FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 12/3/88

JOHN GOODWIN TOWER was interviewed at his residence, 3525 Turtle Creek, #21B, Dallas, Texas. Mr. TOWER, who noted that he is a candidate for a possible presidential appointment, was made aware of the identity of the interviewing agents, and of the fact the FBI was interviewing him in order to obtain information necessary to utilize in conducting a background investigation regarding him. He stated he understood this.

Mr. TOWER was thereafter allowed to review a copy of a Standard Form 86 with attachments, which had been submitted by him and signed by him on 11/30/88. Mr. TOWER thereafter reviewed the above. During his review, he made the following comments with regard to this form:

He noted that with regard to answers furnished on this form under item 15 (personal contact with foreign nationals), the information provided on the form was not complete. b6 b7C

He stated that his staff in Washington, D.C. can provide a supplemental list from his office records in that city. He stated that [redacted] who is employed in that office which is located at 2101 L, NW, Washington, D.C., would be the individual to contact with regard to obtaining this supplemental list. He noted that the telephone number of his Washington, D.C. Office is 775-4789.

He noted that during his tenure as a representative of the State Department, as well as during other times during his public life, he has contacted numerous foreign nationals. He submitted memos of contact to the U. S. State Department regarding many of these contacts.

With regard to item #3S, which is contained on "Supplement to Standard Form 86", he stated he has no personal knowledge of any firm or company with which he has associated ever having been convicted of any violation of any law. He stated that it is entirely possible that such might have occurred, but he has no direct personal knowledge of same.

With regard to question #8S, he noted that it would appear he had neglected to list the Masonic Lodge and Shrine under that question. (A later review of this item disclosed that same was in fact listed.)

At this time, Mr. TOWER also executed a form FD-406, "Authority to Release Information".

Mr. TOWER stated that he is not aware of any personal or business credit issues which would reflect unfavorably on him. He stated he has never had any item repossessed or declared delinquent, nor any debt placed for collection that he is aware of. He stated he has never filed for bankruptcy.

He noted that he has listed two divorce proceedings on his SF-86, which was previously reviewed. He stated that other than that, he has never been involved in a civil suit as a plaintiff or defendant.

He stated that he has never been arrested or convicted of any crime of which he is aware. He stated he has no knowledge of his ever having been suspected of involvement in any crime.

He stated he has never been denied employment or dismissed from any employment.

He stated that he has had numerous contacts with representatives of foreign countries, which has already been discussed as noted above.

He stated that he is not aware of any details of his personal life that could be used to coerce him or which could reflect unfavorably upon or embarrass the office of the President of the United States.

He stated he is not aware of any professional complaints or non-judicial disciplinary action which might have been lodged against him. He stated that he was never involved in student or military disciplinary proceedings, and has never been, to the best of his knowledge, the subject of an equal opportunity employment complaint.

Mr. TOWER noted that his current business associations, as listed on the SF-86, would be a conflict of interest if he were to be named or employed as the Secretary of Defense or in the Defense Department of the United States of America. He stated that he intends to resign from all of these business establishments, effective November 30, 1988, when and if he is appointed to or employed by the United States Government again.

He stated that he is not aware of any past associations which involved or could have involved conflict of interest allegations.

He stated that on two occasions, in about December 1985, he and his then wife consulted a marriage counselor. This was an individual named [redacted] in Dallas, Texas. b6 b7C

Other than that, he has never seen professionally nor counseled with any psychiatrist or psychologist, or any other qualified counselor.

He stated he currently uses eye-drops for a glaucoma condition he has. These eye-drops are prescribed by his eye doctor, [redacted]

Other than that, he does not use any prescription drugs or other drugs at this time. He has never been involved in any abuse of prescription drugs or alcohol. He has never used any illegal drugs. He has never been a participant in any drug/alcohol counseling or rehabilitation program.

Other than the purchase of prescription drugs as prescribed by a doctor during his life, he has never purchased nor sold drugs.

Mr. TOWER noted he had previously listed his membership in organizations whose policies restrict membership on the basis of sex as noted on the SF-86. He stated he does not belong nor can he ever recall belonging to an organization which restricted membership on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, handicap, or age.

He further advised he is not aware of any instance in which me may have been accused of having shown bias or prejudice with regards to sex, race, color, religion, national origin, handicap or age.

He stated that he is not aware of any current or past circumstance which could have a bearing on his suitability for federal employment or access to classified information.

Mr. TOWER noted that while he was in the Senate, he voted against the Civil Rights Act of 1964. He stated, however, he did this for purely constitutional reasons, and his vote was not based on any bias or prejudice based on race.

It was discussed with Mr. TOWER that various newspaper articles had appeared recently which might be construed as containing allegations regarding sexual indiscretions, alcohol abuse, and conflict of interest regarding himself in the past.

Mr. TOWER advised that he is well aware of these newspaper articles. He stated that there are no actual allegations that he is aware of regarding any of the above. He stated that the newspaper accounts, which might give one to believe there were alleged sexual indiscretions were based upon a list of interrogatories submitted by his ex-wife, LILLA CUMMINGS TOWER, during the long and somewhat disputed divorce proceedings in which he and she engaged.

Mr. TOWER thereafter furnished a two page memorandum which had been prepared by his staff and which had previously been given to the White House regarding his version of this matter. This two page memorandum is herein incorporated and made a part of this FD-302:

After longstanding marital differences Senator Tower moved from the Washington home which he had shared with his wife, Lilla Cummings Tower, on 11 November 1985. Shortly thereafter, his Dallas attorney prepared a no-fault divorce petition to be filed in Texas, which was the marital domicile. The Texas proceeding would have provided a simple end to the marriage, without provision of alimony (in line with Texas law). Nevertheless, in an effort to avoid any unfavorable inference regarding Mrs. Tower's character, which a suit against her might convey, Senator Tower refrained from filing his petition to give Mrs. Tower an opportunity to initiate the divorce. Mrs. Tower filed her own petition on 30 May 1986, in the District of Columbia. It, too, was a no-fault petition, but included a request for spousal support. Mrs. Tower's petition contained no allegations of marital misconduct.

After several months of negotiations with Mrs. Tower's attorney, a tentative property settlement was reached. Unfortunately, this agreement fell apart in the wake of Senator Tower's involvement on the President's Special Review Board. Mrs. Tower apparently believed that Senator Tower's renewed prominence enhanced his ability to pay alimony. Accordingly, she increased dramatically her demand for spousal support. At this time, Mrs. Tower's attorney predicted that the suit could "get very ugly" if settlement could not be reached on Mrs. Tower's terms. Senator Tower refused to succumb to Mrs. Tower's increased demands.

Shortly thereafter, on 22 April 1987, almost 11 months after Mrs. Tower's divorce petition was filed, her attorney filed a lengthy set of interrogatories. These interrogatories covered a range of matters relating to Senator Tower's financial dealings, including travel, clothing expenditures and monies spent on social pursuits. The interrogatories also asked whether Senator Tower had personal relationships with [redacted] and certain other unnamed individuals. The latter questions were irrelevant to any issue in the proceeding. b6 b7C

Senator Tower's attorneys objected to the interrogatories as "overly burdensome and calculated to harass" their client, and Mrs. Tower's attorney made no effort to require that these questions be answered. Even so, the interrogatories somehow came to the attention of the press and were reported by them as "allegations".

Since specific mention was made in the interrogatories of [redacted] who was [redacted] in 1983, it should be made clear that Senator Tower did not [redacted]--two months after his separation from Lilla Tower. A reference in the interrogatories to a [redacted] (whose gender was not specified), was and is too vague to explain, since Senator Tower has always had many friends in the [redacted] community. It should be emphasized that no specific allegations were made regarding marital infidelity at any point in the proceedings. b6 b7C

In view of the media's heightened scrutiny of Senator Tower, he became concerned about possible damage to his reputation (and that of others) through misinterpretation by the media of innuendo generated by the proceedings. He ultimately acceded to Mrs. Tower's settlement demands in order to put the matter behind him. The divorce was granted in the District of Columbia on 10 September 1987.

b7C

Mr. TOWER advised that he is aware of news media articles alleging his involvement with [redacted] in Geneva, Switzerland, during his tenure as an arms negotiator. He stated this was totally false.

