appropriate for you to have used any of these -- let me say first of all would it have been lawful for you to have used any of these funds for personal reasons?

A. In my view, it would not be.

[redacted] Let's mark this.

(Exhibit No. 2 Marked For Identification).

BY [redacted]

Q. Senator Tower, I am going to refer to Exhibit 2. There is a lot of it here.

[redacted] Let me take a look at it, Dave?

[redacted] Sure. Exhibit 2 I believe will contain 1985, both January through June and July through December. I am not going to ask about everything, I am going to go through there and pick certain things I would like to inquire about.

[redacted] Fine.

BY [redacted]

Q. Exhibit 2, then, represents what you provided us and what I believe probably is an accurate copy of the filings.

A. They came straight from the FEC.

Q. In the period January 1, 1985, through June 30, 1985, it appears about $970,000 was expended by the Tower Senate Club.

A. Yes. That would be expended in that timeframe January 1 to June 30. Okay.

Q. Yes.

A. All right.

Q. Sorry there is only one copy. I need it back.

A. All right.

Q. Can you tell me what Roth and Mosle in Austin, Texas, is?

A. Roth and what?

Q. M O S L E?

A. Roth and Mosle. They are a securities firm.

Q. They were making a contribution to your fund after you had announced that you were not going to run? In fact I don't even think you were in office?

A. Well, I was in office for three days in that timeframe. Oh, this money was invested, placed -- it was maybe a money market mutual or something like that, so that it would make income rather than just have it stand idle. We invested so it would make income, on which we had to pay taxes.

Q. Are you saying that you took money out --

A. No, I didn't.

Q. The funds took money out?

A. No, no.

Q. It seems to be a receipt by the fund of certain monies?

A. Well, I didn't manage the fund but if you notice, dividends on cash fund is what this is for from Roth and Mosle. That is not a contribution, that is a payment of interest.

Q. By whom?

A. By Roth and Mosle. That is the way I understand it.

Q. To?

A. To the Tower Senate Club.

Q. How much are we talking about there?

A. Looks like a total for the period, aggregate of the year to that point was $10,330.44.

Q. Are you saying that is your money earning interest?

A. It is not my money, it is the Tower Senate Club money and that goes right back into the fund.

Q. You are saying that the Tower Senate Club put money into that account and it earned interest?

A. That is right, and that was typical. As a matter of fact that is done with campaign funds generally, when they are not being used they are invested and you pay taxes on the income. But you also get a little additional income.

Q. In January 1985, American Airlines was paid a couple thousand dollars and it is entitled air fare. Do you know what that was for?

A. Probably for my travel back and forth between Austin and Washington.

Q. But do you know why you were traveling back and forth?

A. I was still in the Senate at the time and once the chairman of the Reagan campaign in Texas, so I tended to travel back and forth between Austin and Washington.

Q. But I mean this was after you were no longer -- this is January 1, 1985?

A. I know, but it was probably payment of an autumn bill. What was the date of the payment?

Q. Well, disbursement for this period. It says date, month, year, 1-9, 1-18, 2-19, so I think it would have been afterwards, if that is the date it was incurred or the date it was paid, I am not sure.

A. I don't know, I would have to find out. It may be that I traveled down to the Texas State Republican Executive Committee meeting to give a report on the campaign or something of that sort and it was charged against the Tower Senate Club. That is quite possible.

Q. On January 29 you paid $4,700 to the Driskill Driscoll in Austin, Texas?

A. Driscoll Hotel, and that was probably my accumulated bill for the period in which I was campaign chairman.

Q. Then you paid [redacted] for contract labor.

A. That is right. Because they were still handling political mail and also working on the assembling of my papers and books which I donated to Southwestern University.

Q. Did you get a contribution for that?

A. I used money out of the Tower Senate Club to help pay for that. As a matter of fact, made a contribution to that fund from the Tower Senate Club.

Q. Did you take a charitable deduction for those?

A. No, I don't take a charitable deduction for it because it didn't come out of my pocket, but it is one of those things for which such monies can be spent.

Q. I am saying in addition to the money that you contributed did you take a deduction for the contribution of your papers?

A. No, I couldn't because I have never taken a contribution for the papers or the library.

Q. In March 1 there is a payment to Green Hoot of $4,000.

A. To what?

Q. Green Hoot, Inc., 1019-19th Street, office space, $4,000?

A. That was the office space that the Tower Senate Club occupied.

Q. In Washington?

A. No, in Austin.

Q. Well, there is to Green Hoot, Inc., in Washington?

A. Oh, that is for the office space that I occupied on 11th Street.

Q. Did the Tower Senate Club pay for that?

A. They paid for part of it.

Q. What part was it?

A. I think a major portion of it.

Q. Did you pay any of that portion yourself?

A. I believe that I did. But I would have to get records on that.

Q. You told me that [redacted] went to the State Department, is that correct,?

A. At some point, probably in February, both [redacted] and [redacted] went on the government payroll. Whether it be state or ACDA, I am not certain.

Q. But a payment up to that time of $1,600 for [redacted] for contract labor for January and February would have been appropriate?

A. Yes.

Q. From the Senate Tower Club?

A. Yes. And also to [redacted]

Q. Also to [redacted]

A. Yes.

Q. And what about who is [redacted]

A. [redacted] was [redacted] of the Reagan campaign in Texas. I was the campaign chairman, I had a co-chairman, we were both volunteers, she was a full time paid professional that had worked for the Republican National Committee.

Q. I believe, Senator, you testified that [redacted] went pro bono and on your payroll after --

A. I believe that [redacted] worked part time pro bono. I can't describe the time period. But I can provide that for the record.

Q. She is being paid now by --

A. That is right, she was paid by the Tower Senate Club for a period of time.

Q. It seems like she is paid up through certainly June of 1985, is that possible?

A. I think it is quite possible she was.

Q. What was Victory '84?

A. Victory '84 was an organization formed under the sponsorship of the Republican party of Texas to finance volunteer intensive efforts for the party ticket, which is by law. As you know, you don't contribute to a presidential candidate directly.

Q. Was this for the presidential campaign?

A. It was for the whole Republican ticket. It has to be for the ticket, you see, because you can't make a direct contribution, but the law permits the party to fund what are called volunteered intensive efforts and you can raise money for that purpose; even though Reagan is the beneficiary, other Republican candidates are beneficiaries at well. A great deal of money out of the fund went for voter registration and voter turn out and these are all volunteered intensive efforts.

Q. What was the John G. Tower Special? Is that a fund that you had?

A. I don't know.

Q. Or an account that you had?

A. John G. Tower Special? I am sorry, I don't recognize it.

Q. Alpha Aviation, is that a private --

A. Charter service. Air charter service.

Q. In the end of the year, November 27, 1985, which is the time at or about you and your wife separated, if I recall, at least initially, there is a payment there of $1,500. Do you know what that was for? Just says air fare.

A. I can't tell you precisely what it was for. It probably had to do with public appearances.

Q. In July and August --

A. Because I didn't use the charter service unless I had to make public appearances, limited timeframe, airports not well served by commercial airlines, that kind of thing.

Q. [redacted] all the way through 1985 is still being paid by the Tower Senate Club, $1,458 every two weeks?

A. Maybe the payment was continued throughout the time. I was under the impression she worked pro bono.

Q. But she was working for you, really, wasn't she?

A. Well, she also was supposed to help me with decisions on the disbursement of funds, and also do all my scheduling back in the state and maintain liaison with Southwestern on my papers and books.

Q. But compared to keeping track of your accounts, your personal accounts --

A. She did that as well.

Q. -- how would you say her time would have been spent?

A. I wouldn't be able to put an assessment on it.

Q. Is it fair to say that you probably were getting the benefit of the fact that she was in Texas working on --

A. Yes, I would say I was getting some benefit, yes.

Q. -- some campaign matters?

A. Yes.

Q. From a campaign fund that had the money to pay her?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Again, we have this John G. Tower Special, [redacted] [redacted] Dallas, Texas?

A. That is her home address.

Q. It is phone, meals, air fare, $3,300.

A. That is probably referring then to an expense account that she kept on me for expenses.

Q. Reimbursing you for expenses?

A. Reimbursing me for expenses.

Q. Who is [redacted]

A. [redacted] is the woman who was [redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]

Q. And from this money also you made a contribution of a hundred thousand dollars to Southwestern University?

A. That is right.

Q. Was that where you were employed at that time?

A. I was never employed at Southwestern.

Q. You never received any money from them?

A. I am a member of the board of trustees, but I accept no compensation for it.

Q. That is not where you taught?

A. I taught at Midwestern State.

[redacted] I am handing you what will be marked Exhibit 3, but it is a continuation of these reports.

(Exhibit No. 3 Marked For Identification).

BY [redacted]

Q. This is for the period January 1, 1986, through June 30, 1986. And it reflects that Alpha Aviation for air fare was paid $1,400 on 4-1-86, which is the date that I recall you terminated effective that date your services at the Geneva Arms Control Commission; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know what that flight was in connection with?

A. I can't recall but I think I can supply that for the record.

Q. [redacted] in March of that year was still being paid $1,458.

A. Then I think one has to assume that she was paid throughout by the entire Senate Club.

Q. In March 1986, what would she have been doing to support such a payment?

A. In March 1986, I would have to supply an answer to that for the record.

Q. But she really was your employee during this period of time, wasn't she?

A. Yes.

Q. Again there is air fare for American Airlines on August 1, 1986, of $1,030.

A. August 1, 1986?

Q. Yes.

A. Probably political. I was active in the 1986 campaigns.

Q. [redacted] in August 1986 is paid $3,500 again.

A. I would have to check on that. No recollection of what that was for.

Q. On August 1, 1986, you were reimbursed, John G. Tower Special, $601 for meals. Do you know what that would have been for?

A. I don't know offhand. Probably for political purposes. I will try to run it down.

Q. Who is [redacted]

A. [redacted] was the man who was [redacted] of the Tower Senate Club.

Q. What would he have been doing at the end of 1986 on behalf of the club?

A. Managing the fund. He is the one that invested it, had to pay the clerical help to manage it, paid an accountant I think to keep track of it.

Q. Well, in the last half of 1986, it appears that he was paid about $25,000 and I don't think that there was too much to manage at that point because I think it only had $56,000 in it. Correct me if I am wrong.

[redacted] That is a question, [redacted]

[redacted] Yes, I wanted to know if that is right. It appears that half of what the funds had went to paying him.

THE WITNESS: Very well might have. I don't know.

BY [redacted]

Q. I am just wondering if he is managing the fund of $50,000 and he is taking out $25,000, what would justify payment of --

A. I wouldn't try to draw any conclusion on that.

Q. Is he -- does he do anything else other than manage that fund,

A. He is an independent oil operator and has some other business interests.

Q. In 1986 was he hurting financially?

A. I don't know.

Q. Was he a friend of yours?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you trying to help him?

A. No, he managed the fund, I did not manage it.

Q. Well, didn't you have any oversight as to how this money was spent?

A. All I did was from time to time asked that certain expenditures be paid out of it. And he made the decision whether or not they would be paid.

Q. Did you review --

A. In some instances he felt that it shouldn't be paid. It was my impression he was consulting an accountant who deals professionally with political funds.

Q. Did you review these payments?

A. I did not.

Q. Is it fair to say, and I want to try to be fair, that it appears that from time to time your travels in Texas -- your activities there, your meals, your lodgings, your travel expense, accounting expense, bookkeeping expense, office expense, the expense of your presence in Texas to the extent that you were there, was subsidized in some part by this fund that had been set up for you as a Senator?

A. It should not have been subsidized unless I was engaged in some kind of political work or addressing civic functions, things of that sort that were non-political. Like, for example, the Dallas Council on World Affairs or something of that sort.

Q. But it enabled you to do these things that otherwise as a private individual you would have had to pay for?

A. Either that or charge an honorarium or ask for expenses. I would probably not had done them had I had to pay for them out of my own pocket.

Q. Did you have any other source --

A. Although I did pay some political expenses out of my own pocket and never claimed reimbursement for them.

Q. Did you have any other campaign fund or account other than the Tower Senate Club?

A. That is it.

Q. There was nothing like Texas for Tower or anything like that?

A. Texas for Tower was sort of a campaign organization, it was not a fund as such. I think that my campaign organization was called Texans for Tower, but the financial arm of it was the Tower Senate Club.

Q. Were the Texans for Tower required to file anything with the federal or state government?

A. No, because their activities would have been funded out of the Tower Senate Club and they are required to file with the FEC.

Q. But in all of this there is never a disbursement to Texans for Tower as such?

A. There might not have been.

Q. You mean just the individuals?

A. Texans for Tower is just like you get up a big letterhead committee and you call them something, you call them Texans for Tower. We did the same things for Reagan, we had Texans for Reagan.

Q. Lawyers for Civil Rights?

A. Yes, it can be anything like that. We might have had insurance men for Tower, or real estate operators for Tower. You know, you create all sorts of committees of this sort that are ordinarily funded out of your campaign funds.

Q. Other than --

A. Had there been any such funds, I would have been required to file with the FEC, but there wasn't.

Q. Well, I only know what you have produced and I am just trying to find out if there may have been some other filings we have not received.

Other than the condominium which you have purchased this year, do you own any real property?

A. I own none.

Q. Pardon? Did you say none?

A. None.

Q. Do you have any interest in real property other than your condominium?

A. No.

Q. Undisclosed interest?

A. No.

Q. Does that include the home in which your wife is living and which is titled in her sole name?

[redacted] Objection to that, it calls for a legal conclusion which I don't think my client is in a position to make.

[redacted] Well, you can certainly say whether or not he thinks he has any interest in the home. He indicated before he has no interest in any other real property and I specifically asked him about that.

BY [redacted]

Q. Let me withdraw the question.

You have never really considered at any time that you had an ownership interest in that home, did you?

A. Now, [redacted] I have been advised by legal counsel that I am entitled to claim an interest in the home at 20 Kalorama Circle. Let me say that any assertion of that claim would be defensive on my part, that I don't want anything that Mrs. Tower has, she has worked hard all of her life for what she has, she has been frugal and denied herself and we had a prenuptial agreement, which was not binding because it was oral and not written is my understanding, and I am fully prepared to proceed along that way.

Q. Along that way?

A. In other words, to concede any legal rights that I might have as a part of the negotiation of a settlement.

Q. Well, is it fair to say that in all your discussion --

A. I think you are aware that I made a proposal which would have been tantamount to relinquishing any claim I had in any of her real property or any community property and would pay her a certain amount a month, around 2,430 a month, plus her insurance, plus survivorship in my pension.

Q. I understand that.

A. So I have already made that proposal.

Q. I am not questioning the proposal. I am just saying you and your wife lived together as man and wife for ten years anyway?

A. Yes.

Q. A portion of that time you lived in 20 Kalorama?

A. Yes.

Q. When that property was purchased and throughout the period that you lived with her in that home, you at no time considered it to be your home except for the fact that you lived there with her; you claim no ownership interest in that home or any equity in that home, and is it not fair to say that until you retained counsel and became involved in a contested matter with your wife that you for the first time assert through counsel -- through counsel -- an interest in that home? Is that not fair?

[redacted] I am going to have to object to that question. I think we need to parse it out a little bit. I think you have a lot of questions in there. Is your question did he at any time during the marriage consider himself to have an ownership interest in the Kalorama property?

[redacted] Until the time he spoke with you.

[redacted] Did he consider himself to have an ownership interest?

[redacted] Did he think he had an ownership interest?

[redacted] You can answer that.

THE WITNESS: Prior to talking to legal counsel, I wasn't aware of what my legal rights might be because I had not taken the initiative to find out. And pursuant to the oral agreement that Mrs. Tower and I had, I did not consider myself to be an owner.

BY [redacted]

Q. Are you saying now that you don't wish to abide by the agreement you had with your wife even though it was oral?

A. That is not what I said.

Q. I am saying is it your position now, having been advised by counsel --

A. It is my position now that I don't want to relinquish[ed] at this moment any legal claims that I may have.

Q. Well, do you wish to --

A. That this is a matter of negotiation.

Q. Do you wish to abide by and be bound by the agreement, albeit oral, that you had with your wife?

[redacted] Are you asking unilaterally bound or on the basis of a bilateral commitment?

[redacted] The agreement is the agreement. I assume it was entered into by two parties and it related -- I am not talking about an agreement with respect to a settlement of the dispute over that arising out of the marriage, I am talking about an agreement entered into by these people before there was any dispute.

[redacted] I think Senator Tower made it clear on the record that he intended to be bound by the agreement that was made between the parties prior to the marriage, but that -- [redacted] I understand that, but does he intend to be bound by it now.

[redacted] I think he made it clear to the extent the agreement were to be adhered to by Mrs. Tower he would be happy to adhere to the agreement. He has been put in this situation as a result of Mrs. Tower's election not to be bound by the agreement.

[redacted] I don't think he -- I am not going to argue that with you. I don't even know what that means.

You and your wife entered into an agreement, Senator, that you say was oral, which you have recited on numerous occasions in writing to the appropriate authorities who have inquired as to your assets.

THE WITNESS: That is correct.

BY [redacted].

Q. You set forth what your agreement was with your wife?

A. That is right.

Q. I am simply asking you whether or not you wish to be bound by that agreement with your wife or not?

[redacted] Again, [redacted] I think he already made it clear that he is willing to be bound by the agreement provided that Mrs. Tower will be bounds by the agreement.

[redacted] She has never questioned --

[redacted] He retains his legal rights.

[redacted] I don't know what you are talking about. She has never questioned that agreement. She has never denied the validity of that agreement. She never sought to operate anything under that agreement. What are you talking about?

[redacted] Unless I am misunderstanding the agreement, the agreement between the parties was that each would go into the marriage with their separate property and go out of the marriage with their separate property. And we now have a situation which substantial amounts of money are being demanded in the way of support or alimony by Mrs. Tower.

[redacted] The agreement is quite clear as to what it means. The agreement deals with whether or not the Senator was at any time making any claim against her property. That is what the agreement says.

[redacted] Do you have a copy of the agreement written out?

[redacted] Yes.

[redacted] I haven't seen it.

[redacted] Well, you provided it to me on several occasions.

[redacted] I don't know that is the entire agreement. We are talking about an oral agreement.

[redacted] You know, now I begin to understand what laymen are talking about when they say the situation was perfectly clear until lawyers became involved.

[redacted] I am not going to argue that with you. The point is -- [redacted] I have asked him a very simple question. He is not an unintelligent man.

[redacted] No question about that.

[redacted] He understands the question. The fact that it may pose a problem or dilemma for him is something else again, but my question is quite simple.

There was an agreement between you and your wife, is that correct, with respect to her property? Is that right?

(Witness nods head).

BY [redacted]

Q. Yes?

A. Yes.

Q. It was oral, you say?

A. Yes.

Q. It was recited by you repeatedly on those occasions when you were required to file?

A. I assumed that would include my income as well. And Mrs. Tower said to me around the time of our separation that the amount that I was paying her and have continued to pay her, not under court order but voluntarily, was fair and all she could ask for since I would no longer be living under the roof and using the utilities and eating food and that sort of thing. And I proceeded on the assumption that that is the way we would leave the matter, and whether under order or not, I am prepared to contribute to Mrs. Tower's support.

Q. I am not suggesting --

A. But I can't mortgage my future.

Q. Wait a second. I am not suggesting that you are not willing to contribute to her support. And I think if you want to discuss this briefly, that the claim which your attorneys made on your behalf for you to have an interest in 20 Kalorama probably did more to preclude a reasonable settlement of this case than anything that has been done during the last year, including your condominium to the extent, if at all, that that is involved. Okay?

That claim by them on your behalf that you for the first time after ten years are suddenly asserting an interest in property which she clearly has said you both considered to be hers and treated it as hers over and over and over again, has done more to set these negotiations and this lawsuit back than anything else, and like people of principal it was a matter of principle and I don't want to get into this because I don't think it is really pertinent to a decision by the Court. I have just a very simple question. I want to know, and I am going to show you, is this your agreement and do you intend to abide by it? I am flabbergasted that your counsel has never seen it.

[redacted] I didn't say I have never seen it, [redacted]

[redacted] Well, it has come in several different forms but I believe that the substance -- let's mark this.

(Exhibit No. 4 Marked For Identification).

[redacted] Would you like to read this agreement into the record, [redacted]

[redacted] No, I am not going to read it into the record, it is marked as an exhibit. Show it to your client.

[redacted] I have just discussed this Exhibit 4 with my client, [redacted] and I would just like to state for the record that to the extent it evidences an oral agreement, that agreement says that, and I will quote, "Prior to marriage we entered into an agreement that her property," meaning Mrs. Tower's property, "prior to marriage and all income therefrom, would be held by her as her sole and separate estate, and that she would manage it and have exclusively control, use and benefit, if any, as well as exclusive burden and liability, if any, and it would ascend to her heirs, devises or legatees and I will disclaim any interest whatsoever either under her will or under the laws of dissent and distribution."

This agreement makes no mention whatsoever of property acquired during the marriage and I think you will agree that the Kalorama property was acquired during the marriage.

BY [redacted]

Q. Was that your agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. And I am now referring to Exhibit 4.

A. Yes.

Q. Now, I want to go back to my question.

Is it not fair to say that at all times during the course of your marriage to your wife, you did not consider that you had any interest in, ownership interest in the 20 Kalorama Road home and that the first time that you asserted an interest in it was after you consulted with counsel?

(Witness conferring with Counsel Lyons).

THE WITNESS: Yes.

BY [redacted].

Q. Is it also fair to say with respect to the 20 Kalorama Road property that it was acquired in your wife's sole name?

A. Yes.

Q. And that is what you wanted?

A. Yes.

Q. That although you put up a deposit initially in the form of a check, that check was returned to you at settlement and the deposit money was provided by her in the form of a CD? Or returned prior to settlement?

A. No, I paid 50,000, I believe, and perhaps contributed some to the settlement costs. And I was not reimbursed for that.

Q. But the deposit check, the check that accompanied the original contract of $20,000, was returned to you?

A. I can't -- I don't recall.

Q. Is it also fair to say that the $50,000 which you put up as part of the purchase price at closing, your wife was to pay you back upon her sale of the 34th Street house which she had at that time?

A. I don't recall any such agreement.

Q. Not an agreement, that that is what was to happen?

A. I did not understand any such commitment.

Q. And that she offered to pay that money back to you and you declined?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. And that she said that she thought that you should take that money and that it wasn't fair and you declined to do so?

A. That is possible, but I don't recall it.

Q. She also offered --

A. I don't say that it didn't happen, I say I do not recall it.

Q. She also offered to write you a note because she understood and you understood that should she die that property together with her other property would have gone to her son and she felt that you should be reimbursed by him for the $50,000?

A. It was my understanding that she directed her son to reimburse me should she precede me in death.

Q. Right.

A. That I do understand.

Q. But that you did not wish to accept the $50,000 before then?

A. I would say I don't recall what discussions took place on this, but it was something I wanted Lilla to have.

Let me call your attention to the proposal we transmitted to you on the 17th of December, in which I expressed my will to relinquished any claims at all against anything of Lilla's and to pay her 2,430, whatever the amount is, half of the mortgage plus 1800, plus survivorship in my pension which costs me about 4 to 5,000 a year, plus her health insurance premiums. So that demonstrated my willingness to relinquished any claim that I might have.

Q. Well, in fact --

A. And I was going on the basis of what Mrs. Tower had said to me earlier, that she didn't wish to assert any claims on me beyond that 2,400.

Q. Just so that we can completely understand this negotiations to the extent it helps resolve this lawsuit at all, and I doubt that it does, but is it not fair to say that during those discussions with your wife she said what about the taxes, "If I have to pay taxes on that then I will need money to pay taxes on it," and you said, "I have paid taxes on it all along, I will either continue to pay the taxes on it or give you the money to pay the taxes"?

A. That is what I am doing right now, I am paying the taxes.

Q. Exactly. But did you say that also?

A. I don't recall having said anything to that effect, but the fact is that I am currently paying the taxes on the 2,400 plus that I send her monthly.

Q. Did you tell her that you would continue to do that? Or pay her the money to pay the taxes?

A. I believe that in my proposal of December 17 I expressed that willingness.

Q. But that was your understanding, was it not, in your discussions with her that she also addressed --

A. I am perfectly willing to do that now.

Q. In addition, at the time -- when was it that you made this offer to her first, not through your counsel, but you yourself?

A. I don't know that there was ever a specific offer made.

Q. When did you say to her I will continue to support you in the manner that I have been doing, so I am not going to make any claim against any of your property, I am going to provide for your health needs, I am going to do whatever else you said that you were going to do? When was that said?

A. I don't know at what point in time. But I did say that I would do that. But that was before there came back a proposal that for the rest of my life I would be required to pay $5,000 a month.

Q. Well, let me ask you --

[redacted] Let me interrupt for a minute. I don't think it is unhelpful for us to continue this discussion, but I don't know it is appropriate to continue on the record. I think we are inquiring into settlement negotiations and I don't think it is going to be part of any evidence in the case. I think it might be helpful for us to go off the record.

[redacted] I don't think it is helpful at all. The question arose because there came a time that asserted interests of Senator Tower in this home arose, and the point of the matter is and the point that I wish to make is that Senator Tower never considered that he had an interest in that home, never wanted an interest in that home, never treated it anything other than his wife's property, and with all due respect to him, and to his credit, always wanted her to have it. The only time that any reimbursement or claim arose was should she die Mrs. Tower said it is inappropriate for her son not to pay back that money which John advanced and which he had declined to take.

That is the whole context, leave these people alone and you can probably solve the problem?

THE WITNESS: Can we go off the record?

[redacted] Sure.

(Discussion off the record).

(Thereupon, at 4:00 p.m., the deposition was adjourned).

I am writing to you to tell you of my first hand recollection of former Senator John Tower's loose living when he made trips to Memphis, Tennessee on two separate occasions, when I was an active member of the Republican party there. At the time I lived in Tennessee my name was [redacted]

The first occasion took place between late 1961 - 1963 while I was an active member of the Young Republican club. Senator Tower came to speak to the YRs and later that night demanded that the male YRs hire two prostitutes for him for his evening recreation (menage a trois). The second occasion took place between 1971- 1973. [redacted] Senator Bill Brock, R. Tenn. Senator Tower came to Memphis as a substitute speaker for Senator Brock. Senator Brock's [redacted] told me that Senator Tower stayed in Memphis several days following his speech and was drinking so excessively that he [redacted] had to assist him into the airplane back to Washington, D.C. This can also be verified by the FBI.

Former Senator Tower does not fit the profile of the nominee that president Bush promised the American people. That is former Senator tower is not an ethical and moral person. I think that President Bush should ask former Senator Tower to withdrawl

FOR INFORMATION OF DALLAS, SEATTLE DIVISION DEVELOPED INFORMATION THAT SOUTHERN AIRWAYS, INC (SAI), NOW DEFUNCT, HAD A CONTRACT WITH U.S. ARMY DURING 1960'S-1971, TO PROVIDE BASIC HELICOPTER PILOT TRANING TO U.S. ARMY PILOTS AT FORT WOLTON;

TEXAS, (NEAR MINERAL SPRINGS, TEXAS). IN 1971, SAI WAS NOTIFIED BY U.S. ARMY OR U.S. GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS THAT THIS CONTRACT WOULD BE TERMINATED AND FORT WOLTON WOULD BE CLOSED DOWN. SAI OFFICIALS AND EMPLOYEES WERE UPSET ABOUT THIS SITUATION. IN 1971, THEN SENATOR JOHN G. TOWER OF TEXAS, POSSIBLY MAY HAVE BEEN NOTIFIED BY SAI ABOUT THIS PROBLEM, OR TOWER MAY HAVE NOTIFIED SAI.

SHORTLY AFTER THIS NOTIFICATION, SAI SENIOR OFFICIALS PUBLISHED A MEMO TO ALL EMPLOYEES REQUESTING A $150.00 POLITICAL DONATION FOR THE TOWER CAMPAIGN AS A METHOD POSSIBLY TO SPARK TOWER'S INTEREST TO SAVE FORT WOLTON. ONE FORMER SAI PILOT INSTRUCTOR INTERVIEWED BY SEATTLE, TOLD THAT $150.00 WAS DEDUCTED FROM HIS PAYCHECK WITHOUT HIS AUTHORITY, BUT RETURNED TO HIM WHEN HE COMPLAINED. ANOTHER SAI FORMER PILOT INSTRUCTOR, [redacted] [redacted] LAKE CHARLES, LOUISIANA, ADVISED THAT THE CONTRIBUTION WAS VOLUNTARY, AND TOTALLY WITHOUT DURESS OR PRESSURE. [redacted] DID NOT CONTRIBUTE THE $150.00.

RE BALTIMORE TELEPHONE CALL OF SA [redacted] TO [redacted] FBIHQ, DATED FEBRUARY 13, 1989.

ON FEBRUARY 13, 1989, A SOURCE PROVIDED SPECIAL AGENT [redacted] BALTIMORE DIVISION WITH SOME PRELIMINARY INFORMATION CONCERNING MR. TOWER AS FOLLOWS:

161-20403-412

AAI, A COMPANY IN BALTIMORE, MD., INITIALLY HAD A CONTRACT WITH THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE TO PRODUCE MUNITIONS LOADERS AT $250,000 EACH. THE TIME PERIOD INVOLVED WAS APPROXIMATELY 1985

APR 25 1989

CC DESTROYED
Copy hand carried to SSA [redacted] on 2/14/89

WHEN MR. TOWER WAS A SENATOR FROM TEXAS. IT IS ALLEGED THAT MR. TOWER WHILE SERVING AS A SENATOR COMMUNICATED WITH THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE ENCOURAGING THEM TO REBID THE CONTRACT WITH AAI IN FAVOR OF PACIFIC CAN AND FOUNDRY (PACCAR) FROM THE STATE OF WASHINGTON. PACIFIC CAN AND FOUNDRY CLAIMED THEY COULD PRODUCE THE MUNITIONS LOADERS FOR $125,000 EACH AND THEREFORE WERE AWARDED THE CONTRACT. PACIFIC CAN AND FOUNDRY THEN PROCEEDED TO SPEND SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS IN DEVELOPMENTAL COSTS, START UP FEES ETC. ON THE PROJECT. PACIFIC CAN AND FOUNDRY DETERMINED AFTER SPENDING SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS THAT THEY WOULD NEED TO CHARGE $1,000,000 EACH TO PRODUCE THE MUNITIONS LOADERS. THE DEFENSE DEPARTMENT DECIDED TO GIVE THE CONTRACT BACK TO AAI IN BALTIMORE, MD., WHO INITIALLY HAD THE CONTRACT TO PRODUCE THE MUNITIONS LOADERS FOR $250,000 EACH. SOURCE ADVISED [redacted] AUTHORIZED THE EXPENDITURE OF FUNDS BY PACIFIC CAN AND FOUNDRY, AND WAS ADMONISHED BY THE SENATE ARMS COMMITTEE FOR ALLOWING THE CONTRACT CHANGE TO GO THROUGH.

AN INTERVIEW HAS BEEN ARRANGED WITH SOURCE ON FEBRUARY 14, 1989 TO SECURE COMPLETE DETAILS INCLUDING ALL DOCUMENTATION

AVAILABLE REGARDING THESE ALLEGATIONS. BALTIMORE WILL ATTEMPT TO DETERMINE WHETHER OR NOT MR. TOWER WAS INVOLVED IN ANY UNETHICAL OR ILLEGAL ACTIVITY.

BA T-1, an individual, who requested confidentiality under the provisions of the Privacy Act and who has knowledge concerning the activities of various defense contractors, including [redacted] furnished the following information: b7D

At the request of BA T-1, another individual, identified as BA T-2, was present during the interview. BA T-2, who requested confidentiality under the provisions of the Privacy Act, has knowledge about the activities of various defense contractors, including [redacted] and [redacted]

BA T-1 indicated that he had recently heard from various news outlets that JOHN TOWER was nominated for the position of Secretary of Defense. BA T-1 said that he/she thought Mr. TOWER was an example of a person heavily tied in with defense contractors, whom he/she believed was not the type of person that should be selected to run the Department of Defense. BA T-1 said he/she believed that Mr. TOWER went out of his way by taking the extreme measure of putting forth legislation so that new competition would be held for the simplified weapons loader, also known as munitions lift trailer, after a contractor had already been selected. BA T-1 said that information concerning the legislation could be found in the Senate version of the Defense Authorization Bills of 1983 and 1984.

BA T-1 said [redacted]

BA T-1 advised that during the summer of 1982, the Senate and House were preparing the authorization bill for 1983. BA T-1 said that he/she heard from an unrecalled source and also read in the bill from the Senate something to the effect that the Air Force should consider a requirement for the development of a new simplified weapons loader. BA T-1 said that this bill was referring to the AAI munitions lift trailer for which a contract was already in existence. BA T-1 said that at this point in time, about 50 to 60 of the AAI units were already in the field.

BA T-1 said that it was his/her understanding from unrecalled individuals in congressional circles that (First name unknown) [redacted] of Senator TOWER, either on [redacted] the Armed Services Committee for which Senator TOWER was chairman, drafted the legislation. BA T-1, therefore, believed Senator TOWER was directly connected with the legislation suggesting a requirement for the development of a new, simplified weapons loader. The bill from the Senate went to the Joint Conference Committee. The House Committee received material concerning the history of the munitions loader and determined that the trailer was performing reasonably well, considering its early stage of production. The Principal House Armed Services Committee Staffer, who supported removing the TOWER language in the Senate bill, was [redacted] The House prevailed in the Joint Conference Committee and the language introduced by Senator TOWER was removed. b6 b7C

BA T-1 advised that in 1983, the B-1 bomber was revived. He/she related that the Senate version of the Defense Authorization Bill for 1984 directed the Air Force to determine or establish the requirement for a B-1 bomber weapons loader and hold competition for rebidding of same. BA T-1 believed the senate language was introduced by Mr. TOWER. BA T-1 said that in the fall of 1983, after the Senate version of the Defense Authorization Bill was already presented, [redacted] b7D

BA T-1 said that the House Committee again objected strenuously, after reviewing more data on the performance of the AAI unit, and took a position counter to the Senate proposal in the Joint Conference Committee. The vote in the Joint Conference Committee was 20 to 1 against the Senate proposal put forth by Mr. TOWER. BA T-1 said that he/she did not know who voted for Mr. TOWER's proposal but stated that it was his/her personal opinion that Mr. TOWER provided the one vote in favor of his proposal. BA T-1 said that since the proposal failed in committee, it was not made a part of the bill. BA T-1 said that he/she was told by an unrecalled person that Mr. TOWER contacted [redacted] b6 b7C and told [redacted] that he really ought to talk with the people from STANDARD MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Dallas, Texas. BA T-1 said that it was his understanding that [redacted] later talked with the people from STANDARD MANUFACTURING COMPANY and then immediately following that meeting, [redacted] BA T-1 said that [redacted]

BA T-1 said that he/she was personally surprised that Senator TOWER would take the extreme measure of trying to force legislation to provide an opportunity for STANDARD MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Dallas, Texas, to re-enter a competition after they already lost. BA T-1 said that he/she questioned whether a man that closely aligned with defense contractors could fairly handle the position of Secretary of Defense with regard to awarding defense contracts. BA T-1 said that he/she was not personally acquainted with Mr. TOWER and indicated that he/she had never met the man. BA T-1 would not question Mr. TOWER's character, reputation, associates, or loyalty and stated that he/she had never known him to use illegal drugs or abuse alcohol. BA T-1 advised that he/she had no information whatsoever concerning Mr. TOWER's personal finances. BA T-1 said that he/she did not question Mr. TOWER's ethical conduct and did not believe that TOWER had engaged in any illegal activity. However, BA T-1 did question Mr. TOWER's conduct with regard to his involvement with defense contractors. BA T-1 said he/she would not recommend Mr. TOWER for a position of trust as Secretary of Defense because he questioned whether Mr. TOWER would be fair in awarding Defense contracts. BA T-1 said that since he was not acquainted with Mr. TOWER, he, therefore, could not comment regarding a recommendation for any other position of trust with the Government.

BA T-1 advised that [redacted] should have some information concerning Mr. TOWER's suitability. BA T-1 said that [redacted] who is now a private consultant in the Washington, D.C. area, should also have some pertinent information concerning Mr. TOWER's activities as they relate to the munitions loaders. b6 b7C

BA T-2 also advised that he/she was not personally acquainted with Mr. TOWER. BA T-2 said that he/she knew of nothing derogatory regarding Mr. TOWER's character, reputation, associates, or loyalty. BA T-2 said that he/she had never known Mr. TOWER to use illegal drugs or abuse alcohol and further advised that he/she had no information concerning his financial situation. BA T-2 advised that he/she would not recommend Mr. TOWER for the position of Secretary of Defense because he/she questioned Mr. TOWER's willingness to be fair with all contractors. BA T-2 said that since he was not acquainted with Mr. TOWER he could not make any comment regarding a recommendation for any other position Mr. TOWER might seek with the Government.

Vice Admiral JOHN S. DISHER [illegible] Naval Education and Training, Quarters A, Naval [illegible] Station, Pensacola, Florida, was advised of the [illegible] the interviewing agents and the nature of the [illegible]. Admiral DISHER provided the following [illegible]:

In late June of 1984, the one and only contact with Senator JOHN TOWER was made through an introduction at the Capitol Building. The nature of the contact was a brief meeting as the admiral was just assigned to Corpus Christi and within the senator's district. The entire meeting lasted about 20 minutes and was in the presence of one of the "staffers" identified as [redacted].

While in command at Corpus Christi, nothing of an unfavorable nature was heard regarding TOWER'S activities at the OFFICER'S CLUB. The senator's attendance would have been infrequent if at all. It has always been understood that TOWER had a good reputation and there were never questions arising that challenged his integrity.

The OFFICER'S CLUB in Corpus Christi does have an upstairs that was known as the VIP Quarters. It was originally set up to house visiting dignitaries. Sometime after taking command, the quarters were eventually turned over to the club for administrative offices and expanding needs of the club. At no time was there ever an indication of prostitution available to club patrons. If this were ever known to be the case, it would have been immediately handled. There is no personal knowledge that Senator TOWER ever frequented the OFFICER'S CLUB, nor that his behavior was anything less than professional.

Based on limited personal knowledge of Senator JOHN TOWER, Vice Admiral DISHER stated that it would not be possible to make a recommendation for or against his appointment to the position of Secretary of Defense.

[redacted] Pensacola, Florida, was advised of the identities of the interviewing agents and the nature of the interview and provided the following information:

[redacted] served in the capacity of [redacted] and was directly responsible for [redacted] He served in this capacity in 1982, 1983 and the first half of 1984. During that time, there have been only two or three instances where there was an opportunity to meet Senator JOHN TOWER. The first occasion was in January or February of 1982. At this event, TOWER was made honorary Chief Petty Officer of the Navy in Corpus Christi. This was an event inspired by the senator's past service in the Navy as an enlistedman.

The second meeting was approximately one and a half years later where TOWER was the guest speaker at a "quasi fund raiser". The last meeting was at an informal occasion that was a chance meeting where TOWER was interviewed by the media.

TOWER was remotely known on a professional basis and never as a social acquaintance. At no time was TOWER observed to be handling himself in a manner less than fitting for an individual of his stature. If there were ever instances of inappropriate behavior occurring at the OFFICER'S CLUB, it would have been known by the Admiral's Office. At no time has this ever been the case. TOWER was not known to frequent the club and there was no recollection of him having ever been there.

The OFFICER'S CLUB had a second floor which contained a VIP suite. The suite was described as non-plush and available to visiting dignitaries. At no time was there ever an indication of misuse of the quarters of prostitution available to club patrons. Records of individuals that would have stayed there have been kept in the past by the [redacted] identified as [redacted]

[redacted] Washington, D.C., telephone number [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents, both by a show of credentials and orally, and the nature and purpose of the interview; the background investigation of JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. [redacted] voluntarily furnished the following information.

He advised that [redacted] brought it to his attention sometime in February, 1988 that two articles appeared in the Legal Times regarding the appointee's representation of British Aerospace and LTV Corporation. The first article, dated February 1, 1988, indicated that the appointee was not registered as a lobbyist or agent for British Aerospace. The second article, dated February 15, 1988, indicated that the appointee's consulting firm, TOWER & ASSOCIATES, had registered to lobby on behalf of defense contractors British Aerospace Incorporated, the LTV Defense & Space Company, Rockwell International, and the Martin Marietta Corporation.

Based upon these articles, [redacted] contacted TOWER & ASSOCIATES on February 18, 1988 and spoke to [redacted] an associate of the consulting firm. [redacted] questioned [redacted] as to the relationship between TOWER & ASSOCIATES and these companies and their requirement to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act (Act). On February 23, 1988, TOWER & ASSOCIATES attorney, [redacted] of the Law firm of DICKSTEIN, SHAPARIO and MORIN, 2101 L Street, Northwest, Washington, D.C., telephone number [redacted] contacted [redacted] and scheduled a meeting for March 9, 1988.

This meeting was attended by [redacted] and [redacted] at the [redacted] offices. It was determined at this meeting, based upon the information provided orally by [redacted] that TOWER & ASSOCIATES represented an American subsidiary of British Aerospace located in the Washington metropolitan area. Since TOWER & ASSOCIATES were acting as an agent of an American subsidiary of a multinational corporation, they were exempt from registration as a foreign agent under section 1Q of the Act. [redacted] stated that to the best of his recollection TOWER & ASSOCIATES were acting in the capacity of a consultant for British Aerospace.

[redacted] presentation to [redacted] and [redacted] was general in nature. [redacted] and [redacted] advised [redacted] at this meeting that this conclusion regarding the exemption was based solely upon [redacted] oral presentation of the facts. It was suggested to [redacted] to submit his presentation in writing to document the facts disclosed in the meeting. Nothing was ever submitted by [redacted] or anyone representing TOWER & ASSOCIATES.

[redacted] explained that under the Act the term "foreign agent" refers to an agent of a foreign principle who operates at the request, order, direction or control of that foreign principal and engages in political activity. "Political activity", according to [redacted] refers to activity such as lobbying on behalf of a foreign country, trying to improve the image of a country or its leaders, or to encourage investment in a foreign country.

Failure to register under this Act can result in both a civil and criminal penalty. The civil penalty would be an injunction against the party until compliance is met. In order for there to be a criminal penalty, a willful violation must be proven. [redacted] stated that the penalty, which is rarely used, is five years imprisonment and/or a $10,000.00 fine.

[redacted] advised that the Act made no distinction between defense or non-defense consultants or lobbyists. [redacted] further advised that the amount of money collected by an agent does not impact on the necessity to register under the Act. Registration is solely dictated by whether the agent is representing a foreign principle or an American subsidiary. [redacted] explained that in order to violate the Act both conditions of a two prong test must be met. The first being that the agent is representing a foreign principle. The second requirement is that the agent be engaged in political activities. It is the opinion of [redacted] that TOWER & ASSOCIATES complied with all of the requirements of the Act and did not need to register under the Act.

Attached are copies of the two articles named herein.

er example of the congressional budget process gone awry.

"This is a sneak trick designed to avoid the normal budget process in the hope nobody will ask questions," says one key congressional aide.

Says one indignant Air Force official: "I never thought I'd see the day when a U.S. congressman deliberately kept American companies away from a defense contract in favor of foreign interests."

Fueling the Budgetary Fire

The controversy over Chappell's aircraft program is yet another offshoot of the growing debate over the congressional budget process. A number of last-minute additions to the continuing resolution, critics contend, would never have survived more open and deliberative treatment. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) has drawn fire for his amendment forcing Rupert Murdoch to sell some media properties, while Sen. Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii) has had to explain his sponsorship of an $8 million amendment to fund a school for Jewish refugees in France.

The controversial appropriation for the foreign aircraft bidders pushed by Chappell occupies less than one page of subcommittee testimony; yet, millions of dollars are at stake. In September, Congress rejected a backdoor method to fund the program, and the Air Force itself is lukewarm at best about the project.

Against this backdrop, critics are wondering why Chappell has been moved to intervene so aggressively.

Chappell acknowledges that he has met with officials from two of the three foreign dent of British Aerospace when I was in London—what's his name?" Sir Edward Hanson is president of British Aerospace.

One powerful former official may have played a behind-the-scenes role in the controversy. According to two Senate aides, former Sen. John Tower (R-Texas), who once chaired the Armed Services Committee, has made calls on behalf of British Aerospace and a subcontractor, the Dallas-based LTV Corp. Tower, now an aerospace consultant in Washington, is a British Aerospace director and an LTV consultant.

Tower, who is not registered as a British Aerospace lobbyist or agent, declined repeated requests for comment. Two Senate sources say that Tower has placed calls on the issue to Air Force Undersecretary James McGovern, who directed the staff when Tower chaired the Armed Services Committee, and to Arnold Punaro, now the committee's staff director.

Punaro could not be reached for comment. Chappell says he does not recall talking with Tower about the aircraft program.

Limiting the Bidding

Chappell's initiative would replace six aging executive-type "flight inspection" jets that have been in the inventory for more than 20 years. Four are Lockheed Jet Stars, now out of production, while two are Sabreliners, first built in the 1950s by the predecessor to Rockwell International. The small jets have been based in Europe and Japan and contain a sophisticated inertial navigation system.

"Essentially, in case of a combat-type crisis," explains one Air Force Reserve pilot, "they fly ahead to check the ground instrumentation landing systems to ensure it is safe to land."

Chappell's provision requires the Air Force to award the contract for replacement flight-inspection planes, known as C-FINs, to aircraft that can fly at least 2,400 nautical miles.

This seemingly innocuous language essentially limited the bidding to three firms: British Aerospace, Israel Aircraft Induscheaper than their British and Can counterparts. The Israeli aircraft is cc rably priced to the American plane dustry sources say.

"Cessna and Learjet at least, on merits, should have been allowed to b C-FIN," asserts one knowledgabl Force official.

Through the Back Door

The Pentagon did not ask for C funding in its 1988 budget request. B public record shows that Rep. Chapp his subcommittee considered the Air 1988 procurement budget, wanted tc C-FIN through a back door. If C-FII not in the regular budget, money could be found by reprogrammin transferring, funds already approp for other military programs

On March 12, 1987, Lt. Gen. B Randolph, an Air Force deputy ch staff for research, development and sition, had an exchange with Chappe illustrates how the lawmaker was pu for the longer-range, foreign aircraf

Chappell then drove home the poi the Air Force competition was only to be open to the longer-range aircr

"I think congressional intent is cl that 2,400 miles?" he asked. "Yes the general saluted. "No doubt mind."

Shortly after the March hearing, t Force—which earlier had approv 1,850-mile-plus range for the C-F requested a $70 million reprogramm buy 2,400-mile range C-FINS.

"When the Air Force issued its mile range RFP [Request for Propo says a Beech official, "we had tc out." Gates Learjet and Cessna als the competition.

to Secretary of State Michael Harkins at the request of Skadden client Boeing. And Shapiro, a director of Boeing, introduced the company's chief executive to both officials. But that ended their activity for any client, they assert.

"That's the limit of our involvement [with Boeing]. I wasn't lobbying on behalf of Boeing. I was functioning as a businessman," says Shapiro, former chairman of Du Pont.

After the Boeing presentation, Castle asked that the Delaware Bar Association consider the proposal. Ultimately, the Corporate Law Section of the Delaware Bar Association threw out the Skadden draft and began work on a new version. One of the authors of the revised version was Skadden's Ward. But Ward says he was only acting in his role as a member of the Corporate Law Section.

A. Gilchrist Sparks III and O. Francis Biondi, who are both partners at Morris, Nichols, lobbied on their own, not for the firm's client, Texaco, says Sparks, who also chairs the Corporate Law Section, which recommended the bill to the Delaware legislature.

"We didn't get a nickel for it," Sparks says.

In addition to massive corporate support for the bill, the opponents may have made a tactical error by using a Mailgram and newspaper advertising campaign in a small state not used to such efforts. Francis, McGinnis handled the Mailgram drive, which generated 7,500 post cards from Delaware residents to their legislators.

To the legislators on the receiving end of the postcards, the grass-roots effort was nothing more than evidence that outsider T. Boone Pickens was spending lavishly to defend his own pocketbook. "You just don't see that in in Delaware. . . . That gives the image of big bucks. They don't like that," says Delaware lobbyist Hudson.

USA officials say the coalition spent about $50,000 to oppose the bill.

Opponents now turn back to Congress, where takeover-reform legislation is pending.

Footnote: Theisen, Lank, has been retained as local counsel by Baltimore's Miles & Stockbridge to help in a challenge by the Black & Decker Manufacturing Co. to the new takeover law. The challenge was filed in the U.S. District Court for Delaware. Black & Decker's attempted takeover of American Standard Inc. is jeopardized because of a provision in the Delaware law making it retroactive to Dec. 23.

The Power of Tower

Tower & Associates, the consulting firm of Sen. John Tower (R-Texas), recently registered to lobby on behalf of defense contractors British Aerospace Inc., the LTV Defense & Space Co., Rockwell International, and the Martin Marietta Corp. Tower is former chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The registration follows a Legal Times report that two Senate aides said Tower made calls supporting a $100 million Air Force project on behalf of British Aerospace and its subcontractor, LTV. The calls, they said, were to Arnold Punaro, staff director of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and Air Force Undersecretary James McGovern, who was staff director of the panel when Tower was chairman. (See "Rep. Chappell's Backdoor Move," Legal Times, Feb. 1, 1988, Page 1.)

At the time, Tower was not registered as a British Aerospace lobbyist or foreign agent, and he declined repeated requests for comment. His office said he was out of the country and unavailable for comment on the recent registrations.

Richard Billmire, an associate of the consulting firm, who signed the lobby registrations, also did not return repeated calls.

The registrations say the lobbying will be done on the fiscal 1989 defense authorizations and appropriations and on other Defense Department legislation. Tower & Associates also registered on behalf of Hick & Associates, a McLean, Va., consulting firm, on defense issues as well.

Another issue which was raised at this meeting was TOWER & ASSOCIATE's representation of LTV (company) in what he believed to be the "C-Fin" contract. [redacted] recalled that in this situation it was LTV which was the prime contractor and British Aerospace UK (United Kingdom) which was a subcontractor. In this case, it was determined that TOWER & ASSOCIATES were representing only LTV, a domestic company. No registration was required under the Act.

[redacted] stated that [redacted] presentation was general in nature but not evasive. It appeared to him that [redacted] was genuinely concerned at attempting to resolve the entire issue of registration. [redacted] did not believe it was necessary for [redacted] to document his presentation after their meeting.

Under the Act, the term "foreign agents" refers to an agent of a foreign principle who operates at the request, order, direction or control of that foreign principal and engages in political activity. Failure to register under this Act can result in both a civil and criminal penalty. The civil penalty would be an injunction against the party until compliance is met. In order for there to be a criminal penalty, a willful violation must be proven. [redacted] stated that the penalty, which has been rarely used, is either five or ten years imprisonment and/or a $5,000.00 or $10,000.00 fine. [redacted] was unsure as to the exact penalty.

The following information was provided by a person hereinafter referred to as "he," who requested that his identity remain confidential and not be disclosed outside the Federal Bureau of Investigation. No inference regarding the sex of WMF T-15 should be made from usage of the word "he" when referring to WMF T-15.

WMF T-15 was contacted concerning his knowledge of the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. WMF T-15 advised that in the fall of 1970 the appointee was seen at the SHERATON EL PASO HOTEL in El Paso, Texas. WMF T-15 believes the appointee was there for a local Republican fund raiser run by [redacted] for candidates in Texas. [redacted] is believed to have made the arrangement for those attending the fund raiser to stay at the hotel. WMF T-15 believes this is the same time that [redacted] was held at the hotel. TOWER's stay at the hotel was believed to be two to three days. b6 b7C

WMF T-15 advised that he was at the hotel when he heard that the manager had been contacted by someone from TOWER's staff who requested that the hotel provide women and alcohol. To the best of WMF T-15's knowledge, the hotel provided the alcohol and women.

WMF T-15 stated that for the majority of the appointee's stay at the hotel, people were going in and out of TOWER's hotel room, appearing to him to be drunk. WMF T-15 stated that he knows the difference between someone having a good time and when they have had too much alcohol. He stated that TOWER was "throwing [his] weight around [and] doing some crazy things. When asked what kind of crazy things, he replied "drinking and carousing". He added that people were being thrown into the swimming pool. WMF T-15 stated that this type of behavior showed a "flagrant disregard for all values" and added that the atmosphere was "particularly frenetic and scary" meaning that he thought there would be physical damage done to the hotel.

WMF T-15 observed the appointee in one of the hotel's public rooms called the Carousel Club. He stated that he was close enough to TOWER to see that he appeared drunk. When asked how WMF T-15 knew that this person was TOWER, he stated that he asked someone who the "pushy, short guy" was, and was told that it was TOWER. He stated that he never met TOWER or spoke to him. WMF T-15 advised that TOWER appeared drunk because he was "gesturing, and going around in circles". He stated that it appeared as though people were "standing around TOWER to catch him if he staggered".

WMF T-15's impression of TOWER was that of a "power monger" because he liked to throw his weight around.

WMF T-15 requested this interview.

Congressman MICHAEL A. ANDREWS, United States House of Representatives, 322 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C., telephone number [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and that he was being interviewed regarding a background clearance investigation concerning JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. Congressman ANDREWS voluntarily provided the following information:

Congressman ANDREWS advised [redacted] Houston, Texas, was not in the Washington, D.C. area in December, 1988. If she and her husband were, they would have stayed with the Congressman [redacted] Congressman ANDREWS advised [redacted] informing [redacted] was recently interviewed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), regarding a possible visit by [redacted] to the Washington, D.C. area in December, 1988 where [redacted] may have observed TOWER in an inebriated condition at a local restaurant.

Congressman ANDREWS again reiterated [redacted] was not in the Washington, D.C. area during the past Christmas (1988) season. He did not know how this information surfaced and believed it was totally false in nature.

Congressman ANDREWS stated neither he [redacted] have seen TOWER in any restaurant in the Washington, D.C. area, specifically during the past 1988 Christmas season. He added he has never seen TOWER inebriated.

Date of transcription

[redacted] Washington, D.C., telephone number [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and that he was being interviewed regarding a background clearance investigation on JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. [redacted] voluntarily provided the following information:

[redacted] when queried about how to locate campaign contribution fund information about TOWER, stated that he had some material on his desk regarding TOWER and possible affiliations between TOWER and an individual named [redacted] related that reporters and research investigators from the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) were at his office on the previous day, February 9, 1989, asking about the same information about which the investigating agent was inquiring. NBC reporters asked about [redacted] and whether they could discover through FEC records if [redacted] had contributed large sums of money to TOWER's campaign, whether in the form of a loan or otherwise. [redacted] stated that he could give the investigating agent access to the same information that he gave to NBC and any additional information that was desired.

[redacted] began by explaining that the FEC began keeping its own records in 1975. The FEC has a few records from the years 1972 to 1975 that are kept by the Clerk of the Senate. These records exist on microfilm and are available to the public. They are, however, duplicate to the records housed at the Clerk of the Senate's Offices.

[redacted] explained that a pivotal date involving campaign contributions is April 7, 1972. This is the day, as stipulated in the Federal Elections Campaign Act of 1971, on which full disclosure of all campaign contributions was required. All contributions and campaign finance prior to this date were filed under the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, which is generally viewed as having provided an ineffective system of record keeping and reporting. Campaign contributions were not required to be reported under this Act. [redacted] stated that because of the state of the law during 1971 and 1972, the time period of interest in the present investigation, TOWER would not have been required to report campaign funds for that period.

[redacted] provided the following documents regarding campaign contributions to JOHN TOWER during the time period of 1971 to 1973:

1. The Annual Statistical Report of Receipts and Expenditures - made in connection with Elections for the U.S. Senate in 1972 (Document 1):

2. Registration Form and Statement of Organization for Political Committees - United States Senate, dated April 19, 1972 (Document 2); and

3. Receipts and Expenditures Report of Committees - United States Senate, dated January 31, 1973 (Document 3).

Document 1 was prepared by the Secretary of the Senate, who is the Supervisory Officer for Senate elections. It reflects the receipts and expenditures reported to the Secretary of the Senate on behalf of JOHN GOODWIN TOWER, a candidate for the U.S. Senate in 1972. Document 1 indicates a total amount received for TOWER's campaign in 1972 of $2,739,233. [redacted] pointed out that two large receipt figures appeared as part of the above sum: $2,261,459 collected by Texans for TOWER and $252,115 collected by friends of JOHN TOWER. These amounts stood out in stark contrast to the other amounts. [redacted] also pointed out that the $252,115 amount resembled the amount of the loan that is the topic of the investigation. The second page of Document 1 revealed the names of [redacted] and [redacted] as contributors to three campaign entities. The amounts contributed do not exceed $2,000 for any one gift.

Document 2 reflects the registration of a campaign committee named Friends of JOHN TOWER. This committee was reported as having raised the $252,115 listed above for TOWER. The Committee was in existence for several days and then made a transfer of the funds which it had raised to Texans for TOWER. Friends of JOHN TOWER was not required to disclose its sources of contributions because the sum of money ($252,114.65) was received before April 7, 1989. [redacted] stated that if he was investigating this case, he would ask the question of why friends of JOHN TOWER was ever made an entity. He thought it curious that the organization was in existence for such a short period of time and that it made such a large transfer.

Document 3 reflects the receipts and expenditures filed by the Committee, Texans for TOWER, covering the period at the end of the year, 1972. [redacted] stated that the importance of page 1 of the document lies in its revelation that no loans were received by the Committee during that time period. Page 2 reveals that a $2,000 contribution was made by [redacted] on November 1, 1972.

[redacted] stated that any positive indication of where the $252,115 originated from must come from TOWER or his knowledgeable associates on the Friends of JOHN TOWER Committee. No records exist that detail such information either with the F.E.C. or the Secretary of the Senate.

[redacted] British Aerospace (BAS), 13873 Park Center Road, Herdon, Virginia, was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and provided the following information regarding his knowledge of the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER:

[redacted] advised that the appointee was a paid consultant to BAS, and that he also served as a non-paid, non-executive director. He stated that the appointee in no way served as a lobbyist to BAS.

[redacted] stated that as a consultant, the appointee was paid $100,000.00 for the first year, which was June of 1986, to June of 1987. The second year (June of 1987, to June 1988) the appointee was paid $120,000.00, and from June of 1988, to December of 1988 the appointee was paid $60,000.00 . [redacted] advised that from this consulting fee, the appointee had to pay his own people who were working for him. He did not know what percentage of the appointee's time was spent as a consultant, because the appointee did not work at this location. The appointee's role as a consultant to BAS was to provide general information in the areas of defense, politics and American ways.

[redacted] advised that in the area of defense, the appointee provided to BAS the correct procedures to follow in the defense business, such as putting together contracts, bids and proposals. He explained that it is difficult for a foreign company to operate in the United States because of its lack of knowledge of the system. [redacted] advised that in April of 1988 the appointee gave direct advice on only one military project. He explained that the U.S. Air Force (USAF) was deciding on whether to pursue the "Tanker Transport Training System (TTTS)" or the replacement T-46 (another training system). The USAF was undecided at the time as to what project it would fund first. The appointee's opinion was that the USAF would go with the TTTS project. The USAF did decide to fund the TTTS project. When asked as to how the appointee knew which project the USAF would go with, [redacted] related it was just his opinion. When [redacted] was asked as to how this knowledge would be an advantage to BAS, he replied that BAS would be interested in bidding on the TTTS system, and BAS had to decide whether it was worth putting together an RFP (request for proposal). He advised that putting together an RFP is very costly to the company and they had to decide whether it would be cost effective. He further noted that the bidding process has just started on the project.

[redacted] stated that the only other military project that the appointee had been associated with while he was a consultant to BAS was the "SeaFin" project, which took place in 1987-1988. He advised that the appointee did not really provide any consultation to BAS regarding this project, but advised that the appointee was a direct consultant to LTV SIERRA for this project. [redacted] advised that BAS was LTV SIERRA'S partner on this project.

[redacted] advised that the appointee had provided consultation in the area of politics, particularly government policy. The appointee interpreted the Trade Bill for BAS, and how this would effect them. The appointee also provided insight into the possible outcome of the 1988 presidential election. [redacted] stated that this is particularly helpful for a foreign company because of the trade barriers, and that the Democrat's support a stricter trade barrier than the Republicans. [redacted] explained that it was cheaper to use the appointee as a consultant in these matters rather than hire high priced lawyers.

In civil related matters, the appointee gave advice on the commercial airline market and in real estate matters. [redacted] explained that in the commercial airline market, the appointee knew presidents of various corporations that could be potential buyers for BAS business jets. The appointee also knew people in the airline industry who also could be potential buyers, and the appointee provided information as to how their salesmen could approach these individuals.

[redacted] advised that the company (BAS) was looking into relocating its operations at one time. The appointee had suggested that the company look at Dallas, Texas. He stated that the appointee knew a developer, [redacted] who was developing an airport in Dallas, which was catering to the aerospace industry. [redacted] stated that BAS decided it was not feasible to relocate that far away.

As a non-executive Director on the Board of Directors, [redacted] stated that the appointee had no voting rights and was not paid, and the position of director had no power associated with it. A non-executive director is an individual who is a director on the Board of Directors of a company, but does not work directly within that company. The appointee was required to attend four meetings a year, and [redacted] noted that the meetings lasted all day. [redacted] stated that the appointee had only missed one meeting. The main purpose of the appointee being a director was so they would have an outside opinion on various and general issues.

[redacted] British Aerospace (BAS), 13873 Park Center Road, Herdon, Virginia, was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and provided the following information regarding his knowledge of the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER:

[redacted] advised that he did not work with the appointee personally, but stated he sat on the Board of Directors of BAS with him, and that the Board met four times a year. The only interaction that [redacted] had with the appointee was through discussions at board meetings.

After reviewing the appointee's personnel folder, [redacted] stated that the appointee was paid one fee for serving as a consultant and a non-executive director. A non-executive director is an individual who does not work within the company, but serves on the company's Board of Directors. The appointee was paid $100,000.00 per year, starting from May, 1986 to May, 1988. From the period of June, 1988 to June, 1989 BAS raised the appointee's consulting fee to $130,000.00, but the appointee resigned from his position with BAS in December, 1988 and was paid for only that portion of that year ($75,833.33)

[redacted] stated that as a consultant, the appointee provided advice on government issues, the commercial market, defense requirements and other general advice. On government issues, the appointee gave opinions on the election and how it would effect the trade agreement and defense budget. The appointee also provided an interpretation of the Trade Bill, so that it was easy for BAS to understand. [redacted] stated that the appointee was extremely useful in this area. He could not comment as to what percentage of the appointee's time was spent as a consultant because the appointee worked at the company's L Street N.W., Washington's office, not at the Herdon office.

In the commercial market, the appointee provided advise as to the best way of approaching potential buyers of aircraft or business jets in the corporate sector. [redacted] advised that the appointee also found requirements for their commercial aircraft in the government sector.

[redacted] stated that the appointee advised BAS on two defense related projects. One of the projects was the SeaFin program, which took place in 1987-1988. [redacted] could not recall what the appointee's involvement was, but noted that he did have some type of advise or input. The other project was the U.S. Air Force (USAF) Tanker Transport Training System (TTTS). [redacted] advised that the appointee provided BAS with his professional opinion as to what project the USAF would fund first. As it turned out, the USAF did decide to fund the TTTS project, and that the bidding process has just begun.

[redacted] advised that as part of the appointee's contract agreement with BAS, the appointee was to serve as a non-executive director (from May, 1986 to December, 1988), and did not receive additional payment for this position. The appointee had one vote on the Board of Directors, but [redacted] advised that every issue that was voted upon passed unanimously. The appointee was required to attend four board meetings a year, and commented that the appointee attended most of the meetings, but could not recall if he missed any. [redacted] advised that the main purpose of the appointee sitting on the Board of Directors was to provided a fresh, outside opinion. [redacted] stated that the appointee never acted in any way as a lobbyist or foreign agent on BAS' behalf.

[redacted] provided a copy of TOWER'S contract with BAS. A summary of the contract is as follows: The appointee shall assist in the development of the company's business commercial relations in America and cementing more effective commercial relationships with each of the armed services; to act at all times in the best interest of the company and it's U.S. affiliates in a manner consistent with protecting their business relations. As part of the contract agreement, the appointee was to serve as a non-executive Director, effective 6/1/86, and to serve as a consultant, effective 5/31/86. The contract for these appointments (director and consultant) was valid from the dates previously metioned through 1987, unless extended on mutual agreement. The contract stipulated that the appointee was to be paid an annual fee of $100,000.00, and to be provided an office at the company's L Street N.W., Washington, D.C., office and provided necessary clerical services as required. The appointee was to be reimbursed for company related travel and business expenses. The contract stated that the scope of the appointee's employment should not require the appointee to register as a foreign agent, but if it is required the appointee is obligated to do so.

[redacted] did not know exactly how much work the terms of TOWER'S contract would entailed, but stated that [redacted] who was a BAS employee at the company's L Street office, had worked with the appointee directly on government issues. He advised that [redacted] is now back in England working for the company.

On February 13, 1989, an anonymous female telephoned the Washington Metropolitan Field Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) indicating that she had derogatory information regarding Senator JOHN TOWER. The call was transferred to Special Agent (SA) [redacted] who identified himself to the caller and obtained the following information:

The appointee was in New York City, New York, five or six years ago to receive an award from the Iro[illegible]te Chapter of the United States Air Force Association (USAFA). The caller personally saw Senator JOHN TOWER intoxicated a[illegible] kissing a woman the caller knew only as [redacted] but she did say that [redacted] worked somewhere at [redacted] now. The incident took place in a suite of an unknown hotel in New York City. The hotel suite was rented by Hughes Aircraft Company. The caller knew the appointee was married at the time of this incident and the caller was shocked at "the arrogance" of the appointee and his complete lack of discretion for his public display of affection towards [redacted] The appointee also took [redacted] to Geneva, Switzerland with him on an extended trip during his tenure on the Armed Services Committee but she could not remember the date of this trip. The caller would not provide the names of anyone that could confirm or add to the information provided regarding her observations of TOWER in New York City or TOWER's trip to Geneva.

Additionally, the caller related that a Legislative Bill had been passed after which [redacted] then a member of the appointee's staff on the Senate Armed Services Committee, changed the wording on the Bill so that it specifically benefitted an Israeli mortar company located in Pennsylvania. The caller was outraged that someone would deliberately change a Bill that had become law. She was confident that [redacted] would not have done this without being told to do so by the appointee. When asked for additional information relating to this, the caller said that she could not talk anymore but that she would call back on February 14, 1989, to provide more information.

[redacted] FD 302 of Interview with [redacted] United Technologies Corporation.

On February 15, 1989 SA [redacted] contacted [redacted] to obtain prosecutive opinion with regard to statements made by [redacted] UTC, pertaining to his contact with former Senator John G. Tower.

[redacted] advised that the language used by then Secretary of the Navy John Lehman in soliciting contributions from Carlson (for Tower) is representative of a Hobbs Act (extortion) violation, had it not occurred outside the statute of limitations (1983). [redacted] further stated that he saw no criminal violation, nor evidence of knowledge on Tower's part with regard to the contributions, that warranted further investigation or prosecution, as detailed in the [redacted] FD-302. [redacted] additionally stated that the only logical lead generated from the interview of [redacted] would be to verify the dates of the Honorarium given to TOWER, determine if he was Senator at the time, and if it was accurately reported on his financial disclosure form for that year.

JAMES M. HAMILTON, born August 4, 1922, 12800 Northeast 31st Street, Vancouver, Washington 98662, home telephone (206) 254-6417, was contacted at his place of business. HAMILTON is owner of GREENLEAF HELICOPTERS, Pierson Air Park, 101 East Reserve, Vancouver, Washington 98661, telephone number (206) 694-2483. After being apprised of the identity of the interviewing agent and the purpose of the interview, he thereafter provided the following information:

HAMILTON voluntarily initiated contact with the Portland Division of the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI) wishing to provide information with regard to Senator JOHN TOWER in his consideration for Secretary of Defense. This was after watching President BUSH on television the night before in a broadcast through which President BUSH requested citizens to call in with information regarding Senator TOWER.

HAMILTON stated that back in the mid-1960s to 1970 or 1971, he was employed by SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OF TEXAS, INC. located in Mineral Wells, Texas. The president of SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OF TEXAS was R. L. THOMAS. At the time, HAMILTON recalls that the senator from Texas was JOHN TOWER and he was possibly a member or even Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

HAMILTON explained that the operation of SOUTHERN AIRWAYS was conducted at Fort Wolters, Texas. The main function of SOUTHERN AIRWAYS was to do all initial training on all entry level military helicopter pilots. SOUTHERN AIRWAYS was contracted for this service by the U.S. Government, Department of Justice, during the Vietnam War. Once the pilots completed their initial training at Fort Wolters, they went to advanced training at Fort Rucker, Alabama. Near the end of the Vietnam War, the employees of SOUTHERN AIRWAYS realized their operation would be phased out in that it was obsolete and there would be no need for a primary flight training area. This was due to the fact that this function could be accomplished at Fort Rucker, Alabama. Therefore, the pilots of SOUTHERN AIRWAYS knew their operation would be closed. It was at this time that HAMILTON left SOUTHERN AIRWAYS.

Prior to HAMILTON's departure from SOUTHERN AIRWAYS, one of the pay checks he received was $150 less than it should have been. HAMILTON explained that at that time, he was paid bi-weekly at the rate of $1,100 to $1,300 per month. HAMILTON realized that his pay check was $150 short and went to the Flight Commander to complain. HAMILTON recalls the Flight Commanders were ED "SONNY" BLONDELL and JAMES J. GREENHALGH. BLONDELL was HAMILTON's immediate supervisor.

HAMILTON was informed that the $150 was taken as a campaign contribution. HAMILTON vaguely recalls a memorandum explaining that the $150 was taken as a campaign contribution for Senator JOHN TOWER. In return, TOWER would do what he could, in his position as Senator and possibly member or Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, to keep Fort Wolters and SOUTHERN AIRWAYS' operation in existence. After reconsideration, HAMILTON was unsure as to whether this information came through a written memorandum or verbal explanation from a supervisor. HAMILTON does recall, however, that prior the funds being deducted from his pay, he did not authorize same. HAMILTON indicated he was very upset, raised the issue, and in fact was reimbursed the $150. HAMILTON was sure that the same amount was deducted from the other 500 or so employees' pay and does not know what they were told, or whether they were reimbursed.

HAMILTON stated he never personally saw Senator JOHN TOWER at Fort Wolters' operation, but indicated it was possible that TOWER had been there. At that time, TOWER lived in Wichita Falls, Texas, which is located approximately 70 to 80 miles north of Mineral Wells, Texas.

HAMILTON provided two photographs of employees of SOUTHERN AIRWAYS. He indicated that most of these men are licensed pilots and that FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION (FAA) Operational Headquarters in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, may be able to provide information as to their whereabouts. HAMILTON believes these individuals, if located, may be able to provide information as to the $150 pay deduction since they, too, probably received the same. In particular, a [redacted] who was Assistant Flight Commander to [redacted] may be helpful. A photocopy of these two photographs is attached here and incorporated by reference.

Dear [redacted]

This is to request that your office provide the names and addresses of any individuals who have furnished the White House or the Office of Counsel to the President with any pertinent derogatory information regarding the nomination of Senator John Goodwin Tower as Secretary of Defense.

The provision of this information to the FBI will greatly assist the FBI in its efforts to ensure that Senator Tower is afforded a thorough and complete background investigation. In addition, it will reduce the chance of any further "surprise" testimony giving rise to the impression that an incomplete investigation into Mr. Tower's background was conducted by the FBI or that the Office of Counsel to the President was being less than objective in its handling of the Tower nomination.

Thank you for your anticipated cooperation.

On February 14, 1989, an anonymous caller contacted the writer and advised that apparently within the past two years, or at least after JOHN [redacted] began a United States Senator, TOWER was scheduled to make a speech at a GOP function or fundraiser in Longview, Texas. Immediately prior to TOWER's scheduled appearance in Longview, TOWER contacted one of the individuals in charge of the event and stated "Make sure you have the women ready when I get there." The caller could not provide any names of the GOP officials who were involved with the event nor provide a better time frame for the event. Many individuals in the Longview area apparently found out about the comment and some found it to be amusing and others were upset about it.

Caller advised this information was not firsthand information and he does not know if in fact any women were made available for TOWER.

THIS PRODUCER TOLD THE CALLER THAT HE HAD GIVEN A $15,000 CHECK TO APPOINTEE FOR HIS UNSPECIFIED AID, AND IT WAS THIS SAME PRODUCER WHO TOLD THE CALLER ABOUT THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS BEING MADE BY APPOINTEE.

THE CALLER DOES NOT KNOW THE NAME OF THIS PRODUCER BUT DESCRIBED HIM AS A WHITE MALE, AGE [redacted] TALL, 6'1", 180-190 POUNDS, WITH [redacted] HAIR [redacted] THIS PRODUCER'S OFFICE WAS DESCRIBED AS BEING ON THE [redacted] [redacted] IN [redacted] PAST THE [redacted] ON THE RIGHT HAND SIDE. RE OKLAHOMA CITY TELETYPE TO THE BUREAU DATED FEBRUARY 10, 1989; BALTIMORE TELETYPE TO THE BUREAU IN DALLAS DATED FEBRUARY 13, 1989, TELCALL DATED FEBRUARY 13, 1989 OF SA [redacted] FORT WORTH RA, DALLAS DIVISION, TO SUPERVISOR [redacted] SPIN UNIT, FBIHQ.

DESTROYED

FOR INFORMATION TAMPA, REFERENCED TELETYPE ADVISED JAMES M.

HAMILTON, DBA GREEN LEAF HELICOPTERS, VANCOUVER, WASHINGTON, VOLUNTARILY INITIATED CONTACT WITH THE FBI WISHING TO PROVIDE INFORMATION REGARDING SENATOR JOHN TOWER IN CONNECTION WITH HIS CONSIDERATION FOR SECRETARY OF DEFENSE IN RESPONSE TO PRESIDENT BUSH'S TELEVISION BROADCAST, IN WHICH PRESIDENT BUSH ASKS CITIZENS TO CALL IN INFORMATION REGARDING TOWER.

ON FEBRUARY 9, 1989, HAMILTON STATED THAT IN THE MID-1960'S TO 1970 - 1971 HE WAS EMPLOYED BY SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OF TEXAS INC. (SOUTHERN AIRWAYS), MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS. R. L. THOMAS WAS PRESIDENT OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS. HAMILTON RECALLS TOWER AS BEING THE SENATOR FROM TEXAS AT THAT TIME AND POSSIBLY A MEMBER OR EVEN CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE. HAMILTON EXPLAINED THE OPERATION OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS, AS CONDUCTED AT FORT WOLTERS, TEXAS, WITH THE MAIN FUNCTION OF THE COMPANY BEING INITIAL TRAINING OF ALL ENTRY LEVEL MILITARY HELICOPTER PILOTS. SOUTHERN AIRWAYS WAS CONTRACTED FOR THIS SERVICE BY THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE DURING THE VIETNAM WAR. WHEN THE PILOTS COMPLETED THEIR INITIAL TRAINING AT FORT WOLTERS THEY WERE SENT TO ADVANCE TRAINING AT FORT RUCKER, ALABAMA. DURING THE END OF THE VIETNAM WAR THE EMPLOYEES OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS REALIZED THE

OPERATION WOULD BE PHASED OUT AS OBSOLETE. THERE WOULD NO LONGER BE A NEED FOR A PRIMARY FLIGHT TRAINING AREA BECAUSE THIS FUNCTION COULD BE ACCOMPLISHED AT FORT RUCKER. HAMILTON LEFT EMPLOYMENT WITH SOUTHERN AIRWAYS AT THAT TIME. PRIOR TO LEAVING SOUTHERN AIRWAYS, HAMILTON ADVISED HE RECEIVED A PAY CHECK THAT WAS $150 LESS THAN IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN. WHEN HE REALIZED THE CHECK WAS SHORT $150 HE WENT TO THE FLIGHT COMMANDER TO COMPLAIN. HAMILTON RECALLED THE FLIGHT COMMANDERS AS ED "SONNY" BLONDELL

[redacted]

[redacted] HAMILTON WAS INFORMED THE $150 WAS TAKEN AS A CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION. HAMILTON VAGUELY RECALLED A MEMORANDUM EXPLAINING THE $150 WAS A CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION FOR SENATOR TOWER. IN RETURN, TOWER WOULD ATTEMPT, IN HIS POSITION AS SENATOR AND POSSIBLY HIS CONNECTION WITH THE SENATE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE, TO KEEP THE FORT WOLTERS AND SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OPERATION IN EXISTENCE. HAMILTON SUBSEQUENTLY ADVISED HE WAS UNSURE IF THIS INFORMATION WAS A WRITTEN MEMORANDUM OR A VERBAL EXPLANATION FROM A SUPERVISOR. HAMILTON DOES RECALL THAT HE DID NOT AUTHORIZE THIS DEDUCTION PRIOR TO THE FUNDS BEING DEDUCTED FROM HIS CHECK. HAMILTON INDICATED, AFTER RAISING THE ISSUE, HE WAS REIMBURSED THE $150. HAMILTON STATED HE WAS SURE THAT THE SAME AMOUNT WAS ALSO DEDUCTED FROM THE PAY CHECKS OF OTHER SOUTHERN AIRWAYS EMPLOYEES, AND HE DOES NOT KNOW IF THEY WERE TOLD OF THE REASON OR WHETHER THEY WERE REIMBURSED.

HAMILTON STATED HE NEVER PERSONALLY SAW SENATOR TOWER AT THE FORT WOLTERS OPERATION, BUT INDICATED IT WAS POSSIBLE THAT TOWER HAD BEEN THERE. AT THAT TIME, TOWER LIVED IN WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS WHICH WAS ONLY 70-80 MILES NORTH OF MINERAL WELLS.

ON FEBRUARY 13, 1989, JAMES JOSEPH GREENHALGH, WHITE MALE, DOB OCTOBER 20, 1922, RESIDENCE ROUTE 3, BOX 198, MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS, HOME TELEPHONE 817/325-4545 WAS INTERVIEWED AS REQUESTED IN REFERENCED TELETYPE. GREENHALGH WAS EMPLOYED BY SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OF TEXAS INC. (SOUTHERN AIRWAYS) AT FORT WOLTERS, MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS, FROM 1956 TO NOVEMBER OR DECEMBER OF 1973 (SPECIFIC DATES UNRECALLED). HE WAS A STANDARDIZATION SUPERVISOR FOR ONE YEAR AND FLIGHT COMMANDER AND INSTRUCTOR FOR SOUTHERN AIRWAYS FOR 16 1/2 YEARS. GREENHALGH TAUGHT THE LAST CLASS OF HELICOPTER PILOTS AND LEFT EMPLOYMENT WHEN THE COMPANY AND BASE CLOSED IN NOVEMBER OR DECEMBER OF 1973.

BEFORE THE BASE CLOSED, HE WAS APPROACHED BY [redacted] DIRECTOR OF [redacted] FOR SOUTHERN AIRWAYS, AND ASKED TO CONTRIBUTE $200 TO SENATOR JOHN TOWER'S CAMPAIGN FUND. HE STATED HE RECALLS SENATOR TOWER WAS UP FOR RE-ELECTION, AND [redacted] A REPUBLICAN AND FRIEND OF TOWER'S, WAS ASKING ALL OF THE APPROXIMATE 150 FLIGHT PERSONNEL AND EMPLOYEES OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS TO GIVE $200 EACH. GREENHALGH WAS TOLD BY [redacted] THAT ARRANGEMENTS HAD BEEN MADE WITH A MINERAL WELLS BANK TO LOAN SOUTHERN AIRWAYS EMPLOYEES THE $200 IF THEY NEEDED TO BORROW THE MONEY, AND EACH EMPLOYEE WOULD HAVE TO WORK OUT PAY BACK ARRANGEMENTS WITH THE BANK. HE STATED HE THOUGHT THE BANK OFFERING THE LOAN WAS FIRST NATIONAL BANK IN MINERAL WELLS.

GREENHALGH TOLD [redacted] HE WOULD NOT CONTRIBUTE THE $200 AND [redacted] DID NOT SAY ANYTHING TO HIM FOR NOT CONTRIBUTING, AND NO REPERCUSSION OCCURRED. GREENHALGH STATED HIS ASSISTANT FLIGHT COMMANDER [redacted] ALSO REFUSED TO CONTRIBUTE $200 TO THE SENATOR JOHN TOWER CAMPAIGN FUND AND HE WAS NOT CRITICIZED FOR REFUSING TO CONTRIBUTE.

GREENHALGH STATED SEVERAL EMPLOYEES OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS DID BORROW THE $200 AND FURNISHED THE TOWER CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION TO

[redacted] HE STATED MANY PEOPLE FROM THE MINERAL WELLS AREA WERE CONTRIBUTING TO SENATOR TOWER'S CAMPAIGN HOPING THAT, IF HE WERE RE-ELECTED, IT MIGHT HELP IN KEEPING FORT WOLTERS OPEN. GREENHALGH STATED SENATOR TOWER CAME TO MINERAL WELLS, HAD A LUNCHEON, AND THANKED ALL PERSONS INCLUDING SOUTHERN AIRWAYS EMPLOYEES WHO CONTRIBUTED TO HIS CAMPAIGN.

GREENHALGH STATED THAT RAYMOND L. THOMAS WAS PRESIDENT OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS AND RETIRED A FEW MONTHS BEFORE THE COMPANY CLOSED. HE STATED [redacted] ASSUMED THE PRESIDENT'S RESPONSIBILITIES, AS HE WAS PREVIOUS DIRECTOR OF [redacted] [redacted] FOR SOUTHERN AIRWAYS.

HE STATED RAYMOND L. THOMAS AND [redacted] RESIDE IN FLORIDA, BUT THEIR ADDRESSES ARE UNKNOWN TO HIM. GREENHALGH ADVISED [redacted] RESIDES AT [redacted] MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS.

HE STATED AT THE TIME THE SENATOR TOWER CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION REQUEST WAS MADE BY [redacted] SOUTHERN AIRWAY HAD APPROXIMATELY 500 EMPLOYEES. HE STATED DIRECTOR OF [redacted] [redacted] WAS [redacted] ADDRESS UNKNOWN, AND DIRECTOR OF [redacted] [redacted] WAS [redacted] WHO RESIDES AT AN UNKNOWN LOCATION IN BT

MEMORANDUM FOR THE FILE

FROM: [redacted]

SUBJECT: Tower Nomination - Attempt to locate [redacted] physician

Offices of the following physicians were contacted in an attempt to identify a [redacted] of Houston, TX, who practices at [redacted]

[redacted] practices at Doctor's Hospital in Conroe, TX, not Houston. Not available for interview according to secretary.

[redacted] formerly practiced at Doctor's in Houston, but transferred his practice to San Diego approximately two years ago. Podiatrist.

In addition to the above inquiries, the following information was developed regarding the source of the allegation, [redacted] of California:

Telephone [redacted] is registered to [redacted] Hercules, Contra Costa County, CA.

[redacted] is not registered with the San Francisco Medical Society (registration is voluntary).

The California State Licensing Bureau (916/920-6343) will have background information available on the source as a licensed practioner.

On this day, the source of the allegation, [redacted] from California, returned a call from the Committee. He volunteered additional information that could help to locate the Houston physician and the Russian emigre.

Watson said that on the evening in question, Senator Tower behaved in a very demanding and demeaning fashion toward him after the other guests had departed. Senator Tower allegedly demanded that [redacted] continue to play the piano despite [redacted] stated intention of leaving. [redacted] declared that Sen. Tower had been drinking heavily the entire evening, which likely very likely contributed to his exagerrated behavior.

In discussing the River Oaks home in which the party occurred, [redacted] recalled that it was situated on a very wide boulevard and had a distinctive East Coast architectural style, which he compared to a "Cape Cod" construction. He further described the house as two-story, spacious, in a deep setting from the street. He also noted that the Wurlitzer piano was located in a music room/salon which adjoined the first floor entry area.

[redacted] described Tower's relationship to the emigre as one comparable to a wealthy European supporting and maintaining a younger mistress. He said that the emigre appeared willing to do whatever Tower requested, [redacted] as an example. He described the Russian emigre as: late 30's or early 40's, brunette, 5'-6", excellent physical condition, very articulate, distinct Russian accent, and appeared well connected to Houston social circles.

In regard to the doctors who attended the party, [redacted] recalled that one of them possibly used the same name as him, [redacted] He believed that this [redacted] was a Houston gynecologist who was also the President of Doctor's National Bank, near the Doctor's Center on S. Main St., Houston.

A telephone to the Doctor's Center and International Bank, 713/790-1411, disclosed that the President is [redacted] The receptionist, who claimed to have been employed there for five years, said that there was no [redacted] affiliated with the bank.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

SNM

February 1, 1989

The Honorable Sam Nunn
Chairman
Committee on Armed Services
United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510-6050

JOHN GOLDWIN TOWER

Dear Mr. Chairman:

This will respond to your January 30, 1989 letter inquiring whether any letters containing specific allegations of impropriety concerning Senator Tower were received by the Transition Office or the White House from November 8, 1988 through January 31, 1989; and, if so, whether such letters were provided to the FBI and investigated and addressed in the FBI Report made available to you.

To the best of my knowledge, no letters containing specific allegations of impropriety concerning Senator Tower were received by either the Transition Office or the White House during the period in question.

During the transition, letters received by the Transition Office relating to possible Presidential appointments were forwarded to the Transition Office of Presidential Personnel for appropriate action. Similarly, letters received in the White House from November 8, 1988 through January 13, 1989 for President-elect Bush on potential nominations were forwarded to the Transition Office of Presidential Personnel. My office has reviewed all letters received by Transition Personnel concerning Senator Tower, and none contain specific allegations of impropriety. Further, my office has reviewed all correspondence received by President-elect Bush's office between January 13 - 20, 1989 and none contained such allegations. WASHINGTON, DC 20510-6050

[redacted]

The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear [redacted]

The Committee has been reviewing allegations that files concerning [redacted] in Geneva during the same period as Senator Tower's service, contain information reflecting adversely on Senator Tower's suitability for the position of Secretary of Defense. On Friday, January 20, 1989, we advised your office that we had been informed that a file on [redacted] other than the Air Force OSI file, might exist in the Office of Personnel Management, in the Department of State, or at ACDA, and we requested that you have the FBI determine whether any such file existed at those agencies. We were advised by your office the next week that no such file existed.

There was a report in the Philadelphia Inquirer on [redacted] purporting to quote extensively from a file concerning [redacted] Much of the material quoted therein was apparently from documents that have not been provided to this Committee. When we brought this matter to the attention of your office this morning, we were advised that a further inquiry would be made, and we were subsequently informed that such material does exist in the files of the Office of Personnel Management. We have further been informed that the material was made available to the FBI today.

The Committee requests that all OPM files on [redacted] be made available promptly to the Committee.

I am concerned that this file was not provided to the FBI during its initial inquiry to OPM as part of the background investigation, and I find it unusual that OPM failed to provide the specific file in connection with our January 20 request -- yet the file was apparently easily located after our inquiry today. I believe it is important for the FBI to determine who at OPM was respnsible for the initial failure to provide the file in January and whether there was an tampering with the file.

In view of this situation, it is also imperative that the FBI determine whether there are any files on [redacted] at any other agency that have not previously been examined, and to advise us whether these files contain any information on Senator Tower.

Sincerely,

Sam Nunn
Chairman

Earlier Allegations About Paisley Told

Fellow Boeing Workers Accused Him in 1978 of Bribing Military Officials

By BOB DROGIN and GLENN F. BUNTING, Times Staff Writers

SEATTLE—Melvyn R. Paisley, a former assistant Navy secretary who is a central figure in the sweeping Pentagon fraud scandal, was accused a decade ago by his own fellow executives of bribing military officials and bugging the offices of competitors when he worked for the Boeing Co., according to retired Boeing officials and documents obtained by The Times.

Two executives became so alarmed that in 1978, shortly after leaving the company, they went to Boeing management [illegible] concern about Paisley's conduct, officials said in lengthy interviews. At the special management briefing they also complained that Paisley charged fees for prostitutes to his expense account, according to an agenda of the session made available to The Times.

"Usually every major company has one guy who does the dirty business," former Boeing executive James Durst said in an interview at his home. "He was the guy."

Ex-Fighter Pilot

The disclosures about Paisley are the latest in an emerging picture of a high-flying ex-fighter pilot with a penchant for testing the boundaries of the rules. His reputation for driving hard and living fast contributed to a career marked by allegations of questionable conduct.