He also noted that he has seen articles alluding to a romantic relationship between himself and a [redacted] which he categorized as totally false. He noted that he is acquainted with her.

He stated that there are no known allegations of marital infidelity.

He also stated that he denies any current or previous alcohol abuse or conflict of interest(s) by him.

Mr. TOWER also noted that interrogatories with regard to specific responses made in this divorce are of course, on file in a court in Washington, D.C.

Mr. TOWER was asked if he could furnish any information with regard to his knowledge of an individual named [redacted]

Mr. TOWER replied that [redacted] is an individual who died several years ago. Mr. TOWER noted that he (TOWER) had [redacted] since about January 1986 on a regular basis.

He stated that he and [redacted] have been seen together at innumerable functions in Washington, D.C. and other locations.

Mr. TOWER noted that the only bank with which he has ever been associated as a member of the board of directors or trustee was the brief period of time for which he was the Director of the REPUBLIC BANK CORPORATION in Dallas, Texas, as was previously discussed by him during the FBI investigation which was conducted in 1987. He noted his tenure as a director of that bank lasted for approximately two or three months.

Mr. TOWER advised he is not aware of any questionable or illegal contributions which were made to any of his campaigns during the time he was running for public office. He noted he did not accept any contributions from any foreign nationals.

He noted he could not recall any specifics, but that his campaign had on occasion refunded checks given by individuals when that individual had given more than was allowed.

He was asked with regard to information which had appeared in the news media regarding his having retained monies he raised in a campaign for the U.S. Senate for which he did not choose to run. Mr. TOWER noted that the funds which were raised in that campaign were expended in various ways and that he has made an accounting to the Federal Election Commission and the IRS regarding these monies. He thereafter furnished a four page memorandum which had been prepared by his staff which detailed the way these funds were expended.

He further advised that should a more detailed breakdown of these fund expenditures be needed, his staff was going to prepare one in Washington, D.C. during the preceding week or so.

This four page memorandum is herein incorporated and made a part of this FD-302:

Tower Senate Club

The Tower Senate Club was formed to aid Senator Tower in his 1984 election campaign. A historical survey of the Club is presented below, featuring a detailed discussion of the Tower Senate Club's use of the $500,000 in funds remaining with the Club after Tower's retirement form the Senate.

Use of Funds Following Sen. Tower's Withdrawal from the 1984 Race

On August 23, 1983, Senator Tower announced that he would not be running for re-election for the Senate from Texas. At the time of this announcement, his political campaign committee, the Tower Senate Club (TSC), showed a balance of $ 1.58 million. Senator Tower immediately sent a letter to his contributors offering to refund their contributions.(A total of $120,000.00 was refunded over the next two years.)

At the beginning of 1984, TSC showed a balance of $1.17 million. Beyond those funds being returned to contributors, TSC began distributing funds to Republican Party organizations and candidates. The major recipient was Victory'84/Texas, which received $305,000 in direct and in-kind contributions. Contributions to other Republican candidates and organizations, and expenditures on direct mail, polling, and voter contact expenses totalled approximately $120,000. Approximately $280,000 was spent on the Senator's Austin and Washington offices, staff travel, and the Senator's travel.

At the end of 1984, FEC reports show that TSC had a balance of $465,858.91.

Post-January 3, 1985

Recent media attention has focused on the disposition of approximately $500,000 held by the fund upon Tower's retirement form the Senate. These accounts suggest that Tower used these funds for personal use, and that, although this was legal, it demonstrated an error in judgement.

None of the funds were used for personal use. The FEC, the IRS, and the Senate Ethics Committee have all reviewed necessary documents in the normal performance of their duties, and have found them satisfactory.

A January 25, 1985 letter form the Senate Ethics Committee, following Senator Tower's appointment as a START negotiator states that this appointment allows " you to use contributions to defray any ordinary and necessary expenses you incur in connection with that office." The letter also sets two tests to avoid violation of personal use rules; these tests became the standard for classification of expenses.

Attached is a copy of the Tower Senate Club's financial activities from January 1, 1985 to the date of the dissolution of the club, June 30, 1987.

A brief summary of this document makes it clear that media accounts of the disposition of Tower Senate Club funds is incorrect:

o Forty percent (40%) of the funds, or $206,000, were distributed to Republican Party organizations and candidates.

o Twenty percent(20%), or $100,000, went to the establishment of a repository for Tower's Senate papers at the A. Frank Smith Library at Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas. The papers, correspondence, etc. cover the 1961-85 time period, during which time Tower served in the Senate under six Presidents. As with many other public officials who have made similar donations, it was Tower's intention that these papers serve as a resource to historians, political scientists, and other scholars who have an interest in this time period. Claims that this gift constitutes a personal use of TSC funds show a lack of awareness of the precedence for such donations and a misunderstanding of the nature of academic research.

o Tower became a consultant to the State Department in January, 1985. Expenses for the Washington, DC office were split on a 75%-25% basis between close-down operations of Tower's Senate office and necessary operations related to the Tower's new duties as a consultant START negotiator. With Tower's confirmation as START negotiator, the Washington office was closed.

o Thirty percent (30%) of the funds were used to operate the Tower Senate Club Office and to pay personnel. For the 30 month period under discussion, these total expenses amount to an average expenditure of $5000.00 per month.

o Travels, meals, and lodging account for three percent (3%) of the funds. Each and every one of these expenditures was related to a public service, political event, or to the performance of his START duties. Back-up documentation exists for all expenditures.(Media misrepresentation of this type of expenditure has been common; for example the Atlanta Constitution notes that Tower spent $1104.50 for a lunch at the Monocle Restaurant in Washington, DC. The "lunch" was actually a combined celebration of Texas Independence Day and Houston's victory at San Jacinto. The event has been an important political one and the 1986 guests included representatives from Texas and other state's Congressional offices.

o The carryover expenses from 1984 account covers expenses incurred for political activities conducted by Tower as head of the Texas Reagan-Bush and Victory '84 campaign organizations.

o The "memorabilia" account has also drawn press attention. The memorabilia was in the form of U.S. Senate souvenirs (ash trays, etc.) and were given as gifts to individuals.(This account is listed separately, but also is a component of political contributions. That is, in certain cases, this type of memorabilia was given to Republican Party organizations for their use.)

Note: Information is drawn from FEC Reports submitted by Tower Senate Club. This statement is unaudited.

Mr. TOWER was thereafter allowed to review a copy of an article which had appeared in a publication known as the "Legal Times" on February 1, 1988. This article made reference to the fact that he had made calls on behalf of BRITISH AEROSPACE and a sub-contractor, the Dallas based LTV, CORPORATION.

Mr. TOWER noted that the article is inaccurate due to the fact that LTV is the prime contractor on the matter which the article was addressing, and that BRITISH AEROSPACE is the sub-contractor for this program.

He stated that his call was made merely to inquire as the progress of the program, to the best of his recollection.

He noted that he is registered as a lobbyist with whatever agency handles such registration for the U.S. Government in Washington, D.C.

He noted that a review of appropriate files would reflect exactly for what he is registered as a lobbyist.

Mr. TOWER was thereafter asked about a February 1976 article in the "Fort Worth Star Telegram" Newspaper which indicated that himself and another senator from Texas had accepted illegal campaign contributions from major oil companies.

Mr. TOWER advised he does not recall ever having accepted such contributions, noting that same is illegal and does not recall ever having had a complaint of his doing so registered against him.

Mr. TOWER noted that as previously discussed, the printed and electronic news media may have made allegations with regard to alcohol abuse, conflict of interest, and sexual misconduct regarding him. He stated he rejects any such allegations as being untrue.

He stated that, as previously discussed during the 1987 investigation, he was a member of the SOUTHERN METHODIST UNIVERSITY (SMU) Board of Trustees during the time that the football scandal regarding the paying of athletes broke in 1986 or 1987. He stated that up until the infractions became public knowledge, he had no knowledge of any such activities going on at SMU. He said he had no part in any pay-offs and/or knowledge of such.

Mr. TOWER was asked with regard to an article which had appeared on May 22, 1982 in the "Fort Worth Star Telegram" Newspaper regarding a loan made to himself at favorable interest rates.

He noted that he was a customer of that particular bank, the MERCANTILE NATIONAL BANK of San Antonio, Texas, and he did make a loan. He stated he was either given the option of taking the loan at 15 percent or taking the loan at a scale which would be regulated at one percent above the discount rate. He chose the latter option. The rate subsequently went down, which meant a favorable position with regard to the interest payment on the loan.

He stated that this loan has been repaid and he does not owe anything on it.

Mr. TOWER was asked about his knowledge of an individual named [redacted] He replied that [redacted] was an individual whom he had been acquainted with in the early 1970s. He stated that [redacted] had actually [redacted] in 1973 or 1974. He stated that he [redacted] He stated he has not seen [redacted] in many, many years, and has no idea of his current whereabouts. b6 b7C

He was asked if he had ever received any allegation that [redacted] may have acted as an intermediary or conduit for purposes of passing on campaign contributions to political figures, including himself.

b7C

Mr. TOWER stated that [redacted] had never done so to him and he had no knowledge of any allegations of such activities on the part of [redacted]

Mr. TOWER noted that he is departing for Washington, D.C. on Monday, December 5, 1988, and can be contacted through his Washington, D.C. Office during that week (December 5 - 9, 1988).

He stated he would be happy to provide any further information which might be needed in the future.

INTERVIEW OF EX-SPOUSE

AT DALLAS, TEXAS

On December 5, 1988, LOU B. TOWER, 7510 West Northwest Highway #6, Dallas, Texas, advised SA [redacted] as follows: b6 b7C

She was married to the appointee, JOHN G. TOWER, on March 21, 1952 in Wichita Falls, Texas. They were divorced on December 27, 1976 in the same location. She noted that she had filed for the divorce, which was uncontested.

She had met the appointee prior to his coming to Wichita Falls in 1951, but became well acquainted with him when he was a professor at MID-WESTERN UNIVERSITY from about September 1951 through June 1960. She noted that in June 1960, he resigned to run for the United States Senate. He ran in an election against LYNDON B. JOHNSON, who was running for both Senator from Texas and Vice-President of the United States. He lost the Senatorial Election to Mr. JOHNSON, however, due to the fact that Mr. JOHNSON was elected Vice-President, the state held a special election for the senate seat. The appointee won that election, and he was sworn in June 1961. He was re-elected on several occasions until he left the senate in the early 1980s.

She stated that she and the appointee maintained a cordial relationship. She noted that she considers the appointee to be a person of excellent moral character, associates, and loyalty. She stated that in her personal opinion, the appointee has a good reputation. She noted she is aware of recent news media articles which questions some of his practices, but she has no personal knowledge of it. She stated she has never known the appointee to use drugs of any sort. She stated that there was a period of time the appointee use to drink a considerable amount of alcohol. However, she did not feel it ever affected his performance of duty or incapacitated him for duty. As far as she knows now, his drinking of alcohol is of a very moderate nature. He handles his personal finances in a timely manner to the best of her knowledge.

In her opinion, the appointee would never accept an illegal contribution, during a campaign or otherwise. She stated that he would not accept a gratuity for the use of his influence.

She stated that she does not know of any reason or anything the appointee has done or would ever do to embarrass the Office of the President of the United States. She stated that he is in excellent health as far as she knows, and she recommends him for a position of trust and confidence without any reservations whatsoever.

She advised he has no bias or prejudice against any person or persons based on race, color, creed, sex, national origin, age, or handicap.

She also expressed no doubt that the appointee could handle any stressful situation.

He noted that all of his dealings with appointee were beyond reproach on the appointee's part.

He stated that although he is not personally acquainted with the appointee, in his dealings with the appointee, he gave the impression that the appointee was an honest, bright, and frank individual. He has no knowledge of any drug use or alcohol abuse on the part of the appointee. He has no knowledge of the appointee's finances. He noted that all financial matters between himself and the appointee were handled promptly.

He stated that during the time he consulted with appointee, the appointee was obviously under quite a bit of stress, both from his job and from his problems with his marriage and home-life. The appointee was obviously able to face up to these problems, and he utilized specialized expertise, such as himself [redacted] in order to help solve these problems.

It was his impression that the appointee was able to function very well under stressful situations, and he was able to do so with considerable purpose.

The appointee was apparently able to make painful decisions, and he has no reason to think that the appointee had any problem with alcohol and/or drugs because of stress.

[redacted] noted that he does not feel personally well-enough acquainted with the appointee to make any sort of recommendation for him, although as stated above, he certainly knows nothing of a derogatory nature regarding the appointee. b6 b7C

These names are as follows:

[redacted] (FNU) [redacted] (First Name Unknown) [redacted] and [redacted] b6 b7C

She stated that inasmuch as she has been employed by the appointee for the past [redacted] years, she feels quite well acquainted with him. She stated that in her opinion, he is a person of excellent moral character, associates, and loyalty to the United States. She personally feels he is a person of good reputation. She noted that the printed news media, in the recent past, has attempted to print articles which raised innuendoes regarding the appointee's reputation. She stated, in her opinion, these are totally false and he deserves nothing but the highest repute.

She has never known the appointee to use drugs of any sort. She stated that, in her opinion, the appointee does not abuse alcohol. She advised that she has known the appointee to consume alcohol, but she does not consider it abusive. She has never seen the appointee miss a days work or be incapacitated for work or any other duty due to his use of alcohol.

She stated that she considers the appointee to be highly qualified for any position of trust and confidence for the U.S. Government. She stated that he is very knowledgeable of defense matters, and she considers him to be highly qualified for any position in that department.

She stated that she feels that he would never do anything, nor does he have any past incidents known to her, which would cause embarrassment of any sort to the Office of the President of the United States.

She also noted that she has seen articles recently about the appointee's handling of some $1.7 million in campaign funds which had been raised in 1983, prior to his decision not to seek re-election.

She stated the fund was professionally managed, and she is sure it would stand up to any sort of audit. She stated that to the best of her knowledge, none of this money was used by the appointee for his personal use.

She stated that some of it was apparently used to pay expenses of the appointee in his office.

She stated that she further has no knowledge of any illegal campaign contributions ever having been made to appointee.

She stated that she worked with and was well acquainted with the former Mrs. TOWER, (the second wife of appointee, LILLA CUMMINGS). She stated that from her personal knowledge, the appointee was never unfaithful during his marriage to LILLA CUMMINGS. She stated that any suggestions of marital mis-conduct prior to their separation in September 1985, are totally baseless in her opinion.

She further advised that in her opinion, the former Mrs. LILLA CUMMINGS TOWER is an individual who is somewhat insecure.

She stated that many of the issues raised in the news media regarding the appointee's seeing other women, were merely issues raised by LILLA CUMMINGS in an attempt to gain more alimony.

She also stated that in her opinion, the appointee would not be a person who would be influenced by former associations. She stated she does not feel he would exhibit any conflict of interest with regard to the aforementioned defense department.

She recommends the appointee highly for any position of trust and confidence with the U. S. Government.

She does not think that the appointee has any prejudice or bias against any person or persons based on race, color, creed, sex, religion, national origin, age, or handicap, which would affect his decisions and performance of duty.

Dear Sir:

The Sunday, November 13, 1988, edition of Wichita Falls Time Record News carried an article by Jim Stewart, Cox news writer, alleging that controversy clouds Tower's chances for Pentagon post. Mr. Stewart, following in the reporting steps of too many modern-day reporters, manufactures facts out of whole cloth in order to make a good story.

Senator Tower moved from his home on November 11, 1985, and his attorney in Texas prepared a no-fault divorce proceeding to be filed in Texas. This would make for a simple divorce in view of the fact that there is no alimony under Texas statutes. Senator Tower, being a gentleman, asked his then-wife Lilla to file a petition for divorce in the District of Columbia in order that there would be no reflection on her character. Her petition was a no-fault divorce proceeding and the only question was in regard to alimony. A year after the divorce petition was filed, her attorneys filed interrogatories. These interrogatories were never answered because they were never required to be answered by the opposing counsel. The reference to the maid who worked for the Towers in Geneva was absolutely irresponsible. She was a trusted employee with a child and a husband who worked as a security person for the United States mission. This type of reporting has damaged her good name by innuendo.

It was obvious that these interrogatories were filed in the divorce proceeding in order to obtain the highest possible alimony payments and to make certain there was no community property claim against Mrs. Tower. This was a no-fault divorce and these interrogatories had nothing to do with granting the no-fault divorce. However, this represents the type of legal leverage used by some breed of divorce lawyers for the purpose of obtaining the highest alimony possible.