The revelations also raise questions about how Paisley was able to be confirmed to one of the most powerful positions in the Defense Department, particularly after the FBI was told during a 1981 background check that he had taken gratuities including cash and a sewing machine.

During his employment at Boeing, where Paisley spent most of his defense industry career, he is believed to have built a network of individuals whom he used to further his personal business. It was these associations, not necessarily linked to the company itself, that Paisley later allegedly relied on to improperly obtain information in schemes outlined by government sources familiar with the current investigation.

Associated Press

Melvyn R. Paisley

Deputy Now Suspected

One association was with James B. Gaines, whom Paisley hired at Boeing and who later joined him at the Pentagon as his deputy. After Paisley left the Defense Department, Gaines stayed with the Navy and is now suspected of being a major supplier of classified and proprietary material to Paisley, according to sources and documents. [illegible]

Another former Boeing official, who also worked at the Pentagon during Paisley's tenure said, "Boeing didn't pay bribes, but Paisley did.

"He's dishonest. Everything he did, there was something devious about it," said this official, who spoke on the condition that he not be identified. He added that he believed Paisley acted on his own in his questionable practices.

Paisley's wife, Vicki A. Paisley, [illegible] said her husband "would have no comment" and referred inquiries to the couple's lawyer, Lawrence E. Barcella, who was not available.

One longtime Seattle friend of Paisley who requested anonymity characterized him as a dashing and adventuresome personality, saying [illegible] n't anything Mel hasn't done." But, the friend added, "he's a real survivor. I'm sure he'll survive this—in his own way."

In his 27 years at Boeing, which included a high-level position as a manager of international marketing, Paisley openly bragged about his exploits, former company officials said.

Paisley was known as a "hard-drinking, two-fisted man's man" who would stop at nothing to get his way, Durst said. "He loved to talk, he loved to brag. Mel had certain priorities: women, money and business—particularly women," he said.

"In a drab company, he was a colorful figure."

Durst also said that Paisley told colleagues about bugging a competitor for a military contract in 1970, about bribing U.S. military officers overseas and about hiding payoffs and wild parties with prostitutes on his military contract expense reports.

Doubted He'd Last

Indeed, when Paisley went to Washington to work for Navy Secretary John F. Lehman Jr., former [illegible] made a bet on how long [illegible] would last.

"People used to [illegible] won't last six months," Durst said. "As soon as they do a security check, he'll be out. I guess they never did. We never thought he'd last."

In Spokane, Mildred R. McGetrick, one of Paisley's three ex-wives, said she told the FBI that Paisley was "dishonest with money." She said she also told federal agents that Paisley took gratuities including cash and gifts.

Her sister, Mickey Pierson, said she sent a letter to then-Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, which was considering Paisley's appointment in November, 1981, saying that "Mr. Paisley has been known to take bribes" that included a Singer sewing machine from a company doing business with Boeing.

Nobody listened. To this day it puzzles me how Paisley won confirmation for such a sensitive job, McGetrick said.

Sue Schnitzer, an FBI spokeswoman, said the bureau's background report was turned over to the White House "without comment or recommendation" on Sept. 29, 1981. She would not discuss details of the report. Attempts to reach Tower were not successful.

Paisley, who joined Boeing in 1954, developed a keen interest in Washington after the 1980 elections when it became apparent that Lehman would be the new Reagan Administration's choice to head the Navy Department. Earlier, Paisley had hired Lehman to work as a consultant for Boeing and the two had become good friends. In 1981, Lehman asked Paisley to be one of his top assistants. He ultimately assumed considerable control over Navy procurement.

As assistant secretary in charge [illegible] Weapons, Paisley [illegible] such ultra-secretive technologies as submarine listening and quieting devices, stealth aircraft and missiles, satellite reconnaissance projects and electronic jammers. Not only did the job require Senate confirmation, but Paisley would have to pass a detailed FBI background check for security clearances.

Durst, who has not seen Paisley since he left the company in 1977, spent five years trying to get Boeing to fire Paisley, and then trying to warn the Defense Department, President Reagan's aides and the FBI that Paisley was a security risk.

"He told executives that he had bribed MAGs," Durst said, a reference to U.S. military advisory groups abroad. He said Paisley used a New York-based shipping company to "launder the cash." Paisley was never charged.

Another former Boeing executive said he too tried to undermine Paisley's move into the Navy Department.

"We tried to tell people—we went to people in the Pentagon to tell them that Paisley was no good," said the retired executive, adding that he did not know Durst very well and had pursued his efforts against Paisley independently.

He said he and his closest colleagues believed they had to try to prevent Paisley from getting the Pentagon appointment "for the good of our government."

Australian Complaint

At one point, Durst said, a prominent Boeing consultant in Australia, Sir Edwin Hicks, complained that Paisley was so blatant in his offers of payoffs there that Paisley was made persona non grata in Australia.

"He was red-faced," Durst recalled about [illegible] furious Hicks, who, he said, [illegible] two years ago. "He said Paisley had tried to buy people, pay under the table."

In May, 1978, Durst and a colleague decided that corruption was so rampant at Boeing that they asked for a meeting with Benjamin T. Plymale, then vice president at Boeing Aerospace and Paisley's direct boss.

Over lunch at the Hyatt House at the Sea-Tac Airport, Durst used a 16-page typewritten "white paper" he had prepared to make the case for a thorough house-cleaning. Durst said he and his colleague had already left Boeing and were hoping to win a consulting contract.

Page by page, the memo listed poor management, incompetent management, poor professionalism and other management problems. But the list on Page 7 was explosive—it was titled "Deeply embedded corruption."

Durst's original dog-eared copy of the memo shows that Paisley's name, as well as those of several other Boeing employees, was penciled in beside allegations of "prostitution on expense account" and "using expense accounts to cover illegal activities."

Paisley's name also is penciled in beside the heading "industrial espionage," specifically, "wire-tapping and snooping illegally on competitor's facilities."

"I went through all this," Durst said Saturday, showing the memo to a reporter. "The bugging, the bribery, the hookers. And Ben looked at me and said: 'Every goddamn word of it is true.' And he said he'd get back to us. He never did. That's when we found out that he and Paisley were best friends."

Reported to FBI

Durst said he repeatedly requested a meeting with Boeing Co. President Mel Stamper, but was refused. He said he reported the information to the FBI.

Boeing [illegible] reached Saturday. A [illegible] operator said the firm's [illegible] would not accept calls "on matters of this nature" on the weekend.

Plymale, a former deputy assistant secretary of defense for strategic and space systems, and five other Boeing employees lost their top-secret security clearance when the Defense Department found they had mishandled classified information on the proposed MX strategic missile in March, 1979.

Investigators said an aide in Washington, D.C., had transmitted a summary of a top-secret memo intended for President Jimmy Carter to Plymale's office in Seattle over open telephone lines. Pentagon officials said Soviet agents routinely monitor telephone lines to and from U.S. defense contractors.

Plymale and another Boeing vice president also were investigated for destroying evidence. No formal charges were brought, however, and Plymale later served on Ronald Reagan's 1981 transition team along with Lehman.

In August, 1981, Plymale died, reportedly of a heart attack [illegible] a [illegible]

Durst, now 54, said he and Paisley worked in close proximity for six years, sharing the same secretary, after Durst moved to Boeing's Kent, Wash., headquarters in 1971. Paisley was then director of planning for Boeing Aerospace. Durst was assistant to the vice president of requirements and marketing.

Early Assignment

One of Durst's first assignments, he said, was to go to New Hampshire to campaign for then-presidential hopeful Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson and later put the costs of the trip on his expense account. Jackson, a Democratic senator from Washington state, was known for his advocacy of a strong defense program.

"Two or three weeks later, Jack Anderson writes a scoop about how Boeing was paying for political support for Scoop Jackson," Durst said. "Well, I didn't know it was illegal [illegible].

"I was sullied. I had the stamp on me. So Paisley came over because he had heard of it. He was laughing. He said: 'Hey, I'll tell you a good marketing story.'"

According to Durst, Paisley told him he had found a new way to get the low bid on an Air Force contract for housekeeping at Patrick Air Force Base at Cape Canaveral in Florida.

'Mr. Squeaky Clean'

Paisley said he had sent an aide to put a bug in a Pan Am office to get their bidding figures.

"Here I am, [illegible] Durst said. [illegible] a senior man in the company bragging about bugging on a military project. He was very flippant about it.

"When he told me about bugging Pan Am, I was an accessory," Durst recalled. "I was scared to death. But he was very open about it."

Later, Durst said, he needed an aide who spoke Portuguese and Spanish to help on a trade mission to Brazil, and one was provided. "Three days later, I ran into Mel in the men's room, and he was laughing. He said: 'That's the guy who did the bugging,'" referring to the aide.

Durst said he fired the man from his department after the trip for cheating on his expense account.

"Information is the essence of the business," Durst said. "There are good ways to do it and bad ways. Mel, unfortunately, always used the bad ways."

Staff writers Dan Morain in Seattle and William C. Rempel, Robert Gillette, Melissa Healy, Doug Jehl and Jim Schachter in Washington contributed to this story.

WMFT-9, who does not wish his identity to be revealed outside of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and was advised of the fact that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is currently conducting a background investigation concerning former Senator JOHN TOWER. The source of this information will be referred to in this document as WMFT-9 or as "he". However, no inference should be drawn as to the sex of this individual because of this usage.

WMFT-9 advised that he resided for about three years in a condominium building in which the appointee also had a residence. This building, Cathedral West, was located at 4100 Cathedral Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. Among the residents of this building, the appointee had a reputation of having a drinking problem. Residents often spoke of seeing the appointee returning home in a condition indicating he had been drinking extensively. The source stated, however, that he only saw the appointee returning home in such a condition two or three times. Each of these instances occurred late at night when the appointee was dropped off at the condominium door by another individual and he was observed by WMFT-9 to be staggering. In addition, the souce saw TOWER drunk at one party during those three years. He recalled that, at that party, the appointee also had a large argument with his wife, TOWER's first wife. The source stated that he never personally observed the appointee drunk or drinking other than these above mentioned instances. However, he repeated that the appointee was regularly spoken about by his former neighbors as having a drinking problem.

WMFT-9 recalls one additional incident which further indicates that the appointee may have had a drinking problem. WMFT-9 recalls seeing an automobile which was then located at the bottom of a dell or ravine which was immediately next to the driveway used to enter the condominium property. The source explained that, as one entered the condominium property from Connecticut Avenue, it was necessary to drive past this ravine which ran parallel to Connecticut Avenue. Having passed that ravine, a car then drove under the portico of the building and made a right turn toward the parking garage. It appeared to the source that the individual driving this car had driven into the ravine after starting to drive down the driveway. When he inquired at the front desk of the condominium concerning the car, the elderly woman who ran the desk during those years (whose identity he does not recall at the present time) stated that "he did it again". She went on to explain that the car belonged to Senator TOWER who had returned home after drinking extensively and had driven the car off the driveway and into the ravine. She further indicated that this was the second time this particular accident had happened, the second time TOWER had driven off the driveway and into the ravine. The source advised, however, that he did not know of any prior instances of this occurring and certainly had not seen any. The source stated that he does not recall the description of the car in the ravine due to the length of time which has passed since then. At the time he saw this car in the ravine, he did not know its owner, only learning of TOWER's ownership of this car from the desk attendant.

WMFT-9 advised that, as a result of these accidents and the appointee's reputed drinking, several meetings were held of the condominium owner's association. The source only attended one of these meetings. He recalls questions and discussion indicating that several residents of the building wished to have TOWER removed from that condominium building. Questions were raised concerning writing letters to TOWER and other possible actions and solutions. The source advised that he does not know what action, if any, was ever taken by this association toward TOWER.

WMFT-9 recalled that this condominium building was one of the first condominiums in Washington, D.C. At the time of the above incident, the building was occupied by mostly older people. The source advised that, even then, he did not get to know his neighbors well. As a result of this fact and as a result of the time which has passed since the above incident, he is unable to recall the names or the identity of other residents, managers, or staff at this condominium. The source was unable to suggest anyone who could verify the above information.

WMFT-9 advised that he brought this information to the Federal Bureau of Investigation reluctantly. He noted that the above information pertains to a time period several years ago. He suggested that it is entirely possible that former Senator TOWER has put all of this drinking behind himself and that he no longer has a problem with abusing alcohol. The source stated that he does not wish to make any judgment concerning TOWER based on the above information, but merely wished to make it a matter of record.

[redacted] spoke from having reviewed Senator TOWER's medical record; however, volunteered to point out various elements of Senator TOWER's records, all of which were neat and typed-written. The thrust of this reviewed disclosed that Senator TOWER's medical record fails to show any indication of liver disease or high and/or low figures with respect to liver function tests according to blood test results, from 1974 onward through 1985, when Senator TOWER was no longer eligible for medical exams, testing or treatment at the U.S. Capitol.

[redacted] advised that Senator TOWER did not receive any additional or special tests or exams with respect to his liver, because there was never any indication from routine results (SMA-12) that such exams were needed.

[redacted] Waiter, The Monocle, 107 D Street, N.E., Washington, D.C., was advised of the identity of the agents and the purpose of the interview regarding the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. He provided the following information:

He has been employed at The Monocle for one year and four months. During this period, he has observed the appointee as a customer approximately six times for lunch and two or three times at night. TOWER consumes two to four drinks per visit to the restaurant, and comes in "pretty loaded" on the occasions when he arrives in the evening, after 11:00 p.m. [redacted] could not recall TOWER's drink of preference. On the two or three occasions when TOWER has come in late, it was apparent that he had been drinking somewhere else, earlier. [redacted] elaborated by describing the appointee as "visibly affected", "a little clumsy", "more brusque than usual", and a "trifle awkward". He takes a table by himself, and is joined ten to fifteen minutes later by a female companion. According to [redacted] the appointee has a good number of woman friends, some of which appear to be in their early 30's, and others maybe 38 to 40 years old. [redacted] could not be specific about the number of times TOWER has been in the restaurant in the company of females or identify any of them. He stated that when TOWER meets with them late in the evening, they "sink into deep communion", or converse in such a way that he felt reluctant to approach TOWER's table for any reason. Although the appointee and his companions have appeared to be in intimate conversation and unconscious of their surroundings, he has never observed them display any sort of physical intimacy. The last episode of this kind was two to four months ago involving TOWER and an unidentified woman approximately 36 to 38 years of age. He was joined by the woman, had a "few drinks, then a few more", engaged in intimate conversation across the table, was "a little loaded", ate, then left. [redacted] could not be specific about the number of drinks TOWER consumed. The appointee most recently came to The Monocle in late January, 1989 with "a couple of men" and five or six women, two of which appeared to be less than 30 years old.

The following information was provided by an individual, hereinafter referred to as WFT-11, who requested that [redacted] remain confidential and not be disclosed outside the Federal Bureau of Investigation. For convenience, the source [redacted] b7D

WFT-11 was contacted at a neutral site and was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents both orally and by a show of credentials. After being advised of the purpose of the interview, WFT-11 freely provided the following information:

WFT-11 served on the general staff of the U.S. delegation to the U.S./Soviet arms reduction talks in Geneva, Switzerland. He traveled with the staff to Geneva and worked with them at the State Department. During his work on the staff he had occasion to become familiar with JOHN TOWER and other members of the staff. He stated TOWER liked to work extremely long hours to avoid coming home to his wife. TOWER and his staff had parties every Friday, usually at the mission, while in Geneva. Parties were not unusual, but TOWER and his people seemed to have them twice as often as other ambassadors and staffs, and while most were held at people's homes or hotels, TOWER usually had his at the mission.. The parties consisted of drinking and poker games. WFT-11 never actually attended any of the poker games but heard from others that TOWER usually won and that the stakes were known to be high, sometimes as much as five-hundred dollars per raise.

While on the staff, WFT-11 had occasion to personally observe TOWER drink alcohol, though he never saw him get drunk or out of hand. He saw him drink wine and mixed drinks (liquor) on numerous occasions. He knew of no illegal drug use by TOWER.

WFT-11 is aware of an incident that happened at the State Department in the staff office of Ambassador TOWER sometime [redacted] b6 b7C b7D [redacted] Nothing further happened but it was felt this was extremely inappropriate behavior for a professional, let alone an ambassador. It was often wondered by the general staff why [redacted] It was commonly rumored that she was simply [redacted] WFT-11 felt many of TOWER'S staff were placed in good paying jobs not because of their abilities, but due to their loyalty to TOWER. He also stated that on at least one occasion TOWER used his staff for personal use while on government time. TOWER's basement was flooding and he ordered his staff to go over to his house and help clean it out.

It is WFT-11's opinion that TOWER does not care about sexual harassment on the job as WFT-11 knows of [redacted] b6 b7C that TOWER was aware of, but would not back [redacted]

It is also WFT-11's opinion that TOWER, as head of the Tower Commission, during the Iran Contra hearings "whitewashed" over the affair in return for the political payoff of becoming Secretary of Defense which it was widely known he coveted.

[redacted] Adelphi, Maryland, [redacted] was advised of the identity of the agent and the purpose of the interview regarding his knowledge of the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. He provided the following information:

He was employed as a waiter at The Monocle Restaurant, Washington, D.C. from 1962 to April, 1987. He worked the lunch shift for a short time at the beginning of his employment, then only at dinnertime until he retired. Senator TOWER came in for lunch regularly, sometimes accompanied by his secretary whose name he could not recall. These lunches appeared to be purely professional.

The appointee ate dinner at The Monocle every month or two, always with his wife. It was usually early in the evening, and appeared to be prior to another event, as the appointee and his wife would be dressed in formal attire. [redacted] did not believe that TOWER ever ordered an alcoholic beverage. On one occasion, Senator HUBERT HUMPHREY was seated in the dining room while TOWER was there with another group. HUMPHREY requested [redacted] to send TOWER a drink, which the appointee declined in favor of a "rain check". [redacted] never observed the appointee with another woman in any sort of a romantic setting.

[redacted] has never seen the appointee in any state of intoxication and stated that he always behaved as a gentleman. Of all the employees of The Monocle, TOWER was most closely associated with [redacted]

WHAT HE HAD TO SAY ABOUT SUBJECT, BUT RATHER IT HAS ALWAYS BEEN HIS POLICY NOT TO SUPPLY INFORMATION ABOUT [redacted] MANY OF WHOM ARE MEMBERS OF CONGRESS, AND US GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS.

[redacted]

HE ADVISED HE MET SUBJECT WHEN JOHN TOWER FIRST CAME TO THE SENATE IN 1961-62. HE ADVISED THAT TOWER IS SOPHISTICATED AND THAT HE IS A CONNOISSEUR OF FINE WINES. HE MET FORMER SENATOR TOWER IN THE MONOCLE AND HAS KNOWN HIM EVER SINCE. DURING THE FIRST TEN YEARS OF THEIR ACQUAINTANCE, HE ON THREE OCCASIONS DROVE TOWER HOME BECAUSE IN HIS OPINION, TOWER HAD HAD TOO MUCH TO DRINK. DURING THIS PERIOD OF TIME, HE EXPLAINED THAT TOWER WAS DRINKING MARTINIS. HE STATED THAT TOWER WAS NOT ABUSIVE OR DRUNKEN, NOR DID HE APPEAR TO NOT BE IN CONTROL OF HIS FACULTIES ON THOSE OCCASIONS. HE INDICATED THAT TOWER RESIDED SEVERAL MILES FROM HIM IN [redacted] AND HE TOOK TOWER TO TOWER'S RESIDENCE, WHICH WAS ON HIS WAY TO HIS OWN RESIDENCE.

b6

[redacted] DOES NOT CONSIDER TOWER TO BE AN ALCOHOLIC AND HE HAS NEVER SEEN TOWER IN THE SITUATION WHERE HE WAS OUT OF CONTROL AND NOT IN CONTROL OF HIS FACULTIES. HE INDICATED THAT WHEN THE SENATE WAS IN SESSION, TOWER WOULD DINE AT THE MONOCLE IN THE EVENINGS THREE TO FOUR TIMES PER WEEK. TOWER WOULD GENERALLY BE ACCOMPANIED BY MALE AND FEMALE MEMBERS OF HIS STAFF AND SOMETIMES BY HIS WIFE OR OTHER SENATORS. HE DID NOT KNOW TOWER TO IMBIBE DURING THE AFTERNOON OR LUNCH.

[redacted] HAS MET TOWER'S FIRST AND SECOND WIFE, AND BOTH HE AND HIS WIFE HAD SOCIALIZED WITH THE TOWERS ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS DURING THE LAST TWENTY FIVE YEARS. HE DOES NOT KNOW TOWER TO BE A PHILANDERER AND TO THE BEST OF HIS KNOWLEDGE KNOW OF NO INSTANCE WHEN TOWER DINED IN THE MONOCLE WITH OTHER THAN HIS WIFE, STAFFERS OR OTHER SENATORS. HE INDICATED THAT TOWER HAS AN "EYE" FOR ATTRACTIVE WOMEN, HOWEVER DOES NOT KNOW HIM TO BE A "SKIRT CHASER".

DURING THE LAST FIFTEEN YEARS, [redacted] INDICATED THAT TOWER HAS LIMITED HIS SOCIAL DRINKING TO CONSUMING ONLY WINE AND DURING THE LAST SEVERAL YEARS HE IS AWARE THAT TOWER HAS REDUCED HIS INTAKE OF WINE.

b7C
b7D

HE CHARACTERIZED TOWER AS A MAN WHO LIKED TO DRINK, BUT DID NOT BELIEVE THAT TOWER DRANK TO EXCESS. ON THOSE THREE OCCASIONS WHEN HE TOOK TOWER HOME, HE DID SO BASED ON WHAT HE KNEW TOWER HAD DRUNK, AND NOT ON TOWER'S PHYSICAL CONDITION. ON NO OCCASION DID HE EVER SEE TOWER IN A DRUNKEN CONDITION.

[redacted] OPINED THAT HE HAS RESERVATIONS ABOUT TOWER BEING CONSIDERED FOR THE POSITION OF SECRETARY OF DEFENSE BASED ON TOWER'S EXPERIENCE; NOT HIS DRINKING. HE BELIEVES THAT TOWER CAN PERFORM THE JOB OF SECRETARY OF DEFENSE, HOWEVER THINKS THE JOB SHOULD GO TO AN INDIVIDUAL WHO IS AN INDUSTRIALIST AND WHO HAS EXPERIENCE RUNNING A MAJOR CORPORATION AS OPPOSED TO AN INDIVIDUAL WITH TOWER'S BACKGROUND.

[redacted] SUGGESTED THAT FORMER STAFFERS OF TOWER BE INTERVIEWED REGARDING TOWER'S FITNESS TO BE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE. HE COULD RECALL NO NAMES SPECIFICALLY OF FORMER STAFFERS AND COULD SUGGEST NO OTHER PERSONS TO INTERVIEW PERTAINING TO TOWER AND HIS FITNESS TO BE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE.

On February 1 and, again on February 4, 1989, the following information was provided by a person, hereinafter referred to as WF T-1Ø [redacted] who requested that his identity remain confidential and not be disclosed outside the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). For convenience, WF T-1Ø will be occasionally referred to [redacted] b7D

WF T-1Ø was contacted regarding his knowledge of the appointee. He advised that he does not personally know Senator JOHN TOWER, who is currently subject to a Presidential appointment.

WF T-1Ø advised, however, that during the period, approximately 1976-1977, Senator TOWER was "at a focal point of a network of gossip", because of allegations of his excessive drinking habits and womanizing. WF T-1Ø advised that he did not personally know if Senator TOWER was frequently drunk or not because he had never seen him drunk. He had heard that encounters with various female, Capitol Hill employees always "ended in a 'grope-date'". WF T-1Ø declined to be specific as to what he meant by "grope-date", because, as he put it, it would be embarrassing for him to use the words, but went on to say that Senator TOWER "got sexual kicks during drinking and dining with women." According to WF T-1Ø, Senator TOWER often didn't remember what he had done, afterwards (drinking).

WF T-1Ø advised that his information, as vague as it might be, had to do with Senator TOWER during a period which is previous to his marriage to his now ex-wife.

WF T-1Ø advised that he was aware of three Capitol Hill, female employees who had said that Senator TOWER was "most troublesome", and "dangerous". By way of explanation, WF T-1Ø advised that two young, female Capitol Hill employees, whom he had met at a wine and cheese reception, told him that yet a third young woman was especially emotionally bothered by Senator TOWER's efforts to harass her, sexually. The two women at the party asked WF T-1Ø if this unidentified, third woman could call him to discuss this sexual harassment matter, because he, WF T-1Ø, was very much involved in women's rights and sexual harassment issues.

WF T-1Ø advised that he could not recall the names of these two women he had met at the party who had described their friend as a "basket-case", because he had never met them before, nor has he seen them since. WF T-1Ø has no way of helping the FBI develop the names of the two women he had met at the wine and cheese party. Neither was WF T-1Ø able to provide the identity of this woman whom he described as actually being a "basket-case".

WF T-1Ø went on to explain this third unidentified young woman did, in fact, call him on two separate occasions, wherein this third, unidentified woman generated the telephone call. Therefore, WF T-1Ø did not know the woman's name or how to contact her. After two telephonic interviews, WF T-1Ø came to the belief that the young woman was, in fact, "a basket-case". However, he advised that while information provided by this woman, was very interesting, it was not useful with respect to work he was doing in the women's rights field at that time.

WF T-1Ø advised that, insomuch as there was no real newspaper "gossip column" during that period of time, the telephone network among women was very important. According to WF T-1Ø, there was a "sister-hood" of women who had stories about Senator TOWER's modus operandi, and how they handled him (and others, for that matter.) WF T-1Ø advised that Senator TOWER was "a figure of fun" and was said to have frequently taken young women from Capitol Hill to the "cheater's paradise", which were identified by WF T-1Ø as the Rotunda and the Monocle, which were prominent, socially, during that time frame. WF T-1Ø said the Rotunda no longer exists and, the Monocle is still located at 1Ø7 D Street, N.E., Washington, D.C.

WF T-1Ø repeated that he wouldn't discuss what "the basket-case" (used here for the lack of a better, true name) said Senator TOWER did to her "under the table", meaning the lunch or restaurant table.

According to WF T-1Ø, the women in this "sister-hood" had enlisted the help of various waiters and bus-boys, because of their sensitivity to the women. They would always try to arrange to have at least one of them stay around Senator TOWER's table so as not to leave the women alone with him.

WF T-1Ø advised that "everybody in town who covered "the Hill" knew about Senator TOWER and his excessive drinking habits and womanizing."

WF T-1Ø was, however, unable to provide the specific names and specific locations and the contact points, to include telephone numbers, for persons who could further verify and confirm his information.

WF T-1Ø stated that he had no additional specific, pertinent information to provide regarding Senator TOWER.

MM T-1 advised he/she met subject when JOHN TOWER first came to the Senate in 1961-1962. He/she advised that TOWER is sophisticated and that he is a connoisseur of fine wines. MM T-1 met former Senator TOWER in THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT, Washington, D.C. and has known him ever since. During the first ten years of their acquaintance, he/she on three occasions drove TOWER home because in his/her opinion, TOWER had had too much to drink. During this period of time, he/she explained that TOWER was drinking martinis. He/she stated that TOWER was not abusive or drunken, nor did he appear to not be in control of his faculties on those occasions. He/she indicated that TOWER resided several miles from him/her in Bethesda, Maryland, and he/she took TOWER to TOWER's residence, which was on his/her way to his/her own residence.

MM T-1 does not consider TOWER to be an alcoholic and he/she has never seen TOWER in a situation where he was out of control and not in control of his faculties. He/she indicated that when the Senate was in session, TOWER would dine at THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT in the evenings three to four times a week. TOWER would generally be accompanied by male and female members of his staff, and sometimes by his wife, or other Senators. He/she did not know TOWER to imbibe during the afternoon or lunch.

MM T-1 has met TOWER's first and second wife, and both he/she and his/her wife/husband have socialized with the TOWERs on several occasions during the last 25 years. He/she does not know TOWER to be a philanderer and to the best of his/her knowledge, knows of no instance when TOWER dined in THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT with other than his wife, staffers or other Senators. He/she indicated that TOWER has an "eye" for attractive women; however, does not know him to be a "skirt chaser".

During the last 10 to 15 years, MM T-1 indicated that TOWER has limited his social drinking to consuming only wine and during the last several years, he/she is aware that TOWER has reduced his intake of wine. He/she characterized TOWER as a man who liked to drink, but did not believe that TOWER drank to excess. On those three occasions when he/she took TOWER home, he/she did so based on what he/she knew TOWER had drunk, and not on TOWER's physical condition. On no occasion did he/she ever see TOWER in a drunken condition.

He/she believes that TOWER can perform the job of Secretary of Defense; however, thinks the job should go to an individual who is an industrialist and who has experience running a major corporation as opposed to an individual with TOWER's background.

[redacted] IN FACT, HAS NO INFORMATION WHICH WOULD INDICATE THAT [redacted] EMPLOYEE [redacted] OR [redacted] PERSONALLY KNOWS, OR WAS EVER INVOLVED WITH JOHN TOWER. FURTHER, [redacted] HAS NO INFORMATION INDICATING THAT [redacted] TOOK A CRUISE WITH TOWER AT ANY TIME. [redacted] MERELY SPECULATED THAT [redacted] TOOK A CRUISE WITH TOWER SOME YEARS AGO BASED UPON THE FACT THAT BOTH WERE IN SOUTH FLORIDA AT THE SAME TIME. IT IS IMPORTANT TO NOTE THAT [redacted] HAD GREAT DIFFICULTY FOCUSING SOLELY ON THE ISSUE AT HAND. [redacted] RAMBLED AND RECOUNTED CAPSULIZED, "STORIES" THROUGH OUT THIS TELEPHONIC INTERVIEW. ALL SUCH STORIES WERE UNRELATED TO THE SUBJECT MATTER OF THIS SPIN. The following investigation conducted by Special Agents (SAs) [redacted] and [redacted]

On February 3, 1989, a four-block area immediately surrounding the RIVER OAKS COUNTRY CLUB, 1600 River Oaks Blvd., Houston, Texas 77019 was driven looking for a two-story house with an east coast "Cape Cod" architectural style, set deep from the street, and situated on a "very wide boulevard."

It should be noted that River Oaks Boulevard, which dead ends at the RIVER OAKS COUNTRY CLUB, is the only street in the immediate vicinity which could be described as "very wide." The homes on this street could best be described as mansions, with most, if not all of them of an "east coast" architectural style. The house most closely fitting the "Cape Cod" description is located at [redacted] The maid answering the door at this residence advised that the owners are native Houstonians, and that they are currently in Colorado. She was unaware of any Soviet emigres living in the immediate vicinity.

A home was located at [redacted] two blocks from the country club, which also could be considered to be of a "Cape Cod" architectural style. The maid answering the door at this home did not speak english. A business card was left asking the owner to contact the Houston office of the FBI.

On February 3, 1989, [redacted] Houston, Texas, telephonically contacted SA [redacted] She advised that she is not of Russian heritage, and does not know of any Soviet women residing in River Oaks.

It should be noted that there are numerous homes in a four block area surrounding the country club that fit the architectural description, however, all of these homes were situated close to the street.

The individual answering stated that he had received a similar phone call the day before, and that he had asked around to find out who this woman could be. He stated that no one had any idea who she was.

[redacted] Houston, Texas 77019 telephone [redacted] advised that she has been acquainted with Senator JOHN TOWER for many years. [redacted] recalled that she had attended several Republican fundraisers where TOWER was also in attendance, and thought that she had once attended a dinner party where he was also a guest. She stated, "Senator TOWER would recognize a photo of me, but we are not personal friends." [redacted] advised that she has had "thousands" of guests, and could not recall if TOWER had ever been in her home.

TOWER has always comported himself as a gentleman in [redacted] presence. She has never seen him inebriated, and has never known him to "cause a scene" or act inappropriately at any social function. She feels that the allegations that she has seen in the press have no substance, and that a "witchhunt" is being conducted. [redacted] feels that the source of the allegations is LILLA, TOWER's second wife, whom she described as "a very mean" person. [redacted] has heard rumors that TOWER is a womanizer, but stated, "aren't they all?" She could not provide any specific information in this regard. [redacted] indicated that she was aware that TOWER is now seeing [redacted] of Dallas, Texas.

[redacted] concluded by saying that she feels TOWER is a very fine man, who has dedicated his life to the service of his country. She would like to see him confirmed as the United States Secretary of Defense.

[redacted] is unaware of any Soviet emigre ballet dancers residing in River Oaks.

She stated that over the years she has attended several Republican conventions and fund-raisers at which Senator JOHN TOWER was also in attendance. Senator TOWER recognizes [redacted] at these functions, and says hello. That is the extent of their relationship. [redacted] advised that she was never close to TOWER at these functions, and has never been in a position to observe if he was drinking alcohol, or if he was intoxicated. She has likewise never been able to observe if TOWER was accompanied by a woman who was not his wife. [redacted] stated that the only comment she could make was that it has been rumored for over twenty years that TOWER had a drinking problem, and that he was a womanizer.

[redacted] stated that he was employed by the [redacted] in a [redacted] capacity until [redacted] Thereafter, he became a lobbyist for the UNITED STATES SAVINGS AND LOAN LEAGUE (U.S. LEAGUE), located in Washington, D.C.

[redacted] advised that he and co-lobbyist GLENN TROOP (now deceased) represented the U.S.LEAGUE industry interests until 1986, and as a consequence of their employment, knew many Congressmen including Senator JOHN TOWER.

He advised that he was never a friend of TOWER's and knew him on a professional basis only. He stated that he had lunch or social drinks with TOWER on several occasions, however, he cannot remember ever having dinner with the Senator or socializing with him on a one to one basis. He has never seen Senator TOWER inebriated and he does not know any women that the Senator may have been involved with. [redacted] stated he has no knowledge of Senator TOWER being so inebriated that he had to be put into bed. [redacted] does not recall TOWER having a reputation for being a "womanizer." He does not remember GLENN TROOP ever making any comments about TOWER in connection with his drinking or involvement with women.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

[redacted] advised that the U.S. LEAGUE had a membership in the now defunct QUORUM CLUB, which operated out of the CARROLL ARMS HOTEL. The QUORUM CLUB leased a dining room area in the hotel and members ate lunch there during the week. Membership consisted of many lobbyists and Congressmen who gathered to discuss politics over lunch. It was a private club supported by membership fees and dues, however, all meals were prepared by the hotel and charged to the individual members. The U.S. LEAGUE had an account with the hotel and all meals purchased at the QUORUM CLUB were billed to the U.S. LEAGUE on a monthly basis. As much as $2,000.00 a month was paid to the CARROLL ARMS HOTEL for meals and drinks consumed at the QUORUM CLUB. At no time did the U.S. LEAGUE rent a room at the hotel for TOWER's use or any other purpose. At no time during the U.S. LEAGUE's membership in the QUORUM CLUB did JOHN TOWER or any other Congressman have account signing privileges with the U.S. LEAGUE.

The QUORUM CLUB disbanded shortly after the [redacted] scandal because [redacted] was a member of the club and it received a great deal of bad publicity from his affiliation. The club members later formed the "116 CLUB" at another location.

[redacted] stated that he does not recall ever having arranged a "date" for a member Congress nor has he ever sent a woman to meet any Congressman. [redacted] advised that on many occasions, he was accompanied by female acquaintances during social commitments as a lobbyist, however, these women were never intended as inducements to favorable legislation. [redacted] has definitely never arranged a meeting between JOHN TOWER and any woman. He has never procured the services of a prostitute on behalf of TOWER or any other Congressman. [redacted] does not recall TOWER ever being in a position to assist in favorable legislation for the Savings and Loan industry and he does not categorize TOWER as even an acquaintance.

[redacted] does not recall ever requesting that an employee of the U.S. LEAGUE telephone a female with instructions to meet someone at the CARROLL ARMS HOTEL. He does not recall GLENN TROOP ever having done this either, however, TROOP could have done this without [redacted] knowledge.

In no instance, did [redacted] ever send women to JOHN TOWER's office who were interested in employment or sexual liaisons.

[redacted] was asked if he knew how to locate any of the following former employees:

[redacted] (Last Name Unknown) LNU

He stated that [redacted] is [redacted] (Phonetic), and both [redacted] and [redacted] could be located through [redacted] UNITED STATES SAVINGS AND LOAN LEAGUE, 1709 New York Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. He has never heard of [redacted] and [redacted] was GLENN TROOP's [redacted] and he does not know her whereabouts.

[redacted] Fairfax, Virginia, 22030, home telephone number [redacted] office telephone number [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and the nature of the inquiry, and thereafter furnished the following information: b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] advised he was the [redacted] a lobbying group in Washington, D.C. [redacted] advised he was very familiar with Senator JOHN TOWER. [redacted] advised that concerning TOWER's "moral character", he would make the following comments: [redacted] explained that as a background to his comments, he wanted to make it clear that in his capacity as a lobbyist he goes to hundreds of social affairs and receptions with members of House and Senate, and has observed numerous members of the House and Senate in various popular Washington, D. C., restaurants on numerous occasions. [redacted] explained that on none of these occasions did he ever actually take notes or realize that he would have to recall, with some detail, what he observed on the part of Senator TOWER or any other elected official for that matter. [redacted] recalled two incidents, in particular, concerning Senator TOWER. [redacted] recalled both were receptions, both were held in the DIRKSEN SENATE HOUSE BUILDING in one of the large caucus rooms, and both were receptions involving some type of military organizations, such as the RESERVE OFFICERS ASSOCIATION. [redacted] recalled that the first reception took place in 1973, just after Senator JOHN TOWER had been elected Chairman for the Committee for Public Policy. [redacted] recalled that at that reception, Senator TOWER was extremely inebriated and was having trouble walking, however, did not fall down. [redacted] advised he observed TOWER at this reception and spoke with him, and TOWER kept repeating himself and was making bizarre statements and his behavior was that of a very inebriated person. [redacted] advised, on this occasion, another man was helping TOWER walk and eventually helped him leave the reception. [redacted] did not know the individual and described him as a white male, probably in his forties. [redacted] said that in his estimation, the man who was helping TOWER was probably a staff member of TOWER's, because of the deference that this individual was showing TOWER.

[redacted] advised that the other occasion that sticks out in his mind was another reception that occurred in 1983, again in the SENATE OFFICE BUILDING and TOWER, at this reception, was extremely inebriated and drunk and was again having trouble walking and talking and was acting in a very bizarre manner. [redacted] advised that on this occasion a white female, approximately thirty years old, was helping TOWER walk around the reception. [redacted] cannot recall if he saw TOWER leave the reception with the woman. [redacted] stated that he did not know the woman's name, nor had he ever seen her again. It was [redacted] estimation that the woman was not a staff member of TOWER's since she seemed somewhat annoyed with TOWER's behavior and annoyed that she had to help him walk around.

[redacted] emphasized that he has been at perhaps eight to ten other receptions in the presence of TOWER, where TOWER was acting in what he would consider, normal behavior and certainly not drunk or inebriated by any means. [redacted] also advised that, on these additional occasions, he was in the presence of young, white female companions, and he was behaving like a perfect gentleman with these women. [redacted] stated he did not know the names of any of the women he observed with TOWER.

[redacted] advised that during the 1970's and the 1980's, he has been to the MONACLE RESTAURANT (MR) on Capitol Hill, dozens and dozens of times. [redacted] advised that part of his job is to meet with various members of Congress and other individuals, and the MR is a very good meeting place. [redacted] advised, on approximately fifteen occasions, during the 1970's and the 1980's, he has observed JOHN TOWER at the [redacted] advised that the last occasion he saw JOHN TOWER at the MR was in early 1987. [redacted] advised that, on each one of these occasions, TOWER appeared to be drunk and inebriated.

[redacted] also recalled that on each of the fifteen occasions he observed TOWER in the MR, TOWER was accompanied by a female companion. Each of these women were in their early twenties and very attractive and always much taller than TOWER. [redacted] did recall, on one occasion, TOWER was accompanied by an attractive female who was in her forties.

[redacted] recalled that on two specific occasions, one in the early 1970's and one in the early 1980's, that TOWER's behavior in the restaurant with the females, on these two occasions, was outrageous. [redacted] advised that on both of these occasions, TOWER was inebriated and making extremely romantic advances towards his female companions such as stroking, petting, and patting them during dinner and talking loudly and making suggestive, romantic remarks. [redacted] could not recall any specific quotes, however, they were obviously the type of quotes that a dating couple would make in a romantic situation.

[redacted] recalled that on all fifteen of these occasions, he made his conclusion that TOWER was drunk and inebriated because he observed TOWER order drink, after drink, after drink, and [redacted] advised that even though he [redacted] might have arrived after TOWER and [redacted] had dinner, he always preceded TOWER when leaving this restaurant.

[redacted] stated he was aware that during certain periods of the 1970's and 1980's, TOWER was divorced and therefore, a single man, however, [redacted] was sure that some of these instances had to encompass periods of time when TOWER was married, and since [redacted] knew both of TOWER's wives on sight; he knew these females were not TOWER's wife.

[redacted] advised he did not know the identities of any of these women, and did not know how they could be identified, except perhaps if the waiters or staff of the MR could recall these incidents and know any of the women. [redacted] advised he did not know of any gentlemen who could be categorized as "drinking buddies" of TOWER.

[redacted] advised that as far as corroboration for his observations, he could not recall any specific individuals who were with him or TOWER on any of these occasions. [redacted] advised that he attended numerous receptions and dined at MR and other restaurants many, many times. Therefore he was unable to provide the name of any specific individuals who observed the behavior that he observed.

However, [redacted] stated he could provide the names of three individuals who, while he does not recall specifically their presence at any particular event, they were in positions that may have required their presence at various functions where he [redacted] TOWER would have attended.

[redacted]
Washington, D. C.
[redacted]

[redacted] explained that [redacted] had been on TOWER's staff for approximately [redacted] and was a very honest and reliable individual.

[redacted]
Washington, D. C.

[redacted] advised [redacted] is presently employed in the [redacted] advised that [redacted] served numerous House and Senate staffs and would have possibly attended many social functions where TOWER was present.

[redacted]
Washington, D. C.
Last known telephone number [redacted]

[redacted] advised [redacted] was another individual who served on many House and Senate staffs and would have probably been in various functions where TOWER was present.

[redacted] requested that his name not be divulged as having supplied the above-mentioned names.

[redacted] when asked, stated TOWER drank cocktails, not beer, when [redacted] observed him. [redacted] thinks TOWER drank vodka from hearing him order drinks.

IN THE EARLY 1970'S PRESIDENT NIXON NAMED HILLARY SANDOVAL (MALE) TO HEAD THE SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (SBA). SANDOVAL WAS A FRIEND OF SENATOR TOWER'S. SOON AFTER SANDOVAL WAS APPOINTED, (LATE 1971 OR EARLY 1972) A CLOSE FRIEND OF TOWER'S, A [redacted] (MALE) OF EL PASO, TEXAS, APPLIED FOR AND WAS GRANTED A $350,000 LOAN BY THE SBA, WHICH WAS THE MAXIMUM AMOUNT ALLOWED AT THE TIME. SOON AFTER THAT, TOWER'S RE-ELECTION HEADQUARTERS, LOCATED AT 58TH AND LA VACA, AUSTIN, TEXAS "MYSTERIOUSLY" BURNED DOWN.

members of his delegation at his own home, and the second being a lunch at a local restaurant attended by the two and a third military officer, whose name he does not recall. He has never known the appointee to use or sell drugs of abuse.

He is unaware of any foreign contacts of the appointee which would be considered unusual in any kind of a national security sense, nor of any radical or adverse political associations on his part. He has no reason to believe the appointee would not be in a position to continue to be able to handle sensitive information effectively. He has never known the appointee to manifest any evidence of prejudice or bias.

When asked whether he was aware of any derogatory information concerning the appointee, he responded "I personally know of no activities on the Senator's part that I could recount to you." When asked as to whether he believed the appointee would have been familiar with any of these events, he responded that it was "highly unlikely" because neither [redacted] or [redacted] were members of the appointee's group, because the matter, which eventually became an EEO complaint filed at the Department of Defense, was an [redacted] organizational problem, and because [redacted] had overall responsibility for all three negotiating groups at the Geneva. for friends. TOWER stated he has never sought federal funds for any friends. He did note, however, that he has often sought federal funds for universities within the State of Texas, the state he represented as Senator. He stated that these efforts to obtain federal funds would have been made both within the legislative process and in dealings with the Executive Branch. He stated that such efforts to obtain funding for schools within one's state is a perfectly normal and appropriate function of a Senator. He stated that using influence in this way is a legitimate function and is one which continues to be used by Senators today.