The question about finances has been laid to rest years ago in connection with Senator Tower's re-election campaign funds. A detailed audit of these campaign funds were furnished the Federal Election Commission and this Commission found no discrepancies whatsoever in the way the whole matter was handled.

I was a citizen of Wichita Falls for many years and I regret that Senator Tower's good name and the great contribution he has made to our country have been besmirched by the irresponsible reporting of Mr. Stewart.

was interviewed at her residence, had previously advised that she had records regarding the TOWER SENATE CLUB at her residence.

She explained that the TOWER SENATE CLUB was a club formed prior to 1978. It was a fund to help defray the cost of expenses of Senator TOWER's,(appointee) office in excess of what the senate paid. Also, it was to provide funding for political travel, etc. In 1974 or 1975, it was named TEXANS FOR TOWER. After the 1978 election, it became the TOWER SENATE CLUB and continued to operate towards the 1984 election.

In August 1983, appointee surprised everyone by announcing he intended not to run.

Thereafter, funds which were in possession of TOWER SENATE CLUB were expended in various manner including some returns to contributors. She noted that reports regarding this fund had been submitted to the Federal Election Commission (FEC) every six months as required by law.

She advised that before May 1985, the fund was was an employee of the TOWER SENATE CLUB Office in Austin, Texas. is no longer employed, and she has no idea of current location.

She subsequently telephonically contacted [redacted] in appointee's Washington, D. C. Office. He noted that he concentrated on post-1985 expenditure inasmuch as this appeared to be the main area of concern in the news media. He noted that his memo did not address pre-1985 matters.

Memorandum for Senator Tower
From: [redacted]
Re: Use of Campaign Funds

In response to your question, Senator Stevens asked us to outline how a Member or former Member may use excess campaign funds.

The Federal Election Campaign Act allows an individual who has received campaign contributions to use those contributions "to defray any ordinary and necessary expenses incurred in connection with his or her duties as a holder of Federal office" (2 U.S.C. section 439a). This same section also provides, in a clause added in 1980, that no individual may convert campaign funds to his personal use unless he was a Member of Congress on January 8, 1980.

Senate Rule 38, however, provides that "no contribution...shall be converted to the personal use of any Member or former Member." Rule 38 was agreed to in 1977.

The Committee's position has been that the restriction established by Senate Rule 38 in 1977 is not repealed by the 1980 grandfather provision for Members of Congress. A former Senator therefore may not convert campaign funds to personal use.

Nevertheless, your recent appointment makes you once again a "holder of Federal office" and section 439a allows you to use contributions to defray any ordinary and necessary expenses you incur in connection with that office. In order for you to fit within the permission established by section 439a, and to avoid the "personal use" prohibited by Senate Rule 38, we suggest that any expenditure of campaign funds should meet two tests:

(1) it should be related to your performing the duties of your new Federal office, and not of performing or shutting down a non-Federal activity;

(2) the expense should qualify as a "trade or business" deduction recognized under section 162 of the Internal Revenue Code. If it does qualify, the expense would not be seen as a "personal use."

A copy of section 439a, and of Rule 38, are attached.

He noted that he, of course, is familiar with appointee by reputation only, but does not feel qualified to make any sort of comment regarding any recommendation.

On December 6, 1988, [redacted] advised that he was not well acquainted with the appointee. He stated that he previously was the [redacted] during the time the appointee was in congress.

Also on December 6, 1988, the Honorable BAREFOOT SANDERS, Chief, U.S. District Judge, Northern District of Texas, Dallas, Texas, advised as follows:

He stated he is acquainted with appointee. He stated that on one occasion, he opposed the appointee for the United States Senate. He stated the appointee won the election. He stated he does not agree with the appointee politically. However, he considers the appointee to be of unquestionable loyalty to the United States. He further advised he considers the appointee to be of good moral character, associates, reputation, and loyalty. He stated he has no reason to doubt the appointee's ability to serve in any position of trust and confidence with the U.S. Government.

He noted that he read recently in the printed news media that the appointee was being considered for possible appointment to Secretary of Defense.

Judge SANDERS noted that "if you have to have a Republican in that position, I recommend the appointee without reservation".

Judge SANDERS noted that he has no knowledge of any drug use, alcohol abuse, or personal financial problems on the part of the appointee. He further advised he has no personal knowledge of any of the items regarding the appointee which have appeared in the news media recently, which make references to the possible marital problems suffered by the appointee.

He is not aware of any prejudice on the part of the appointee.

[redacted] NAACP, Southwest Region, 2606 Martin Luther King Blvd., Dallas, Texas, was interviewed at his offices. He was advised that the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI) had been requested to conduct background investigation of JOHN G. TOWER, who is being considered for an unspecified Presidential Appointment which requires senate confirmation. [redacted] was advised that the viewpoints of the Southwest Region of the NAACP were being solicited in this matter.

[redacted] advised that he had read recent news media accounts which indicated that Mr. TOWER, appointee, was being considered for an appointment to the position of Secretary of Defense for the United States. He advised that his opinions as noted below were based on his knowledge of the appointee which had been obtained from news media accounts and voting record only.

He stated he has no personal knowledge of the appointee's life other than what has been documented in public records.

He advised the appointee is an individual who has been reported to engage in "womanizing" and excessive use of alcohol through news media accounts. He noted that these innuendoes have been reported in the news media for some time.

He further advised the appointee has long been known, and has shown through his votes in the U. S. Senate, as being an individual who is "hawkish", that is in favor of expanded military preparedness and responses. He has shown himself to be in favor of building up and expanding the military system in the country.

He noted that this would seem to be somewhat contrary to the stated intentions of the BUSH Administration to cut the deficit in the budget.

He also noted that as far as the NAACP, the appointee had a bad civil rights voting record. He advised the NAACP, Southwest Region, would therefore not be able to recommend the appointee. He noted that in the position of Secretary of Defense, the appointee would be in control of a large part of the manpower and funds of the U. S. Government. The NAACP does not see him as a person who would implement or push for civil rights reforms and practices. The NAACP therefore hesitates to recommend him, and oppose his being given such a position of tremendous influence.

[redacted] also advised he gives the appointee credit for being an astute politician and an individual who has not changed his stance in many years. He explained that means the appointee has not been "wishy-washy" on the issues which he apparently feels are important.

He noted again that he was not personally well acquainted with the appointee.

The following investigation was conducted by SA [redacted] b6 b7C at Huntsville, Tennessee, on 12/07/88:

[redacted] was contacted at his office in the law firm of [redacted] telephone number [redacted] and he advised that he has known the appointee since the appointee was elected to the Senate in May 1961 to fill unexpired term of the former President LYNDON B. JOHNSON after he was elected Vice President. At that time, [redacted] was a member of the [redacted] the late Senator EVERETT M. DIRKSEN, who introduced appointee to him. He became very good friends with the appointee, and the appointee encouraged him to [redacted] which he did. [redacted] for [redacted] and the appointee was Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, the Republican Policy Committee, and the Armed Services Committee in the U.S. Senate. Prior to becoming Armed Services Committee Chairman, he had held the position of ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee. The appointee has enjoyed a most distinguished career in the U.S. Senate, is uniformly respected, and very capable.

He knows the appointee's family extremely well, as the appointee, his first wife, and children were very good friends of [redacted] and his family. Their children were closely associated and were good friends. The appointee was divorced from his first wife several years ago; however, [redacted] does not know the issues litigated, but knows that it was a rather amicable separation. The appointee maintained very good relationships with his children, and brought them to various political events and public functions. He never heard of any great animosity between the appointee and his first wife.

The appointee then remarried his second wife, LILLA (phonetic), and they were married for two or three years, separated for quite some time, and then divorced a year or so ago. He does not know the issues litigated in this divorce or who obtained the divorce. His second wife did not like any of the appointee's friends, and [redacted] knew that many of the appointee's friends did not like his second wife. He never understood LILLA, and he knows that she made the appointee's life very miserable. [redacted] thought the marriage was a mistake from the beginning, and learned the appointee's second wife to be a vicious and vitriolic person. He suspects that many of the unfavorable rumors that the appointee is facing at the present emanated from her. He feels that she will try her best to "torpedo" the appointee's nomination.

He described the appointee as being one of the fathers of the Republican Party in the South in the Senate. He noted that when the appointee was elected to the Senate, only he and Senator COOPER were the two Republicans from the South in that House. The appointee did a great deal to project the image of the Republican Party in the South, thereby causing a number of other Republican Senators from the south to be elected. He quickly became a major conservative figure in the Senate, even before former Senator BARRY GOLDWATER came on the scene. He quickly developed an international reputation on defense matters, and developed a following of foreign leaders in England, Germany, and France.

He has been instrumental in choosing Republican Presidents all the way back to RICHARD NIXON, and he does not know many people who have been through as much stress, including the Watergate era, the cold war era, and the evolution of the conservative political force in the United States as the appointee has.

He does not know of any details concerning the appointee's life that could be used to coerce him, and while he is certain that the appointee is embarrassed by some of the rumors that are circulating concerning him at the present, he knows of nothing that would tend to embarrass the appointee beyond those rumors. He is of the opinion if there were any unfavorable aspects of the appointee's background, they would have been reported by this time. He is not aware of any professional complaints of any type that have been lodged against the appointee, and feels that he would have known if they had existed as he was the Majority Leader or Minority Leader of the U.S. Senate during the period of time they worked together, and those matters would have been brought to his attention if such allegations had been made against the appointee. He is not aware of any business or investment circumstances that could have involved or has involved a conflict of interest allegation. He pointed out that prior to being elected to the Senate, the appointee was a college professor and neither the position of college professor or U.S. Senator creates a great deal of income for becoming involved in business or investment circumstances. After the appointee left the Senate he became a Consultant, but since has been in private life he knows of nothing that the appointee has done or any position that he has been in that would place him in a conflict of interest with the U.S. Government.

He does not know of any psychological, psychiatric, or any other type of counseling the appointee has undergone, nor has he ever heard of the appointee being denied employment, being involved in any type of criminal matter, or having ever been involved in a civil suit, with the exception of the above mentioned divorces.

He does not know of any personal business or credit issues which would reflect unfavorably on the appointee, including any repossessions, delinquent loans, debts placed for collection, or bankruptcy, and he felt that the appointee lives well within his means. He pointed out that the appointee lived very modestly when he was married to his first wife, and his second wife had independent money of her own. After they were married the appointee's lifestyle elevated somewhat. He never saw the appointee in any type of financial distress, but felt that he always lived within his income.

He described the appointee's character and reputation as being excellent, and stated that he is highly regarded by everyone who knows him, with the exception of his wife, LILLA. His associates are fine people who are mostly the leading political individuals in the United States today. He also said that the appointee's loyalty to the United States Government is unquestioned, and stated, "If I had to pick one man to stand between me and the Soviet government it would be JOHN TOWER." He also stated, "If I were President and had the opportunity to pick the next Secretary of Defense, I would pick JOHN TOWER. If I had been elected President in '80, I would have picked him."

He is not aware of any prescription drug abuse, or illegal drug usage on the part of the appointee. He stated that he has known the appointee to drink heavily at times, but the appointee came from an area where heavy drinking was in vogue. He never saw the appointee drink to excess where his judgment was impaired, and stated, "To accuse JOHN of having an alcohol problem is ludicrous."

He said the appointee has not been a celibate monk, but he knows of nothing concerning the sexual allegations concerning the appointee that would cause the appointee to be embarrassed or coerced should he be appointed to a high position in the Government. He is not aware of the appointee's membership in any organization, and stated that he does not know of the appointee having any bias or prejudice against any individual or group based upon sex, race, color, religion, national origin, handicap, or age.

He knows of nothing improper concerning the appointee with respect to national security or as a Senator. He is quite certain there have been no "shady dealings" with any foreign agent or foreign government, and he has no knowledge concerning any questionable campaign contributions or illegal contributions that the appointee has received, and he would not believe any allegations if he heard that. He feels sure that the appointee would have had excellent legal advice in connection with disposing of any campaign funds left over when he left the Senate. He said, "JOHN is an honest man, and I think that should be the controlling observation."

He knows of nothing that would have an unfavorable bearing on the appointee's suitability for Federal employment and/or access to classified information, and recommended him most highly for any position for which he might be considered.

Gosset's Boarding House
Taylor, Texas
Oct. 1948 - Feb. 1949

The following investigation was conducted at Taylor, Texas by SA [redacted] b6 b7C

On December 6, 1988 [redacted] Taylor, Texas, stated that she has been a lifetime resident of Taylor and has co-authored an extensive history of the city. To her knowledge, there had never existed a boarding house by the name of Gosset's Boarding House in Taylor. She advised that the applicant had most likely rented a room from ISETTA GOSSET who had owned a large home at 513 7th Street, Taylor, Texas during the 1940's and 1950's. ISETTA GOSSET passed away in March of 1988. A search of phone books from 1948 to 1950 failed to identify Gosset's Boarding House or the applicant.

Inasmuch as the applicant was unable to provide an accurate address and the applicant's probable landlord is deceased, verification of the applicant's residence was not possible.

General MATTOX stated that he is aware of no criminal activity on the part of the appointee. He continued that perhaps some allegations of misconduct may have been made against appointee in the course of previous election campaigns within the state of Texas, but he is aware of no allegations which have been substantiated of a criminal or moral nature. General MATTOX advised that appointee's associates are not known to be involved in criminal or immoral activities.

General MATTOX stated that he is aware of rumors of marital difficulty involving appointee and his wife and of the fact that appointee "likes to have a few drinks". However, General MATTOX stated that he does not perceive appointee to have a drinking problem which would impair his work capability or would impact upon his integrity. As to appointee's financial situation, MATTOX stated that appointee is known to "live well" and noted that appointee's suits are custom made in London, but he is not aware of any financial problems relating to appointee. MATTOX said no information regarding any narcotics usage on the part of appointee.

General MATTOX advised that appointee is known to have close ties with the "Military Establishment" and some people might perceive this to be a problem if he were appointed as Secretary of Defense. However, General MATTOX added that he sees appointee as a capable man who would not let these close ties affect his professional conduct. General MATTOX perceives appointee as a man who would professionally carry-out the policies of the President of the United States.

The following persons were contacted regarding JOHN GOODWIN TOWER (appointee) with negative results:

[redacted] Clerk, Travis County Sheriff's Office, Identification Division.

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent (SA) [redacted] b6 b7C

On December 6, 1988, [redacted] Groos National Bank, 40 Northeast Loop 410, San Antonio, Texas, advised that the Mercantile Bank and Trust (MBT) was sold by the owners to Groos National Bank (GNB) in mid-1987. Records from GNB archives were located, retrieved and provided to the FBI for review late December 6, 1988. Copies of pertinent documents were photocopied and turned over to the FBI. It was ascertained that the loan was authorized and handled by [redacted] then president of MBT. [redacted] is currently the president of Continental National Bank, 1300 W. Hildebrand, San Antonio, Texas.

A review of the appropriate records indicate TOWER, through his attorney, HAYDEN W. HEAD, SR. (deceased), from Corpus Christi, Texas, sought a loan of $108,000 from MBT in May, 1981. At the same time TOWER originated a checking account at MBT. The loan was secured by assignment of a lease agreement between TOWER and SOUTHERN MARINE, a Texas oil company. The loan was to be used for an oil well blowout preventer, an item of oil well technology, for a period of five years. SOUTHERN MARINE agreed to pay $3200 per month for five years. TOWER, through the loan agreement was obligated to make monthly payments of $2565 per month, netting TOWER $635 per month in excess of the loan payment. The loan rate was set at one percent over the Federal Discount rate with the rate rising or falling with the discount rate.

[redacted] (supra) reviewed the documents of this loan and advised she sees nothing unusual regarding the loan. The rate was in accordance with standard banking procedures in effect in May, 1981. The loan was paid in full within the appropriate time.

[redacted] (supra) was located and interviewed on December 7, 1988. [redacted] advised he is personally acquainted with TOWER and met with him several times, specific dates unknown, at MBT, San Antonio, Texas. [redacted] reviewed the photocopies of the MBT loan records and advised he is familiar with that loan inasmuch as he personally handled and authorized same while president of MBT.