TOWER was asked whether he had ever rented, owned, or used a house in the RIVER OAKS COUNTRY CLUB section of Houston, Texas. TOWER stated that he has never done so, stating that he did not believe he could afford a home in that section. When asked if he had ever kept a mistress, TOWER answered that he had never kept any mistress, nor had he ever been kept by one. He further speculated that the interviewing Agent's next question would involve a Soviet ballerina. When asked how an allegation that TOWER was keeping a Soviet ballerina as a mistress might have developed, TOWER stated that he does know one individual who might be considered a Soviet ballerina. He stated that this is a long-time friend of his, a female who is approximately [redacted] years old. Although he believes she was born in China, she is definitely of Russian heritage. This individual, [redacted] has a background in dance, in music, and in art. She is widely known in the social circles and TOWER believes that she is a close friend of [redacted] and of [redacted] himself. He has never had a sexual relationship with [redacted]

TOWER was then advised that an allegation had been made that, approximately 1987, TOWER attended a party within the RIVER OAKS COUNTRY CLUB neighborhood, a party at which he was observed to have danced on furniture and to have removed his clothes. TOWER advised that the only social function he can recall having attended during 1987 in that neighborhood was a dinner given at the RIVER OAKS COUNTRY CLUB, itself, by SOUTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY. The dinner was given in honor of [redacted] the retiring Chairman of the Board of Directors of SOUTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY. TOWER recalled that he (TOWER) spoke at this dinner. At this point in the interview, TOWER telephonically contacted [redacted]

[redacted] Georgetown, Texas. After a telephonic conference with [redacted] TOWER advised that this particular dinner honoring [redacted] was given on Tuesday, September 15, 1987. TOWER advised that [redacted] reminded TOWER that [redacted] had spent the entire evening with TOWER at the social gathering. TOWER advised that [redacted] would be more than happy to speak to Agents concerning this matter. TOWER advised that he does not recall any social gatherings held at private residences within the RIVER OAKS COUNTRY CLUB neighborhood within the time in question. TOWER stated that he has attended parties in that neighborhood, but "not in the last couple of years." TOWER stated that he has never removed his clothing in public and is quite modest about this. In fact, TOWER stated that he is very rarely seen in a short sleeved shirt. He advised that he has never danced on any type of furniture.

TOWER was asked whether he had ever utilized the services of prostitutes in Dallas, Texas. He advised that he had never done so. TOWER was asked whether he was familiar with [redacted] TOWER stated that he is not familiar with any of these people. To the best of his knowledge, he does not know them, nor has he ever met them.

TOWER was asked to advise whether or not he has drunk alcohol to excess since 1983, at either the MONOCLE RESTAURANT or the JEFFERSON HOTEL. TOWER responded in the negative, stating that he has never drunk to excess at either location since 1983. He did caution, however, that the term excess is difficult to define. TOWER advised that he has never drunk alcohol to the point where he was not in complete control of his faculties, both mental and physical. He did state, however, that he has drunk alcohol at both locations since then, but in moderate quantities. He stated that he usually drinks white wine and occasionally will have a glass of port or sherry. Once every two months he might have a martini made with gin. Each of these would have been taken in moderate quantities, but never to excess. When asked whether or not he drinks vodka, TOWER stated that the only time he would drink vodka is at a social gathering where caviar is being served. He explained that when caviar is served, it is often served with a shot of vodka. TOWER stated that at such a time, he might have one or perhaps more than one shot of vodka with caviar. TOWER stated that his drinking has decreased greatly over the years, as he has become older. In addition, TOWER noted a recent operation which he has undergone. As a result of this operation, TOWER stated that, "I doubt that I'll ever drink spirits again." He noted that he did not have a drink of any alcohol for about three weeks after his operation and usually does not ever drink unless he is eating.

TOWER was asked whether he had ever used United States Government personnel to clean up his personal residence after flooding in the basement of his home in Geneva, Switzerland. TOWER stated that he has no recollection of any flooding of his home in Geneva and certainly never ordered or requested United States Government personnel to clean such a flood. He noted that the house he resided in did have a maid and a houseman around the house and these people would generally have been asked to clean any such mess. In addition, when his second wife was in Geneva, she generally handled all matters concerning the house and may have "ordered a thing of this sort." TOWER noted that she did place great demands on the staff, which placed great demands on his marriage to Mrs. TOWER.

TOWER was advised that insurance records reveal that he reported an accident during October, 1974. The report concerning this accident indicates, "Vehicle hit wall." TOWER was asked if he recalled the circumstances surrounding this accident, who was driving, and other details. TOWER advised that he has no recollection whatsoever of this accident. He speculated that he could have backed the car into a wall. He noted that his depth perception is not good, due to glaucoma in his eyes. He does recall scraping a column with the side of his car while attempting to back out of parking space at the garage at his residence, 4100 Cathedral Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

TOWER was asked if he recalled [redacted] being involved in an accident with TOWER. TOWER responded that he does recall [redacted] who was used as [redacted] by TOWER at that time, having had an accident in TOWER's personally owned Chrysler New Yorker. TOWER advised that [redacted] was driving and TOWER was a passenger in the front seat. TOWER instructed [redacted] to make a sharp right-hand turn, which [redacted] did immediately. However, in the process of making this right-hand turn, [redacted] collided with a Volkswagen which was also proceeding to the right-hand side of the Chrysler. TOWER stated that this all occurred in the morning, and alcohol played absolutely no part in this particular accident. He does not recall the date when this accident could have taken place. TOWER was asked if he could recall any other accidents which might have taken place about 1974 or any other accidents which might have taken place in the vicinity of 4100 Cathedral Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. TOWER advised that he could not recall any other such accidents.

TOWER was advised that insurance records indicate that he had reported an accident during September, 1973, which report stated that, "Vehicle hit while parked." TOWER was asked if he recalled circumstances surrounding this accident. TOWER advised that he has no specific recollection of this accident. He does recall one instance in which his personally owned vehicle was hit while it was parked, but TOWER thought it was much later in time than 1973. In addition, he has no recollection of other details concerning this accident.

TOWER was advised that an allegation has been made that he was observed chasing [redacted] around a desk, pinching at her tight skirt. He was asked whether or not such an incident ever took place and for the surrounding circumstances. TOWER responded, "Hell no." He further stated, "That's ridiculous." TOWER advised that [redacted] has been a member of his staff for many years. He stated that she has already been interviewed by the FBI and could be interviewed again, if needed. He stated that he treats [redacted] like a daughter and advised that he has a close relationship with her, but one that is perfectly proper and appropriate. He advised that he has always treated her "like a lady," and has never behaved in a manner which might have been interpreted as chasing her around the desk or pinching at her skirt.

ENCLOSURE

[redacted] also advised that during the 1970's and 1980's, he has been to the Monocle Restaurant (MR) on Capitol Hill numerous times. On approximately 15 occasions during this time period, the most recent being in 1987, he has seen Senator Tower at the MR. On all of these occasions, Senator Tower appeared to be drunk and inebriated. He also stated that on each of these occasions, Senator Tower was with a female companion. [redacted] recalled two specific occasions, one in the early 1970's and the other in the early 1980's (specific dates unrecalled), in which Senator Tower's behavior at the MR with his female companions was outrageous. [redacted] related that on both occasions, Senator Tower was inebriated and was making extremely romantic advances towards his companion, such as stroking, petting, and patting during dinner, as well as talking loudly and making suggestive, romantic remarks. [redacted] could not remember specific language used, but stated that Senator Tower and his companion used language that a couple who was dating would use in a romantic situation. [redacted] concluded that Senator Tower was drunk because he observed him order one drink after another and that, even though he might have arrived after Senator Tower, he always preceded Senator Tower in leaving the restaurant.

[redacted] did not know the identities of any of Senator Tower's female companions, or anyone who could be categorized as his "drinking buddies." He also could not recall any individual with whom he or Senator Tower was with on any of these occasions, but stated that the staff of the MR could possibly provide additional information.

[redacted] the MR, Washington, D.C., advised that Senator Tower has been a patron since the early 1960's. [redacted] has never seen Senator Tower intoxicated, nor has he ever seen any indication that he abuses alcohol. He also has never seen any signs of womanizing by Senator Tower. On those occasions where he is in the company of women other than his wife, [redacted] advised it appeared to be in a professional context. He added that Senator Tower has never been loud or abusive in the restaurant, and has always behaved like a gentleman.

An individual, who requested confidentiality stated he/she first met Senator Tower in 1961-1962. During the first ten years of their acquaintance, he/she, [redacted]

*MMT-1 [redacted]

[redacted] the MR because in his/her opinion, Senator Tower had had too much to drink. During this period of time, Senator Tower drank martinis. He/she [redacted] based on what he/she knew Senator Tower had drunk, and not on his physical condition. Senator Tower was not abusive or drunken, nor did he appear to not be in control of his faculties. On no occasion did he/she ever see Senator Tower in a drunken condition. He/she indicated that during the last fifteen years, Senator Tower has limited his social drinking to wine and, during the last several years, he/she is aware that Senator Tower has reduced his intake of wine. b7D

This individual also stated that he/she does not know Senator Tower to be a philanderer or "skirt chaser", and to the best of his/her knowledge, he/she knows of no instance when Senator Tower dined in the MR with other than his wife, staffers or other Senators.

[redacted] advised that he has been employed as [redacted] at the MR for [redacted] During this time, he has seen Senator Tower on approximately six occasions for lunch, and two or three times in the evening. Senator Tower consumes two to four drinks per visit. Senator Tower has come in "pretty loaded" on those occasions when he arrives in the evening, after 11:00 p.m., and it was apparent to him that Senator Tower had been drinking elsewhere. [redacted] elaborated by describing Senator Tower as "visibly affected", "a little clumsy", "more brusque than usual", and a "trifle awkward." b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that Senator Tower has been joined by female companions at the MR, and he has observed them engage in intimate conversation; however, he has never observed them display any sort of physical intimacy. The last episode of this nature occurred two to four months ago. [redacted] stated that Senator Tower was always able to function on his own after his visits to the MR, and that his consumption of alcohol was no greater than most of the members of Congress whom [redacted] has observed.

[redacted] also related that he heard a rumor approximately ten years ago which involved cocaine use by two Congressmen and two Senators. He identified one of the Congressman as [redacted] and he had heard that Senator Tower was one of the Senators involved. [redacted] knew nothing further regarding this alleged cocaine use, to include specific individuals involved, or the source of the rumor. (A review of the results of the 1987 background investigation by the FBI of [redacted] b6 b7C [redacted] did not disclose any references to Senator Tower.)

Thirteen additional individuals, current and former employees of the MR, were interviewed, to include [redacted] Eight of those employees have been or were employed at the MR for a minimum of eight years. None of those individuals had any knowledge of alcohol abuse or womanizing by Senator Tower. They have never seen him intoxicated or acting in a loud or abusive manner.

Eight employees of the Jefferson Hotel, Washington, D.C., which Senator Tower is also known to frequent, were interviewed, to include [redacted] b6 b7C b7D None of those individuals had any knowledge of alcohol abuse or womanizing by Senator Tower. They have never seen him intoxicated, or to act in a loud, boisterous, or obnoxious manner.

2. Sexual harassment by Senator Tower of staff employees.

An individual* who requested confidentiality, advised that he/she does not personally know Senator Tower. However, in approximately 1976 to 1977, Senator Tower was "at a focal point of a network of gossip" because of allegations of his excessive drinking and womanizing. He/she had heard that encounters with various female Capitol Hill employees always "ended in a 'grope-date'". He/she declined to be specific as to what he/she meant by this, but stated that Senator Tower "got sexual kicks during drinking and dining with women." According to him/her, afterwards, Senator Tower often did not remember what he had done.

He/she advised that he/she was told by two female Capitol Hill employees of a third woman who was particularly bothered emotionally by Senator Tower's efforts to sexually harass her. (All three women had described Senator Tower as "most troublesome" and "dangerous.") He/she was telephonically contacted by this third woman on two separate occasions, and he/she came to believe that the young woman was, in fact, "a basket-case." He/she would not discuss what the woman told her about what Senator Tower did to her. He/she related that there was a "sister-hood" (sic) of women who had stories about Senator Tower's behavior, and how they handled him (and others). He/she also advised that Senator Tower was said to have frequently taken young women to the "cheaters paradise", which he/she identified as the Rotunda, and is no longer in business, ~~and~~ AS WELL AS the MR. He/she could not recall the names of any of the women involved, or persons who could further verify or confirm his/her information.

An individual*, who requested confidentiality, advised that he/she became familiar with Senator Tower when he/she served on [redacted] of the United States delegation to the arms reduction talks in Geneva, Switzerland. He/she has personally observed Senator Tower drink alcohol but has never seen him drunk or get out of hand. b7D

He/she related an incident that happened at the State Department office of Senator Tower in Geneva, Switzerland, in approximately May, 1986. Several people were in the office, and were talking and joking. A female staff member made a comment to Senator Tower, and he began chasing her playfully around the office for approximately one to one and one-half minutes. He was grabbing at the staffer's skirt, which was tight, so he was actually pinching her bottom. After they stopped, everyone laughed. Nothing further happened, but he/she felt this was extremely inappropriate behavior for an Ambassador. (It is noted that this female staff member was previously interviewed, and provided no unfavorable information concerning Senator Tower.)

He/she also stated that, on at least one occasion, Senator Tower utilized his staff for his personal use while on Government time. He/she advised that Senator Tower's basement was flooded, and he ordered his staff to help clean his house.

He/she opined that Senator Tower does not care about sexual harassment on the job. This individual so advised because [redacted] b6 b7C b7D [redacted] (See pages one and two of the summary memorandum dated January 13, 1989.)

He/she also opined that Senator Tower, as head of the Tower Commission, had "whitewashed" over the Iran/Contra affair in return for the political payoff of becoming Secretary of Defense. He/she provided no information in support of his/her opinions.

* WMFT-11 [redacted]

John Goodwin Tower

Additional interviews are being conducted into this allegation.

3. Senator Tower was involved in automobile accidents at a former residence and was subsequently asked to move.

A review of Senator Tower's Standard Form 86 disclosed that from September, 1970, to September, 1976, he resided at 4100 Cathedral Avenue (CONDOMINIUM), Northwest, Washington, D.C.

An individual,* who requested confidentiality, advised that for three years, he/she resided at the CONDOMINIUM, Northwest, Washington, D.C. He/she stated that, among the residents, Senator Tower had a reputation of having a drinking problem. During the three years that he/she lived in the CONDOMINIUM, he/she saw Senator Tower return home drunk on two or three occasions. Each of these instances occurred late at night. When Senator Tower was dropped off by another individual, he/she observed Senator Tower to stagger. In addition, he/she saw Senator Tower drunk at a party during that time. Other than the previously mentioned incidents, he/she never personally observed Senator Tower drink or be in a state of drunkenness.

He/she further recalled seeing an automobile at the bottom of a dell or ravine, which was immediately next to the driveway entrance to the CONDOMINIUM. He/she was told by the elderly woman who ran the desk at the CONDOMINIUM that the car belonged to Senator Tower, who had driven the car off the driveway and into the ravine. The woman related to him/her that this was the second time that Senator Tower had had this particular accident.

He/she advised that, as a result of these accidents and Senator Tower's reputed drinking, several meetings were held by the CONDOMINIUM owner's association. However, he/she only attended one meeting. He/she recalled discussion by several residents of the CONDOMINIUM who wished to have Senator Tower removed. He/she does not know what action, if any, was ever taken towards Senator Tower, and he/she is unable to recall the names of any other individuals who are knowledgeable regarding these incidents. He/she noted that it is entirely possible that, since that time, Senator Tower no longer has a problem with alcohol.

* WMFT-9 [redacted]

[redacted] (Protect Identity) advised she was the [redacted] She advised that, when Senator Tower came home at night, he had been drinking "nine times out of ten." She recalled two occasions from 1974 to 1975 in which Senator Tower stumbled after passing the night desk and that [redacted] John Linkens, the former doorman who is now deceased, had to help him to his feet. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] also recalled that, on two occasions, she heard a loud noise shortly before Senator Tower entered the CONDOMINIUM. She noted that he was having difficulty negotiating the sharp left curve into the complex, and his car was apparently hitting the curb, although she never witnessed this. Senator Tower never struck the CONDOMINIUM or the glass which comprised that side of the lobby. She believes that on one occasion, a tow truck retrieved his car, but she could not remember other details of the incident. [redacted] also recalled one occasion where Senator Tower's couch caught on fire, which she surmised was caused by a cigarette after a "happy hour."

[redacted] also mentioned that "there were a lot of women around when his wife wasn't around", but she was unable to determine whether or not these ladies were his staff members.

[redacted] recalled being approached by other residents regarding Senator Tower's activities, but she could not recall the names of specific tenants. One unrecalled tenant expressed relief when it was discovered that Mr. Linkens was parking Senator Tower's car, thus his own vehicle would be safe from being struck. [redacted] would not recommend Senator Tower "for anything."

[redacted] and [redacted] former [redacted] at the CONDOMINIUM, respectively, were interviewed. They advised they had no knowledge of any alcohol abuse or any difficulties encountered by Senator Tower in negotiating the curving entranceway to the CONDOMINIUM. They were also unaware of Senator Tower's name being brought before the CONDOMINIUM association in a derogatory sense. They recommended him for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government. b6 b7C

[redacted] CONDOMINIUM resident, related that he has lived there since [redacted] and has been a member of the [redacted] beginning in [redacted] He characterized Senator Tower's reputation in the CONDOMINIUM as "excellent". He has never known Senator Tower to have any difficulty in negotiating the roads in and around the CONDOMINIUM, before or after consuming alcohol. He has never known Senator Tower to abuse alcohol, and has no knowledge of Senator Tower's name ever being brought before the [redacted] in any context. He recommended Senator Tower for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government.

[redacted] stated she has resided at the CONDOMINIUM since [redacted] She has served on the [redacted] and was instrumental in its founding. She advised that there were never any allegations made concerning Senator Tower's use of alcohol, driving proficiency, or automobile accidents, made at any meeting of [redacted] which she attended. She has never known Senator Tower to abuse alcohol, and she recommends him for a position of trust and confidence.

Information has been received from the Metropolitan Police Department, Washington, D.C., indicating that accident reports are only maintained for three months. Accident reports are then transferred to the District Building, Public Documents Section, and are filed by complaint number. Access requires either that complaint number or the exact date of the accident and the parties involved.

[redacted] Williams-Dwyer Insurance Company, Wichita Falls, Texas, advised he has been Senator Tower's insurance agent for twenty-two years. He stated he has no driving record concerning Senator Tower as he is a perfect customer, in that he pays his bills and has no accidents. [redacted] advised that Senator Tower's policy is underwritten by AETNA Life and Casualty Company (AETNA), in Dallas, Texas.

[redacted] Unit Manager, AETNA, Richardson, Texas, advised that the only accident in which Senator Tower was involved in occurred on April 1, 1976, when Senator Tower pulled out in front of another vehicle. Senator Tower's record with AETNA disclosed his vehicle was involved in numerous other claims, but Senator Tower was not driving the vehicle. AETNA's policy is to destroy records after approximately five years, and it cannot further be determined where the location of the claims occurred. Those claims and accidents are as follows:

4. Senator Tower kept a Russian emigre ballerina in Houston, Texas.

An individual by the name of [redacted] contacted the SASC on February 1 and 2, 1989. He stated that he is [redacted] and, during the summer of 1987, he was on sabbatical in Houston, Texas. He met a Russian emigre ballerina at the River Oaks Country Club in Houston and she invited him to her home, which was two blocks from the country club. [redacted] described her home as being well removed from the street, on a wide boulevard and that it had a distinctive east coast or "Cape Cod" architectural style. There were four or five other guests there, including Senator Tower.

[redacted] advised that Senator Tower told him that this was his woman, that he had introduced her to society, and he had bought the house for her. Senator Tower, having found out that he [redacted] Senator Tower and the woman danced. They then began to take their clothes off and got on top of the piano. John Goodwin Tower

The FBI also developed a list of names of dancers/ballerinas or persons associated with the ballet in Houston, Texas, who are of Russian descent, to confirm if these persons sounded familiar to him.

On February 3, 1989, [redacted] was telephonically contacted by the FBI regarding the information he provided to the SASC. He advised that he had no specific or additional information to provide, in addition to that which he had already provided to the SASC. [redacted] denied ever calling the Russian emigre ballerina. [redacted] was then reminded that he had previously told the SASC that he had called the ballerina. He responded by stating he might have called her or met her someplace. [redacted] further commented that, to the best of his knowledge, he has provided all information which he possesses and he did not wish to be further contacted in any way by the FBI. [redacted] again denied telling the SASC that he would be willing to be telephonically contacted by anyone in authority. He stated that he was being harassed and any further questions would have to be directed to his attorney.

On February 6, 1989, [redacted] Hercules, California, was interviewed as she resides [redacted] She stated that when [redacted] moved into the area four years ago, he used the name of [redacted] and claimed to be a practicing attorney in San Francisco, California. About two years ago, he began the process to purchase his home and began calling himself [redacted] He then claimed to be a medical doctor in Hercules, California. [redacted] stated she was dumbfounded that he would change identities without any explanation. She further commented that, [redacted] and his wife went on vacation, [redacted] a total of four aliases used by him (to include [redacted]; however, she could not recall the other names.

[redacted] stated that [redacted] is not musically inclined and that he does not know how to play the piano. She advised that she used to work in the health care field and she characterized [redacted] as a pathological liar, who demonstrates manic depressive tendencies, and who is a "weird, weird, weird" recluse. [redacted] also related an incident in which [redacted] told her that he was practicing medicine with another doctor in Hercules, California, who happened to be her former employer. [redacted] knew that his statement was an outrageous, bold-faced lie, and stated that any information he provides should be "taken with a grain of salt" and that he is a "name dropper type."

Physical observation of a four-block area immediately surrounding the vicinity of the River Oaks Country Club, Houston, Texas, disclosed several mansions which could be described as having an east coast or "Cape Cod" architectural style. The owners of those residences were contacted and found to not be of Russian descent.

A review of COLE's Directory for 1987-1988 for the City of Houston and Harris County, Texas, failed to disclose any Russian or Soviet surnames listed as residents on those streets nearby the club within a four block radius of the River Oaks Country Club. (It should be noted that not all of the residences located in that area are set forth in the directory.) The manager of the River Oaks Country Club advised that he knows of no Russian women who are members of the club.

Contact was made with several ballet and dance organizations to identify the unnamed Russian ballerina described by [redacted] Six women currently or previously affiliated with ballet or dance schools in the Houston, Texas area, with Russian or Soviet surnames were identified. Attempts to locate and interview one of those women was unsuccessful, as the listed telephone number for that woman is no longer in service.

[redacted] Houston, Texas, advised that she does not know Senator Tower. She stated that she is considered somewhat of a "novelty" among the women of River Oaks because she is of Russian descent, and therefore, she has been a guest at many homes in the River Oaks area. She has never been introduced to a Russian ballerina at any of these gatherings, nor has anyone mentioned a Russian ballerina to her.

[redacted] Houston, Texas, advised that she has known Senator Tower for over twenty years, having been [redacted] The last time she met with Senator Tower was during his last campaign for the United States Senate, when she attended a dinner for him in Houston, Texas. Her only other association with him has been the exchange of Christmas cards, which ceased approximately three years ago.

[redacted] advised that, until [redacted] she formerly resided in the River Oaks area in Houston, Texas. During the 1970's, she attended many parties in that area which Senator Tower also attended. She never observed him to drink to excess. She is not aware of any former Russian ballet dancers residing in the River Oaks area. She noted that the presence of such an individual would be made known to her in her position as [redacted] and because she speaks fluent Russian. b6 b7C

A review of the Houston, Texas, telephone directory, contact with directory assistance, and contact with Doctor's Hospital, Houston, Texas, disclosed no record concerning [redacted] Doctor's Hospital disclosed a [redacted] who subsequently advised that he is not acquainted with Senator Tower, and he has never attended any social gathering at which Senator Tower was present. [redacted] Houston, Texas, was contacted, and also advised that he is not acquainted with Senator Tower, and that he has never attended any small, intimate parties where Senator Tower was present.

5. A lobbying firm rented a hotel room during 1969 until 1970 for Senator Tower which he utilized to meet with prostitutes and to conduct "job interviews" with prospective secretaries, and that Senator Tower was found inebriated in the room.

[redacted], Enterprise, Florida, advised that she was employed as [redacted] with the United States Savings and Loan League (USSLL) in Washington, D.C., during [redacted] and [redacted] She worked for [redacted] who was a lobbyist as was Glenn Troop. Mr. Troop's secretary was [redacted] She advised that [redacted] provided her with a telephone number that she would call and advise an unknown female to go to the Carrol Arms Hotel at a specific time. According to [redacted] the female who answered the phone was not given Senator Tower's name. She opined that the numbers she called were to prostitutes who were in the Watergate; however, she advised that she can not substantiate these statements. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] believed the numbers she called were for the person to meet with Senator Tower because [redacted] would advise her at the time he provided the numbers to her that Senator Tower was going to be in his room. She made from one to four calls per month, but can not recall exactly how many calls she made. [redacted] opined that the USSLL had a room on a monthly basis because a bill would be received monthly. She never saw the contents of the bill or anything with Senator Tower's name on it.

[redacted] also stated that [redacted] would interview girls who came to the USSLL looking for employment. Subsequently, [redacted] would send them to Senator Tower's office for employment after he evaluated whether they would engage in sexual activities with Senator Tower. [redacted] added that she never had any direct contact with Senator Tower. b6 b7C b7D

Additional interviews are being conducted into this allegation.

The following are allegations that were brought to the attention of the FBI after February 2, 1989:

1. Senator Tower has engaged the services of prostitutes between 1977 and 1979.

An individual, who requested confidentiality and who was [redacted] advised that he/she had heard "street talk" from various prostitutes, that individuals who procured prostitutes in Dallas, Texas, had made requests that an arrangement be made whereby Senator Tower could be "fixed up" with a date who would engage in acts of sadomasochism as well perform a "golden shower". He/she advised a "golden shower" consists of one individual urinating on another. He/she advised that these individuals were turned down because the individual they contacted did not indulge in such activities. He/she also stated that similar requests were made to this same person in Dallas, Texas, from other individuals in Houston, Texas, and New York, New York, who engaged in procuring "dates." He/she identified the requesters as [redacted] Last Name Unknown, [redacted] whose name he/she could not recall, and [redacted] Last Name Unknown. He/she stated that these requests occurred sometime during the period 1977 through 1979. He/she has not received any other information since then.

On February 4, 1989, [redacted] Internal Affairs Division, Dallas, Texas, Police Department, advised that he was previously assigned to the Vice Section. During 1980 and 1981, he investigated a prostitution ring, which resulted in the subject of his investigation being convicted on prostitution/procuring type charges. He noted that the names [redacted] and [redacted] are not familiar to him, and that neither of those names surfaced during the aforementioned investigation. [redacted] provided the name of a woman who operated a prostitution ring in [redacted] That person was interviewed and requested confidentiality as noted below. b6 b7C

[redacted] Dallas, Texas, advised that he was formerly a member of the Dallas, Texas, Police Department Vice Squad. As such, he participated in investigations of prostitution. He advised that he has no knowledge of either

[redacted] or [redacted] also advised that during the course of his investigations, he never received any indication that Senator Tower was ever mentioned as a customer or potential customer of the prostitutes involved. b6 b7C

A check of the records of the Dallas Police Department, the Garland, Texas, Police Department and the Dallas County Sheriff's Office, including the Vice Squad for each authority, failed to disclose any identifiable record for [redacted] or the person named by [redacted]

[redacted] Dallas, Texas, advised that she is familiar with the original source of this information, having met him/her briefly at social occasions. [redacted] advised that she never had any conversation with the source with regard to arrangement of any kind of sexual liaison or date for any individual, including Senator Tower. She also advised that she does not know either [redacted] or the individual named by [redacted]

[redacted] San Jose, California, advised that she formerly lived in the same complex as the source of this information. She stated the source was reputed to be a "madam" and characterized her as unstable. She stated that the statement that she and other prostitutes approached the source to arrange sex for Senator Tower was untrue. [redacted] advised that she herself did not engage in prostitution. She stated that from 1982 until 1984, she worked as a [redacted] for [redacted] who is Senator Tower [redacted] She stated she has never met Senator Tower personally, and has no knowledge of any sexual indiscretions on his part.

Two individuals, who requested confidentiality, advised that they were not aware of Senator Tower utilizing the services of a prostitute or of any relationship he may have had with any prostitute. One of those individuals,[1] who was formerly acquainted with the original source of this information, characterized the source as a liar who is not credible.

2. Senator Tower was observed on an airplane in 1987 consuming large quantities of alcohol.

An individual, who requested confidentiality, advised that he/she is employed by American Airlines, and was previously based in Dallas, Texas, to fly international flights to Europe.

3) SFT-1 [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

He/she advised that, in either June or August of 1987, Senator Tower and a female companion were passengers on a flight to either London or Paris. Senator Tower and his companion boarded the plane at 5:30 p.m. and, between the two of them, were served a total of three glasses of champagne prior to take off. During the first three hours of the flight, Senator Tower was served a full "fifth" plus six additional ounces of vodka. In addition, Senator Tower and his companion consumed two full bottles of champagne. He/she advised that neither Senator Tower nor his companion had any meals during the flight, although they did snack. He/she also stated that Senator Tower's behavior with his companion consisted of "necking" and giggling.

He/she stated that, at one point, he/she considered not serving Senator Tower anymore alcoholic beverages, but Senator Tower's behavior did not meet the American Airlines criteria of being considered raucous behavior. He/she also further advised that Senator Tower never had to be reprimanded, because none of the other passengers complained. He/she stated that Senator Tower slept the last four hours of the flight.

He/she could not recall the names of any other members of the flight crew, but would be willing to testify in court if necessary.

Additional interviews are being conducted into this allegation.

3. Anonymous allegation of acts of corruption by Senator Tower involving the Kissinger Commission on Central America.

On February 4, 1989, an anonymous telephone call was received by the Richmond Division of the FBI. The female caller stated that during the period 1981 to 1984, Senator Tower was a member of the Kissinger Commission on Central America. Also involved in this commission was [redacted] The caller advised that the FBI's investigation should be directed into acts of corruption by [redacted] and Senator Tower who allegedly furnished money to friends of Senator Tower in the United States Government. The caller did not indicate the source of these funds but stated some of her information was "singular in nature" and, that on some occasions, [redacted] Senator Tower, and an unnamed individual were present.

The caller would not furnish her name, telephone number or location, stating that she has received threats on her life cautioning her not to furnish this information to anyone.

John Goodwin Tower

[redacted] advised that he knows Senator Tower on a limited, professional basis. He stated he has never worked with Senator Tower in any capacity other than both of them being prospective members of the Defense Policy Board. [redacted] stated he has never served on a commission or fact finding board with Senator Tower.

[redacted] noted that from August, 1983, to June, 1984, he was a member of the "National Bipartisan Commission on Central America," which was formed to report on the appropriate United States policy on Central America in various ares. The commission ended after the provision of its analysis and recommendations. [redacted] stated that Senator Tower was never a member of, or involved with, that commission. [redacted] also stated he has no knowlege of Senator Tower ever receiving or providing graft or kickbacks, for whatever reason, relating to this commission. He further has no knowledge of any member of the commission receiving or providing graft or a kickback, and he has no knowledge of any improprieties relating to the activities or functions of the commission.

[redacted] commented favorable concerning Senator Tower, stating that he is aware of no unfavorable information concerning him personnally of professionally, and he recommended Senator Tower for a position of trust with the United States Government.

4. Allegations contained in a newspaper article on February 6, 1989, in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

On February 6, 1989, the enclosed article appeared in the "Philadelphia Inquirer", concerning Senator Tower's involvement in the investigation of Colonel Robert L. Moser, United States Air Force. That article referenced an investigation conducted by the United States Air Force Office of Special Investigations (AFOSI) and an investigation conducted by the Office of Personnel Management (OPM). As reported on pages one and two of the summary memorandum dated January 13, 1989, a prior review of the AFOSI did not disclose any derogatory information concerning Senator Tower.

On February 7, 1989, the OPM investigation of [redacted] was reviewed by the FBI. That investigation consisted of a background investigation by OPM of [redacted] That investigation disclosed references to a character letter that Senator Tower wrote on behalf of [redacted] and also contained the same allegations related by the individual whose interview is contained on page five of this summary memorandum under Issue 2, entitled "Sexual harassment by Senator Tower of staff employees."

That investigation disclosed allegations that Senator Tower chased a secretary around an office. That secretary, [redacted] was interviewed by the FBI on December 18, 1988, and she advised at that time that Senator Tower had never approached her in any improper manner. [redacted] is currently a [redacted] for Senator Tower. Further, it was alleged that Senator Tower used Government employees to help him clean his basement which had been damaged by flooding while he was in Geneva, Switzerland. Lastly, that investigation also alleged that Senator Tower had requested Government employees to run unspecified personal errands. No individual previously interviewed by the FBI has mentioned either incident relating to the flood or the running of errands.

On February 7, 1989, the FBI received a letter, dated February 7, 1989, from Representative John D. Dingall, Chairman, Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, United States House of Representatives, advising that his committee was in possession of documents that might contain information of interest to the FBI relating to the background investigation of Senator Tower. Additional investigation will be conducted in this regard.

5. Current status of "ILLWIND".

As previously reported, Senator Tower's name surfaced during the course of the FBI's "ILLWIND" investigation into fraud and bribery in the Department of Defense procurement system. While not a subject of the investigation, evidence had been obtained indicating Senator Tower's association with several "ILLWIND" subjects. While the FBI's summary memorandum, dated December 13, 1988, reported the results of "ILLWIND" related inquiries regarding Senator Tower, it also pointed out that some pertinent "ILLWIND" subjects had not consented to talk to the FBI about Senator Tower.

One of those subjects, who previously would not provide information, has now provided a statement. This resulted from the conclusion of plea negotiations with the United States Attorney, Eastern District of Virginia.

John Goodwin Tower

This subject has advised the FBI that a Defense Consultant (who also faces indictment in "ILLWIND") told the subject that he had paid Senator Tower $20,000 for use in Senator Tower's 1984 election campaign. The Defense Consultant further complained to the subject that he was to be reimbursed the $20,000 by a particular Defense Contractor (which also faces indictment) and had not been reimbursed.

Financial records of the Defense Consultant, obtained pursuant to a June, 1988, search warrant, have been reviewed. While the records do not contain any checks payable to Senator Tower, there are cancelled checks totalling $20,000 which were paid to an individual who was formerly employed on Senator Tower's Senate Staff. The payments were made to the former staff member after he left Mr. Tower's staff. The payments were made in three installments from 1984 to 1985.

To date, no evidence has been developed that Senator Tower personally participated in or was aware of these transactions. There is also no evidence that the transactions with the former staff member are illegal.

In an effort to resolve this issue, the FBI will attempt to interview the Defense Consultant-payor of the $20,000, the former staff member-payee of the $20,000, and the representative of the Defense Contractor to determine: (1) the purpose and circumstances surrounding the $20,000; and (2) the degree of knowledge and participation of Senator Tower in the transaction.

Miscellaneous Interviews

[redacted] Dallas, Texas, advised that, in January, 1989, [redacted] surgery on Senator Tower. In connection with this surgery, he had various tests performed on Senator Tower. One test, known as either a SMAC 20 or SMAC 28, gives a very accurate profile of the liver and was conducted on Senator Tower in either December, 1988, or in January, 1989. Senator Tower's liver profile was completely normal. [redacted] stated that during the aforementioned surgery, Senator Tower's liver was observed by him to be completely normal, as was his pancreas and gallbladder. [redacted] also stated that he has never inquired about, nor does he know, any details of Senator Tower's private life.

[redacted] Washington, D.C., advised that a review of Senator Tower's medical record for the period of 1974 through 1985 failed to disclose any indication of liver disease or high and/or low figures with respect to liver function tests, according to blood tests results. Senator Tower did not receive any additional or special tests or exams with regard to his liver, because there was never any indication from routine tests that such exams were needed. [redacted] advised that he never personally examined Senator Tower. b6 b7C

[redacted] Laural Hill, Florida, was recontacted regarding the information she provided on December 23, 1988, concerning an incident which occurred at [redacted] in [redacted] (See page five of the summary memorandum dated January 6, 1989.) [redacted] advised that she recalled an incident, which she had previously failed to mention, that occurred on the first night [redacted] She stated that she attended a party with other members of the SASC, which took place in a screened porch area, that was adjacent to Senator Tower's quarters. She advised that [redacted]

Upon returning to the party, she met [redacted] currently the [redacted] of the SASC. She explained to him what happened after it was obvious to her that he misinterpreted what occurred. She then returned to her cabin. [redacted] stated that at no other time during that retreat was she alone with Senator Tower and she again denied any sexual contact with him. She also stated that Senator Tower has never sexually harassed her and she has no knowledge of sexual harassment of others by Senator Tower.

An individual*, who requested confidentiality, advised that during the 1970's, Senator Tower would fly from Washington, D.C., to Dallas, Texas, on many weekends. Senator Tower would drink to excess on the flights and, on one occasion, he was assisted off the airplane by two stewardesses. He/she advised that over the last few years, Senator Tower has consumed only wine and he/she has not seen him inebriated. He/she never heard Senator Tower divulge anything involving national security. He/she recommended Senator Tower for a high level government position.

Agency Checks

A check of the records of the Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs Information System, operated by the Drug Enforcement Administration, disclosed no record concerning Senator Tower.

A check of the records of the Foreign Agent's Registration Office, Department of Justice, disclosed that Senator Tower's status, as an British agent of an American subsidiary of a multi-national corporation, was previously determined to be exempt from the registration requirements under that law.

Miscellaneous

On February 7, 1989, Senator Tower was reinterviewed concerning the allegations raised in the summary memorandum. The results of his interview are incorporated into this summary memorandum

Tower backed arms-talks aide found to be security risk

By Mark Thompson
Inquirer Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Defense secretary-designate John G. Tower and other top American officials went to bat for an Air Force colonel in a sensitive diplomatic post whose adultery and mishandling of classified materials made him a security risk, according to federal investigative files.

Even as investigators closed in with evidence that Col. Robert L. Moser Jr. had an affair with a woman with Soviet-bloc connections, that he purchased drugs, improperly copied classified documents and sexually harrassed his secretary, Tower wrote a glowing letter of support for the colonel.

Moser, a top-ranking staffer at U.S.-Soviet arms control talks in Geneva in 1985 and 1986, worked closely with Tower, who was a leading U.S. negotiator.

"I do not believe that the allegations against Col. Moser are warranted," Tower said in a March 1986 letter "to whom it may concern." The letter was written two months after Moser was recalled to the United States.

Moser was ultimately dismissed from the U.S. arms control team and retired from the Air Force.

Files of investigations of Moser by several federal agencies — totaling more than 1,000 pages — were obtained from government sources who declined to be identified.

The files depict an atmosphere within the U.S. arms control team of heavy drinking, extramarital sex, poker and cheating on government expense accounts.

Tower, one of the ambassadors leading the team, was host of the poker games and was once seen chasing his secretary, who could not type, according to employees of the diplomatic mission whose statements are included in the files.

The Moser case raises new questions about Tower's conduct and judgment at a time when the former Texas senator's nomination as secretary of defense is before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The committee unexpectedly postponed a scheduled confirmation vote Thursday, as Chairman Sam Nunn (D., Ga.) said that new allegations about Tower's personal life required additional investigation and consultation with the FBI.

Tower declined, through an associate, to comment about the investigative files. The associate, who asked not to be identified, said that the FBI and the Armed Services Committee had examined the Moser case and cleared Tower of any wrongdoing in connection with it.

The Air Force Office of Special Investigations uncovered "an alarming pattern of disregard for security regulations" by Moser and raised "serious questions of Moser's integrity and conduct," according to the files.

The Air Force investigation "substantiated a number of security violations," including unauthorized reproduction of top secret materials, a failure to safeguard classified material, improperly taking classified material home, and the loss of 20 computer disks containing all of the documents generated by one U.S. arms control team in 1985.

An investigator for the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency concluded that the Pentagon had hushed up the episode because "the extent of Moser's misconduct in an extremely sensitive mission ... involving high-level negotiations with the Soviet Union had the potential for developing into a major scandal and causing serious embarrassment to the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, the State Department, and the Air Force. ..."

Although the Air Force did not formally reprimand Moser for security violations — asserting that that was a job for the State Department — it did issue him a formal reprimand for adultery and for sexually harassing his secretary and having her perform personel business tasks for him at government expense.

Moser's two-year affair in Geneva with an Australian woman with Soviet-bloc relatives "was blatantly improper conduct by an officer living and working in close proximity to a cadre of Soviet agents," his commanding general wrote.

"You deliberately, and unconscionably, placed yourself in a compromising position that could have been exploited by Soviet operatives," the general wrote. "This casual disregard for the sensitivity of your mission evidences deficiencies of character and intellect that are unacceptable in a senior officer."

Moser — who is married, the father of two sons, and resides in suburban Virginia just outside Washington — could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Tower's two-page letter disputed contentions that Moser had violated security rules, contending that "Col. Moser should be applauded for his efforts in this area, not accused of violating nonexistent or unagreed procedures."

Tower concluded that Moser's work was "outstanding and his devotion to his country and his personal patriotism to be above reproach."

Ambassador Max Kampelman, the head of the negotiating team, also wrote a letter in March 1986 praising Moser for his "exceptional energy and dedication" and for his "significant contributions" to the Geneva delegation's work.

"In my view," Kampelman said in his own "to whom it may concern" letter, "Col. Moser is not in any way a security risk."

According to Moser, Tower encouraged him to fight his dismissal from the mission.

"John Tower, when I talked to him, thought that was a mistake — he said: 'We can clear this up — we should have kept you on board where we would have had control — this thing has gotten out of hand. You know, whatever I could do to help, I will,'" Moser quoted Tower as saying, according to government officials' notes included in the file. The notes were taken in 1987, when Moser was seeking a new security clearance in order to do private work for the Department of Energy.

When originally confronted in Geneva with allegations of adultery, Moser was ready with a defense: Others in the 100-member Geneva delegation were doing it.

Moser provided a list of 14 U.S. officials — 13 of whom were married — who had affairs under way in Geneva. Such liaisons "were very common within the delegation and were in many cases, in my opinion, much more open and frequent compared to me," he said in his written response to the allegations.

Moser's list detailed the illicit affairs, with each person described by job title and whether or not his lover was American. At least two of the men involved in separate relationships were "photographed in a very compromising position," Moser said.

By job description, Tower did not appear to be one of the 14.

Moser's former secretary, who filed a sexual harassment complaint against him, told government investigators that he kept files in his State Department safe and told her not to examine them. They "were labeled by names of individuals, rather than by topic," according to an investigation by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management, one of several federal agencies called into the case.

After Moser learned, in early 1986, that his secretary had complained of sexual harassment, "he solicited a large number of written endorsements from several ambassadors involved in the arms negotiations" and other top officials of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), the investigative file said.

"One or two of these individuals had initially made statements damaging to Moser, but later on revised their statements to fully support Moser's character, actions, and loyalty," the file said.

The ACDA security officer who interviewed the secretary said he had information "to suggest that Moser had assisted and accommodated several of these individuals in personal and professional matters and their support of Moser may have been influenced by the assistance he had given them in the past, some of which bordered on improper conduct," the file said. Neither the individuals nor the conduct was detailed.

During this period, Tower and Kampelman wrote letters of support for Moser.

Moser denied that he blackmailed Tower or Kampelman when he was questioned by government officials in September 1987, when he was seeking the new security clearance to do work for the Department of Energy. The files do not indicate whether he received the clearance.

"I don't have to blackmail anybody," Moser told a security officer for the Department of Energy, according to a transcript of the interview. "My record speaks for itself.'

WASHINGTON POST 6 FEBRUARY 1989 Pg. 5

Simpson: Tower's Industry Links Are Concern, but Confirmation Due

Sen. Alan K. Simpson (R-Wyo.) said yesterday he is concerned that former senator John G. Tower, President Bush's nominee for secretary of defense, will find it difficult to remove himself from Pentagon decisions that affect defense contractors for whom he has worked in recent years.

But Simpson, the assistant Senate Republican leader and a close friend of the president, said on NBC's "Meet the Press" that the Senate is "probably going to approve him, and I think they should."