[redacted] advised MBT was one of several South Texas banks owned by [redacted] and other [redacted] family members, residing in [redacted] HAYDEN HEAD, SR. (supra) and TOWER were close friends and shared several business deals together. The [redacted] family owned a holding company which owned ninety-five plus percent of MBT.

TOWER requested a $108,000 loan through a letter authored by HEAD. [redacted] noted the loan was a standard business loan issued at the normal, competitive rate of one percent above the Federal Discount Rate, standard procedure at that time. Current banking practice binds rates to prime rate in lieu of the discount rate. All payments were made in a timely manner and the loan was fully re-paid. [redacted] specifically advised TOWER never asked for nor was granted any special rates, favors, time extensions, etc. The entire process was handled in a business-like manner by all concerned parties. [redacted] denied an allegation of impropriety on his part or by then Senator TOWER.

[redacted] advised HAYDEN HEAD (supra) was killed within the last few years in a plane crash. RICHARD WOOD, [redacted] and involved in the [redacted] family business, died within the last year.

[redacted] association with TOWER concerned banking business. [redacted] was unaware of and has no knowledge of any excessive alcohol consumption, womanizing, illegal or questionable campaign contributions, mental incapacities, illegal or improper activities in the banking community or any other problems TOWER has had.

Memorandum from Legal Counsel to Assistant Director,
Criminal Investigative Division
Re: Release of "ILLWIND" Title III Information

As the facts of this matter were described to DAD KELLEY, and subsequently to me, the Federal district court judge who issued the court order authorizing the interceptions was briefed on the proposed disclosure. However, the judge did not decline to issue an order authorizing the disclosure, nor did the judge opine that such an order was necessary. The judge simply referred United States Attorney HENRY HUDSON to the provisions of section 2517.

At 5:15 p.m. my Special Assistant, SSA [redacted] attempted to contact [redacted] on this matter (previous attempts by DAD KELLEY to contact [redacted] were unsuccessful). [redacted] secretary informed SSA [redacted] that he should speak with Deputy Associate Attorney General [redacted] on this matter. At approximately 5:20 p.m. [redacted] advised SSA [redacted] that you and [redacted] would be departing within forty-five minutes to disclose the information to appropriate members of President-elect BUSH's transition team. b6 b7C

At approximately 6:00 p.m., as you were enroute to meet with officials of the transition team, I informed you that because of the lack of sufficient time to conduct necessary legal research on this issue, including examination of any pertinent court decisions and DOJ written legal opinions, I could render only a preliminary legal opinion, based upon the plain language of the statute and a cursory review of the annotations to the statute contained in Title 18, U.S.C. Due to its length and the nature of the information contained therein, a copy of the "true name" draft FD-302 interview of [redacted] was hand-carried to SSA [redacted] SPIN Unit, FBIHQ, on 12/7/88. WMFO is currently preparing a "T-symbol" FD-302 of this interview. This will be provided expeditiously. b6 b7C b7D

A copy of the deposition of John G. Tower in the matter of "Lilla Burt Cummings Tower, Plaintiff, vs John Goodwin Tower, Defendant," taken in the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, Family Division, Domestic Relations Branch, Civil action 1403-86 will be submitted under separate cover.

Matters related to the information developed in the major case entitled "ILLWIND" has been transmitted to the Criminal Investigative Division, FBIHQ, under separte communication.

Referenced Los Angeles teletype to the Bureau, 12/9/88, requested WMFO to interview one [redacted] Rockwell International, Crystal City, Virginia, regarding the appointee. As WMFO has interviewed other personal associates with that organization, WMFO will not conduct the requested interview, UACB. b6 b7C WMFO, upon interview of officials of the Office of the General Counsel, Federal Election Commission, received potentially contradictory information regarding the elements that could constitute a possible violation of the Federal Election Law statute. WMFO will resolve this possible discrepancy on 12/12/88 when FEC officials are expected to make themselves available for interview.

Due to the transfer of the responsible Investigative Assistant, the results of the U. S. Park Police checks will not be available until 12/12/88.

On 12/9/88, [redacted] a reporter for the New York Times, Washington Bureau, requested an interview with FBI personnel for the purpose of imparting information in his possession he believes pertinent to the current investigation. [redacted] will not be available for interview until 12/12/88. b6 b7C

On 12/8/88, SPIN Unit, FBIHQ, provided the names of six persons who, reportedly could provide pertinent information pursuant to this current inquiry. The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent (SA) [redacted] on December 3, 1988, regarding the appointee's ex-wife, LILLA BURT CUMMINGS TOWER:

[redacted] home telephone number [redacted] advised that he is the principle physician for LILLA BURT CUMMINGS TOWER. When asked about Mrs. TOWER's ability to speak to the interviewing agent, [redacted] advised that he had some reservations about the length of the interviews, because Mrs. TOWER "wears quickly". [redacted] conferred with Mrs. TOWER and advised the interviewing agent that we had his permission to interview his patient, as long as we kept the interview to a reasonable length. He stated that if the interviews were to take a great length of time, he would appreciate if they were broken up into several visits.

When asked to comment on the mental state of Mrs. TOWER, [redacted] advised that she is "mentally astute and competent". [redacted] had no reservations whatsoever, about Mrs. TOWER's mental state. He advised that she was presently under no drugs or other medication that would have an adverse effect on her judgment or her mental state of mind. He advised that several months back, while she was in another hospital, she was being over medicated, and this, at that time, would have had an adverse effect on her mental state. As soon as she was moved to the Washington Hospital Center, her medication was greatly reduced, and she has been astute, since that time.

white wine during dinners. In addition, he occasionally has a drink of port after dinner. On a very rare occasion has been known to drink martini. However, she has never seen him inebriated and has never even seen him "slightly tipsy". She has never seen his demeanor change because of any use of alcohol. She has never know him to ever use illegal drugs and considers him to be financially responsible. She has no question about his loyalty to this country. Concerning the appointees handling of sensitive information, [redacted] stated that she has always know TOWER to be careful and proper in handling such information. She has never known him to make any unauthorized disclosure of classified information. [redacted] stated that she does not know of any prejudices which the appointee might hold toward any racial, religious, or ethnic groups. To the contrary, he has been quite active in his native Texas in assisting the hispanic population.

[redacted] was advise that there had been numerous allegations made concerning TOWER in the media. She was asked to comment on allegation of sexual impropriety concerning the appointee. She stated that she has had a very close working relationship with TOWER over several years. She is a single female and is a close friend of his. She further advised that [redacted] is an employee of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and is the type of person she could not imagine having a relationship with SENATOR TOWER. She never saw any basis in fact to lead her to believe that this allegation was true. She is also aware of allegations that SENATOR TOWER was seeing [redacted] before he was separated from his wife. [redacted] stated that she knows [redacted] and to the best of her knowledge she never knew TOWER [redacted] before he was separated.

[redacted] speculated that most of these allegations are coming from the former MRS. TOWER, who she described as "the wackiest lady I've ever met".

Concerning allegations of possible conflicts of interest, [redacted] stated that she is well aware of the Tower Company policy at the present time and stated that he does not take on any client or project which he does not firmly believe is good for this country. She stated that all of her relationships with these companies are contractual and specific and that there are no percentages or investments in these companies. As a result, when the contract with a company ends, all dealing and relationships with that company end cleanly without any remaining interest. She does not see how this arrangement could possibly lead to a conflict of interest.

[redacted] advised that she does not have any knowledge of campaign contributions or banking matters which might reflect adversely on the appointee.

[redacted] advise that she recalls [redacted] was one of the secretaries assigned to the START talks. As a secretary, her duties would normally have been those ordinarily associated with a secretary. On very rare occasions, [redacted] made it a point to allow secretaries and other clerical staff to visit the actual talks and witness the process conducted by the United States and Soviet delegation. However, this would only have been once or possibly twice during each eight week talk session. [redacted] encouraged this occasional visit in order to give the clerical staff a greater sence of participation in the work of the delegation. The only other contact which [redacted] would have had with the actual delegates, particularly those of the Soviet delegation, would have been instances where she served in a very formal capacity, opening the door for the delegation or other similar strict social situations. [redacted] advise that she is not aware of any allegation involving [redacted] and either the United States or the Soviet delegation.

[redacted] Dickstein, Shapiro and Morin, 2101 L Street, Northwest, Washington, D.C., advised that he has known former Senator JOHN TOWER on a professional basis since October, 1986. [redacted] described the appointee as a very ethical man, one with great poise and one who is very sensitive. He observed that TOWER handles pressure in a very positive, organized manner. In addition, [redacted] is "incredibly impressed with that man's integrity." In [redacted] opinion, the appointee was forced to extricate himself from the marriage because his former wife was very difficult to deal with. He feels the appointee was willing to leave her quite well off financially, and he does not believe the divorce or any of the proceedings reflect adversely on TOWER. He believes that the divorce between Mr. and Mrs. TOWER was greatly complicated by TOWER having been named to head the Special Review Board (TOWER Commission) because Mrs. TOWER saw this as an opportunity to greatly increase the property settlement based upon TOWER's increase in speaking fee's, etcetera. This in turn made negotiations much more difficult and unneccesarily extended this already difficult process.

[redacted] has not had much social contact with the appointee, outside of one Christmas party which the appointee gave. He found TOWER to be a very gracious host and a warm, outgoing person. [redacted] has never seen the appointee take a single drink of alcohol, and cannot comment on his use of alcohol. He has never seen any indication that the appointee uses illegal drugs. He has every reason to believe the appointee is financially responsible and does not believe he holds any prejudices towards racial, religious, or ethnic groups. He considers the appointee to be a loyal American and believes that he has clearly been responsible in his handling of sensitive information. [redacted] advised that he would recommend the appointee for a position of confidence and trust.

[redacted] advised that he is aware of many allegations concerning the appointee. However, because of his limited association with TOWER both in time and scope, he is not able to make any comments concerning any of these allegations. However, in a general sense, he has never seen any indication that any of them are true.

RECORD CHECK

United States Senate
Committee on Ethics
220 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C.

The following information was conducted by Special Agent (SA) [redacted] on December 6, 1988, regarding the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER: b6 b7C

A letter was presented to [redacted] of the above mentioned Committee signed by FLOYD I. CLARK, Assistant Director, Criminal Investigative Division requesting the Committee to provide the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) with all information in their possession relating to the appointee. Along with the letter, a copy of an appointee signed Authority for Release of Information form was presented. [redacted] stated he researched his Committee's past stance on any Federal agency inquires on Congressional members and advised the investigating agent that he felt the Committee would not open their files to the FBI. [redacted] advised the Committee's files are not applicable under the Freedom of Information Act. He added the Committee believes in total confidentiality of their sources and will not open their files to anyone including the appointee since there may have been inquiries processed by the Committee against the appointee that have been undeveloped or dismissed which he may not be aware of.

Reviewing the appointee's file, [redacted] advised that in July, 1977, the appointee was charged with "misuse of the Frank" and was ordered to pay $3.64. The appointee paid the charge. [redacted] noted that almost every member of the Senate or House of Representatives has had similar problems and this is not an isolated case. [redacted] stated this is a matter of public record and can therefore be disseminated by him to the FBI. He could provide no further charges after review of the appointee's file.

When asked regarding the two tests to avoid violation of personal use rules regarding the standard for classification of expenses with the TOWER Senate Club, [redacted] provided a "sanitized" edition of a letter sent to "a retiring member of Congress." This letter was to explain the proper use of campaign funds and is incorporated and made part of this insert.

[redacted] related that if the FBI needs further information regarding the appointee's file with the Committee and access is denied, the appointee should submit a written request to the Committee asking for any correspondence between himself and the Committee. The appointee should submit this to the FBI. This would give the FBI all information on charges or problems involving the appointee that he (appointee) is aware of. [redacted] added that he knows that all correspondence from the appointee's congressional life on Capitol Hill should have been deposited in a library of his (appointee's) choosing. [redacted] is unaware of where the appointee's library may be but believes the appointee may be able to comment on this. b6 b7C

In conclusion, [redacted] stated that after personal review of the appointee's file, it appears that the file is "mostly routine" such as him (appointee) submitting applications for staff members traveling abroad and asking for reimbursement or credit.

[redacted] could not suggest anyone else which should be contacted regarding the appointee or his work on Capitol Hill.

Memorandum for [redacted]
From: [redacted]
Re: Use of Campaign Funds

In response to your question, Senator Stevens asked us to outline how a Member or former Member may use excess campaign funds.

The Federal Election Campaign Act allows an individual who has received campaign contributions to use those contributions "to defray any ordinary and necessary expenses incurred in connection with his or her duties as a holder of Federal office" (2 U.S.C. section 439a). This same section also provides, in a clause added in 1980, that no individual may convert campaign funds to his personal use unless he was a Member of Congress on January 8, 1980.

Senate Rule 38, however, provides that "no contribution...shall be converted to the personal use of any Member or former Member." Rule 38 was agreed to in 1977.

The Committee's position has been that the restriction established by Senate Rule 38 in 1977 is not repealed by the 1980 grandfather provision for Members of Congress. A former Senator therefore may not convert campaign funds to personal use.

Nevertheless, your recent appointment makes you once again a "holder of Federal office" and section 439a allows you to use contributions to defray any ordinary and necessary expenses you incur in connection with that office. In order for you to fit within the permission established by section 439a, and to avoid the "personal use" prohibited by Senate Rule 38, we suggest that any expenditure of campaign funds should meet two tests:

(1) it should be related to your performing the duties of your new Federal office, and not of performing or shutting down a non-Federal activity;

(2) the expense should qualify as a "trade or business" deduction recognized under section 162 of the Internal Revenue Code. If it does qualify, the expense would not be seen as a "personal use."

A copy of section 439a, and of Rule 38, are attached.

United States Senator

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent (SA) [redacted] on December 6, 1988, regarding the appointee JOHN GOODWIN TOWER: b6 b7C

Senator JOHN McCAIN, 111 Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C., telephone number [redacted] advised he met the appointee in 1977 when he (Senator McCAIN) was the Navy's Senior Liaison Officer. Originally, he knew the appointee through his (Senator McCAIN's) father and was introduced to the appointee. Up to 1981, Senator McCAIN was in the United States Navy and traveled with the appointee on approximately twenty-five occasions. During the five year period, the Senator saw the appointee working hard and meeting world leaders as the Chairman of the Armed Services Committee. Senator McCAIN believed the appointee held the highest integrity an character and described him as "the finest man I ever knew." The Senator believed the appointee had "incredible work habits" and to be "dedicated and patriotic to the country". In 1982, Senator McCAIN was elected to Congress (House of Representatives) and started working closely with the appointee. They frequently traveled together and Senator McCAIN never knew the appointee to act inappropriately. The Senator knew the appointee's ex-wife, "LILLA" and described her as a "weird crazy woman" who had "aberrational behavior". The only questionable characteristic in the appointee's character, according to the Senator, is his "choice of marriage partners". In 1986, Senator McCAIN was elected to the Unites States Senate but the appointee had retired and the Senator did not work with him at this point.

Senator McCAIN knew of nothing in the appointee's character, associates, reputation or loyalty to the United States Government which would reflect unfavorably against the appointee. The Senator knew the appointee to drink alcoholic beverages in moderations but never abuse them. He added he knew of no prescription drug abuse or illicit drug use, including marijuana by the appointee. The Senator did not know the appointee to ever buy or sell illegal drugs. Financially, Senator McCAIN stated the appointee was the "poorest Senator" at one time because of his previous career in academia. Senator McCAIN noted the appointee to be unbiased against any class of citizen or group. The Senator believed the appointee to be in good health, both physically and psychologically. He stated that he felt assured of the appointee's access to sensitive information. The Senator knew the appointee to have previous clearances and to always handle classified information in the proper and suitable fashion.

Senator McCAIN never saw any sexual indescretion on the part of the appointee either in the United States or abroad. He was not with the appointee in Geneva, Switzerland. The Senator commented that during their committee trips from 1982 - 1984, he knew of numerous opportunities by the appointee to commute indescretions but he knew the appointee to rebuff the advantages at all times. The Senator stated the appointee had "charisma" which attracted many types of individuals.

Senator McCAIN reiterated his statement regarding alcohol consumption. He said he never saw the appointee inebriated and knew him to be "a person that enjoys one or two glasses of wine at dinner".

The Senator had no knowledge whatsoever regarding any type of mental instability to include any suicidal tendencies.