The Senate Armed Services Committee has held up a vote on Tower, a Texas Republican, pending a probe by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of new allegations about Tower's personal life. That report is due today.

Simpson said Tower's personal life is of less concern than the $750,000 he received from the defense contractors. "That's heavy bucks," Simpson said, noting that it could give the "appearance" of conflict in procurement questions.

Asked how he would advise Tower, Simpson said: "Well, I would try to know that he really would be able to recuse himself from these people that paid him so handsomely in the past. And I think that's difficult to do."

WASHINGTON, DC 20510

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT March 17, 1989

Response is being coordinated by OCPA.

Mr. William Sessions
Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation
10th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20535

Dear Bill:

Enclosed is an article from today's Washington Post which, once again, attacks the reputation of John Tower.

What is particularly disturbing about this story is that it is based on: "an internal Federal Bureau of Investigation document made public by Senator Ernest F. Hollings. The document, which a bureau official said was prepared for use by FBI director William Sessions, provides the first official although partial, verification of what the FBI discovered in its background investigation of Tower."

We are outraged to see Senator Tower once again dragged through the mud after the confirmation vote. But we are even more upset that it was apparently based on an unauthorized disclosure of official documents by an FBI employee.

We'd like to know:

1) What is FBI policy against turning over such documents to Senators, and what is the penalty for violating the policy?

2) Are you investigating who is responsible for this leak, and what is the status of your investigation?

3) What actions will you take against the perpetrators of this leak? Will you do everything you can to determine who is responsible?

4) Will you inform all FBI employees that you will not tolerate any more such leaks?

Sincerely,

Bob Dole

'Prior Pattern' of Alcohol Abuse By Tower Cited in FBI Document

The long FBI investigation into former senator John G. Tower found "a prior pattern of alcohol abuse" as well as "indications" that Tower had sharply cut back on his drinking in recent years, according to an internal Federal Bureau of Investigation document made public yesterday by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings (D-S.C.).

The document, which a bureau official said was prepared for use by FBI director William Sessions, provides the first official, although partial, verification of what the FBI discovered in its background investigation of Tower, whose nomination to be secretary of defense was defeated by the Senate last week.

The FBI review of Tower's past included 500 interviews in 38 cities and seven foreign countries.

Investigators looked into 69 separate allegations and produced nine memoranda on Tower which ran 371 pages, plus another 137 pages of enclosures.

"The FBI investigation did not disclose any illegal activity on the part of Sen. Tower," the document said.

"However, the investigation did confirm a prior pattern of alcohol abuse, as well as the senator's continuing sporadic use of alcohol, with indications that he had greatly reduced his consumption levels during 1983-1989."

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION

Attached is the briefing material requested by Budget Section Chief Linda Pagelsen requested in your March 3, 1989 note.

The attached briefing material concerns two issues; FBI Special Inquiry (SPIN) investigations and the background investigation (BI) of John Goodwin Tower.

While [redacted] request to Ms. Pagelsen concerns only the first issue of the general topic of BIs, specific information on the Tower investigation is included for response to issues raised in that particular SPIN investigation.

RE: SENATE APPROPRIATIONS STAFF
REQUEST FOR INFORMATION

On March 3, 1989, [redacted] who is on the [redacted] called with a request for information in preparation for the Senate hearing on the FBI's 1990 budget. The hearing is presently scheduled for March 16, 1989, at 9:30 a.m. with Director Sessions as the principal witness.

Specifically, [redacted] has requested a copy of the Memorandum of Understanding between the FBI, the Attorney General, and the White House regarding background investigations conducted on Presidential appointees. Secondly, [redacted] requested that the FBI provide her with a briefing paper on the general topic of background investigations, to include the actual process of conducting this type of investigation and the nature of the information. [redacted] indicated that she would like as much information as possible in order to fully understand the FBI's investigative effort in this area and, in turn, to adequately prepare [redacted] for the hearing. Budget Section Chief Linda Pagelsen suggested that the FBI would be pleased to provide a formal briefing on this subject; however, [redacted] declined the offer of a briefing until she has had the opportunity to review the briefing material.

[redacted] indicated that she was concerned that, as a result of the Tower controversy, [redacted] would make a major issue of the FBI's conduct of background investigations on Presidential appointees. It is her understanding that [redacted] does not believe the FBI is providing an adequate level of "service" to the Senate. However, [redacted] stated that she has not discussed this issue directly with [redacted] but is reacting to press reports.

The Administrative Services Division requests your assistance in providing Senate staff with as much information as can be appropriately made available. Criminal Investigative Division personnel have been advised that this request is forthcoming.

Mr. Clarke:

RE: JOHN G. TOWER;
INQUIRY FROM STAFF OF SENATOR ROBERT DOLE

On March 17, 1989, I spoke with [redacted] concerning the inquiry we received from Senator Dole's staff regarding the internal memo concerning the background investigation of John G. Tower, conducted by the FBI, for the position of Secretary of Defense that was provided to Senator Hollings.

I told him Senator Dole's staff's questions were:

. Was the document part of the file sent to the White House? Response: No, but the material on which the memo was based was from the background file.

· Is this the type of document ordinarily prepared in SPIN investigations? Response: No.

· Would this document be covered by the Privacy Act? Response: Yes, as it applies to third party request.

· How did this document get to Senator Hollings? Response: An earlier request had been received by the FBI from the staff of Senator Hollings for the mechanics of a background check. The Tower document was attached to our response to that request.

[redacted] indicated he had received no information that Senator Dole intended to pursue this matter further, and indicated he was not troubled by it. He indicated that the Tower document, in fact, refutes Senator Hollings' earlier statements that the FBI had recent information concerning Senator Tower's alleged alcohol abuse, because the FBI document stated "he had greatly reduced his consumption levels during 1983-1989." [redacted] stated that the Tower matter is behind us and everyone is very pleased with the speed in which the FBI handled the background of [redacted]

RE: CONGRESSIONAL RECORD
FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 1989

Prior to the final vote on the Cheney nomination, Minority Leader Dole printed in the Record articles from the Washington Post and the Dallas Morning News entitled "FBI Memo Says Tower Abused Alcohol" and "'Prior Pattern' of Alcohol Abuse by Tower Cited in FBI Document." Senator Dole used both articles as an illustration that some of his "colleagues" are not "content" with the Tower defeat, they are still "out trying to assassinate the character of an honorable man." Senator Dole is concerned over how "this so-called FBI report" fell into "certain hands" and how "it became public information."

Senator William Cohen (Maine) commented on both news articles and he expressed "serious concerns about any member (revealing) an internal memo to the Director of the FBI concerning any individual under investigation." Senator Cohen reviewed various excerpts from both articles and he stated that: "I think that is one of the dangers that has always been inherited with the use of internal memos or references to FBI reports as opposed to files. Great damage has been done to an individual based upon allegations contained in the internal memoranda that are provided for use by various personnel, including the Director of the FBI. I think it is an unfortunate incident. I hope it does not set a precedent for future years."

Security of Air Travel

Pages S3023-S3028. Senator Frank Lautenberg (New Jersey) introduced S. Res. 88, a resolution directing the President to appoint a special commission to investigate the events surrounding the destruction of Pan Am 103. Senator Lautenberg remarked that "after all this time, the families and friends of the victims of Pan Am 103 still have not heard one word from the White House--it is almost three months--not a word of condolence, not a word of explanation, not a word of commitment that this administration will do what it can to prevent future tragedies like Pan Am 103...this resolution calls on the President to appoint a commission to investigate the Pan Am 103 bombing. We want to know just what is known, when it was known, and by whom." The impetus for Senator Lautenberg's resolution was a four-hour hearing before the Transportation Appropriations Subcommittee on March 14, 1989.

Dear Senator Cohen:

Director Sessions asked me to respond to your letter dated March 17, 1989, concerning the FBI background investigation for former Senator John Tower's confirmation as Secretary of Defense as he recused himself from that investigation.

The FBI regrets the release of briefing materials which commented on the Tower background investigation. The Washington Post erroneously described the materials as partial verification of FBI findings in the Tower case. The materials were, however, never approved by the FBI as an official statement by the Bureau of the Tower investigation or for release outside the FBI. As you know, FBI policy prohibits such conclusary statements to avoid unnecessary influence on the confirmation process.

The materials provided to Senator Ernest F. Hollings of concern to you were inadvertently attached to other documents which had been specifically prepared for delivery to Senator Hollings to explain background investigations in general. They were not leaked but were delivered by mistake. The FBI has never tolerated the unauthorized disclosure of any materials to influence political processes. This clearly did not occur in this instance. As such, this isolated incident does not justify punitive action; the responsible official has been admonished. It does, however, reemphasize why the FBI must limit its background investigation reports to statements of fact that are not conclusary and that are delivered in a controlled manner so as to not unduly influence political processes.

Dear Bill:

I appreciate your having Mr. Floyd I. Clarke respond to my letter to you of March 17, 1989, and realize that you had recused yourself from the FBI's background investigation of Senator John Tower for his nomination to be Secretary of Defense.

Unfortunately, first, concerns raised in my letter pertain to the FBI's background investigation process in general -- only as delineated by problems with the Tower investigation; second, the response to my letter fails to address my concern.

While I have utmost confidence in the decision that the official responsible for delivering, by mistake, certain documents to Senator Hollings should not be subjected to punitive action, I am concerned the focus is being placed on the wrong individual.

In particular, Mr. Clarke's letter states that "...FBI policy prohibits such conclusary statements..." and that "...the FBI must limit its background investigation reports to statements of fact that are not conclusary..."

161 - 20403 - 526

Setting aside that certain items contained in the background investigation file were not "statements of fact," I remain concerned and inquisitive as to why the document released by Senator Hollings was ever prepared, since it seems to be against the policy of the Bureau with regard to "conclusary" information.

I do not wish to belabor this point, as the Bureau has sufficient other responsibilities to perform with limited resources. I do, however, want to bring integrity and trust back to the background investigation process.

Sincerely,

Mr. William Sessions
Director

10th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20535

Dear Bill:

Enclosed is an article from today's Washington Post which, once again, attacks the reputation of John Tower.

What is particularly disturbing about this story is that it is based on: "an internal Federal Bureau of Investigation document made public by Senator Ernest F. Hollings. The document, which a bureau official said was prepared for use by FBI director William Sessions, provides the first official although partial, verification of what the FBI discovered in its background investigation of Tower."

We are outraged to see Senator Tower once again dragged through the mud after the confirmation vote. But we are even more upset that it was apparently based on an unauthorized disclosure of official documents by an FBI employee.

We'd like to know:

1) What is FBI policy against turning over such documents to Senators, and what is the penalty for violating the policy?

2) Are you investigating who is responsible for this leak, and what is the status of your investigation?

3) What actions will you take against the perpetrators of this leak? Will you do everything you can to determine who is responsible?

4) Will you inform all FBI employees that you will not tolerate any more such leaks?

Sincerely,

Bob Dole

Issue: The Background Investigation of John Goodwin Tower

Background: On 12/2/88, the Office of the President-Elect (OPE) requested that the FBI conduct an expedite full field investigation on former Senator John Goodwin Tower, who had been nominated as Secretary of Defense. Contained within the initial request was a White House request to resolve a rumor of Tower's alleged involvement with a female foreign national during his assignment to the Geneva Strategic Arms Reduction Talks during 1985-86.

Almost immediately upon initiation, the FBI began to receive allegations concerning (1) alcohol abuse (2) sexual misconduct (3) conflict of interest with defense contractors (4) improper campaign funding activities and (5) Tower's involvement in the "Ill Wind" investigation. Tower's nomination became a front page media event resulting in numerous allegations being received by both the FBI and the Senate Armed Services Committee (SASC) on almost a daily basis.

Summary memoranda containing the results of the FBI's current investigative status were furnished to the OPE on December 13 and 23, 1988, on January 6, 13, and 25, 1989 and on February 8, 20, 27 and 28, 1989. 3/2/89

Key events and Talking Points

* During the period of February 1-2, 1989, a rift developed between [redacted] SASC, and the Office of Counsel to the President (OCP) over the OCP's handling of the Tower confirmation process.

* Pursuant to a letter dated 2/2/89 to Director Sessions from Senators Nunn and Warner of the SASC, and with the approval of the White House, additional investigation was requested into SASC concerns of Senator Tower's continued abuse of alcohol and womanizing, focusing on the period since Tower left the Senate (1983 - 1989).

* On 2/7/89, new developments involving plea agreements in "Ill Wind" necessitated the FBI having to ask for additional time to resolve alleged illegal campaign contributions to Senator Tower by "Ill Wind" principals. The Attorney General and the White House concurred with the need to resolve this issue.

* Immediately upon the return of the Senate from an eight day adjournment, on 2/20/89, a 140 page summary memorandum summarizing and resolving most of the various issues and sub-issues was submitted to the White House. The FBI investigation did not disclose any illegal activity on the part of Senator Tower. However, the investigation did confirm a prior pattern of alcohol abuse as well as the Senator's continuing sporadic use of alcohol, with indications that he had greatly reduced his consumption levels during 1983 - 1989.

* To date the FBI has submitted nine summary memoranda totaling 371 pages, with enclosures totaling another 137 pages. The FBI has interviewed approximately 500 individuals and has re-interviewed 20 of these individuals.

* Investigation involving review of office indices has been conducted in all 58 field offices and active investigation has been conducted in a total of 38 field offices, the principal of which include WMFO, Dallas and Houston. In addition, investigation was conducted in seven foreign countries by both the FBI and the State Department at FBI request.

* The FBI's summary memoranda addressed 21 separate issues with sub-issues which required the FBI to investigate and resolve 69 separate allegations against Senator Tower.

* The summary memoranda were organized by alphabetical designation by issue and source. Each sub-issue was then outlined by numerical designation. The reader was cross-referenced by page number and issue title to the prior summary when an issue was continued from one summary to the next.

* Each issue was fully addressed beginning with the original allegation and all pertinent FD-302's in their entirety were incorporated behind each discussion.

* The scope of the entire Tower investigation was solely left to the discretion of the SPIN Unit of the FBI. The White House did not attempt to limit or curtail in any way the FBI's investigative efforts or limit the timespan of the investigation.

* Our summaries were provided to the White House which then departed from its recent practice of allowing a personal review of the summaries by only the committee chairman and ranking minority members. In this instance, the White House furnished copies of the summaries to Senators Nunn, Warner, and Dole and allowed the senior Senate SASC staffers to have custody of the summaries to assist in their analysis of the investigation for their respective Senators.

* In addition, the White House made SPIN Unit supervisory personnel available on three occasions for SASC interview at their request to provide detailed explanation of the FBI summary memoranda.

Issue: FBI Special Inquiry (SPIN) Investigations

Scope and Nature of SPIN Investigations

Special Inquiry (SPIN) is a term used by the FBI to characterize background investigations conducted by the FBI for the White House, the National Security Council and several select Congressional committees.

Purpose of SPIN Investigations

The goal of SPIN investigations conducted for the White House is to provide White House officials with accurate and complete information concerning the character, loyalty, reputation and associates of a potential appointee, a White House staff member, or other individuals requiring frequent access to the White House. The scope of the SPIN process and the manner in which it is reported are intended to meet the needs of the President and his staff in nomination, employment and access decisions, as well as to assist in security clearance determinations.

SPIN investigations do not, with the exception of some cases involving the judiciary, focus upon an individual's substantive ability in the area of the prospective appointment. While the FBI does check credit records to ascertain an appointee's financial responsibility, the FBI has not been tasked with conducting inquiries into financial matters (e.g., a nominee's investments or other sources of income, or sources of loans). The FBI merely asks knowledgeable persons whether an appointee lives beyond his/her financial means.

Financial statements of appointees are reviewed by White House personnel and are not provided to the FBI. In addition, IRS records are provided directly to the White House and are not furnished to the FBI. If allegations of improprieties relating to financial matters are developed through other inquiries conducted during the SPIN process, or are brought to the FBI's attention by the White House, the FBI undertakes the investigation necessary to resolve them.

It is important to note that the FBI's investigation is not the only basis upon which the White House makes decisions regarding nominations or filling staff vacancies. Other information is used by the White House in making these decisions including personal interviews, questionnaires concerning personal and financial data, Internal Revenue Service record checks, and name checks.

Investigative Process

Requests for SPIN investigations are handcarried from the White House to the FBI, along with Standard Form 86, Questionnaire for Sensitive Position, a supplementary list of 10 "issue" type questions, the individuals fingerprints and the release necessary for access to educational, occupational, credit and other records. This data is carefully reviewed in the SPIN Unit of the Special Inquiry and Civil Rights Section in the Criminal Investigative Division. The SPIN Unit is responsible for the overall field-wide coordination and administration of these investigations. Checks of FBI records systems, and indices including fingerprint files, at headquarters and in field offices are routinely performed. If no previous background investigation has been conducted concerning the appointee, a full-field investigation is initiated which covers the full extent of the appointee's adult life from high school to the present. Assignments are sent by teletype and facsimile to the FBI field offices covering the appointee's place of birth, places of residence, education and employment, and to offices such as Saint Louis where military personnel records are checked if the appointee served in the military.

Because of their sensitivity, SPIN cases conducted for the White House require the most comprehensive investigation to assure that if derogatory information exists, it is developed fully and resolved whenever possible. This standard of complete thoroughness in SPIN matters is absolutely essential to best serve the President in the nomination process and to assure that the nominee's character is not impugned by spurious information, rumor or innuendo.

As a general rule, a minimum of 35 persons, who can knowledgeably comment on a Presidential appointee's background, are interviewed. About 20 persons are usually interviewed in White House staff cases. These interviews typically include references, associates, colleagues, neighbors, business competitors, and others who can comment on the appointee's loyalty, character and reputation. When allegations or any derogatory information are developed, all logical additional investigation is conducted to resolve the issue and may require locating numerous additional persons who can provide more information regarding the specifics of the particular allegation.

Among the issues explored in SPIN investigations are the following:

a. personal and business credit issues
b. civil suits as a plaintiff or defendant, including divorces
c. any removals/dismissals of employment
d. any contact with representatives of foreign countries
e. any details of applicant's personal life that could be used to coerce the applicant

f. any professional grievances
g. business/investment circumstances involving a possible conflict of interest
h. details of any psychological counseling
i. prescription drug, alcohol abuse, or illegal drug use
j. membership in organizations whose policies restrict membership on the basis of sex, race, creed, color, religion, or national origin
k. criminal history

l. "lifestyle" issues i.e. homosexuality, wife abuse, etc

Results of SPIN investigations are reported to FBIHQ by teletypes and reports which are then summarized in memorandum form in the SPIN Unit. This summary memoranda is provided to the White House. Derogatory information, if developed, is included in the summary and is attributed to the person or persons who provided the information. If these persons request confidentiality, their identities are concealed but the White House is provided information concerning the individual's association with the appointee and the basis of the individual's knowledge of the derogatory information so that the White House can properly assess the significance and pertinence of the information. Complete texts of such interviews, with the identities concealed where appropriate, are also provided to the White House along with the summary or are incorporated into the text of the summary.

Investigative Deadlines vs Timeliness

By mutual agreement between the White House and the FBI, flexible time frames for the completion of the background investigation by the FBI have been established, dependent on the nature and priority of the particular position.

Presidential Appointment with Senate Confirmation (PAS) or Presidential Appointment	25 calendar days
White House staff or access	35 calendar days
On board staff or access (5 year update)	75 calendar days
Limited inquiry or Expanded Name Check	10 calendar days

These deadlines are flexible, depending on circumstances and can be shortened by White House upon request. For example, full-field investigations on Cabinet-level appointees have been conducted in as short as 5 working days but have averaged approximately 20-22 days, for completion during the Bush Administration to date.

While timeliness is a major concern, it cannot be allowed to foreshadow the primary importance of thoroughness. Failure to conduct a comprehensive investigation can compromise the integrity of the entire appointment process and erode both political and public trust in the FBI and the President.

Short deadlines often have an adverse impact upon the quality of investigations, although the distinctions in quality may be subtle. For example, interviews that are normally conducted in person may be done by telephone under exceptional circumstances. However, a person so interviewed is less likely to be candid. Leads which will probably be unproductive, but may possibly open new avenues of investigation, are less likely to be pursued.

Role of the FBI in the Appointment Process

While there has been some question as to the responsibility of the FBI to the Senate regarding SPIN investigations conducted for the White House, precedent and custom have clearly defined the FBI's role in the appointment process. That role has been to provide the President, through the White House Counsel's Office, with accurate and complete information concerning a nominee's character, loyalty, reputation and associates so that the President can make informed nomination decisions.

It is essential that the FBI's role be preserved as an impartial, nonpartisan investigative agency. This is best accomplished when the FBI provides the results of its SPIN investigations to the White House which would then make appropriate disclosure of this information to the Senate, consistent with the needs to secure the confidentiality of sensitive information, sources and law enforcement methods. The appointment of a nominee requiring Senate confirmation requires the interaction and ultimate agreement between the White House and Senate. The FBI has and should have no stake in the nomination or "advice and consent" process. The FBI should not be drawn into this essentially political dialogue. To place the FBI in any other position could endanger the FBI's objectivity and independence upon which both the White House and the Senate must ultimately rely.

Dear Senator Dole:

Director Sessions has requested that I respond to your letter dated May 1, 1989, concerning my earlier reply to your inquiry about the FBI's background investigation for former Senator John Tower's confirmation as Secretary of Defense.

Our objective in conducting special inquiry investigations is to adequately investigate a nominee's character, loyalty, reputation, and associates, past and present, and to present the facts in a manner so that employment and access decisions can be made by the White House. In performing this function, the FBI seeks to avoid making recommendations or drawing conclusions because to do so could influence the confirmation process. It is the objectivity of the FBI upon which both the White House and the Senate must rely.

I have attached materials that were prepared to explain the special inquiry process in general and the John Tower inquiry in particular. As referred to in my letter dated April 17, 1989, the four-page attachment regarding the special inquiry process was intended for delivery to Senator Ernest F. Hollings as a general explanation of how the FBI conducts background investigations. The two-page attachment regarding the Tower inquiry was inadvertently attached to the general explanation and delivered to Senator Hollings. This document was prepared as a very brief summary of the voluminous Tower inquiry and was intended to be used only as an internal briefing document. The document was not prepared as part of or in furtherance of the background investigation nor was it intended to be a formal statement or document retrievable from the Tower inquiry file. The document should not have contained conclusions but should have reflected only factual information. It was not disseminated to the White House as part of our normal reporting in these inquiries. While it is unfortunate that the document was given to Senator Hollings and that it reflects conclusions, I am sure you can understand how difficult it is to briefly summarize such a complex and voluminous inquiry.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

The case was precipitated by information provided by a Baltimore confidential source on February 28, 1989 that [redacted] The source was not able to identify which contracts were involved, how much money was paid, or the circumstances surrounding the payoffs. Additionally, source advised that UTL was caught with classified data outside the United States and Tower may have been used by UTL to rectify this problem. The source believed the classified data, which related to the Army Quick Look Program and the AWAC Program, was bound for the Chung-Shan Institute.

Interviews were conducted in Dallas and Washington, D.C. to ascertain if pay offs were made to Tower for the awarding of certain contracts. All interviewees were unaware of any payments being made to Tower on behalf of UTL [redacted] and [redacted] denied even knowing Tower.

Defense Investigative Service files were reviewed revealing that [redacted] States, but there were no indications Tower assisted [redacted] in [redacted]

On March 8, 1989, the above facts were presented to United States Attorney Breckinridge L. Willcox, who advised that he would render no prosecutive opinion on this matter as there is no venue in the District of Maryland. United States Attorney Willcox stated that if a criminal act occurred, venue would be proper in the District of Columbia or in Texas.

Subject: JOHN GOODWIN TOWER

Reference is made to a telephone conversation between yourself and SSA [redacted] on April 3, 1990.

Senator Tower is being considered for reappointment to the President's Foreign Intelligence Oversight Board, which will not require Senate confirmation. The White House requested a name check in connection with this reappointment. By response dated March 8, 1990 (a copy of which is attached), the White House received a copy of a letterhead memorandum (LHM) dated June 13, 1989 (a copy of which is also attached). As indicated in that LHM, United States Attorney Breckinridge L. Willcox declined to render a prosecutive opinion in this matter as there was no venue in the District of Maryland. He stated that if a criminal act occurred, venue would be proper in the District of Columbia or in Texas.

A review of the Bureau file (206-HQ-4088) relating to this case, which consists of only three serials, does not reflect whether this matter was presented to the United States Attorney's Offices in those areas. Pursuant to a request from the White House, the SPIN Unit has initiated a limited inquiry to determine additional details regarding this matter. Specifically, the SPIN Unit is attempting to determine 1) the current status (opened or closed) of this case, 2) if any appropriate investigation or interviews still need to be conducted, and 3) if this matter was presented to the United States Attorney's Offices in Washington, D. C., and Dallas, Texas, and, if not, this matter needs to be presented for a prosecutive opinion at this time. The White House has requested that this matter be handled as expeditiously as possible.

"October Surprise Task Force"
House of Representatives
Washington, D.C.

Dear [redacted]

This is in response to your July 8th letter concerning the FBI's production of documents to the Task Force and related issues. In a meeting between [redacted] and FBI representatives on July 2nd, these issues were discussed in detail.

For your information, and as [redacted] have been advised, upon receipt of your April 6th letter requesting production of certain FBI documents, we began to search and process our records using an expanded scope, covering the period of January 1, 1979, through the present, in order to avoid the possibility of subsequent, future reviews. As such, any pertinent records falling within your expanded timeframe are currently being processed in accordance with established procedures.

You also requested certain interview reports brought to your attention by the Office of Independent Counsel. I have enclosed a September 6, 1989 interview report of [redacted] along with the other requested reports, which were generated during the FBI's 1988 background investigation of John Tower conducted pursuant to his nomination as Secretary of Defense. Please note that FBI background investigation reports concerning Presidential nominations are considered extremely sensitive materials and are usually made available only to committees of the Congress in connection with pending confirmation proceedings. Release to the Task Force has been authorized by the Department of Justice, and only the sections of these reports which are pertinent to "October Surprise" allegations have been furnished. These reports are further described as follows:

1. [redacted] (sic) (redacted), interviewed 12/14/88;
2. [redacted] sic), interviewed 12/23/88; and
3. [redacted] interviewed 12/21/88.

Unfortunately, the FBI is unable to provide written authorization to the Reagan and Carter Libraries allowing the review of FBI documents in their possession. Like the Tower records, requests for records of this type should be coordinated through the Department of Justice. Also, be advised that your request should be specific in describing those materials which are potentially germane to your investigation.

Regarding the supplemental request for FBI documents at Attachment A of your recent letter, [redacted] were advised at the above-referenced meeting that the FBI would accommodate this request on a mutually agreeable schedule to be worked out between your staff and the FBI. Because of the volume of records requested and other ongoing document requests, we are not in a position to comply by the specified date, but we will work closely with your staff to make pertinent records available for your review on a rolling basis.

If you have any questions regarding this matter, please contact [redacted] at [redacted] or [redacted] of my staff, at [redacted]

By letter April 6, 1992, the Task Force requested that the Federal Bureau of Investigation ("FBI") produce certain records and documents which were created, sent or received during the period January 1, 1979, through December 31, 1985.

The Task Force has subsequently determined that in order to fully complete the investigation, it will be necessary to expand the scope of its April 6, 1992, request for documents to include any documents responsive to Attachment A of that request which were created, sent or received during the time period January 1, 1986 through the present.

The Office of Independent Counsel has informed the Task Force that they have returned to the FBI certain 302 reports of interviews which are relevant to our investigation. The interviews in question are of the following individuals:

[redacted]

In addition to the request for the reports of interview referred to above, I have annexed to this letter Attachment A which represents a supplementary request for documents and other information to be produced by the FBI. The reports of interview and the items called for in Attachment A are critical to our investigation and given the severe time constraints placed on the Task Force, should be produced no later than July 18, 1992.

The 52 hostages return to the U.S. in January 1981: Did freedom ring?

DEAL OF THE DECADE

The story of the Iranian "hostage crisis" is hardly new. It is, in fact, one of the most documented and analyzed events in recent U.S. history. From Nov. 4, 1979, when Iranian students took 65 Americans captive at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, until Jan. 20, 1981, when the remaining 52 Americans were finally released just minutes after Ronald Reagan was sworn in as president, the U.S. public and media were consumed with the hostages' plight. The affair has left an indelible mark on the American consciousness.

But a mounting body of evidence—first reported comprehensively by In These Times on June 24, 1987—indicates that there may have been a dark final chapter to the hostage crisis, a shadowy side of the story that was kept from the American public. This evidence suggests that officials from Reagan's 1980 election campaign cut a deal with Iran before the 1980 election—not to get the U.S. hostages back, but to keep them there to ensure President Carter's defeat.

Such an assertion has extremely serious ramifications—and the editors of In These Times were, to say the least, skeptical when it was brought to our attention. But we were surprised to learn that most of the facts surrounding the alleged deal came directly from reports in the mainstream media. These reports lacked a big-picture context individually, but taken together they had disturbing and compelling implications. After careful consideration throughout the first half of 1987, we decided In These Times readers had a right to at least weigh the following facts for themselves.

- Reagan's top pollster predicted a Carter victory if the White House could pull off an "October Surprise" and gain the hostages' release before the election. Journalists Jack Germond and Jules Witcover wrote that the Reagan campaign "anticipated such a surprise with a trepidation bordering on paranoia."
- According to the New York Times and a congressional report, the Reagan-Bush campaign established an "October Surprise Group"—an "intelligence operation" headed by Reagan-Bush campaign aide Richard Allen—to monitor the Carter administration's hostage negotiations and formulate countermoves.
- Washington Post and Miami Herald reports say Allen attended an extraordinary meeting at a Washington hotel with what the Herald described as "a man who said he represented the Iranian government" in "early October" 1980. According to the Herald, the man proposed to Reagan-Bush campaign aides Allen, Robert McFarlane and Laurence Silberman that Iran release the hostages to Reagan, not Carter, to "ensure President Carter's defeat in the November election."
- According to the Herald, all three future Reagan appointees said they turned down the offer. Allen claimed he wrote up minutes of the meeting but later lost them. None of the three could remember the name of the man they had met with.
- Carter aides negotiating in October 1980 with the Iranian government noted a shift in the Iranian bargaining position. According to former Carter National Security Council staff member Gary Sick, by October 22 the Iranians had changed their demands from spare parts for military equipment to cash assets frozen in the U.S. Such a shift would make sense if Iran knew it would have access to U.S.-made arms during the next administration.
- After the Nov. 4, 1980, election, Carter finalized his hostage agreement. No military goods were shipped, and the U.S. returned $1 billion of the $12 billion of frozen Iranian assets.
- The hostages were released moments after Reagan was sworn into office.
- In early 1981 Iran began receiving U.S.-made weapons from Israel. According to the Washington Post, these shipments violated stated U.S. policy, but had at least the tacit approval of Reagan administration officials.

Admittedly, the above evidence is circumstantial—it provides no "smoking gun." But it does raise important questions about the Reagan campaign and administration—questions In These Times hoped that the mainstream media would investigate more fully.

We were not alone in that hope. Carter, in a letter to writers Abbie Hoffman and Jonathan Silvers, noted, "We have had reports since late summer 1980 about Reagan campaign officials dealing with Iranians concerning delayed release of the American hostages.... [I] have trusted that investigations and historical records would someday let the truth be known." Carter's Iranian counterpart during the hostage crisis, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, told In These Times he had also heard of the alleged deal. Even released hostage Col. Charles Jack Scott told In These Times that "I've seen compelling circumstantial evidence."

Nonetheless, in the 15 months following the first In These Times report, the U.S. media has, for the most part, demonstrated a distinct lack of interest in the story. Hoffman and Silvers provided the notable exception with a detailed report in the October 1988 Playboy magazine. The respected West German newsmagazine Der Spiegel provided another investigation of the 1980 arms-for-hostages allegations in its September 5 issue.

Both stories added important new details about the purported deal. They showed how CIA and former CIA operatives aided the 1980 Reagan campaign in its efforts to keep on top of the hostage situation. More importantly, they brought to light the possibility that representatives of the Reagan campaign and Iran may have held a series of meetings in Paris, following the Washington meeting, to work out terms of the alleged deal.

How someone who claims to have been at one of these Paris meetings has given In These Times a first-hand account. Clearly, arms trader Richard Brenneke's assertions about the alleged deal are not the final word on this very important subject. Accompanying In These Times' main story, in fact, is an examination of Brenneke's credibility as a source. In the shadowy world of international intelligence and arms trading, motivations for public statements are not always clear—as demonstrated by the Iran-contra scandal. But as with our story months ago, the editors of In These Times believe our readers deserve to know about Brenneke's charges.

By Joel Bleifuss

IT WAS UNDER THREE WEEKS TILL THE PRESIDENTIAL election between President Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan was about two weeks away. An all-important final debate between the two candidates loomed little more than a week off. With so much to occupy them in Washington, Paris seemed like the last place on Earth to find top Reagan-Bush campaign aides.

But according to an American arms dealer and a U.S. intelligence source, Paris is exactly where several leading Reagan-Bush campaign representatives gathered on Oct. 19 and 20, 1980. Their alleged mission: to make working for the agency in 1980.

George and Casey's role at the meeting, Brenneke said, included "making sure the Iranians didn't fixate on the wrong things—like buying a space shuttle. There was great concern by the Americans that what was sent [to Iran] was appropriate for the occasion."

The Americans also managed the finances. None of the $40 million the Reagan-Bush campaign provided to the Iranians changed hands during the meeting he attended, he said. "The money was to be dealt with through Mr. Casey." Brenneke asserted that the $40 million passed through several European banks, including the Banque Lambert in Brussels.

None of the other arms dealers purportedly at the meeting could be reached for comment. Hadami died under mysterious circumstances in 1985. Reporters' attempts to reach Heydari and Ghorbanifar—a key triangle figure—have been unsuccessful. Iranians have refused to talk to reporters.

Brenneke said he did not travel to Paris with the intention of helping Ronald Reagan get elected. "The reason I, along with Hadami and Heuer, went to Paris was because we were told that the hostages' release was imminent. Kerrill [his CIA contact] told me that it was absolutely imperative that someone pay attention to details and be part of the negotiating team. At that time I didn't know who the team was. But I went. After all, people's lives were at stake."

the meeting. Brenneke "compared no[te]s with Heuer and Beres. They "came to ... conclusion that a deal had been made, and it involved the release of the 52 hostages in January provided that certain conditions were met, specifically the release of arms."

"A month or ... later I talked to some folks in the States at Langley [CIA headquarters in Virginia] and they confirmed my suspicions," he concluded.

Mr. X goes to Washington: The alleged Paris meetings were not without precedent. According to reports in the Washington Post, the Miami Herald, Playboy and Der Spiegel, Reagan-Bush campaign representatives and a man who claimed to represent the Iranian government met in Washington, D.C., prior to the alleged Paris meeting.

The reports said Richard Allen, Robert McFarlane and Laurence Silberman met an unknown Iranian representative in the lobby of L'Enfant Plaza Hotel in Washington, D.C.

At the time, Allen was the foreign policy adviser to the Reagan-Bush campaign. He later became Reagan's national security adviser. McFarlane, who later served as the president's national security adviser. It was McFarlane who, as Reagan's national security adviser, negotiated the 1985-86 arms-for-hostages deal with Iran. Silberman, an aide to Allen during the campaign, was later appointed to the federal judiciary by Reagan.

Allen said in recent press interviews that in September 1980 an "incensed" McFarlane approached him with the "ridiculous" idea of meeting with an ... representative. "McFarlane wanted ... me to go; he was emphatic and, again, ... judgment, I agreed."

In turn, McFarlane described Allen as a "fool," saying his statement was "completely wrong. Explained McFarlane, "An individual claiming to be Iranian approached me and [he] was referred [by another] to the Reagan campaign staff."

During the meeting at the Crillon Hotel the Iranian told the three Americans that his country was willing to delay the release of the hostages until after the November presidential election, according to the Miami Herald. All three men insisted that they dismissed the matter. And yet none could remember the name of the Iranian representative with whom they met. Allen said he lost his minutes of the meeting.

Arms business as usual: guns to Iran since 1980

By Jonathan Silvers

Republican covert intelligence activity—a hallmark of both the 1980 presidential campaign and its subsequent administrations—could not have reached the proportions it did without the assistance of the international defense and intelligence communities. It appears that the most obliging of these accomplices was the Israeli government. According to Israeli intelligence sources, the Mossad, Israel's intelligence agency, has for the past eight years been the White House's favorite vehicle for distributing American aid to causes that are unpopular with the U.S. Congress.

In the circles where such matters are discussed, Israel is known as an aggressive marketer of sophisticated weapons systems. Armed with little more than catalogues and invoices, merchants are routinely dispatched to the world's hot spots, where they peddle everything from Uzis to TOW missiles. Prospective buyers sample wares at Israeli arms franchises around the globe. Israel is an "equal opportunity" trader; it rarely discriminates among nations, even when a transaction may conflict with diplomatic objectives.

When pressed, the Mossad has conceded it has exported arms to Iraq, Jordan and Syria—all sworn enemies of the Jewish state. Experts have placed Israel's annual revenue from these sales in the tens of billions of dollars.

That Israel has managed to conceal such commerce is a tribute to its agents' ingenuity. "The Israelis are understandably reluctant to have their arms trade scrutinized, and the U.S. has generally honored their privacy," said Gary Sick, former National Security Council (NSC) staff member in the Carter administration.

Even when caught red-handed selling U.S. weapons to the Iranians in 1985, Israel managed to avoid international censure. Preoccupied with the notion of criminality in the White House, the congressional Iran-contra investigations diminished or neglected to explore Israel's participation in the arms-for-hostages initiative.

"Our mandate forced us to focus on arms deals in 1985 and 1986," said Arthur Liman, counsel for the Senate Select Committee. "There was evidence of Israeli involvement in other years, but we didn't have the time to pursue it, or the ability to expand the mandate."

So while it was generally accepted that Israel had been Reagan's most serviceable ally, the enormity of its arms trade has yet to be recognized by the U.S. Congress.

Breaking the embargo: Israeli arms merchants were among the first beneficiaries of the Islamic revolution. Shortly after the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was attacked and 65 Americans were taken hostage in November 1979, then-President Jimmy Carter declared a formal embargo against Iran. All shipments were halted and all Iranian assets under American management were frozen. American allies were asked to suspend trade and exert economic pressures of their own against Iran.

Iran's impassioned civilians were able to endure the privation. But without a steady flow of American-made military supplies, the Ayatollah's army—which under the shah had been trained and supplied exclusively by the U.S.—was rapidly approaching paralysis. In desperation, Khomeini's lieutenants contacted Israel in spring 1980 and offered to purchase—at inflated prices—American-made ammunition and spare parts. The Israelis accepted the offer, and secretly arranged to deliver 20 tons of non-lethal materiel (aircraft tires, brake assemblies, hoses, etc.) to Tehran.

Carter first learned of these negotiations in late June 1980, when he received an urgent communique from then-Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin. Begin informed Carter that Israel had delivered one planeload of proscribed parts to Iran. Unless Carter objected, Begin wanted to continue trading, the relationship was immensely profitable.

"Carter was astonished," recalled Sick. "The Israelis were putting at risk their whole military supply relationship with the U.S. We sent a strong message back to Begin that any sales to Iran would be dangerously counterproductive to U.S. interests."

Business is business: Chastised, the Israelis promised to honor the U.S. embargo. Three months later, however, they quietly resumed arms sales after the start of the Iran-Iraq war. "On September 24 [1980], two days after the Iraq invasion, Israel was knocking on my door," said Abolhassan Bani Sadr, former president of Iran. "We accepted their conditions; we had no choice."

Arms dealer Hourchang Lavi also witnessed the Israeli hard-sell. "On two occasions—the minute the shah was overthrown and the minute the Iraq war began—Israel was serving supplies to Tehran," he said. "The agents had many channels, sometimes making deliveries via Portugal, Italy, China. But always the Israelis were involved."

According to Ephraim Poran, former military adviser to Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, Israel rationalized its covert efforts as means of self-preservation. "Because if the Iraqis win, we will find the Soviets on the border with Iran." By strengthening the Iranian military, Israel could repel Iraq—a long-standing adversary—without sacrificing its own troops.

As the Iran-Iraq war intensified in late 1986, Iran approached again Israel and the black market to supplement its dwindling military supply. The Israelis, meanwhile, were becoming increasingly hesitant about violating the U.S. embargo. Israel later ex-President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr told Playboy he received intelligence reports that the Iranian at that Washington meeting was an envoy for Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani, the speaker of the Iranian parliament who would later negotiate the 1985-86 arms-for-hostages deal with McFarlane.

Bani-Sadr said that Rafsanjani sent the envoy to propose a deal that was better for Iran than the one being offered by the Carter administration. Bani-Sadr added that he believed Reagan-Bush campaign officials embraced the envoy's proposal. Before returning to Iran, the envoy met with senior campaign advisers, according to Bani-Sadr.

The former Iranian leader said he received reports that one of those subsequent meetings was held in Paris in the two weeks before the election—a claim that supports Hamilton's allegations.

More circumstantial evidence giving credence to allegations of the Paris meetings comes from All Fall Down by Gary Sick, Carter's NSC expert on Iran. In the book Sick claimed that on Oct. 22, 1980—two days after the last of the purported Paris meetings—Iran changed its negotiating position with Carter officials. Sick maintained that earlier in October the Iranians had demanded American weapons and spare parts, but on Oct. 22 Iran unofficially limited its demands to cash assets. "This occurred because Iran had been guaranteed another source of U.S. arms," an Iranian journalist told Playboy.

Allen, who had previously vehemently denied any knowledge of the Paris meetings, recently admitted to Lars Erik Nelson of the New York Daily News that some "self-starters" in the Reagan campaign might have met some Iranian backers in Paris. But Allen insisted that no such meeting was authorized by the campaign.

Broken laws? Whether it involved "self-starters" or top campaign officials, any 1980 deal between Reagan-Bush representatives and Iranian representatives violated U.S. law.

"Clearly, the Logan Act [illegible] applicable in this situation," said Richard Falk, an expert in international law at Princeton University. The act forbids private citizens from engaging in diplomatic negotiations with foreign governments. Other legal experts supported Falk's opinion.

Falk also said that an arrangement to keep [illegible] of legal accountability "One could make the case that if a delay in the release of the hostages did take place, the persons arranging the delay would have been accomplices to the crime," he said.

But there are questions beyond whether the law was broken. A deal between a US political campaign and a foreign government aimed at disrupting the course of a presidential election would undermine the democratic system.

Ronald Reagan praised that system during his inaugural address on Jan. 20, 1981. Referring to the "orderly transfer of authority as called for in the Constitution," the new president noted that "in the eyes of many in the world, this every-four-year ceremony we accept as routine is nothing less than a miracle."

Even for Americans, the transfer of power in 1981 had a miraculous feel. Minutes after Reagan took the oath of office, 52 American hostages were suddenly on their way home from Iran after 444 days in captivity.

But in the cynical and calculating world of international diplomacy, real miracles are rare. As a growing body of evidence suggests, Reagan's eventful inauguration day—and the circumstances leading to it—had little to do with Providence. □ versed its policy. "We eventually decided not to sell any American things to Iran," said Furan.

But Israel was not about to abandon its best customer entirely. The decision to stop exporting American arms did not preclude the covert sale of Israeli-made supplies, the majority of which are indistinguishable from—and interchangeable with—their patented American counterparts. Or, as arms dealer Lavi put it, "A radar tracking device is a radar tracking device, no matter who makes it."

Like any nation involved in clandestine operations, Israel values its deniability, and goes to great lengths to protect it. "Israel has a rather ingenious setup as far as arms sales are concerned," said Sick. "When its salesmen do something that furthers ideological or political objectives, they are officially certified Israeli agents—government emissaries. And when Israel wants to dissociate itself from them, these same dealers are suddenly independents, all official ties severed. The fact is, they all work for Israel."

From May 1980 until Reagan's inauguration in 1981, Israeli arms dealers, official or otherwise, delivered a large amount of U.S. supplies to Tehran through Portugal, Italy and other accommodating ports without attracting the attention of the Carter administration. Bani-Sadr said that by playing fast and loose with export rules, Israel did roughly $50 million to $100 million worth of business with Bani-Sadr's administration, which ended in June 1981.

Changing of the guard: The dramatic change in the American political climate following Reagan's inauguration—chiefly a by-product of the hostages' release in Tehran—emboldened Israel. Within months, then-Defense Minister Ariel Sharon formally proposed U.S. arms sales to Iran—via the Israeli conduit—to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger. Weinberger dismissed the idea, noting that such sales directly opposed stated administration policy.

Apparently undaunted, Sharon offered a similar initiative to Secretary of State Alexander Haig, pitching it as a means of befriending alleged Iranian "moderates."

Sharon evidently found some support within the White House. By July 1981 Reagan's Senior Interdepartmental Group (SIG) had reevaluated its hard-line position and found it wanting. SIG eventually recommended that the U.S. quietly encourage shipments of military supplies to Iran by willing third parties. "It was an experimental program," said one senior NSC staff member. "We anxiously awaited the result."

According to the Wall Street Journal, Haig reluctantly approved Sharon's plan in November 1981 at the urging of then-policy analysts Robert McFarlane and Michael Leeden. CIA Director William Casey later explained to journalist Bob Woodward, "The initiative seemed credible to us, based on the future, post-Khomeini era."

With the State Department's acquiescence, Israeli dealers began working overtime, placing orders and making deliveries. No one is certain just how much aid the "moderates" received, but it has been widely reported that billions of dollars worth of sophisticated American military supplies—artillery, TOWs, Hawk missiles, F-4 and F-5 parts—reached Tehran by the time the Iran-contra scandal broke in November 1986.

Sharon had an ulterior motive in soliciting White House support. If Israel could become the sole conduit for U.S. weapons in the Mideast, diplomatic ties between Arab nations and the U.S. would likely suffer. Israel would effectively assure its primacy as America's only strategic ally in the region.

Throughout its first term, the Reagan administration regularly denied that it had anything to do with the resurrection of Iran's military. But in a May 1982 interview with the Washington Post, Sharon said that the White House had been informed in scrupulous detail of Israel's impending sales to Iran and had raised no objections. Israeli Ambassador Moshe Arens confirmed this to the Boston Globe, noting that "the sales had been worked out with the U.S. government consent at almost the highest levels."

In fact, Reagan's Senior Interdepartmental Group agreed in July 1981 that the U.S. should subtly encourage third-party arms sales to Iran as a way of advancing American interests in the Persian Gulf. Deputy Director of Central Intelligence Bobby Ray Inman has said that the CIA monitored Israeli arms shipments to Iran in 1981 and 1982 for the National Security Council. And the U.S. Customs Service reportedly looked the other way when restricted supplies were bound for Iran.

Out of the loop: Make no bones, it was easy for the White House to feign ignorance. Although eager for Iranian business, the Israelis were discreet. Covert arms sales rarely attracted public attention, and when they did, the U.S. and Israel dismissed them as trivial. On July 20, 1981, a cargo plane returning to Tel Aviv from Tehran via the northern route strayed into Soviet airspace and was shot down by a squadron of MiG-25s. In the aftermath, it was discovered that the plane had been ferrying $30 million worth of American-made M-48 tank parts and ammunition to Iran. The Israeli government denied any involvement in the incident, but several Israeli officials quietly conceded that their agents had commissioned similar flights. The U.S. publicly expressed shock, but privately continued to encourage Israeli shipments.

In 1984, however, Iranian-sponsored terrorist attacks led the Reagan administration to reconsider its clandestine Mideast policy. Rather than mollify the Ayatollah, four years of covert arms sales had invigorated his wrath. In a quixotic effort to shut the floodgates from the U.S. and Israel, the White House launched Operation Staunch. Arms dealers who for years had shipped restricted weapons to Iran with impunity were suddenly arrested. Branded traitors, they were charged with conspiring to violate both the embargo against arms sales to Iran and the U.S. national interest.

Which is ironic, because one year later Ronald Reagan would call such activity patriotic. □ final arrangements with representatives of the Ayatollah Khomeini on a deal that would delay the release of the 52 American hostages in Iran until after the U.S. election—thereby ensuring a Reagan victory. For their part, the campaign's representatives would give Iran $40 million and arrange for the country to immediately purchase badly needed weapons and spare parts, in defiance of a U.S. arms embargo.

"Satisfy everybody involved": Richard Brenneke, an arms dealer with CIA connections, said he was at the final of three meetings among Reagan-Bush officials, Iranian representatives and international arms dealers. "The purpose of the meetings was to negotiate, not only for the release of the hostages, but also to discuss...how we would go about satisfying everybody involved," Brenneke said last last month in a sworn deposition to a federal judge in Denver. At Brenneke's request U.S. District Judge Jim R. Carrigan agreed to take his September 23 deposition at a closed hearing. On October 1 Denver's Rocky Mountain News obtained a court order to have the hearing's records unsealed.

A senior U.S. intelligence source, who was not at the meetings but claimed access to sensitive files about them, corroborated Brenneke's assertions about the existence and purpose of the three Paris meetings. The source requested anonymity.

Brenneke, in the deposition and in telephone interviews with In These Times, contended that the meeting was held to work out a final agreement on the manner in which the $40 million would be used to furnish Iran with military equipment. The alleged arms transactions apparently violated the arms embargo against the Mideast nation that President Carter had imposed in 1979. That embargo, although officially continued under Reagan, was violated by Reagan's own officials, who approved Israeli arms sales to Iran soon after Reagan took office, in opposition to stated U.S. policy (see accompanying story by Jonathan Silvers).

In his deposition, Brenneke said he attended an Oct. 20, 1980, meeting at the Florida Hotel in Paris at the request of Robert Kerrit, his contact at the CIA. Brenneke claimed to have worked for the CIA on a contract basis from the late '60s until 1985—an assertion the agency denies (see accompanying story on Brenneke's credibility as a source).

Brenneke told In These Times that those attending the meeting, which lasted from about 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., discussed "the nitty-gritty of what [the Iranians] were going to get, what they wanted to get, financing methods and payment programs."

The Iranians had a long shopping list. They desperately needed weaponry. Not only had Iran just entered a bloody war with Iraq, but Khomeini's military—largely equipped with, and dependent on, American-made armaments—had been suffering withdrawal symptoms triggered by Carter's 1979 arms embargo.

Brenneke told In These Times that his role at the meeting was to arrange weapons sales to Iran. He said, to the best of his recollection, he was involved in transactions involving various types of ammunition, Czech-made AK-47 assault rifles, shoulder-fired anti-aircraft missiles and rocket-propelled grenades, both manufactured in the East bloc, and sophisticated American-made aircraft parts. Brenneke told the judge that he would provide, in confidence, "copies of the and later reshipment of those weapons."

Naming names: The Americans present at the meeting, according to Brenneke, included William Casey, 1980 Reagan-Bush campaign chief later named CIA director, and Donald Gregg, who went on to become Vice President George Bush's national security adviser. Also in attendance,

Arms dealer Richard Brenneke told In These Times that he attended a Paris meeting on Oct. 20, 1980, during which Reagan-Bush campaign representatives "discussed...what [the Iranians] were going to get...financing methods and payment programs."

Brenneke said, were Iranian representatives and international weapons dealers, including Manoucher Ghorbanifar, Cyrus Hashemi, Ahmad Heydari and Robert Benes. Benes had ties to SDECE, France's intelligence agency. Brenneke said that French "foreign ministry types" helped expedite the alleged deal.

The U.S. intelligence source corroborated much of Brenneke's account of who attended the meeting.

At the time of the meeting, Gregg was serving as President Carter's National Security Council (NSC) liaison. But according to Brenneke, Gregg "indicated" to him that the NSC—which advises the president on matters of national security—was not aware of the Paris negotiations. Brenneke told In These Times he suspected that Gregg served in the CIA under Bush in 1976, "looking around the corner" toward the [illegible] administration.

"But Stanley Hart, a spokesman for the vice president's office, denied that Gregg was at any such meeting. 'Don has denied to me that he was ever involved in anything of the sort, saying it is all 'false' and 'absurd.'"

Casey died in 1987. The only public documents of his 1980 campaign activities—records housed in the Hoover Institution, Stanford University—make no mention of Casey's activities on Oct. 18, 19 and 20, 19[illegible].

Further allegations about Casey's visit to Paris come from Michael Scott, a lawyer and airplane pilot who was recently convicted of bank fraud. Scott, an attorney for Heinrich Rupp, told In These Times that the effort flew four passengers, including Casey, from Washington's National Airport to Le Bourget Airport north of Paris on the night of Oct. 18, 1980. The private jet, according to Scott, was registered to then-Prince Bandar bin Abdularziz, who is now the king of Saudi Arabia.

Rupp was described by the U.S. intelligence source as "William Casey's favorite pilot." Brenneke, who gave his deposition about the Paris meeting on behalf of a "close friend," Rupp, said he believes Rupp was arrested for "doing something the agency [CIA] asked him to do." Brenneke testified that the pilot had been employed by the CIA since 1957. He said Rupp flew planes for Air America, a CIA front, and was Going to the source: the debate over Richard Brenneke's credibility

Last May White House correspondents confronted presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater about allegations Richard Brenneke had made linking the vice president's office to drug trafficking by the Nicaraguan contras. Fitzwater—like many others in Washington, D.C.—questioned the arms dealer's credibility. "Wasn't he on trial? I challenge you to look up his court case in New York...[His testimony] was considered by the jury, and considered by the courts, and rejected."

But instead of being the victim of disinformation, the White House was the perpetrator: Brenneke was not on trial in New York or anywhere else. Even Vice President George Bush later conceded that Brenneke was not under indictment.

Brenneke is a controversial man around Washington. Unlike many in the intelligence and arms-trade community, he has cooperated over the past year with reporters in their investigations of such delicate stories as contragate and the alleged 1980 deal between the Reagan-Bush campaign and the Iranians (see accompanying story).

The arms dealer's defenders say he is a reliable source—someone with precious first-hand insights into the complex world of covert activity. But his critics, the most vocal of whom can be found in the Reagan administration, charge that he is a self-serving teller of tall tales—someone who should never be used as a news source.

Brenneke's critics in the Reagan administration and the CIA are so unrelenting in their denunciations of him, in fact, that one might wonder whether there is a coordinated effort to discredit Brenneke.

[illegible] to dismiss Brenneke's sworn deposition about the alleged 1980 deal between the Reagan-Bush campaign and Iranian officials. "That's a hoot," said White House spokesman Stephen Hart. "I have dealt with allegations from Mr. Brenneke for the last two years. They have never proven true...He has no credibility."

In These Times asked Hart to provide examples of Brenneke's lies. He came up with what he called "two very powerful examples."

The first: "Brenneke has alleged that he had the vice president's sanction to contact Iranians to discuss arms deals, and that is absolutely false."

But Brenneke told In These Times his statements had been misrepresented by Hart. "What I did say was that I had supplied Mr. Bush with information relating to arms sales to Iran in mid-1985 when he was in Portland in January 1986. I never discussed it with Mr. Bush. I never claimed that Mr. Bush authorized me to do anything. I make a very clear distinction between his office and the vice president. I did deal with his office—Don Gregg and Douglas Menarchik." Donald Gregg is the vice president's national security adviser and Lt. Col. E. Douglas Menarchik is one of Gregg's deputies.

The second: "Brenneke has suggested that he had worked for the CIA. And earlier this year the CIA took the extraordinary step of commenting [on his claim]," said Hart. In most instances the CIA neither confirms nor denies the identity of its employees, but "in this case [it] denied that he had ever had anything to do with the [illegible]."

Yet Richard Ryan—an investigator for the International Center for Development Policy, a public-policy organization where Brenneke is also employed—called the CIA's denial "ridiculous." Ryan explained that the CIA claimed in a public statement that a letter Brenneke had presented to Congress as evidence of his CIA employment was, in fact, a forgery.

"There is a problem with the CIA claim," said Ryan. "One needs to question why the CIA got the letter of recommendation." He asserted that the only member of the media who ever had access to the letter was a New York Times reporter.

Explained Ryan, "The CIA claimed to have received the letter from the Portland Oregonian. But the Oregonian has stated that they never received a copy of the letter of recommendation and therefore could never have supplied it to the CIA. The only logical conclusion that one can draw is that this 'forgery' was drawn from the CIA's own files, which makes it legitimate. The only thing the CIA's denial proves is that they were willing to lie about where they got [the letter] from."

Peter Dale Scott, co-author of the book The Iran Contra Connection and a professor at the University of California at Berkeley, interviewed Brenneke at length about the Iran-contra affair. He believes the arms dealer is credible.

"Brenneke certainly had something to do with the movement of arms to Iran," Scott told In These Times. "With his background, if there was such a [October] meeting, he would have been the guy—would be the logical person to have [illegible]."

The Honorable William Sessions
Director
Federal Bureau of Investigation
10th and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20535

Dear Director Sessions:

As you know, the Subcommittee on Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is investigating the so-called "October Surprise" allegations that private United States citizens and Government officials acted to delay or manipulate the release of American hostages held in Iran in relation to the 1980 presidential election.

We would like to review the FBI's background investigation of John Tower prepared in connection with his confirmation hearings to become Secretary of Defense in 1988. It is our understanding that the FBI report may have dealt with former Senator Tower's knowledge or involvement in alleged 1980 meetings between Republican campaign officials and an unidentified Iranian emissary seeking to propose an arms-for-hostages exchange.

In order for the subcommittee to complete its investigation as expeditiously as possible, we would appreciate your involvement in ensuring that our access to the report is unimpeded and immediate. Please have your staff contact [redacted] or [redacted] conducting the investigation, at [redacted] We thank you in advance for your cooperation.

With best wishes always,

Committee on Foreign Relations

Honorable James M. Jeffords
Ranking Minority Member Subcommittee on Near Eastern

Committee on Foreign Relations
United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Mr. Chairman and Senator Jeffords:

This is in response to your March 30, 1992 letter to the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, requesting an opportunity to review the background investigation report prepared by the FBI in connection with the nomination of John Tower to be Secretary of Defense.

FBI background investigation reports concerning Presidential nominations are extremely sensitive materials. They are only made available to committees of the Senate in connection with confirmation proceedings that are currently pending before such committees. Moreover, this access is generally provided only on the basis of carefully negotiated arrangements with those committees and only under terms intended to ensure tightly controlled access and limited use. It would be inconsistent with these arrangements to make these reports available to other committees for other purposes.

Although we are therefore not in a position to grant the Subcommittee's request to review the Tower background investigation report, in an effort to accommodate the Subcommittee's interests we are prepared to permit the Subcommittee staff to review the portions of the report that pertain to the "October Surprise" allegations. Your staff may contact [redacted] of my staff [redacted] to make arrangements for this review.

Storage:

The active main files are maintained in hard copy form and some inactive records are maintained on microfilm. Investigative information which is maintained in computerized form may be stored in memory, on disk storage, on computer tape, or on a computer printed listing.

Retrievability:

The FBI General Index must be searched to determine what information, if any, the FBI may have in its files. Index records, or pointers to specific FBI files, are created on all manner of subject matters, but the predominant type record is the name index record. It should be noted the FBI does not index all individuals who furnish information or all names developed during the course of an investigation. Only that information considered pertinent, relevant, or essential for future retrieval, is indexed. In certain major cases, individuals interviewed may be indexed to facilitate the administration of the investigation. The FBI has automated that portion of its index contomated that portion of its index containing the most recent information—15 years for criminal related matters and 30 years for intelligence and other type matters. Automation will not change the "Central Records System"; it will only facilitate more economic and expeditious access to the main files. Searches against the automated records are accomplished on a "batch off-line" basis for certain submitting agencies where the name search requests conform to FBI specified formats and also in an "on-line" mode with the use of video display terminals for other requests. The FBI will not permit any organization, public or private, outside the FBI to have direct access to the FBI indices system. All searches against the indices data base will be performed on site within FBI space by FBI personnel with the assistance of the automated procedures, where feasible. Automation of the various FBI field office indices has been under way for approximately five years; completion is anticipated during FY 1988. This automation initiative has been on a "day-one" basis. This indices system points to specific files within a given field office. Additionally, certain complicated investigative matters may be supported by [redacted] further recounted a story which she advised was made public at a news conference (date and place unrecalled), which, if true, she believes reflects adversely on Senator Tower's honesty. She advised that in approximately 1980, Senator Tower was contacted by the Ayatollah Khomeini of Iran and was asked to attempt to secure spare parts for American aircraft which the Iranians were using in their war against Iraq. Allegedly, [redacted] was sent by Senator Tower to the White House to find out if there was any interest on the part of the United States Government in providing these aircraft parts to Khomeini. [redacted] noted that none of this story was made public during the work of the Tower Commission, which was investigating the Iran/Contra matter.

Article re John Towe written by Kenneth Adelman

LONESOME HAWK

Where has Tower been left?

John Tower has been long on courage and short on discretion during his nearly 30 years in public service. Both have embroiled him in controversy and tossed him in a boundless sea of troubles now.

Mr. Tower has displayed courage to champion strong defense through good times and bad, in committee meetings and on the Senate floor, in cooperation or conflict with the White House. Mr. Tower's wrath could set an opponent's teeth on edge; even the Reagan administration experienced it when deciding to deploy the MX missile in fixed silos in the early 1980s.

And, like David, Mr. Tower would take on Goliaths over major issues. He was right more often than not, and always courageous.

This, ironically, proved costly. Most other legislators, accustomed to compromise all day, develop rounded edges. Not Mr. Tower. He kept his sharp edges, which showed in his sharp tongue.

Still, I was mighty impressed by Mr. Tower's performance as strategic arms negotiator in 1985 and 1986. He mastered technical information far better than expected, built a first-rate team, and dealt with the Russians as a true professional.

Yet his lack of discretion proved troublesome then, as before and since. Not that this directly affected his on-the-job performance — it never did — but it did raise questions about his overall judgment and probity.

Private behavior is fair game for judging a public servant. A person is cut from one cloth of character. No one can be saintly by day and devilish by night. And a defense secretary has no private life. In the military chain of command just below the president, he must be of sound and clear mind by day and by night. No defense secretary gets time off. International crises keep no regular hours.

Moreover, public servants should be more than bureaucratic functionaries. They do set a tone and ideally an example for the rest of us. As Walter Lippmann wrote: "Those in high places are more than the administrators of government bureaus. They are more than the writers of laws. They are the custodians of a nation's ideals, of the beliefs it cherishes, of its permanent hopes, of the faith which makes a nation out of a mere aggregation of individuals ...."

Where does all this leave Mr. Tower? In a stew.

Granted, President Bush doesn't want to cut, and Mr. Tower doesn't want to run. Loyalty flows both ways or it flows neither; the Bush administration feels compelled to stick by its man to avoid being tagged as the cave-in crowd. And Mr. Tower has been blackened so badly already that he must reckon: What's a little more mud?

Yet the stewing must stop. Critical budget decisions affecting the Pentagon for the next four years are being made without a defense secretary. Mr. Bush's designating his first week as "ethics week" went astray. And Mr. Tower's fate, in the near term anyway, stands somewhere between a ruptured duck and a dead duck.

And unfortunately after all this, Mr. Tower no longer has any unique advantage. He's not known as a strategist, a la James Schlesinger; or as a whiz-bang manager, like Robert McNamara; or as a first friend of the president, like Cap Weinberger.

Mr. Tower once offered uniquely collegial dealings with the Congress in general and the Senate Armed Services Committee, his stomping grounds for 24 years, in particular. No longer.

The Senate vibes, especially from the Armed Services Committee, are increasingly negative. This counts for a lot, since these men know Mr. Tower best and since they hold the power here.

Most of the time most senators feel themselves less powerful than those in the executive branch. But not in the confirmation process. Here the nominee is almost wholly in the committee's, and then the Senate's, hands.

This process constitutes the quintessence of John C. Calhoun's concept of government by concurrent majority, wherein a willful band of senators can halt a critical action, the appointment of a president's person to implement his policies.

While the process does not work flawlessly — Walter Hickel, Theodore Sorenson, Clement Haynsworth, William Clark, and other capable, decent men from sundry administrations were unnecessarily bruised — it does work fairly well.

For senators are, by and large, keen at gaining a sense of the nominee. They arrive near the top of their profession due to their skill at sizing up. As the great House Speaker Sam Rayburn once said, "A man who can't size up another person when he walks in the room had better be in another profession."

If the Senate's collective wisdom continues to be negative, or if Mr. Tower's inferno burns further out of control, Mr. Bush best name a replacement fast.

As a proven manager, experienced hand, broad strategic thinker, and squeaky clean public figure, no one can hold a candle to Donald H. Rumsfeld.

Had Mr. Rumsfeld been selected first, the Bush administration would be in better shape, defense decisions better made, and John Tower's reputation better intact.

Ken Adelman, former director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and an adviser to President Reagan on the INF negotiations, is a nationally syndicated columnist.

6. PRIVILEGES AVAILABLE TO A FORMER MEMBER OF THE SENATE

Some of the privileges afforded to a former Member of the Senate are derived from statutory law and the Senate Rules, but most are traditional courtesies. The following list was compiled by the Senate Library in consultation with the Congressional Research Service, the Office of the Secretary of the Senate, the Office of the Sergeant at Arms, the Office of the Architect of the Capitol, the Joint Committee on Printing, and the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration.

JT saw NOV 29 1984

(1) Floor privileges in the Senate (found in Senate Rule XXIII).

(2) Permanent Senate ID from the Senate Sergeant at Arms.

(3) Use of the Senators' dining rooms.

(4) Outpatient care at the Capitol Physician's Office on a space available basis. Prescription drugs are also available.

(5) Parking at the Capitol complex. While no parking permits are issued, arrangements can usually be made by calling the Office of the Sergeant at Arms.

(6) Use of the Congressional Research Service. Borrowing privileges at the Library of Congress are available provided the former Member's account is clear. However, the Library of Congress is unable to make deliveries to former Members.

(7) Use of and borrowing privileges at the Senate Library.

(8) Documents from the Senate Document Room upon the personal request of the former Member.

(9) Services of the Disbursing Office, including check cashing, purchase of traveler's checks, and assistance regarding retirement and other benefits.

(10) Use of the Credit Union.

(11) Purchasing privileges at the Stationery Room.

(12) Use of the Senators' gymnasium.

(13) A subscription to the Congressional Record (44 USC section 906). Requests for the Congressional Record should be made in writing to: Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

(14) A copy of the Congressional Directory is usually available from the Joint Committee on Printing.

(15) Use of the Senate barbershops.

3. FRANKING PRIVILEGE

A Senator is authorized to use the mailing frank for a period of 90 days immediately following the date on which the office is vacated for matters of official business related to the closing of the Senator's office.

A surviving spouse (or if there is no surviving spouse, a member of the immediate family of the Member designated by the Secretary of the Senate in accordance with the rules and procedures established by the Secretary) may use the frank for not more than 180 days after the death of a Senator for non-political correspondence relating to the death of the Senator.

Additional uses of the mailing frank, involving public documents printed by Congress and Department of Agriculture reports and seeds, are authorized for certain periods following the expiration of a Senator's term of office. Appendix C lists the various uses of the mailing frank, applicable sections of the U. S. Code, and periods during which the frank may be used. For additional information, see the Select Committee on Ethics (224-2981) "Regulations governing THE USE OF THE MAILING FRANK by Members and Officers of the United States Senate."

4. THE POST OFFICE AND THE MAIL

Regular mail delivery by the Senate Post Office will terminate on the last day of the Senator's service. The standard practice of the Senate Post Office is to forward all mail to the Senator's forwarding address until January 31 of the year following the Senator's departure. After one year, everything is returned to sender by the Senate Post Office. It is recommended that the Senator's staff make every effort to remove the Senator's name from mass mailed materials prior to departure by contacting the Senate Post Office (224-5353). If the Senator's staff does not remove the Senator's name from this mass mail material, the Senate Post Office will remove the Senator's name as of February 1st of the year following the Senator's departure.

Re: Tower v. Tower (Civil Action No. D1403-86)

Dear Judge Bacon:

Please find enclosed a joint Motion and Proposed Order, requesting that the Court place the deposition of John Tower under seal as originally agreed to by the parties. This motion is necessitated by the court reporter's inadvertent filing of the transcript.

I am handling this matter while my colleague, Kenneth Lyons, is out of town. This motion is being made in an abundance of caution, recognizing the sensitive nature of Senator Tower's deposition.

Very truly yours,

LILLA BURT CUMMINGS TOWER

Plaintiff,

v.

JOHN GOODWIN TOWER

Defendant.

Civil Action No. D1403-86

ENTERED ON DOCKET
SEP 11 1987

DECREE OF DIVORCE

This cause came before the Court on this 10th day of September, 1987. Upon the pleadings filed herein, and the evidence adduced, the following has been made:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The Plaintiff, LILLA BURT CUMMINGS TOWER, is a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia, and has been such for more than six months next preceding the filing of this action.

2. The parties were lawfully married to each other on May 29, 1977 in Dallas, Texas.

3. There are no children born of the marriage.

4. On or about November 11, 1985, the parties mutually and voluntarily began living separate and apart. Since that time, they have voluntarily continued to live separate and apart and such separation has been uninterrupted and without cohabitation for more than six months next preceding the commencement of this action.

5. The parties voluntarily entered into a Separation and Property Settlement Agreement on August 21, 1987 (Agreement), by which contract the parties have settled all matters arising out of their marriage. The parties intend that the contract determine and control all matters set forth therein as set forth therein. Each party has had the advice of independent counsel of his or her own choosing in the negotiation and execution of the Agreement, understands its terms, and believes it constitutes a fair, reasonable and adequate settlement of their respective rights and obligations and was freely and voluntarily entered into by them. The Agreement includes, but is not necessarily limited to, matters concerning disposition of property, support and survivor and health benefits and annuity rights. The parties seek to have and intend that their Agreement be treated, perpetuated for its life and enforced as a contract and ask that the Court without in any manner whatsoever now or in the future abridging, modifying, limiting, changing the nature of, transforming, extinguishing or merging the whole or any part of said contract as contract, enter an order to effectuate the provisions relating to the benefits the Plaintiff is to receive under the Defendant's Federal Civil Service Retirement and Health Benefits Plans including annuity and survivorship benefits and health benefits in the amount and manner as has been set forth in the Agreement.

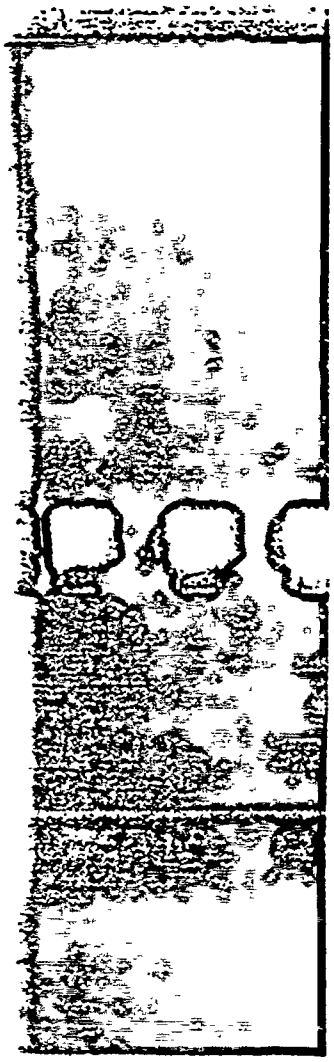
6. There is no reasonable prospect for reconciliation between the parties.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based upon the foregoing Findings of Fact the Court concludes as a matter of law that the Plaintiff is entitled to a Judgment of Absolute Divorce from the Defendant on the ground of the mutual and voluntary separation of the parties without cohabitation for more than six months next preceding the commencement of this action.



JUDGMENT

WHEREFORE, it is, by the Court, this 10th day of September, 1987,

ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED:

1. That the Plaintiff, LILLA BURT CUMMINGS TOWER, be, and hereby is, awarded a divorce from the Defendant, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER, on the ground of mutual and voluntary separation of the parties without cohabitation for more than six months next preceding the commencement of this action.

2. That the Agreement of the parties entered into on August 21, 1987 settles all matters arising out of their marriage, was entered into freely and voluntarily by each with the advice of independent counsel, acknowledged by them to be a fair, reasonable and adequate settlement of their respective rights and obligations, and shall and does and will continue to constitute the contract between them and does and shall continue to govern and control exclusively all matters arising out of their marriage including but not limited to, all provisions in full for Plaintiff's support, including those setting forth the benefits Plaintiff shall receive under Defendant's Federal Civil Service Retirement and Health Benefits Plans including annuity and survivorship benefits and health benefits as set forth therein without deviation therefrom.

PROVIDED HOWEVER, that this Judgment shall not be effective to dissolve the bond of matrimony existing between the parties until the expiration of the time for the taking of an appeal and the disposition of any appeal which may be taken.

Lilla Burt Cummings Tower Plaintiff, v. John Goodwin Tower Defendant.	Civil Action No. 1403-86

DEFENDANT'S OPPOSITION TO PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR COMMISSION TO TAKE DEPOSITION OF OUT-OF-STATE WITNESS

Defendant John Goodwin Tower, by counsel, hereby opposes plaintiffs' motion for commission to take the deposition of Ms. Estil Hyser on June 11, 1987 in Dallas, Texas. Plaintiff states that the deposition of Ms. Hyser is sought (1) "to establish the expenditures and the activities of the Defendant husband during the period when he was married to the Plaintiff;" and (2) "to establish the relationship between the witness and the Defendant with respect to the cause of the breakup of the marriage of the parties." As set forth below, the requested deposition should be quashed on grounds that (1) the testimony sought from Ms. Hyser is, on its face, irrelevant to any issue in this proceeding; and (2) said deposition can have no purpose other than to harass and embarrass defendant and Ms. Hyser in order to coerce unwarranted concessions in this proceeding from defendant.

First, plaintiff has initiated this action against defendant and alleges, as her sole ground for divorce, voluntary separation, without cohabitation. Complaint, ¶ 6. Defendant has admitted this allegation. Answer, ¶ 6. Given this limited basis for seeking divorce, any alleged marital misconduct on the part of the defendant has no legal bearing on plaintiff's suit. See Rzeszotarski v. Rzeszotarski, App. D.C., 296 A.2d 431 (1972); Davis v. Davis, App. D.C., 191 A.2d 138 (1963). Accordingly, Ms. Hyser's testimony, even if it were to address the issues stated by plaintiff, would be irrelevant to any issue raised by the Complaint.

Second, plaintiff's allusion to the need for information concerning defendant's expenditures during the marriage is disingenuous. Defendant has responded to plaintiff's extensive discovery requests by providing virtually every item of data relevant to his finances during the relevant period. This information is more than sufficient to establish the extent of defendant's ability to pay alimony. More to the point, however, plaintiff's financial statement reveals that she has a net worth in excess of $2,000,000.00 -- many times that of defendant. Under such circumstances, plaintiff cannot seriously contend that she is entitled to alimony. Accordingly, the requested deposition can only serve to vent a vindictive urge to harass defendant and to extort unwarranted concessions from him.

On the basis of the foregoing, Plaintiff's Motion for Commission to Take Deposition of Out-of-State Witness should be denied.

DEFENDANT'S RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFF'S FIRST SET OF INTERROGATORIES

Defendant John Goodwin Tower, by counsel, hereby responds to plaintiff's first set of interrogatories as follows:

General Objections

Defendant objects to all of plaintiff's interrogatories on grounds that they are excessive, overburdensome, irrelevant and calculated only to harass defendant. Plaintiff's interrogatories, conservatively estimated, total two hundred thirty-nine, including parts and subparts. This number exceeds the limit set forth in Rule 33(a) of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia by almost six times. Defendant cannot presume to guess to which forty of these interrogatories plaintiff would like responses. However, if no more than forty questions are designated by plaintiff, defendant will respond to those interrogatories.

To the extent certain of plaintiff's interrogatories seek information concerning defendant's past or present financial status, all responsive financial data has been made available by defendant in response to Plaintiff's Request for Production of Documents.

Lilla Burt Cummings Tower Plaintiff v. John Goodwin Tower Defendant.	)	Civil Action No. 1403-86

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO DEFENDANT'S FIRST REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

Plaintiff, Lilla Burt Cummings Tower, hereby responds to Defendant's Request for Production of Documents to Plaintiff as follows:

I. GENERAL OBJECTIONS

Plaintiff objects to Defendant's requests in so far as they seek documents which are more than five years old or cover a period prior to January 1, 1982. In this regard, Defendant's request No. 2 asks for copies of Federal and State income tax returns for the years 1974 through 1986. This request for returns filed prior to 1982 is burdensome, and it should be noted that throughout the years of marriage, the parties filed joint returns until April 1987. The returns were prepared by accountants for both parties and Defendant has or has access to all of this material. Nevertheless, copies of the joint returns for the years 1982 through 1985 are being provided by the wife as well as the material relating to 1986 which will be included in Mrs. Tower's separate return for that year.

LAW OFFICES
WILLIAMS & CONNOLLY
HILL BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20006

AREA CODE 202
331-5000

Defendant Husband's request for all documents, checks, etc., for the years prior to 1982 is overly burdensome and calls for material which is not relevant to this case. Plaintiff is providing that documentation requested for the period January 1, 1982, to date with respect to each request and all documents relating to the ownership of Real Property. This material is more than sufficient to permit the Court to decide the issues before it. Absent some showing of a particularized need for a particular document which existed prior to January 1, 1982, Plaintiff believes that her objection is reasonable.

II. RESPONSE

Subject to the foregoing general objections, Plaintiff, upon the filing of this Response, has produced at the office of the Defendant's attorney, copies of all documents requested. There are additional miscellaneous documents in the office of Plaintiff's attorney which counsel for Defendant may review, and copies of those which he designates will be provided him.

Lilla Burt Cummings Tower
Plaintiff,
v.
John Goodwin Tower
Defendant.

Civil Action No. 1403-86

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

AMENDED ANSWER AND COUNTERCLAIM OF JOHN GOODWIN TOWER

Defendant John Goodwin Tower answers plaintiff's Complaint as follows:

1. Defendant neither admits nor denies the allegations contained in paragraph 1 of the Complaint since that paragraph states a legal conclusion.

2. Defendant admits that Lilla Burt Cummings Tower is an adult citizen of the United States and has resided in the District of Columbia for more than six months next preceding the commencement of this action but further states that plaintiff has been a resident of the state of Texas since the parties were married on May 29, 1977. Defendant denies each and every other allegation contained in paragraph 2 of the Complaint.

3. Defendant admits that he is an adult citizen of the United States and a resident of Dallas, Texas and denies each and every other allegation contained in paragraph 3 of the Complaint.

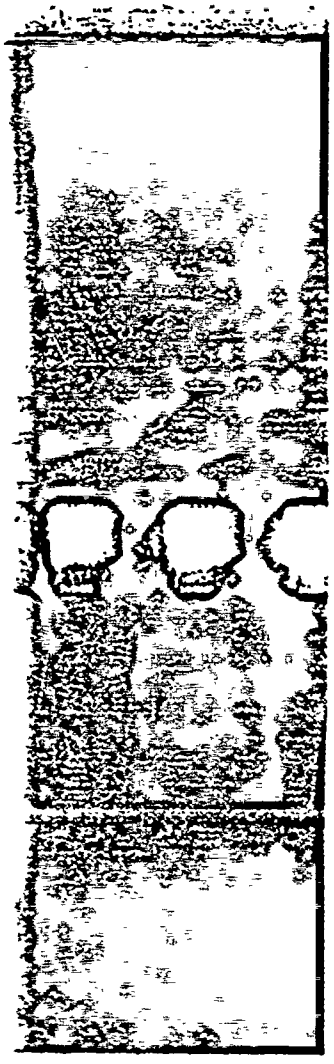
4. Defendant admits the allegations contained in paragraph 4 of the Complaint.

5. Defendant admits the allegations contained in paragraph 5 of the Complaint.

6. Defendant admits the allegations contained in paragraph 6 of the Complaint.

7. Defendant admits the allegations contained in paragraph 7 of the Complaint.

8. Defendant admits that he is self-employed but denies that he is able to contribute to the support and maintenance of plaintiff. Defendant denies that plaintiff is unemployed and, upon information and belief, denies that plaintiff is in need of payments from defendant for her support. Pleading further, defendant states that plaintiff owned financial assets of substantially greater value than those of defendant prior to the marriage. Plaintiff's income from such assets were used by plaintiff for her maintenance and support before the marriage and during the marriage. Plaintiff's lifestyle was neither substantially augmented nor diminished by defendant during the marriage.



9. Defendant admits that plaintiff has an ownership interest in the real property described in paragraph 9 of the Complaint but denies each and every other allegation contained therein.

10. Defendant admits the allegations contained in paragraph 10 of the Complaint.

11. Defendant admits the allegations contained in paragraph 11 of the Complaint.

COUNTERCLAIM FOR EQUITABLE DIVISION OF COMMUNITY PROPERTY

Defendant John Goodwin Tower, for his counterclaim against plaintiff Lilla Burt Cummings Tower, states as follows:

1. Jurisdiction over this counterclaim is based on D.C. Code § 11-1101(1) and Rule 13 of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia.

2. Plaintiff and defendant were married in Dallas, Texas, and have remained residents of the State of Texas during their marriage.

3. The property rights and other rights of the parties are governed by the laws of the State of Texas.

4. All property accumulated by either party during the marriage, other than by individual gift, bequest, devise or descent, and income from the separate estate of either party (except royalty income) and income earned by either party is community property under the laws of the State of Texas.

5. A certain parcel of real property located at 20 Kalorama Circle, N.W., Washington, D.C. was acquired during the marriage using community funds. Community funds also were expended to make payments against the mortgage covering the above-described property.

6. Additional community funds were earned by plaintiff during the marriage of the parties and currently such funds or property acquired with such funds are in plaintiff's possession, custody or control.

WHEREFORE, defendant prays:

1. That he be granted an absolute divorce from plaintiff on the ground of voluntary separation from plaintiff, without cohabitation, for six months;

2. that neither party be awarded alimony, support or maintenance;

3. that the Court declare the property located at 20 Kalorama Circle, N.W., Washington, D.C. to be community property in accordance with Texas law or, in the alternative, order that any community funds contributed toward the purchase of said property or paid against the mortgage on said property be reimbursed to the community for equitable distribution in accordance with Texas law;

4. that the Court order that any community funds contributed toward any other property held by plaintiff as her separate property be reimbursed to the community for equitable distribution.

5. that the Court distribute all other property accumulated during the marriage other than by individual gift, bequest, devise or descent, and all income from the separate estate of either party (except royalty income) and income earned by either party as community property in accordance with Texas law, in a manner that is equitable, just and reasonable;

6. that defendant be awarded his attorney fees and that plaintiff bear the costs of this action; and

7. for such other and further relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

FAMILY DIVISION
MAY 22 5 11 PM '87
CLERK OF THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

#1 MOTION TO DESIGNATE DOMESTIC RELATIONS - I

Defendant John Goodwin Tower, by counsel, respectfully moves the Court, pursuant to Rule I of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia - General Family Proceedings, for an order designating a single judge to preside over all matters connected with this proceeding. As grounds for this motion, defendant states as follows:

1. This is a divorce action which involves partition of substantial assets. Plaintiff contends that the parties property rights should be construed in accordance with the law of the District of Columbia. Defendant contends that the parties' property rights should be construed in accordance with the laws of Texas, wherein the parties were married and maintained their residence during the marriage. Accordingly, this action presents potentially complex issues concerning choice of law.

2. Under the law of Texas, all property owned by either party during the marriage must be examined for the purpose of marshalling community assets. Thereafter, the Court must exercise its discretion in allocating community property in accordance with the equities. This process is likely to require considerable discovery and the production of voluminous documents. In addition, a single judge can more easily be familiarized with the circumstances of the parties and, thus, would better be able to render a just and equitable division of property.

WHEREFORE, defendant respectfully requests that a single judge be designated to preside over this action.

MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE AMENDED ANSWER AND COUNTERCLAIM

Defendant John Goodwin Tower, by his attorney, hereby moves, pursuant to Rules 13(e) and 15(a) of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, for leave to file an amended answer and counterclaim in the form attached. As grounds for this motion, defendant's counsel states that the amended pleading is necessary, in the interest of justice, to preserve certain of defendants property rights and to facilitate a just and equitable resolution to this matter. Moreover, since the amended pleading primarily is designed to conform to certain requirements of Texas community property law, it does not alter materially the defenses or prayers stated in defendant's original pleading. Accordingly, plaintiff has had full notice of all matters alleged in the amended pleading.

LILLA BURT CUMMINGS TOWER,

Plaintiff,

v.

JOHN GOODWIN TOWER

Defendant.

Civil Action No. 1403-86

PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE AMENDED ANSWER AND COUNTERCLAIM

In the guise of a simple motion to amend his answer, filed under oath nine months ago, and file a counterclaim, defendant John Tower invokes the community property law of Texas in an effort to avoid paying alimony, evade his obligations to Mrs. Tower under their prenuptial agreement, and obtain an interest in real property owned solely by his wife. Because Mr. Tower's motion rests on the applicability of Texas law, and because Texas law plainly does not and cannot apply to any issue in this case, the Court should deny the motion.

BACKGROUND

The facts necessary to decide this motion are simply stated. Mrs. Tower is a domiciliary of the District of Columbia and has lived here virtually all of her adult life.[1/] Mr. Tower,

1/ Mrs. Tower graduated from high school, college, and law school in the District. She practiced law here for many years before her marriage to Mr. Tower. In addition, during her years in the District, Mrs. Tower has served both the local and federal governments. In the 1970s, she served, at the Mayor's request, on the District of Columbia Board of Zoning Adjustment. In 1981 she was appointed by President Reagan to head the Institute for Museum Services, a branch of the National Foundation for the Arts and Humanities, has, in fact, lived either in the District or abroad since 1978. He never lived in Texas from 1978 until the parties separated in 1985. In 1986 he rented an apartment in Dallas shortly before this action began, but spends limited time there now. Neither Tower has owned or established a home in Texas or any other Texas realty at any time during their marriage. The real property in which Mr. Tower seeks an interest is owned by Mrs. Tower and is located in the District of Columbia.

The Towers were married in 1977. Shortly before their wedding, they entered into a prenuptial agreement in the District. Under this agreement, all property of the Wife prior to the marriage, and all income therefrom, was to remain her separate property. Throughout the ten-year course of the marriage, Mr. Tower repeatedly and publicly acknowledged the terms of this agreement, acted in reliance on it, and reaped political and economic benefit from it. E.g., Exhibit A (attached to Mr. Tower's Finanical Disclosure Report, required by the Ethics in Government Act).

Before Mr. Tower retired from the United States Senate in January 1985, the Towers returned to Texas to vote. On these visits, they stayed either with friends of Mr. Tower in Wichita Falls, Texas, or in motels.[2/] In addition, the Towers made occasional campaign trips to Texas, during which they stayed in hotels or motels. From the time Mr. Tower left the Senate until this action began, the Towers lived either in the District or in where she served from December 1981 to July 1983.

2/ On their Texas voter registration cards, the Towers listed the home of Mr. Tower's friends as their address. In fact, the Towers did not live at that address and stayed there several times when they were voting.

HILL BUILDING

Geneva, Switzerland, spending only a limited time in Texas.[3/]

On these facts, Mr. Tower would have the Court disregard the law of this jurisdiction and apply Texas community property law. He asks the Court to take this unprecedented and clearly unconstitutional step so that he can avoid paying alimony, evade the plain terms of the parties' prenuptial agreement, and obtain rights in real property that is not and has never been his.

ARGUMENT

This motion raises the sole issue of whether District of Columbia law should determine the substantive issues of alimony, the effect to the given to the parties' prenuptial agreement, and whether principles of community property under Texas law apply to real property owned by the Wife and located in the District of Columbia.[4/] Both the Constitution and District of Columbia choice-of-law rules require this Court to resolve these issues according to District law.

I. APPLICATION OF TEXAS LAW WOULD VIOLATE DUE PROCESS.

Under the due process clause, a court may not apply the law of a jurisdiction unless that jurisdiction has "a significant contact or significant aggregation of contacts, creating state interests, such that choice of its law is neither arbitrary nor fundamentally unfair." Allstate Insurance Co. v. Hague, 449 U.S. 302, 313 (1981) (plurality opinion); see id. at 332 (Powell & Rehnquist, JJ., & Burger, C.J., dissenting) (agreeing with plurality rule); Kaiser-Georgetown Community Health Plan, Inc. v.

3/ Mrs. Tower spent approximately ten days in Texas in 1985. She spent no time in Texas at all during 1986. Mr. Tower may have spent a few more days than Mrs. Tower in Texas during this period, but the vast bulk of his time was spent either in the District or in Geneva.

4/ The prenuptial agreement makes clear that Mrs. Tower's separate property is to remain hers alone.

WILLIAMS & CONNOLLY
HILL BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20006

AREA CODE 202

Stutsman, 491 A.2d 502, 507-09 (D.C. App. 1985) (applying Allstate rule). Due process requires courts to "refrain from frustrating the defendant's legitimate expectations as to the standards by which he would be governed in the event of suit." Id. at 508 n.8.

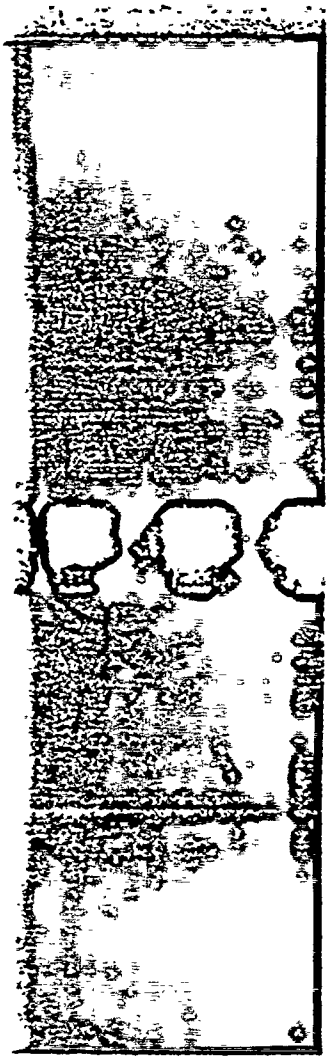
Application of Texas law to this case would be both arbitrary and fundamentally unfair. Moreover, it would frustrate Mrs. Tower's "legitimate expectation[]" that the parties' marital property rights would be governed by District law. Texas has no significant contacts with this litigation that create state interests. All of the Texas contacts are inconsequential: the parties never lived there; they visited there periodically, primarily to campaign for Mr. Tower and to service his constituents; they voted in Texas to preserve Mr. Tower's political seat; and, after the parties separated and shortly before this action began, Mr. Tower rented an apartment there, but did not have sufficient residence to bring suit.

These scattered contacts simply do not permit application of Texas law to determine the obligation to pay alimony to a long-time District resident, or to test the validity of a prenuptial agreement that was entered into and acted in furtherance of in the District, or to adjudicate rights in realty that lies solely within the District of Columbia.

The Supreme Court's decision in Home Insurance Co. v. Dick, 281 U.S. 397 (1930), approved in Allstate, makes clear that Texas law cannot be applied here. In Dick, a Mexican insurer issued an insurance policy to a Mexican citizen covering a Mexican risk. The policy was assigned to Dick, who was "physically present and acting" in Mexico, but was a permanent resident and citizen of Texas. See id. at 404, 408. Dick sued on the policy in Texas and the Texas court applied Texas law to uphold his claim.

LAW OFFICES
WILLIAMS & CONNOLLY
HILL BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20006

AREA CODE 202
331-5000



The Supreme Court reversed. It held that the due process clause barred application of Texas law, because all significant acts were done outside Texas. The Court declared that "[t]he fact that Dick's permanent residence was in Texas is without significance." Id. at 408 (emphasis added); see also Jenkins v. Armstrong World Industries, Inc., 643 F. Supp. 17, 22-24 (D. Idaho 1985) (refusing to apply Texas law where sole contact was that defendants were licensed to do business there).

Just as Dick's residence in Texas did not justify application of Texas law in Dick, Mr. Tower's nominal residence in Texas does not warrant application of Texas law in this case. Like Dick, Mr. Tower is "physically present and acting" outside the state of Texas. As in Dick, the other party--Mrs. Tower--has no significant connection with Texas. It is no less arbitrary and unfair to apply Texas law against Mrs. Tower than it was to apply Texas law to an out-of-state party in Dick.

An Eighth Circuit decision, McCluney v. Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., 649 F.2d 578 (8th Cir.), aff'd mem., 454 U.S. 1071 (1981), provides additional guidance. A former Schlitz employee sued under the Missouri service letter statute. Missouri had only two contacts with the case: the employee had originally been hired in Missouri, and he had returned there following his termination by Schlitz. The court of appeals held that Missouri's contacts with the case were so slight that its law could not constitutionally be applied. See id. at 580-84.

McCluney is analogous to this case. The Towers were married in Texas, but never lived there. They lived all of their marriage, except for the time in Geneva, in the District of Columbia, with occasional visits to Texas. In 1986, after the parties had separated and shortly before this action began, Mr. Tower rented an apartment in Texas. On the basis of these contacts, similar to those found inadequate in McCluney, he seeks to apply Texas law.

Under Allstate, Dick, and McCluney, Texas law cannot, consistent with due process, be applied in this case.

II. DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA CHOICE-OF-LAW RULES REQUIRE THAT DISTRICT LAW BE APPLIED.

Even if the Court were to find that Texas had sufficient connection with the parties and issues to permit application of its law under the due process clause, District of Columbia choice-of-law rules require that the Court apply District law to the issues in the case.

A. "Governmental Interest" Analysis Governs the Choice-of-Law Issues.

District of Columbia courts apply "governmental interest" analysis to decide choice-of-law questions. Under this approach, the court must "'evaluate the governmental policies underlying the applicable laws and . . . determine which jurisdiction's policy would be most advanced by having its law applied to the facts of the case under review.'" Stutsman, 491 A.2d at 509 (quoting Williams v. Williams, 390 A.2d 4, 5-6 (D.C. App. 1978)).

When only one state has an interest in the application of its law, then "'a false conflict appears and the law of the interested state prevails.'" Id. (quoting Biscoe v. Arlington County, 738 F.2d 1352, 1360 (D.C. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 105 S. Ct. 909 (1985)). When both states have an interest in the application of their laws, then a "true conflict" exists; "in that event, the forum law will be applied unless the foreign state has a greater interest in the controversy." Id. (emphasis added).

B. The District of Columbia Has a Greater Interest in This Litigation Than Does Texas.

The District of Columbia has a powerful interest in fairly resolving this dispute between two people who have lived and worked here all their married lives, and in adjudicating rights in real property located within its boundaries. By contrast, Texas, to the extent its laws conflict with those of the District, has only a meager interest in the case.[5/] Texas simply does not have a "greater interest in the controversy" than does the District. Stutsman, 491 A.2d at 509.

HILL BUILDING

1. Alimony.

The District of Columbia has long empowered its courts to award alimony upon divorce. See D.C. Code §§ 16-912, -913 (1981). Texas, by contrast, prohibits the award of permanent alimony. See McElreath v. McElreath, 345 S.W.2d 722, 724 (Tex. 1961). In this case, the District's interest in protecting its 5/ Indeed, a Texas court would not even have heard this case. Texas law provides that "[n]o suit for divorce may be maintained unless at the time suit is filed" one of the parties "has been a domiciliary of this state for the preceding six-month period and a resident of the county in which the suit is filed for the preceding ninety-day period." Tex. Fam. Code Ann. § 3.21 (Vernon 1975); see Berry v. Berry, 612 S.W.2d 213, 215-16 (Tex. Civ. App.--Beaumont 1980, writ dism'd w.o.j.).

Under Texas domestic relations law, domicile requires residence in fact and an intention to establish a permanent home. Skubal v. Skubal, 584 S.W.2d 45, 46 (Tex. Civ. App.--San Antonio 1979, writ dism'd w.o.j.). Residence, in turn, requires "actual, physical, continuous living" in the state and county, with only "temporary" absences. Beavers v. Beavers, 543 S.W.2d 720, 721 (Tex. Civ. App.--Waco 1976, no writ) (emphasis added). Time spent by a Texas domiciliary outside Texas "in the service of . . . the United States" is "considered residence in the state and county." Tex. Fam. Code Ann. § 3.22 (Vernon 1975).

Neither party in this case meets the requirements of Tex. Fam. Code § 3.21. Mrs. Tower at no time was a resident of any county in Texas, did not set foot in Texas during 1986, and only spent 10 days as a visitor in Texas in all of 1985 when she resided with Mr. Tower in Geneva. Nor was Mr. Tower actually, physically, and continuously present in Texas between the time he left the State Department on April 1, 1986 and the time this suit was filed.

Texas itself would not have entertained this litigation, and this Court should not abandon the District's interest and sit as a Texas court applying Texas law.

LAW OFFICES
WILLIAMS & CONNOLLY
HILL BUILDING

AREA CODE 202

domiciliary--Mrs. Tower--is plainly stronger than any Texas interest underlying the state's alimony prohibition.

Under District law, alimony is properly awarded when "reasonable and necessary" to support a spouse upon divorce. Anderson v. Anderson, 449 A.2d 334, 336 (D.C. App. 1982); Leftwich v. Leftwich, 442 A.2d 139, 142 (D.C. App. 1982). The District's interest in ensuring "reasonable and necessary" support is strongest when the recipient is a District domiciliary, as Mrs. Tower is. That interest is particularly strong here, because Mrs. Tower has spent virtually her entire adult life in the District and is firmly rooted here.

Because the District's interest in protecting its domiciliary is a powerful one, and because Texas has no significant countervailing interest, the Court must apply District law to the alimony issue.

2. The Prenuptial Agreement.

District policy favors enforcing prenuptial agreements, provided they are fair. See Burtoff v. Burtoff, 418 A.2d 1085, 1089 (D.C. App. 1980); cf. D.C. Code § 16-910 (1981) (specifying property distribution on divorce "in the absence of a valid ante-nuptial . . . agreement").

That policy is applicable here. Upholding the Towers' agreement, repeatedly reaffirmed by Mr. Tower, will protect the rights of Mrs. Tower, a District domiciliary. In addition, enforcement of the agreement will fulfill the parties' legitimate expectations; undoubtedly they anticipated when they entered into the agreement in the District that it would be enforced in accordance with District law. Moreover, the subject-matter of the agreement--the property--lies exclusively in the District, and the agreement is to be performed here. These contacts demonstrate that the District has a paramount interest in

WILLIAMS & CONNOLLY
HILL BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20006

AREA CODE 202

enforcing the agreement. See Owen v. Owen, 427 A.2d 933, 937 (D.C. App. 1981) (separation agreement made in Maryland by Maryland residents to govern Maryland realty controlled by Maryland law, even though husband resides in District at time of suit).

Texas has no countervailing interest weighing against the District's policy favoring enforcement. Since 1980 Texas has expressly permitted prenuptial agreements that divide property acquired during marriage.[6/] See Tex. Const. art. 16, § 15 (Vernon Supp. 1987); see also Tex. Fam. Code Ann. § 5.41(a) (Vernon Supp. 1987) (statute implementing the constitutional provision).[7/] Thus, enforcement of the agreement between the Towers would not contravene any Texas policy.[8/]

The prenuptial agreement issue presents a classic false

6/ Mr. Tower has repeatedly acted upon, relied upon, and taken refuge in the terms of the agreement throughout the ten-year period of the marriage.

7/ It is irrelevant for choice-of-law purposes that in 1977, when the Towers entered into their agreement, Texas law did not permit prenuptial agreements concerning property acquired during marriage. See Williams v. Williams, 569 S.W.2d 867, 870 (Tex. 1978). The crucial question is how Texas views such agreements now. As the 1980 amendment to Tex. Const. art. 16, § 15 makes clear, Texas favors such agreements and has for years.

8/ Indeed, a Texas court (if it would hear the case at all, see supra note 5) would apply District law to determine the parties' rights under the agreement. Texas uses the Restatement (Second)'s "most significant relationship" test to determine choice-of-law in contract cases. See Duncan v. Cessna Aircraft Co., 665 S.W.2d 414, 421 (Tex. 1984). That test requires that the court first "identify the state contacts that should be considered," and then assess the significance of these contacts in light of each state's interest in the application of its rule. See id.

Applying this test, a Texas court would find that the District has the most significant relationship with the prenuptial agreement issue. The parties entered into the agreement here, and it is to be performed here. Both parties reside here, and Mrs. Tower is domiciled here. The real property that the agreement covers is located here. The few contacts that Texas has with the parties to the agreement do not give rise to any significant state interest that would warrant application of Texas law.

AREA CODE 202

conflict: the District has a strong interest in applying its law, and Texas has no countervailing interest. The Court must apply District law.

3. Rights in the District Realty.

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals has repeatedly recognized that the jurisdiction in which real property is located has the strongest interest in adjudicating rights to the land. See, e.g., Anderson, 449 A.2d at 335 (applying Maryland law to determine marital property rights in Maryland realty); Williams v. Williams, 390 A.2d 4, 6 (D.C. App. 1978) (same); cf. Estrada v. Potomac Electric Power Co., 488 A.2d 1359, 1365 (D.C. App. 1985) (applying Maryland law of landowner's liability to property located in Maryland).

Texas, like the District, applies the law of the situs to determine marital rights in realty. "Texas follows the general rule that marital rights of spouses in real property are determined by the law of the place where the land is situated." Ismail v. Ismail, 702 S.W.2d 216, 221 (Tex. App.--Houston 1986, writ ref'd n.r.e.) (emphasis added); see Commissioner v. Skaggs, 122 F.2d 721, 723 (5th Cir. 1941), cert. denied, 315 U.S. 811 (1942). By its own choice-of-law rule, therefore, Texas disclaims any interest in out-of-state realty.

Mrs. Tower's real property lies entirely within the District. There is no conceivable Texas interest in applying its law to determine whether Mr. Tower has any interest in that property. Again the issue presents a false conflict, and District law controls.

CONCLUSION

The Constitution and District of Columbia choice-of-law rules prohibit the application of Texas law to the issues in this case. Yet Mr. Tower's motion to amend his answer and file a counterclaim is predicated entirely on the applicability of Texas law. Because District law, and not Texas law, plainly controls every significant issue before this Court, Mr. Tower's motion is without merit and should be denied under Superior Court Domestic Relations Rule 15(a). See M&T Chemicals, Inc. v. International Business Machines Corp., 403 F. Supp. 1145, 1147 (S.D.N.Y. 1975), aff'd mem., 542 F.2d 1165 (2d Cir.), cert. dism'd, 429 U.S. 1030 (1976).

HILL BUILDING

Lilla Burt Cummings Tower Plaintiff, v. John Goodwin Tower Defendant.	Civil Action No. 1403-86

REPLY TO PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE AMENDED ANSWER AND COUNTERCLAIM

On April 3, 1987, defendant John Goodwin Tower, by counsel, moved this Court, pursuant to Rules 13(e) and 15(a) of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, for leave to file an amended answer and counterclaim in this matter. By agreement of counsel, plaintiff's time to respond to this motion was continued to May 6, 1987.

On May 7, 1987, plaintiff filed a document entitled "Plaintiff's Opposition to Defendant's Motion for Leave to File Amended Answer and Counterclaim." That document, rather than addressing the propriety of allowing defendant to amend his responsive pleading, goes to great length to argue the merits of whether Texas law applies to the dispute between the parties. Nowhere does plaintiff argue that defendant should not freely be granted leave to amend his answer, as requested, in the interest of justice.

We resist the temptation to respond to plaintiff's opposition with a detailed discussion as to why Texas law must be applied in this matter. Suffice to say, such a discussion has its own time and place and has nothing to do with the question of whether defendant should be granted leave to amend his answer. As the Court is undoubtedly familiar, because this jurisdiction favors the resolution of controversies on their merits, leave to amend pleadings is freely given. Gordon v. Raven Systems &

Research, App. D.C., 462 A.2d 10 (1983). Plaintiff has offered nothing to bring this case outside that rule.

CONCLUSION

In view of the foregoing standard, and the absence of any meaningful objection by plaintiff, defendant's motion for leave to file an amended answer and counterclaim should be granted.

Dated: May 11, 1987

Whatever interests my spouse may have are derived from her separate estate and are neither under my control nor within my knowledge. Prior to marriage, we entered into an agreement that her property prior to marriage and all income therefrom would be held by her as her sole and separate estate, and that she would manage it and have exclusive control, use, and benefit, if any, as well as exclusive burden and liability, if any, and that it will descend to her heirs, devisees, or legatees, and I will disclaim any interest whatsoever under the laws of descent and distribution.

CONSENT TO MOTION TO DESIGNATE DOMESTIC RELATIONS- I

Plaintiff Lilla Burt Cummings Tower, by counsel, consents to Defendant's motion for an order designating a single judge to preside over all matters connected with this proceeding.

Plaintiff agrees that extensive discovery will be necessary for the parties to provide the Court the necessary information to decide all matters relating to the property of the parties and their respective sources of income and financial needs.

For this reason, and because these proceedings will become protracted if not amicably resolved, Plaintiff consents to Defendant's motion to designate a single judge to preside over this action.

[redacted] Office of the Clerk, Office of Public Records, United States Senate, was asked by the interviewing agents whether she could provide any information concerning report number 12488000, said to be a report by the House of Representatives on former Senator JOHN TOWER's lobbying. [redacted] immediately recognized that number as the identification number given to a series of reports filed by TOWER and Associates with the Congress to report their lobbying.

[redacted] furnished one copy each of the fourth quarter 1988 reports filed by TOWER and Associates pursuant to Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act. These reports, numbered from 12488000 to 12488006, report on the appointee's lobbying on behalf of six separate companies. It is noted that report number 12488005 is not included, and was never file by the appointee. This fact is due to the fact that the appointee's lobbying on behalf of Jeford-McManus International, Incorporated, Washington, D.C., was terminated on July 11, 1988. Therefore, he had no duty to file a fourth quarter report for that company. However, the reports furnished by [redacted] are associated with the following companies:

British Aerospace, Incorporated
Washington Dulles International Airport
Post Office Box 17414
Washington, D.C.

Hick and Associates

McLean, Virginia

It is noted that the initial registration forms for TOWER's lobbying with the above companies as well as all available quarterly reports in connection with his work as a lobbyist have previously been furnished by another representative of this office to the Federal Bureau of Investigation on December 14, 1988. A review of the fourth quarter reports as furnished by [redacted] reveals that TOWER and Associates did not receive any income as a lobbyist for the above corporations with the exception of $420 received from LTV Defense and Space Company during the fourth quarter of 1988. It is noted, however, that the form filed by TOWER and Associates concerning their lobbying for LTV Defense and Space Company also indicates that a total of $420 has been received by them from January 1, 1988 through the fourth quarter. This information appears to contradict the fact that a similar figure of $420 appeared as having been received during each of the first three quarters as well.

The above contradiction was called to the attention of [redacted] who stated that her office has no authority or responsibility for review of the reports submitted and she could not comment on these reports or the information contained in them.

[redacted] Committee on Ethics, United States Senate, advised that no one on his Committee is able to legally advise concerning the need for a person to register as a lobbyist before the United States Senate or House of Representatives except in a very narrow instance. [redacted] stated that when a Senator leaves the Senate, he is forbidden by United States Senate rules from lobbying to the United States Senate for a period of one year. The Committee on Ethics is responsible for interpretation and enforcing this Senate rule. However, after a Senator has been out of the Congress for one year and in all cases involving individuals who are not former Senators, he and his committee do not have any responsibility or authority concerning pertinent regulations. [redacted] advised that he believes that the United States Department of Justice is responsible for advise and enforcement concerning the need for registering as a lobbyist or definitions of lobbying before the Senate. dated which has become the standard practice for lobbyists. [redacted] also provided copies of the quarterly reports filed by Tower and Associates, 2101 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. She furnished copies of the first, second, and third quarter filings during 1988 for each of the companies registered by TOWER at that time. In addition, she furnished all available reports on companies for which TOWER has registered since the first quarter of 1988. [redacted] noted that the filing of the above reports is required in the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act, Title III of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946.

A review of the above-mentioned forms revealed no services or expenditures were performed by the appointee, and therefore no payment was received by him or his company during the first, second, or third quarters of 1988 with the exception of the fact that he received $420.00 during each of the first, second, and third quarters of 1988 from LTV Defense and Space Company. [redacted] was not able to explain this apparent controdiction, and noted that her office has no authority or responsibility for review of reports submitted to the office.

[redacted] advised that the reports for the fourth quarter of 1988 have not yet been submitted. [redacted] stated that she could not provide any further information from her files regarding the appointee or his lobbying on Capitol Hill.

NOTE on ITEM "B"–(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution."—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interest.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 11" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interest.

(ii) Employer or Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 15" and "D 16," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "B" on page 1 of this report.

NOTE ON ITEM "C."—(a) The expression "in connection with legislative interests," as used in this Report, means "in connection with attempting, directly or indirectly, to influence the passage or defeat of legislation." The term "legislation" means bills, resolutions, amendments, nominations, and other matters pending or proposed in either House of Congress, and includes any other matter which may be the subject of action by either House"—§ 302(e).
(b) Before undertaking any activities in connection with legislative interests, organizations and individuals subject to the Lobbying Act are required to file a "Preliminary" Report (Registration).
(c) After beginning such activities, they must file a "Quarterly" Report at the end of each calendar quarter in which they have either received or expended anything of value in connection with legislative interests.

C. LEGISLATIVE INTERESTS AND PUBLICATIONS in connection therewith:

1. State approximately how long legislative interests are to continue. If receipts and expenditures in connection with legislative interests have terminated, place an "X" in the box at the left, so that this Office will no longer expect to receive Reports. ☐

2. State the general legislative interests of the person filing and set forth the specific legislative interests by reciting: (a) Short titles of statutes and bills; (b) House and Senate numbers of bills, where known; (c) citations of statutes, where known; (d) whether for or against such statutes and bills.

3. In the case of those publications which the person filing has caused to be issued or distributed, in connection with legislative interests, set forth: (a) description, (b) quantity distributed, (c) date of distribution, (d) name of printer or publisher (if publications were paid for by person filing) or name of donor (if publications were received as a gift).

2. FY'89 Defense Authorization/Appropriation and other legislation regarding Department of Defense.

4. If this is a "Preliminary" Report (Registration) rather than a "Quarterly" Report, state below what the nature and amount of anticipated expenses will be; and, if for an agent or employee, state also what the daily, monthly, or annual rate of compensation is to be. If this is a "Quarterly" Report, disregard this item "C 4" and fill out items "D" and "E" on the back of this page. Do not attempt to combine a "Preliminary" Report (Registration) with a "Quarterly" Report. ←

STATEMENT OF VERIFICATION

I declare under penalty of perjury that the information contained herein is true and correct.

Check ONE of the following boxes:

☐ I am reporting AS AN INDIVIDUAL.

☒ I am an employee of the above-named organization and I am authorized to make this verification on behalf of such organization.

NOTE on ITEM "D."—(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under item "B" on page 1 of this report.

NOTE on ITEM "D"-(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual – for such printed or duplicated matter – is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"–§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.–(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interest.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.–A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation – but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation – will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.–Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report those dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.–(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 11" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interest.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More.–When your contributions from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amount to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "B" on page 1 of this report.

NOTE on ITEM "D".—(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report the dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contribution under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under item "8" on page 1 of this report.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may quantify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under items "D 5" (received for services) and "E 11" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interest.

(ii) Employer to Contribute $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 10" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under item "B" on page 1 of this report.

NOTE on ITEM "B".—(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter as a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm or individual which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what this percentage is, and report dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 6" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer to Contribute $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under item "E" on page 1 of this report.

(b) Before undertaking any activities in connection with legislative interests, organizations and individuals subject to the Lobbying Act are required to file a "Preliminary" Report (Registration).

STATEMENT OF VERIFICATION

I declare under penalty of perjury that the information contained herein is true and correct.

NOTE on ITEM "D".–(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual – for such printed or duplicated matter – is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"–§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.–(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals. – A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation – but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation – will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations. – Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE. – (i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More. – When your contributions from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "8" on page 1 of this report.

NOTE on ITEM "B".—(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in connection with attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—or such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." The term "contribution" includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution."—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures includes the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 11" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

STATEMENT OF VERIFICATION

I declare under penalty of perjury that the information contained herein is true and correct.

Check ONE of the following boxes:

☐ I am reporting AS AN INDIVIDUAL.

☒ I am _____ of the above-named organization and I am authorized to make this verification on behalf of such organization.
an employee

Executed on July 8, 1988 (date) (Signature) (Typed)

NOTE on ITEM "R".—(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign intending to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report those dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 15" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that [illegible] our employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer or Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contributors from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amount to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 15" and "D 16," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5" and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "E" on page 1 of this report.

1998 APR 13 PM 2:

SECRETARY OF THE SENATE

(5) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures includes the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(6) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 11" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer or Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "5" on page 1 of this report.

NOTE on ITEM "D".–(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual – for such printed or duplicated matter – is a "contribution." The term "contribution" includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"–§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.–(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.–A business firm or individual which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes or attempts to influence legislation – but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation – will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.–Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report those dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.–(i) In General. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer to Contribute of $500 or More.–When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "B" on page 1 of this report.

Executed on October 10, 1988 (Signature)

NOTE on ITEM "D".–(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual for such printed or duplicated matter is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"–§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.–(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interest.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.–A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes or anticipates to influence legislation–but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation–will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.–Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered as having been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report those dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.–(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interest.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More.–When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under item "6" on page 1 of this report.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the information contained herein is true and correct.

RECEIVED, SECRETARY OF THE SENATE 1989 JAN 17 PM 1:53 H.D.

Executed on January 10, 1989 (date)

NOTE on ITEM "D".—(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "B" on page 1 of this report.

NOTE on ITEM "D".—(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "B" on page 1 of this report.

STATEMENT OF VERIFICATION

I declare under penalty of perjury that the information contained herein is true and correct.

Check ONE of the following boxes:

☐ I am reporting AS AN INDIVIDUAL.

☒ I am an employee of the above-named organization and I am authorized to make this verification on behalf of such organization.

(Signature) (Typed)

NOTE on ITEM "D".—(a) IN GENERAL. The term "contribution" includes anything of value. When an organization or individual uses printed or duplicated matter in a campaign attempting to influence legislation, money received by such organization or individual—for such printed or duplicated matter—is a "contribution." "The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money, or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution"—§ 302(a) of the Lobbying Act.

(b) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN EMPLOYER.—(i) In General. Item "D" is designed for the reporting of all receipts from which expenditures are made, or will be made, in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Receipts of Business Firms and Individuals.—A business firm (or individual) which is subject to the Lobbying Act by reason of expenditures which it makes in attempting to influence legislation—but which has no funds to expend except those which are available in the ordinary course of operating a business not connected in any way with the influencing of legislation—will have no receipts to report, even though it does have expenditures to report.

(iii) Receipts of Multi-purpose Organizations.—Some organizations do not receive any funds which are to be expended solely for the purpose of attempting to influence legislation. Such organizations make such expenditures out of a general fund raised by dues, assessments, or other contributions. The percentage of the general fund which is used for such expenditures indicates the percentage of dues, assessments, or other contributions which may be considered to have been paid for that purpose. Therefore, in reporting receipts, such organizations may specify what that percentage is, and report their dues, assessments, and other contributions on that basis. However, each contributor of $500 or more is to be listed, regardless of whether the contribution was made solely for legislative purposes.

(c) IF THIS REPORT IS FOR AN AGENT OR EMPLOYEE.—(i) In general. In the case of many employees, all receipts will come under Items "D 5" (received for services) and "D 12" (expense money and reimbursements). In the absence of a clear statement to the contrary, it will be presumed that your employer is to reimburse you for all expenditures which you make in connection with legislative interests.

(ii) Employer as Contributor of $500 or More.—When your contribution from your employer (in the form of salary, fee, etc.) amounts to $500 or more, it is not necessary to report such contributions under "D 13" and "D 14," since the amount has already been reported under "D 5," and the name of the "employer" has been given under Item "B" on page 1 of this report.

Tower denies allegations on morals as his confirmation hearing wraps up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary-designate John Tower yesterday denied he had a drinking problem or would be hampered in his new job by previous ties with military contractors.

"I'm a man of some discipline," Tower told the Senate Armed Services Committee near the close of four days of testimony. The committee chairman, Sen. Sam Nunn (D-Ga.), said he expected the panel to vote today to recommend that the Senate confirm Tower's nomination.

The committee began yesterday with a closed session to discuss possible conflicts of interest involving Tower and to allow him to answer allegations made Tuesday by conservative activist Paul Weyrich that he had "on a number of occasions" seen Tower publicly inebriated and in the company of women other than his wife.

After the hearings, Tower said little to reporters, describing himself as "embargoed" until after confirmation.

"I feel like I am glad it is the end of the hearings," he said as he left the hall.

In open session, Nunn asked Tower whether he had a drinking problem.

"I have none," Tower replied. "It is essential that the secretary of defense be at all times capable of exercising the duties and responsibilities of his office, some of which are even more sensitive and more critical than the general public realizes."

"Therefore I think there should be zero toleration of anyone as secretary of defense or any other sensitive job in the Defense Department who has an alcohol problem," Tower said.

On the subject of women, Nunn asked Tower whether he would tolerate any sexual harassment in the Defense Department.

"I will answer again with the term 'zero-tolerance' for discrimination against women, the sexual harassment of women," Tower responded.

"I believe that professional women should be afforded the respect and the deference that they deserve. I believe they should be given equal opportunities for advancement. I will say that I do not believe women should serve in combat slots," he said.

Tower, who has been divorced twice, is now single.

Nunn also read aloud a letter from the White House counsel, C. Boyden Gray, rebuffing a statement Tuesday by Weyrich that President Bush's transition team received hundreds of letters, including some by members of Congress, accusing Tower of moral laxity.

"To the best of my knowledge, no letters containing specific allegations of impropriety concerning Sen. Tower were received by either the transition office or the White House" since the election, Gray wrote.

Senators also asked Tower whether he would be influenced by the more than $1 million he collected as a defense consultant. Tower, under intense questioning from Democrats Nunn, Carl Levin of Michigan and Albert Gore of Tennessee, repeatedly denied any conflict of interest.

Tower said the only decision from which he envisioned excluding himself was for a system called CFIN, or Combat Flight Inspection System, an Air Force electronics system manufactured by the LTV Corp. to allow aircraft to check on whether landing transmitters are working correctly. Tower said he had taken an active role in promoting CFIN in his work for LTV.

A number of senators, including Nunn, Malcolm Wallop (R-Mont.) and William Cohen (R-Maine), expressed chagrin that Weyrich had made his comments in public session, and Nunn said that "a number of allegations prove to be wrong."

It is unusual for Cabinet nominees to be asked in open session about their personal lives. Although the hearings for Tower have lasted longer than those for other Bush nominees, the senators have treated him politely.

Tower, a 63-year-old Texas Republican, served 24 years in the Senate and was chairman of the Armed Services Committee from 1981-84.

He was dogged by allegations of drinking and womanizing before his nomination. In divorce papers filed two years ago by his second wife, Lilla Burt Cummings, Tower was accused of "marital misconduct."

Bush has defended Tower, saying an FBI background check found nothing that would prevent him from serving as defense secretary. When Bush announced the nomination he dismissed "a lot of rumors that proved to be groundless."

New charge reported on Tower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The top Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee said yesterday a new allegation has surfaced against Defense Secretary-designate John Tower and an FBI investigation into the charges has not been completed.

Sen. John Warner (R-Va.) told an impromptu news conference that the new charge against Tower was reported to the FBI after President Bush met with Warner and Sen. Sam Nunn (D-Ga.), chairman of the committee, at the White House yesterday.

Warner said White House counsel C. Boyden Gray told him of the new charge but he was "not advised" of the specifics.

The statement by Warner capped a day of growing conflict within the Senate Armed Services Committee about the nomination of Tower, a former senator who has been plagued by allegations of womanizing and drinking problems.

No vote on whether to confirm Tower has been set by the panel and Warner indicated the latest allegation may further delay the process. He said the allegation should be investigated by the FBI "in an orderly way, at their own pace. . . ."

Nunn's office issued a statement saying, "The FBI report has not been delivered to the committee. . . . I am informed it has not been completed."

Earlier, Nunn said he had lingering concerns about allegations against Tower, but GOP senators said a preliminary FBI report provides no grounds to disqualify Tower.

Nunn said he has "general concerns" and that, while they include the most recent allegations of drinking and womanizing, they are "not limited to them."

"As much pressure as there is, we ought to do something that is unusual in Washington, we ought to let the facts support the conclusions," Nunn said. "What we have to do this once is to let the time honored procedures go forward."

Warner said he was briefed by the White House and, in turn, briefed the GOP members of the committee about the latest FBI inquiry into the allegations.

Warner said the preliminary report "provides, at the judgment of White House counsel, no basis on which senators could find the factual situation that would amount to any disqualification."

The allegations center on womanizing and drinking by the twice-divorced Tower, according to congressional sources. The committee last Thursday put off a vote on whether to recommend full Senate confirmation and asked the FBI to review the allegations.

New rap on Tower is probed

By RICHARD SISK
News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Warner (R-Va.) said yesterday the White House had disclosed that a fresh charge has emerged against defense secretary-designate John Tower.

Shortly after the bombshell announcement, Sen. James Exon (D-Neb.), the No. 2 Democrat on the Armed Services Committee, said he had decided to oppose Tower's nomination and that he was certain other members of the panel would join him.

Warner, top Republican on the committee, told reporters the FBI is investigating the new allegation.

The development came to light, Warner said, after President Bush yesterday met with Warner and Sen. Sam Nunn (D-Ga.), the committee chairman.

White House counsel Boyd Gray told Warner of the new charge, but the senator said he had not been apprised of any specifics.

The Chicago Tribune, quoting government sources, reported that the new charge relates to the FBI's investigation of alleged fraud in the Pentagon procurement process. Tower spent the last 2½ years as a defense consultant.

Warner spoke after GOP senators and the White House said there was nothing X-rated in a new FBI report on Tower, while Democrats indicated they still had reservations about the former Texas senator's nomination.

Before Warner's announcement, Nunn said he still had "general concerns" about Tower's fitness to run the Pentagon despite GOP assertions that the FBI background check had cleared Tower of charges that he drank heavily and chased women.

Tower has denied the allegations of womanizing and heavy boozing, and also said that the $760,000 he earned as a consultant to defense contractors would have no influence on him as Pentagon chief.

Tower vote put off 2 weeks; President defends nominee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators said yesterday a first vote on John Tower's nomination as defense secretary will be delayed nearly two weeks while the FBI reviews allegations about his finances and drinking, but President Bush stood by him, denouncing "rumor and frenzied speculation."

"There are new allegations of a financial nature which are now being checked in the Tower nomination," said Sen. Sam Nunn (D-Ga.), the Armed Services Committee chairman. He told reporters he could not vote to confirm Tower until the latest charges were checked and said he had told Bush that.

Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.) said new allegations linked Tower to the Pentagon procurement investigation, which has involved payments by defense contractors for classified information regarding lucrative military contracts.

"It has to do with this procurement scandal, the 'Ill Wind' thing," said McCain, using the Justice Department name for the investigation. "I . . . have no independent knowledge. But I am confident that is the case."

An administration official said the FBI background inquiry focused on contributions to one of Tower's Senate campaigns by a contractor under investigation in the Pentagon procurement fraud investigation.

But the official, speaking on condition of anonymity, emphasized that the FBI had found no evidence of wrongdoing by Tower and noted that politicians can't control who gives money to their campaigns.

Tower has denied trading secrets for cash. But Nunn and other senators have voiced concern whether Tower could avoid conflicts of interest in view of the more than $1 million he received as a consultant for major defense contractors after ending a 24-year career in the Senate four years ago.

Bush told reporters at the White House he had seen no evidence causing him to lose confidence in his nominee.

"Have I seen anything, or has anything in the FBI report made me want to change my mind as one who would be concerned about insobriety or about failure to be ready for duty 24 hours a day? The answer is, 'No, I have not.'

"If somebody has something other than rumor and frenzied speculation, please get it to the FBI or get it to the White House staff, or certainly get it to the committee in the Senate. But let us be fair enough that we do not deal in rumor after rumor," Bush said.

Meanwhile, White House counsel and chief ethics adviser C. Boyden Gray presented the FBI report

Bush cites 'frenzied speculation' as probers examine fiscal charges

"I told the President frankly that I have serious concerns, and I also stated that if a vote was held immediately as some have urged, I would vote no because of these concerns," Nunn told reporters.

The second-ranking Democrat on the committee, Sen. James Exon of Nebraska, also said he could not vote in favor of Tower until the FBI completes its investigation.

The Senate majority leader, George Mitchell of Maine, said that all members of that body wanted to to Nunn and Sen. John Warner of Virginia, the Senate panel's ranking Republican. The White House said it was "standard practice" for the White House counsel's office to "carry such reports to the hill."

But it also appeared to be a move to appease Nunn, who on Tuesday had expressed irritation that the White House had briefed committee Republicans and not him.

Nunn and Warner met on Capitol Hill with Gray for two hours to review the investigation into Tower's private life.

Gray told them a separate investigation into Tower's financial dealings would take another 10 days to complete, Nunn said.

After the meeting, Nunn went back to his office to meet with Tower, a session set up at Tower's request.

The administration had been pushing for a vote this week, but dropped that after Nunn and Warner met with Bush Tuesday night.

thoroughly review the FBI report, and therefore, "I don't see how it is possible to bring the matter to a vote this week."

The Senate begins a week-long recess tomorrow, and the committee must act on the nomination before it even reaches the full Senate. Both McCain and Exon said the committee could not vote by tomorrow.

At the White House, press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said the main new allegation "relates to Senator Tower's activities while he was in the Senate."

"They really can't vote until this matter is checked out," he said.

Senate Republicans generally defended the nominee.

Their leader, Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, said he spoke with Tower on the telephone yesterday morning and found him "upbeat about the nomination."

"He is aware of the new allegation," said Dole, adding that Tower thinks his nomination should be confirmed and "is hanging in there."

A Republican on the committee, William Cohen of Maine, said Democrats should not allow the Tower nomination to turn into a "partisan wrangle."

Committee members had hoped to vote last week, but postponed it because of renewed allegations of heavy drinking and womanizing.

Nunn said the committee had not received the FBI report on those matters, although the White House orally briefed the panel's Republicans on them Tuesday.

Another matter also cropped up.

Two FBI agents were reviewing documents obtained by Rep. John Dingell (D-Mich.) pertaining to alleged security violations at the arms control delegation office in Geneva, Switzerland, according to a congressional source. Tower was the chief arms control negotiator in Geneva in 1985-1986.

The source said Dingell, chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, contacted the FBI about the State Department documents. The agents followed up Dingell's offer yesterday.

Nunn cautioned reporters to "be very cautious" on that issue and added: "We have found nothing to corroborate any security violations by Senator Tower in Geneva."

Nunn, asked by reporters whether Tower's alcohol consumption was his chief concern, said:

"I don't want to categorize it like that. That's one of my primary concerns. The question there is whether there has been an alcohol abuse problem. If there has been a problem in the past, is there a point where it has been recognized by the nominee and dealt with effectively? That is to say, is it a continuing problem? I do not have an answer to that yet."

Tower visited the White House yesterday for a regularly scheduled breakfast with Secretary of State James A. Baker and National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft, said Fitzwater. Bush did not attend.

For info Dallas, Seattle Division developed info that Southern Airways Inc. (SAI) now defunct, had a contract with U.S. Army during 1960's-1971 to provide basic helicopter pilot training to U.S. army pilots at Ft. Wolters, Tx. (near Mineral Springs, Tx.). In 1971, SAI was notified by U.S. Army or U.S. govt. officials that this contract would be terminated and Ft. Wolters would be closed down. SAI officials and employees were upset about this situation. In 1971, then Senator John G. Tower of Tx. possibly may have been notified by SAI about this problem or Tower may have notified SAI.

Shortly after this notification, SAI senior officials published a memo to all employees requesting a $150 political donation for the Tower campaign as a method possibly to spark Tower's interest to save Ft. Wolters. One former SAI employee (interviewed by SE) ~~complained~~ told that $150 was deducted from his paycheck, but returned when he complained. On 2/10/89, [redacted] telephone [redacted] employed as [redacted] telephone [redacted] advised that in 1971 he was employed by Southern Airways, Inc. (now defunct) as [redacted] Ft Wolton, Tx. (near Mineral Springs, Texas) pursuant to a U.S. Army contract held by Southern Airways to train U.S. Army helicopter pilots for Vietnam War duty.

As [redacted] recalls, in mid-1971 a letter came to Southern Airways from the Army or from the office of then Senator John G. Tower informing that Ft. Wolton, Tx. helicopter training facility would be closed soon and Southern Airways contract would be discontinued due to reduction of troop commitments to Vietnam War. All Southern Airways personnel at Ft. Wolton were very upset as they believed that this facility was much better suited for army helicopter training than Ft. Rucker, Ala., which would be kept open for future pilot training.

Shortly after this notice, a memo was published, possibly by unrecalled senior Southern Airways officials, which requested a $150 donation to be voluntarily provided by each employee for contribution to Senator John Tower re-election campaign. No pressure or duress was placed upon [redacted] or any other [redacted] to his knowledge, to contribute. [redacted] did not contribute as he felt this would have been useless. Sen. Tower gave no indication he would bring pressure to bear to keep Ft. Wolton open and Southern Airways contract in effect.

[redacted] voluntarily initiated contact with the Portland Division of the FBI wishing to provide information with regard to Senator John Tower and his consideration for Secretary of Defense. Submitted 2/14/89

On 2/9/89 [redacted] DOB [redacted] Vancouver, Wa. 98662 was contacted at his Place of Business, [redacted] b6 b7C
A owner of [redacted] Vancouver, Wa. 98661 Tel # [redacted]. After being apprised of the identity of the interviewing Special Agents and the purpose of the interview he thereupon provided the following information:

(A) [redacted] stated that back in the mid 60's to 70/71 (1960 - 1970/1971) he was employed by Southern Airways of Texas, Inc. b6 b7C located in Mineral Wells, Texas. [redacted] of Southern Airways of Texas was [redacted] At the time [redacted] recalls the Senator for Texas was John Tower and he was possibly a member or even chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

[redacted] explained that the operation of Southern Airways of Texas, Inc. was conducted at Fort Wolters, Texas. The main function of Southern Airways was to do all initial training on all entry level military helicopter pilots. Southern Airways was contracted for this service by the U.S. Government Department of Defense during the Viet Nam War. Once the pilots completed their initial training at Ft. Wolters they went to advanced training at Ft. Rucker, Alabama. Near the end of the Viet Nam war the employees of Southern Airways of Texas realized that their operation would be phased out in that it was obsolete and there would not be a need for primary flight training area. This was due to the fact that this function could be accomplished at Fort Rucker, Alabama. Therefore the pilots of Southern Airways knew their operation would be closed. It was at this time that [redacted] left Southern Airways.

Prior to [redacted] leaving Southern Airways, one of the paychecks he received was $150.00 less than it should have been. [redacted] explained that at the time he was paid bi-weekly at the rate of [redacted] per month. Hamilton realized that his paycheck was $150.00 short and went to his flight commander to complain. [redacted] recalls the flight commanders were [redacted] and [redacted] was [redacted] immediate supervisor.

[redacted] was informed that the $150.00 was taken as a campaign contribution. [redacted] vaguely recalls a memorandum explaining that the $150.00 was taken as a campaign contribution for Senator John Tower. In return, Tower would do what he could in his position as Senator and possibly member and Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, to keep Ft. Wolters and Southern Airways operation in existence. After reconsideration [redacted] was unsure as to whether this information came through written memorandum or a verbal explanation from a supervisor. [redacted] does recall, however that pick for the funds being deducted from his pay he did not authorize the same. [redacted] indicated he was very upset, raised the issue and in fact was reimbursed the $150.00. [redacted] was sure that the same amount was deducted from the other 500-550 employees (approximately) pay and does not know what they were told nor whether they were reimbursed.

[redacted] stated he never personally saw Senator John Tower at Ft. Wolters operation but indicated it was possible that Tower had been there. At the time Tower lived in Wichita Falls, Texas which is located approximately 70-80 miles north of Mineral Wells, Texas.

b7C

[redacted] provided two photographs - employees of Southern Airways. He indicated that most of these men are licensed pilots and that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) operational headquarters for Oklahoma City may be able to provide information as to their whereabouts. [redacted] believes that these individuals, if located, may be able to provide information as to the $150.- pay deduction since they too probably received the same. In particular a [redacted] who was [redacted] to [redacted] may be helpful.

RE: Lilla Burt Cummings Tower v. John Goodwin Tower, D.C. Superior Court, Domestic Relations, No. 1403-86.

Dear [redacted]

Enclosed is the original certificate of deponent page to be executed by former Senator John G. Tower, in connection with volume one of his deposition, taken on June 9, 1987.

Would you please have the deponent review your copy of the deposition, and execute the certificate page? If the deponent desires any changes, a separate errata sheet should be prepared, indicating the page and line number of each change, and the reasons for each such change. The original certificate of deponent page and the errata sheet, if any, should be returned promptly to this office, so that we can file the original copy of the deposition, conformed if necessary, with the appropriate Court, agency, or attorney.

Failure to return an executed certificate of deponent page may result in the filing of the deposition without signature.

Finally: please note that submission of an errata sheet should be regarded as a communication with the Court, the ultimate recipient, and that you should serve copies on the lawyers whose names appear below.

Very truly yours,

Associates Say Tower Would Cut Weapons

Views on Spending, Reforms Described

By George C. Wilson
Washington Post Staff Writer

If John G. Tower becomes chief executive officer of the world's biggest military organization, the Defense Department, he would quickly cancel some highly visible weapons, seek to put the agency actively on the side of the Justice Department investigation of procurement fraud and try to negotiate a long-term pact with Congress on defense spending, sources familiar with Tower's views said yesterday.

Although Tower has not yet been named defense secretary, he and his associates are far along in their planning of what must be done during the honeymoon period of the Bush presidency to rebuild a pro-defense constituency in Congress that broke apart in the last years of the Reagan presidency. Caspar W. Weinberger, Reagan's secretary of defense for seven years, kept fighting for annual increases in the Pentagon budget. But in each of the last four years Congress balked at continuing increases in real defense funding.

Tower does not intend to insist on annual increases in the Pentagon budget but instead would offer to hold down military spending for an extended period in exchange for Congress giving the department more flexibility in spending whatever money is appropriated, those who know Tower's thinking say.

In public comments yesterday, President-elect George Bush reiterated his support for Tower, calling him "a friend of mine." He added, "Nothing is going to shake my view" about whether to pick Tower as defense secretary, apparently a reference to questions raised about Tower's personal life, and about his role as a consultant to major defense contractors.

But Bush did not say explicitly that the job would go to Tower, and sources close to the former Texas senator said he had received no firm indication yet that he would be going to the Pentagon. Sources in the Bush transition have said that Tower remains the leading if not the only candidate for the job. However, several Bush advisers have continued to argue that the new president needs a proven manager, perhaps a defense industry executive, to refurbish the Pentagon's image.

If Tower is confirmed for the job, the sources familiar with his views said yesterday, he plans to take charts to Congress early next year showing that more weapons could be bought under a zero-growth budget than under a larger one, provided the Pentagon receives a two-year appropriation instead of continuing the traditional practice of wrangling annually over how much is enough for defense.

President Reagan's farewell defense budget, slated to go to Congress Jan. 9, calls for increasing this year's total of $299.5 billion by 2 percent after allowing for inflation. Bush has indicated he will settle for zero growth after inflation.

"It's going to be team, team, team," stressed one of Tower's aides who has helped map defense strategy for the next administration. Bush, Secretary of State-designate James A. Baker III, Tower and retired lieutenant general Brent Scowcroft, designated White House national security adviser, would be a highly vocal team seeking to build a new consensus for a strong defense and to head off any attempt in Congress to make deeper cuts in Pentagon spending to reduce the federal deficit.

Tower is actively seeking the defense secretary post and is said to feel "uncomfortable" about being kept in the dark so long about his future. As of yesterday, his associates said, Tower had not been consulted about whom he would want as his deputy at the Pentagon if he does get the job, nor has he demanded that he be allowed to choose his own team.

Tower has told aides that although Bush has not yet formerly offered the secretaryship to him, "I don't know who else" could be offered the job. Bush has been talking to a number of aerospace executives as he continues to consider candidates for secretary and deputy secretary. Yesterday Bush met with Donald B. Rice, 49, president of the Rand Corp., a former Pentagon official, who has been mentioned as a candidate for a senior Defense Department position.

While Tower has had to wait for Bush to make and announce his selections, several allegations have been made against him. They range from womanizing to potential conflicts of interest if he becomes defense secretary. Tower has not responded directly to these charges, leaving aides and friends to speak for him. He is known to feel this way about the various allegations:

- Womanizing and drinking. He admits to being too much of a swinger in his younger years but tells friends he was faithful to his second wife, from whom he was divorced this year, and did not date other women until he was separated. If he drank too much in the past, Tower knows he must be a model of propriety as secretary of defense.
- Conflicts of interest. Although he registered as a lobbyist in February because he was a consultant to several defense companies, he has told associates that he would recuse himself from any of their programs if he becomes secretary. He is said to consider it unfair to call him unfit for the secretaryship because of his connections with the defense industry when many Bush advisers are calling for an executive from the industry to run the Pentagon.

Tower, who was chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee when he retired from the Senate in 1985, now runs Tower and Associates from a suite in downtown Washington. His defense clients include Martin-Marietta Corp.; Rockwell International Corp.; Textron Inc., and LTV Aerospace and Defense Co. Richard Billmire, a Tower associate, said yesterday that the firm does no lobbying for any foreign company but that Tower is on the board of directors of an American subsidiary of British Aerospace PLC.

In contending he would be tough on his friends in the aerospace industry if he became defense secretary, Tower cites his no-holds-barred chairmanship of the commission that uncovered improprieties in the secret efforts by the Reagan White House to sell arms to Iran and use the money to help the contras in Nicaragua.

Billmire also addressed the issue of accumulated campaign contributions that Tower converted to other purposes. Billmire said that Tower had accumulated $466,000 in campaign funds by January 1985 with the anticipation he would run for reelection. He decided not to run, but did not return the money to contributors. Billmire said Tower did not spend the money on himself. Billmire provided a rundown showing that the money went to other candidates and such authorized purposes as Senate office expenses and a contribution of $100,000 to Southwestern University. Records of the fund show that some of the money was spent for travel and meals and for the salaries of individuals who worked for Tower after he left the Senate.

Tower as a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee was known for his staunch support of Pentagon programs. He has told associates that he regrets having played a key role in "front loading" the defense budget when Reagan took office in 1981. He has said the Reagan rearmament program he helped design and push through Congress gave more money to the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps than they could spend wisely.

If he becomes defense secretary, Tower has told friends he will not make that same mistake again but will force the services to link their spending to a coherent strategy and cancel weapons that do not fit it. He has often said that he favors reducing the size of the military services to absorb any major cuts in the defense budget rather than impose across-the-board cuts. The latter course, he contends, is what led to the "hollow Army" of the 1970s—a force that lacked inner strength because of shortages of skilled soldiers and modern weapons.

Tower believes the big money crunch for the Pentagon will start in 1992 when bills fall due for weapons ordered under Reagan but not yet paid for. He has told associates that savings could include withdrawing troops from Europe if the administration can find a way to convince allies that this does not lessen the U.S. commitment to their defense.

Washington Bureau of The News SEP 1 4 1981

WASHINGTON — Denying he brought pressure to bear on the Reagan administration in connection with his wife's selection for a $50,000-a-year job, Sen. John Tower said Wednesday he is "proud of her selection and of her willingness to sacrifice her own law practice and business interest to enter public service."

Tower elaborated on his denial of a story in Wednesday's editions of The News. The story quoted a source familiar with administration personnel decisions as saying the Texas Republican phoned Lyn Nofziger, President Reagan's top political aide, to ask that his wife, Washington attorney Lilla Cummings Tower, be named to head the Institute of Museum Services, an agency the administration had earlier sought to abolish.

"I have done nothing whatsoever to intervene in the administration's plans to abolish the Institute of Museum Services, nor did I attempt to bring any pressure to bear on the administration's selection process," Tower said. "My wife has been chosen by President Reagan for this position on the basis of her own merits."

Tower said he will continue to support "all domestic spending reductions that have been recommended by the administration," and that he still favors dissolution of the institute though partial funding has been approved for next year.

Mrs. Tower resigns post

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Lilla Cummings Tower, the wife of Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, has resigned her post as director of the Institute for Museum Services, saying she wants to devote her full energies to Tower's upcoming reelection campaign, according to letters released Friday by the White House.

Mrs. Tower, an attorney, was appointed director of the institute in 1981. Her resignation is effective Tuesday.

The appointment of Mrs. Tower to the position created controversy when a source familiar with administration personnel decisions said that Tower had asked the White House to nominate his wife to the $50,000 government job.

Tower strongly denied the charge, saying that his wife won the appointment on merit.

During hearings on proposed budget cuts in April 1981, the administration had proposed to end funding for the agency for 1982 and eliminating the agency by fiscal 1983.

Asked whether he had made such a request of the White House, Tower said through an aide, "I did not."

But the source said the idea originated when Tower telephoned Lynn Nofziger, assistant to the president for political affairs, to ask that Mrs. Tower, an attorney, be nominated for the job.

Nofziger could not be reached for comment.

Budget Director David Stockman, in a thick document on proposed budget cuts released in April, said, "The administration proposes to terminate the Institute of Museum Services."

But the agency was saved when the White House agreed to a reduction in its budget, from $12.9 million to $9.6 million.

The Stockman document said the proposal to eliminate the agency "is part of an overall administration effort to rethink federal support of cultural activities."

"While museums and other repositories of cultural artifacts are important in our society, they have traditionally been the beneficiaries of private philanthropy."

Mrs. Tower has refused all interviews about the nomination until after confirmation hearings.

White House staff members said Tuesday that the nomination would be sent "soon" to the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee for confirmation hearings.

The chief function of the museum services agency is to process about 1,200 museum grant applications annually.

(requests confidentiality from all those outside the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION) after being advised of the identity of the interviewers and the nature of the interview, provided the following information during three interviews conducted between December 5 and December 7, 1988:

introduction to the appointee as having been at a political event which took place in 1974.

When asked to characterize the appointee, responded "he's an alcoholic - that's the long and short of it." commented that describing him as "a heroic figure who tirelessly poured himself out for his country." related "he's manipulative; he watches all the time and says little - looks for chinks in your armor." Regarding his ambition, stated "he has his agenda; he will achieve it; he's always wanted to be Secretary of Defense, (it's) an obsessive thing, a fixation." mentioned that the appointee had even "courted" President REAGAN shortly after his election regarding the Secretary of Defense appointment, and never really openly supported GEORGE BUSH until recently. Regarding his personal habits, stated "he's addicted to coffee; he's addicted to alcohol; he's addicted to cigarettes...he's driven by the needs of the body."

Regarding the appointee's reputation, believes the appointee to have been "revered" by those on Capitol Hill. Much later, when he told that he would not be seeking reelection to his Senate seat in 1984, queried him as to why? It was his impression that he would not be reelected into the leadership of the Senate, and "that, he couldn't have taken." When asked him why he felt that way, his comment was "they don't like me." noted that, during this decision-making process, his consumption of alcohol had picked up "enormously" in Texas on weekends and that he frequently was not in his hotel room at night. believes that because his reputation for drinking and womanizing was well

[redacted] noted that he experienced some financial security from his Tower Senate Club (campaign) Fund, which [redacted] has documentation showing a balance in July of 1983 of 1.7 million dollars; thus [redacted] believes he was no longer dependent on his income from the Senate.

Regarding his loyalty to the country, [redacted] has no reason to question his loyalty, only his agenda. [redacted] recommends him as to his associates who are or were members of the Senate. Regarding his social acquaintances, [redacted]

Substance Abuse

[redacted] initial comment in this area was "he is in fact an alcoholic." [redacted] he was "heavily, heavily drinking," mentioning [redacted]

b7D

b7D

When queried as to the frequency and volume of the appointee's alcohol consumption, [redacted] could not give specific answers. [redacted] does recall that [redacted] never saw the appointee drink in the morning, except occasionally at a brunch, and then only champagne. b7D

[redacted] b7D

[redacted] occasionally noted that the appointee would drink enough to slur his words, and given [redacted] understanding of his tolerance for alcohol, [redacted] commented "it must have taken a tremendous amount of alcohol." b7D

[redacted] is aware that the appointee used to have his own private table at the MONOCLE, a popular Washington, D.C. area establishment, commenting "that's where he drank and womanized." b7D

[redacted] can recall speaking to [redacted] regarding the appointee's alcohol consumption. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] further recalls that aides, in particular [redacted] who now lives in [redacted] and another aide whose name [redacted] does not recall, remembering only that the aide's [redacted] spoke to the appointee about his drinking before meetings. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] personally spoke to [redacted] about how easily the appointee could be "set up" by the Russians because of his reputation regarding women and drinking. b6 b7C b7D

Regarding prescription drug abuse or use of illegal drugs, [redacted] has "no knowledge of that, and I would be terribly surprised at that." b7D

Contacts with Foreigners or Foreign Nationals

When asked as to whether [redacted] was aware of any contacts with foreigners or foreign nationals that [redacted] considered unusual in any kind of a national security sense, [redacted] responded, although "not in an enduring sense," [redacted] wondered "what moved" several times. For example, why certain people were or were not at particular meetings and why the wives weren't really wanted. b7D

A case in point was [redacted] knows of no impropriety by the appointee, and believes that he and [redacted] were good friends, but believes Munich to be "one of the crossroads of spying in the world and a flesh pot." [redacted] clarified this last reference by mentioning that [redacted] had been told of establishments that men would frequent, conversing telephonically with women, making arrangements for encounters. On several occasions [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

The Handling of Sensitive Information

Regarding national security, while [redacted] was in Geneva, [redacted] spoke with [redacted] about [redacted] fears that the appointee could easily be set up and coerced by the Russians because of his lifestyle, mentioning to [redacted] "this man is a risk, the Russians know as much about him or more than we do." [redacted] advised that "his habit is to drink and bed women down." b6 b7C b7D

Regarding the appointee's ability to handle sensitive information, in light of his reputation as a drinker, [redacted] responded that [redacted] is aware of no unauthorized disclosures of information on his part and "I would doubt there are any." [redacted] knows of no radical or adverse political associations on the appointee's part. b7D

Manifestation of Prejudice or Bias

Because the appointee will be required to make decisions concerning policy and personnel matters, the question as to whether [redacted] had ever known him to manifest any evidence of prejudice or bias was put to [redacted] essentially refused to address this issue and became noticeably upset at its being brought up. [redacted] discussed former President LYNDON JOHNSON, alleging racial basis on his part, mentioning that it did not interfere with the impartial discharge of his constitutional responsibilities. Regarding the appointee, his "discharge of obligation" cannot be predicted by [redacted] b7D

Evidence of Criminal Activity

[redacted] is aware of no criminal activity in the appointee's past. [redacted] is aware, however, that the appointee has been known to drive an automobile with "willful disregard." [redacted] recalls during one of the appointee's visits [redacted] that the appointee's car was "bashed in" on the side. His explanation for this was that his peripheral vision was bad. b7D

Familial Interaction

[redacted] related that the two have no relationship at this point [redacted] has no knowledge of the appointee's interaction with the remainder of his family, although [redacted] is aware that the appointee stayed with [redacted] before moving into his residence at 3525 Turtle Creek Boulevard in Dallas, Texas. b6 b7C b7D

Interaction with the Banking Industry

[redacted] is aware that the appointee was associated with the REPUBLIC BANK CORPORATION of Dallas, Texas, for a short period of time. To [redacted] knowledge, the appointee has no expertise in banking and [redacted] knows of nothing which would be considered unusual regarding his association with that bank. b7D

Campaign Contributions

[redacted] is not aware of any illegal contributions or contributions from any foreign nationals. [redacted] stated "I don't know the law as it relates to contributions." b7D

Use of Campaign Funds

[redacted] believes the appointee's Washington, D.C., office at 1019 19th Street to have been paid for illegally by campaign contributions, in that he paid [redacted] as well as equipment costs, from campaign funds [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

Regarding the appointee's accounts in Texas, [redacted] believes [redacted] who lives on [redacted] in [redacted] and who works for [redacted] to be knowledgeable in these matters. b6 b7C b7D

Allegations of Sexual Misconduct

In January of 1985, the appointee was in London on ASTROTECH's (2 Chatham Center, Number 240, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania) behalf and staying at CLARIDGES, a well known hotel. [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

In March of 1986, when the appointee returned to Dallas from Geneva, at a party at the DALLAS COUNTRY CLUB for the VIRGINIA SLIMS Tennis Tournament, [redacted] and the appointee were seen together. A column in the March 21, 1986, DALLAS MORNING NEWS, by JANE WOLFE, entitled "Virginia Slims," contains the passage "the couple who was most whispered about: former Senator JOHN TOWER and Dallas doyenne DOTTI HEISER." b6 b7C

During a telephone conversation on February 2, 1986, with [redacted] informed [redacted] that the appointee had been seen b6 b7C b7D

at several socials with the same woman, escorting her to at least one of them. [redacted] described [redacted] as "very blond, (having a) doll-like face, (and as an) expert tennis player" as well as a member of the "jet set," going on to mention that the appointee had escorted [redacted] to a number of Christmas festivities in December of 1985. b6 b7C b7D

Upon his resignation from the Arms Talks in Geneva, the appointee listed his address, effective April 1, 1986, as 3525 Turtle Creek Boulevard, Dallas, Texas, the same complex in which [redacted] resides. b6 b7C

Former SA [redacted] who is currently on the staff of the Executive Assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, advised on 2/9/70, of the results of a conversation he had with [redacted] to Senator JOHN TOWER of Texas, at a recent social gathering. [redacted] mentioned to [redacted] that he had received an invitation to attend a reception at the Soviet Embassy, and that he probably would attend. When [redacted] told him that this matter might be of interest to the FBI, [redacted] said he would be glad to speak with a Bureau agent about it, and they agreed [redacted] would have someone from WFO call him.

Contacted by SA [redacted] on 2/11/70, [redacted] advised that he attended a reception held at the Soviet Embassy the previous evening attended principally by staff members of Senators and Congressmen. He estimated that there were about 250 persons in attendance at the affair, including wives. About 30 Soviets were in attendance, in his opinion. The affair consisted of a receiving line and cocktails with hors d'ouvres, followed by the showing of two Soviet films, a low-key affair that was generally enjoyable.

[redacted] speculated that he had received his invitation to the reception as the result of some contact he had with Soviet First Secretary [redacted] some months previously. [redacted] had contacted Senator TOWER's office for assistance in arranging some contacts in Texas for a

HARASSING AND THREATENING TELEPHONE CALLS TO THE RESIDENCE OF U.S. SENATOR JOHN TOWER;

(OO:WFO)

On 5/3/84, Detective [redacted] U.S. Capitol Police (USCP), WDC, advised his office had been contacted by LILLIA BURT CUMMINGS, the wife of Senator JOHN TOWER, concerning harassing telephone calls. According to CUMMINGS, numerous telephone calls were being received at telephone number 232-2266, which is one of two private lines to the TOWER residence at 20 Kalorama Circle, N.W., WDC. (The other telephone number is 252-2500.) These phone calls allegedly consisted of Negro male or female callers asking for the PITTS MOTEL. Also, CUMMINGS reported incidents of the telephone ringing and no one being on the line, and of being able to hear other conversations on the line when she is speaking. [redacted] stated that C & P Telephone Security had apparently already been notified by CUMMINGS concerning these problems.

On 5/4/84, a meeting was held at the office of [redacted] C & P Telephone, 930 H Street, N.W., WDC. Present were [redacted] and the writer.

[redacted] explained what C & P Telephone was doing to deal with the complaints made by CUMMINGS. [redacted] advised that, on 3/8/84, his office received a telephone call from [redacted] Senator TOWER's [redacted] in which [redacted] requested [redacted] get in touch with CUMMINGS because CUMMINGS was having problems with her telephone system. CUMMINGS alleged she was hearing cross conversations, would get a signal on her call-waiting system that another call was coming in, and then would go to pick up the other phone only to discover no one was on the line, and she would hear clicks and other static on the line. These problems were experienced on the line corresponding to telephone number 232-2266.

A C & P Repairman was sent out to the residence on 3/8/84. The repairman replaced the installation wire and jack on the telephone, which could have been the source of the problem.

FBI Undertakes Exhaustive Check on Tower

Probe of Former Senator for Defense Post May Be the Most Thorough Done by Agency

By Bob Woodward
and Charles R. Babcock
Washington Post Staff Writers

The final decision on former senator John G. Tower's (R-Tex.) nomination as secretary of defense is being held up while the FBI conducts an exhaustive background investigation that one knowledgeable official called "more thorough than any ... the FBI has ever done."

Transition officials for the incoming Bush administration said the final decision on a defense secretary will probably not be made until after the FBI completes its investigation, which could take another two weeks or longer. The investigation began in earnest about 10 days ago and has included interviews as far away as Geneva, where Tower served as an arms-control negotiator in 1985-86.

Tower remains the leading candidate and as of yesterday no information has been turned up by the Federal Bureau of Investigation that would prevent the Tower nomination, officials said.

The extraordinarily broad FBI background investigation has involved interviews with Tower's former wife, former colleagues in the Senate and associates in his defense consulting business, as well as an examination of his personal and past campaign finances.

One focus of the inquiry is Tower's relationships with several defense contractors that have paid him lucrative consulting fees over the past few years. They include Rockwell International and LTV, major contractors for the B1 bomber Tower supported while a senior member and then chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The original Rockwell contract paid Tower's consulting firm $120,000 a year; the LTV contract was worth $96,000 a year. Tower also receives about $100,000 a year from a firm headed by Donald Hicks, former undersecretary of defense for research and engineering, and has other consulting contracts with defense contractors Martin Marietta, Textron, and British Aerospace.

Bush has named others to senior posts, such as Commerce Secretary-designate Robert A. Mosbacher, a longtime Bush friend, before their FBI investigations have been completed. Bush is facing mounting pressure from Tower supporters to act as soon as possible and one aide said yesterday he could not rule out the possibility the president-elect might short-circuit the process and name Tower before the FBI submits its final report.

Key officials said Tower's nomination has been held up in part because of efforts to fill the rest of a Pentagon management team, and the large number of questions that have been raised from Tower's long and varied career. Under procedures established by the Bush transition team, all allegations have to be checked out, including some old reports about Tower's drinking and relationships with women.

"I feel sorrier than hell for John Tower," said one key Bush transition official. But he noted that FBI Director William S. Sessions met with Bush's counsel, C. Boyden Gray, and was told to be as thorough as possible in investigating Tower and other top appointees. FBI officials said they feel the Bush transition team has set no limits on the full field investigations of top appointees.

Tower was in Texas yesterday and could not be reached for comment. But Richard Billmore, an associate in his consulting firm, said Tower viewed the extensive background check as "an absolutely necessary part of the process of rebuilding public confidence in the Defense department." He added that Tower had voluntarily furnished the FBI with extensive data on all his personal and political finances, and even his divorce papers.

One official said that some other top Bush appointees "are offended and taken aback" at the personal nature of the FBI's inquiries. New detailed questions have been added to the background form that each potential appointee has to answer. They include whether the person has used marijuana since the age of 18, has paid back student loans or received any psychiatric or psychological treatment, excluding marriage counseling.

The FBI has been stung by criticisms in recent years when allegations arose later about high-level officials its investigations had cleared, such as former labor secretary Raymond J. Donovan and Supreme Court nominee Douglas H. Ginsburg.

Bush has approved the rigorous new background investigation procedures, which were first used last summer by the Reagan administration in the nomination of Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady, according to officials.

Tower was interviewed twice by FBI agents last week and can anticipate further, and what one source termed "confrontational," interviews on any remaining questions. Under former FBI director William H. Webster, the background check procedures did not call for as aggressive an approach.

For example, sources said FBI agents are asking associates of Tower whether his social and drinking habits might impair his capacity to function in a senior Cabinet post. Tower has told associates that he knows he must be a model of propriety as secretary of defense.

The investigation is so thorough that FBI agents are reexamining a State Department security investigation of a U.S. Air Force colonel, who served with Tower in Geneva.

Tower associates said he is confident nothing during his tenure in Geneva will disqualify him. And government sources said yesterday that nothing has been turned up so far—"zero, a goose egg," in the words of one official—from that

In August 1987, a few months after his work heading a presidential commission on the Iran-contra affair, Tower announced he was setting up another consulting firm in Dallas, called Tower, Eggers and Greene, to provide financial advice to businesses. That group was visible earlier this year in putting together a Texas-based partnership that bid unsuccessfully on the rescue of the First Republic Bank. Paul Eggers, Tower's partner and longtime friend and personal lawyer, said the former senator is chairman of the board, but not active in the day-to-day operations of the Texas firm.

Tower also signed a book contract with Boston publisher Little, Brown & Co., with an advance in the $100,000 range, to write a book about the clash between Congress and the executive branch over foreign policy. But Tower associates said Tower and the publisher could not agree on an approach and the advance was returned.

Tower also has been busy over the past few years making speeches arranged by the Cosby Speakers Bureau here. Joe Cosby, head of the company, said FBI agents visited him last week "wanting to know everything including what size socks the guy wears."

Cosby, who gets 20 percent of each speech fee he arranges, said Tower makes about 30 speeches a year and that few have been for less than $15,000. He said Tower was forced to cancel a $50,000 speech in Japan last month to meet with Bush at the White House.

Staff writer Jim McGee and staff researcher William F. Powers Jr. contributed to this report.

investigation to prevent Tower's nomination.

One area of scrutiny in the background check is Tower's business dealings since he retired from the Senate in January 1985. A review of financial disclosure reports he filed while an ambassador and interviews with business associates show that the former senator is receiving several hundred thousand dollars a year in income, mostly from the defense consulting contracts and speechmaking.

As soon as he retired from the Senate, he joined the boards of a Dallas bank and Astrotech, a Pittsburgh company headed by Willard Rockwell Jr., former chairman of the board of Rockwell International. His new business career was interrupted almost immediately, however, when he was named ambassador in Geneva.

He resigned that post in March 1986 and began his consulting work again, operating for more than a year out of rent-free offices at the Washington law firm of Dickstein Shapiro & Morin. Firm partner Sydney Dickstein said Tower's quarters, an unused conference room, were worth "several hundred dollars a month."

By mid-1986, Tower had signed on to do consulting for British Aerospace and soon added LTV and Rockwell and the others to his list of clients. It has been reported that Tower made trips to Turkey and Pakistan to try to help LTV sell a rocket launcher to governments there. The Tower firm registered as a lobbyist earlier this year after the Legal Times reported that Tower had made calls on LTV's behalf to congressional and Pentagon officials in 1987 about an Air Force contract on which the firm was bidding.

Billmore said the firm's main role has not been lobbying, but consulting on issues such as deciding where a firm should put its resources in a time of shrinking defense budgets. Hicks, who hired the Tower firm in May 1987, said yesterday that he asked Tower to give him advice on the kind of reception a client's defense proposals might receive in Congress.

[redacted] telephone number [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents and that he was being interviewed regarding a background clearance investigation regarding JOHN GOODWIN TOWER along with any knowledge of any current or past circumstances that might have a bearing on TOWER's suitability for Federal employment or access to classified information. [redacted] has known TOWER on a professional basis for approximately [redacted] years. He has worked with TOWER on Capitol Hill as a Senator and also as Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services.

[redacted] characterized TOWER as being "prickly". He explained that TOWER was hard-driving to an extreme and was known to "step on colleagues toes". [redacted] stated that TOWER was Chairman of the Committee on Armed Services and was overly strong and unaccommodating at times. [redacted] stated TOWER did not compromise with his colleagues as past Chairmen on the Committee had or as other Committee Chairmen did. When asked to describe TOWER's personality, he said "cool". [redacted] could not comment further on this statement or provide further details. [redacted] believed TOWER was "not very accommodating with opponents of his position" but was competent, intelligent and knowledgeable on defense issues. [redacted] added TOWER was known to get things accomplished although he was difficult to deal with at times.

[redacted] knew of no derogatory information regarding TOWER's character, associates, reputation or loyalty to the United States Government. [redacted] knew of no alcohol or prescription drug abuse by TOWER. He saw no indication of illicit drug use, including marijuana by TOWER nor of TOWER ever buying or selling illegal drugs. TOWER to have past clearances with the Federal Government and believed he should continue to have access to classified or sensitive information.

Regarding allegations of alleged sexual indiscretions by TOWER both in the United States (U.S.) and abroad with U.S. or foreign nationals, [redacted] had no personal knowledge. He stated he knew various newspapers carried articles regarding these allegations. [redacted] was not in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1985-1986 with TOWER.

[redacted] had no personal knowledge of excessive alcohol consumption by TOWER and was unfamiliar with this allegation.

[redacted] had no personal knowledge of any mental instabilities by TOWER which would include suicidal tendencies.

Regarding a potential conflict of interest allegation concerning TOWER's past work for various defense contractors, [redacted] stated he has read articles pertaining to this allegation. He advised the articles give an "appearance of a conflict" but no concrete evidence to support the allegation. [redacted] stated he knew of no one that TOWER would have lobbied on Capitol Hill on the behalf of defense contractors he represented.

[redacted] was familiar that a large amount of money was raised at a dinner when TOWER was running for re-election. [redacted] did not know what TOWER did with the money raised as campaign contributions to his re-election. He knew this point to be raised in various newspaper articles which could cause an ethics problem to TOWER if not fully explained. Overall, [redacted] had no personal knowledge of any illegal contributions to TOWER's campaign or illegal expenditures from campaign funds.

[redacted] had no personal knowledge of any type of illegal banking activities engaged in by TOWER and relating to the Republic Bank Corporation, Dallas, Texas.

[redacted] provided additional information to the investigating agents in regard to specific ethical questions relating to TOWER's political career and to TOWER's overall credibility. [redacted] stated in 1985, a 120 millimeter mortar purchase was placed in the "FY85 Defense Authorization Bill". The language of the purchase got into the bill directing the Army to make a decision on the mortar within sixty to ninety days. [redacted] said this provision was not in either the original House or Senate Bill. During the Spring of 1985, the addition was discovered and [redacted] "got into some difficulty" over it. [redacted] said that [redacted] allegedly told [redacted] that TOWER directed him to insert the language into the bill. [redacted] stated he was not sure if TOWER did anything wrong with this insertion but believed it was important to mention since only one company could fulfill the Army's specification on the mortar in question and within the time period specified. [redacted] could not state the name of the company able to supply the mortar to the Army within the time constraints listed. [redacted] again reiterated that even if TOWER was responsible for the insertion, "it may not be an improper motive". [redacted] could provide no personal knowledge of TOWER's involvement regarding this event.

[redacted] related that in 1981, MELVYN R. PAISLEY was nominated to be the Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Research, Engineering and Systems). A background investigation was conducted by the FBI where serious allegations (bribery and wiretapping) were made against PAISLEY which did not contain any substantiation. This file was given to the White House in 1981. According to the records of the Committee on Armed Services, the FBI report was not given to them for review. At that time, the Chairman of the Committee was TOWER. [redacted] stated that in October, 1988, Senator's SAM NUNN and JOHN WARNER reviewed the FBI report and issued a joint statement herein attached and incorporated into this FD-302 stating their findings. Also, on November 30, 1988, TOWER was quoted in a newspaper article as having no knowledge of any derogatory information regarding PAISLEY and as receiving no such information from the White House itself. In a June 26, 1988, article from the Los Angeles Times, (a copy herein is attached and incorporated into this FD-302) entitled, "Earlier Allegations About Paisley Told", [redacted] stated TOWER [redacted] was sent to then Senator JOHN TOWER, Chairman of the Armed Services Committee in November, 1981, stating that PAISLEY was known to take bribes. With this, [redacted] raised the question of credibility and ethics in TOWER. [redacted] stated if serious allegations were made and either the White House or TOWER (possibly both) knew, whose decision was it not to inform the Committee on Armed Services in 1981 as to these allegations? Also attached and incorporated into this FD-302 is a letter written to the President of the United States from [redacted] regarding this incident. [redacted] had no personal knowledge of TOWER's involvement regarding this event.

b7C

When asked if TOWER was suitable for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government, [redacted] stated he could not personally recommend TOWER to the appointment although he is qualified in the usual sense. By this, [redacted] meant TOWER had complete knowledge of the issues pertinent to the position. He added "provided all background investigations work out," [redacted] believed TOWER could be trusted and that the President could have trust and confidence in him. [redacted] believed TOWER was questionable regarding his open-mindedness on different positions on defense issues, his position on procurement issues, and the possibility of "bringing excess baggage" to the position such as the appearance of a conflict of interest in regards to past work for various defense contractors and his cool relationship with former colleagues on Capitol Hill.

COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES
WASHINGTON, DC 20510-6050

December 1, 1988

The President
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President:

At a meeting of the Armed Services Committee on November 29, Chairman Sam Nunn and Ranking Republican John Warner issued a joint statement on the Committee's procedures for the upcoming confirmations. Part of that discussion centered on the 1981 confirmation of Melvin Paisley to serve as Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research, Engineering and Systems. Mr. Paisley has been mentioned as one of the principal targets of the procurement fraud scandal called Operation Ill Wind.

Reports surfaced this past summer that the FBI had, during Mr. Paisley's background investigation in 1981, received allegations that Mr. Paisley had been involved in possible bribery and wiretapping. As a member of the Armed Services Committee, I was (and am) concerned that such allegations had not been forwarded to the Committee by the White House. This past July, I requested access to the FBI reports and the White House file to determine just what was known to the White House and conveyed to the Committee at the time of Mr. Paisley's confirmation.

Your [redacted] declined my request to see the file, stating that access to such file was limited to the Chairman and Ranking Member of the Committee. Subsequent to that statement, Senators Nunn and Warner sought access to the file and in early October reviewed the FBI report. In the joint statement of this past Tuesday, Senator Nunn and Senator Warner both confirmed that "serious allegations" concerning Mr. Paisley did appear in the FBI report and that such allegations should have been investigated further but were not. Senator Nunn stated at the Committee meeting that the White House did not have information on whether the FBI report or the allegations contained therein had been forwarded to the Committee during Mr. Paisley's confirmation proceeding.

Former Armed Services Committee Chairman John Tower told the Washington Post on Wednesday, November 30, "that he had no knowledge of the allegations against Paisley and that the White House had rejected the committee's blanket request to see all Federal Bureau of Investigation background files." His spokesman went on to say that "(t)he policy of the committee was not to request the background file for a specific individual unless information was brought to the attention of the staff that might bear negatively on the suitability or fitness of the nominee. The committee received no such information, particularly not from the White House." Assuming that is true, then someone at the White House apparently decided to keep former Chairman Tower, and thus our Committee, in the dark about these allegations.

I think it is important to resolve this issue. To that end, I would appreciate answers to the following questions: 1) Who made the decision to not forward the allegations concerning Mr. Paisley to the Armed Services Committee and why? 2) Did the White House investigate these allegations which were brought to its attention by the FBI and if not, why not?

I hope we can resolve these questions in the next few weeks, since the issue at stake is too important and the possibilities too unsettling to allow this matter to linger.

Thank you for your personal attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Carl Levin

Mr. Clarke:

RE: JOHN GOODWIN TOWER
SPECIAL INQUIRY (SPIN)

This is to advise you of a recent press contact by the New York Times regarding the SPIN of Senator Tower.

On 12/2/88, the SPIN Unit initiated its full field investigation of Senator Tower for an unspecified Presidential appointment requiring Senate confirmation.

On 12/9/88, [redacted] had requested this meeting as he wanted to discuss information he possessed concerning Mr. Tower's involvement with the military of Iraq. The SPIN has not, to date, developed information regarding this allegation. On 12/12/88, Supervisory Special Agent [redacted] (WMFO SPIN Squad) and Special Agent [redacted] (Case Agent) met with [redacted] and [redacted] reporters for the New York Times (Washington Bureau).

At that meeting, [redacted] sought to establish ground rules on their behalf so that neither they nor the New York Times would be considered an informant of the FBI. They stated they were willing to reveal their information only if the FBI gave them unspecified information in exchange.

SSA [redacted] advised that the FBI would neither confirm or comment on [redacted] information nor would the FBI provide any information in exchange. There was no subsequent discussion regarding Mr. Tower.

[redacted] now recalls the name of the former aide to the appointee, who along with [redacted] spoke to the appointee about his consumption of alcohol before meetings. [redacted] previously had recalled only that this person's father was a minister, now recalling that his name is [redacted] has no knowledge of [redacted] whereabouts, but believes [redacted] whom [redacted] now believes to live in [redacted] would probably know [redacted] whereabouts as former staffers of the appointee have periodic reunions.

Regarding the appointee's abuse of alcohol, [redacted] also recalls having spoken to [redacted] about [redacted] declined to give the name of this physician as he is still employed on Capital Hill, because [redacted] believes the disclosure of his name might adversely affect his reputation and ability to perform effectively in his current position. [redacted] related that [redacted] had been advised by this physician, who was familiar with the appointee both before and after [redacted] real emotion." [redacted] related that he is incapable of deep feeling for others and seeks only to "meet his needs" and "when they are no longer satisfied, he moves on". [redacted] continued "he uses people to meet his needs; that is alcoholic conduct."

Regarding others who would be in a position to comment knowledgeably about the appointee, [redacted] believes that JAMES E. LYON of Houston, Texas, would be such a person. Although [redacted] has no address for LYON, [redacted] records indicate that his office phone number is (713) 528-5587, his home number being (713) 871-1565. [redacted] related that he is a banker and has been involved in a number of businesses in his life. [redacted] characterized LYON as "immensely capable," going on to mention "he's deeply involved in Texas politics." [redacted] described LYON as 55 to 60 years of age, although looking younger. [redacted] related that he is conservative in his republican politics and "strong on defense." [redacted] believes LYON to have known the appointee for perhaps 25 years.

[redacted] also recalls that in 1981, the appointee while "swaggering" (mentally) around had told [redacted] that he had used an alias while renting hotel rooms when he did not want to register under his own name. The alias he used was [redacted] the true name of an [redacted] This last characterization came from [redacted] belief that [redacted] girlfriend resided with him. It is [redacted] belief that the appointee employed this alias while womanizing.

When asked as to whether [redacted] was aware of any third parties who could verify these events, [redacted] related that the [redacted] would be familiar with this scenario. Upon further reflection, [redacted] recalls that a friend of [redacted] [redacted] advised that when seeking persons knowledgeable of the appointee, that since "he's a vindictive, vengeful, very angry man," people will be "very careful", going on to mention in particular that [redacted] would be cautious because "he's in the loop." [redacted] provided no other information pertinent to this investigation.

telephone was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents, by a show of credentials and orally, and the nature and purpose of the interview. voluntarily furnished the following information regarding the appointee JOHN TOWER.

knows the appointee on a strictly professional level. indicated that for a number of years has had conversations and "conflicts" with the appointee regarding defense issues. emphasized that way of doing business is different than the way the appointee conducted business.

advised that had no substantiated evidence to indicate that the appointee committed any illegal act while in position as the Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. recalled that in opinion the appointee had his advisors regularly appeased defense contractors or "cronies". An example of this alleged assistance was the release of confidential information obtained at committee conferences to defense contractors. was unable to corroborate this accusation, and did not know if the appointee or a member of his staff leaked the information.

believed that this assistance from the appointee or his advisors was not for personal or political gain but rather for a desire of "not wanting to buck the system". also felt the appointee was a vindictive type person and that he did a "rotten" job in picking his staff. felt the appointee's staff were simply puppets of the "services".

advised that the appointee always conducted himself in a polite and professional manner. was not aware of any use of illegal drugs or abuse of alcohol or prescription drugs. To the best of knowledge, the appointee never sold or purchased any illegal drugs. considered the appointee to be in good mental and physical health. stated that while the appointee was not one of the wealthier men in the Senate, he did appear to be living within his financial means. did not believe the appointee to be biased or prejudiced toward any individual or other racial, ethnic or religious group. [redacted] had no reason to question the appointee's loyalty to the United States Government or any of his personal associates. b7D

[redacted] stated [redacted] would not recommend the appointee for the position of Secretary of Defense for several reasons. [redacted] believed that under the appointee's reign, the Defense Department would continue to operate in the same manner it did when the appointee was the Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. [redacted] indicated that the "Services" would repeatedly receive everything they wanted. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] also claimed that the next Secretary of Defense must get along well with all members and segments of Congress. This especially included liberal Democrats who must trust the new Secretary. [redacted] believes there are other Republicans that can more effectively do this job under the present conditions and that the liberal Democrats simply do not trust the appointee. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] indicated that if the appointee was to become Secretary of Defense, he should be able to name his staff. [redacted] claimed this was not fair to the appointee if he was going to be held responsible for executing the duties of the Secretary of Defense. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] knew of no sexual indiscretions by the appointee nor any problems with alcohol or mental instability. [redacted] stated that in the half dozen or so social occasions [redacted] saw the appointee at, [redacted] never saw him drunk or out of line. As far as any conflict of interest problems, [redacted] stated everyone that would be considered for Secretary of Defense would have some type of past connection with Defense contractors and [redacted] did not think it would be a factor in the appointee's case. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] knew of nothing illegal with regard to the appointee's campaign contributions or any spending of same. [redacted] was unaware of any banking activities regarding the appointee, legal or otherwise. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] FURTHER ADVISED THAT WHEN APPOINTEE BECAME AN AMBASSADOR AND WENT TO GENEVA, SWITZERLAND, HIS FURNITURE REMAINED IN THIS OFFICE AND HE MOVED SOME "CAREER MEMORABILIA" INTO THE ROOM FOR STORAGE. THE DOOR REMAINED OPEN DURING THIS TIME, AND THE LAW FIRM DID HAVE THE ABILITY TO USE OF THE CONFERENCE ROOM IF NECESSARY DURING THIS PERIOD OF TIME. THE APPOINTEE ALSO MAINTAINED SIMILAR USE OF THIS OFFICE WHILE HE HEADED THE TOWER COMMISSION.

THIS MATTER IS BROUGHT TO THE ATTENTION OF FBIHQ IN LIGHT OF THE FACT THAT THAT APPOINTEE WAS AN EMPLOYEE OF THE U.S. GOVERNMENT AND CONTINUED TO USE THE OFFICE LOANED TO HIM BY THE LAW FIRM DURING THE TERM OF HIS U.S. GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT. NO LEADS HAVE BEEN SET IN THIS MATTER BY WMFO, AND ANY ADDITIONAL INQUIRY WILL BE LEFT TO THE DISCRETION OF FBIHQ.

NOTE:

During the night of 5/9-10/72, the building in Austin, Texas, which houses the campaign headquarters for Senator John Tower was destroyed by fire. Fire Department investigators found no evidence of an incendiary device in the debris. The fire marshal in Austin reported the fire was apparently accidental and began on the second floor where flamable liquids used in duplicating machines by the campaign staff had soaked into the carpet and probably created volatile gases.

Attn: AUSA [redacted]

Dear Sir:

On February 22, 1989, SA [redacted] made available a copy of an FD-302 to AUSA [redacted] of an individual debriefed on February 14, 1989, described therein as a "confidential source". The debriefing concerned source's knowledge of John Tower, former Republican United States Senator from Texas and current Secretary of Defense nominee, particularly relating to Tower's intercession in certain Defense contracting matters. AUSA [redacted] advised, telephonically on February 23, 1989, that, upon consultation with United States Attorney Willcox, no prosecutive violations were discerned from the matters described by the above-mentioned source. However, the United States Attorney's Office (USAO) for the District of Maryland declined to give a declination as most of the transactions described by the source did not occur in the District of Maryland. A more exhaustive declination would more appropriately be obtained from the Department of Justice or the USAO for Washington, D.C.

Sincerely,

Joseph V. Corless

DIRB then reviews the information and makes their recommendation whether to reinstate an individual's security clearance to the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense. In this instance, on November 30, 1988, the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense advised [redacted] that a review of "relevant facts and circumstances" resulted in the decision to [redacted] pending the "final adjudication" of the case by the DIRB. [redacted] also advised that it would be "most unlikely" that any other employees of UTL would be knowledgeable regarding UTL payments to TOWER or problems surrounding [redacted]

The informant has no personal knowledge of any payoffs to Senator Tower; however, he/she identified [redacted] as perhaps knowledgeable of the relationship between [redacted] and Senator Tower.

[redacted] had been interviewed twice by Bureau Agents in connection with the SPIN on Senator Tower. He was questioned in detail regarding potential conflicts of interest by Senator Tower as a defense consultant to LTV or British Aerospace, Inc. on the "C-Fin" project, alterations to language in the Defense Authorization Act of 1985 regarding the purchase of mortars, and withholding of derogatory information about Melvyn Paisley from the SASC. [redacted] denied any complicity or irregularities on the part of Senator Tower in any of these areas. He described Senator Tower as "a person of impeccable integrity" and knew of no criminal activity in Senator Tower's past.