Senator McCAIN knew the appointee to represent certain defense contractors, names unknown to the Senator, and believed that the appointee has "done nothing wrong". He continued by stating the appointee did not represent them while in public service but did so after he retired. He added this is "acceptable conduct for civilian".

The Senator has no personal knowledge but has heard rumors in the press regarding possible illegal campaign contributions to his campaign or illegal expenditures from the campaign fund. He added the appointee is a "seasoned politician" and "would know the consequences of this activity".

Senator McCAIN has no personal knowledge regarding the appointee's affiliation with Republic Bank Corporation, Dallas, Texas nor any alleged illegal activity concerning other banking facilities.

The Senator concluded by stating that Democrats as a whole dislike the appointee but respect him because of his strong political views. Senator McCAIN cited two Senators who may be able to aid in the investigation. They are: Senator CARL LEVIN and Senator EDWARD M. KENNEDY.

SENATOR MCCAIN would highly recommend the appointee for a position of trust and confidence with the Federal Government.

Mr. JOHN J. WELCH, Jr., Assistant Secretary of the Air Force, Acquisition, Office of the Secretary, United States Air Force, SAF/AQ, The Pentagon-4E964, (202) 697-6361, was interviewed in his office. After an appropriate display of credentials, Secretary WELCH was informed that Senator JOHN TOWER was undergoing a routine government suitability background-type investigation and that his name had been developed during the course of this inquiry as someone who is knowledgeable concerning him. Secretary WELCH provided the following information.

Secretary WELCH met Senator JOHN TOWER when he, himself, was employed with The LTV Corporation in Dallas, Texas, and they became acquainted through WELCH's normal professional liaison with the Congress and the Senate. They have maintained a predominantly (almost 100%) professional relationship ever since, mostly regarding military hardware topics, but during occasional get-togethers, they have discussed general Texas business interests.

"Contrary to the media, TOWER is really a pretty quiet guy." "He does a lot of listening, and he is a good planner". "He has an appreciation for U.S. and international markets", Secretary WELCH said. Secretary WELCH characterized Senator TOWER as being loyal and patriotic as a United States citizen.

Secretary WELCH stated that Senator TOWER "is his own man" and makes up his own mind and makes decisions which are not always popular in the minds of others. Secretary WELCH stated that even though he may not have agreed with certain of Senator TOWER's decisions, he always saw the decision as being made in the best interests of the United States' defense posture.

Secretary WELCH advised that by protocol, all Presidential appointees, such as himself, prepare, in December, following an election, a resignation letter to the President. The letter includes either an intent to resign on a specific, effective date; or an open-ended time, or undated. When the latter occurs, the appointees are contacted to determine whether they would be desirous of consideration to 1.)remain in the same position; or 2.)serve at the discretion of the President in the incoming Administration. In his case, he prepared his resignation without a date.

The Secretary of the United States Air Force is officially resigning from the Administration, effective December 16, 1988.

Secretary WELCH advised that he had asked Senator TOWER for his advice about the wisdom of taking his present job. According to Secretary WELCH, Senator TOWER told him that he thought that to take the job would be the right choice, and that he would support him. However, they do not have much involvement as friends, and that they do not have any local, mutual friends. Further, he has not even talked, whatsoever, to Senator TOWER since last summer. For this reason, he knows of no favors or allegiance owed by one to the other.

His definition of social contact was interface during non-working hours, all within the realm, however, of the military or defense field, such as office luncheons or parties.

Secretary WELCH stated that he is only casually aware of the divorce between Senator TOWER and his second wife. While he knows none of the details (because he and Senator TOWER do not have that kind of relationship), he has no reason to suspect Senator TOWER of any sexual indiscretions, either in the United States or abroad, particularly while he was in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1985 through 1986. Secretary WELCH emphasized that the appointee had a good reputation and had served in the country's best interest, with distinction.

Secretary WELCH stated that he knows of no excessive use or dependency on alcohol. He has only seen Senator TOWER enjoy a glass or two of wine, during social encounters. He has never seen Senator TOWER misbehave or act inappropriately. He has no reason to believe that Senator TOWER would divulge sensitive or classified information after indulging in the use of wine.

Secretary WELCH knows of no use of narcotics or illegal drugs, to include the use of marijuana by Senator TOWER.

Secretary WELCH stated that the appointee has no biases or prejudices toward any religious group, racial group or other special group of persons. Secretary WELCH elaborated that Senator TOWER's staff was well represented by minorities.

Secretary WELCH continued that the appointee is not a threat to the security of the United States nor would he be an embarrassment to the President or the United States Government.

Secretary WELCH stated that he knows of no physical, or financial handicaps which would be a potential for security compromise. Secretary WELCH stated that he knew of no mental or emotional problems which could result in suicide. On the contrary, he considers him to be a very serious gentleman with no mental problems. Secretary WELCH stated that he would have only complimentary, favorable and positive remarks to make with respect to Senator TOWER's character, friends and associates, reputation, loyalty and ethics.

Secretary WELCH stated that despite some personal, marital, and family problems, he considers Senator TOWER to live well within his means.

Secretary WELCH knew of no previous or current, genuine concern for conflict of interest, in spite of his association with defense contractors.

Although contributions were made to Senator TOWER's re-election campaign by political action committees in The LTV Corporation, all contributions, according to Secretary WELCH, were made in compliance with the law and the Federal Election Commission.

Secretary WELCH advised that he was unaware of any illegal activities involving Senator TOWER while he was an officer of the Republic Bank Corporation, Dallas, Texas, which subsequently failed. Secretary WELCH reiterated that his relationship with Senator TOWER was not such that he would have occasion to know of this kind of thing.

Secretary WELCH volunteered that he and Senator TOWER have a mutual friend, who is an attorney, in Dallas, Texas, by the name of [redacted] who can be reached through the following telephone numbers, (office) [redacted] and (home) [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] after having been advised of the identity of the interviewing agents and the nature of the interview, provided the following information:

She recalls her introduction to the appointee as having been shortly after he became a Senator, the appointee and his first wife being invited to a party at the interviewee's home, this event taking place in roughly 1960.

She characterized the appointee as "not very conversational, always very quiet, (and as) not very exuburant about life."

When asked to comment upon the appointee's reputation, she responded that she has met the appointee only four times in person, and thus, much of her knowledge of the appointee is based on hearsay. She advised that the appointee has always had a reputation as an alcoholic, although, "I've never seen him drunk to my knowledge; I've never seen him with another woman to my knowledge." She is aware of no work-related problems of the appointee.

The appointee is a loyal American citizen to her knowledge, but with respect to his associates, she has no real knowledge. She mentioned that she gave the appointee and his second wife's wedding reception in her old home and recalls seeing no one of questionable character.

When asked as to whether it was her belief that the appointee was emotionally stable, [redacted] responded, "I don't know him (well enough) to say yes or no." She did stipulate, however, that she is aware of no episodes of depression experienced by the appointee.

Regarding the appointee's financial stability, she has no independent knowledge, commenting that all that she knows is what she has been told by LILLA CUMMINGS TOWER.

Regarding the appointee's potential abuse of alcohol, prescription drugs, or drugs of abuse, she commented that she had seen the appointee drink a couple of glasses of white wine on one occasion but that she has never seen him drunk. She has no knowledge of any prescription drug abuse, illegal drug use or sale of drugs by the appointee.

She knows of no foreign contacts of the appointee which would be considered unusual in any kind of a national security sense nor of any radical or adverse political associations on the appointee's part. She believes the appointee would have no problems dealing effectively with sensitive information and has not known him to manifest any evidence of prejudice or bias.

When asked as to whether she was aware of any derogatory information concerning the appointee, she responded that she does not know him well enough to know things of that nature, knowing only what his former second wife, LILLA, has told her or hearsay around town. She did speculate that she has never seen him in a compromising position with a woman or a non-compromising situation with a woman other than his wife. She has no knowledge of any party at the JEFFERSON HOTEL at or about the time of the TOWER Commission report on the Iran Contra matter.

She has no personal knowledge of any aspect of the appointee's past that would render him susceptible to any kind of a coersive effort nor of any conflict of interest regarding the appointee.

When asked as to whether she was in the position to comment upon the appointee's interaction with his own family, she responded that her only knowledge of these matters was gleaned from LILLA TOWER, although she is aware that LILLA was initially "madly in love with him, thought the sun rose and set on JOHN TOWER." Regarding the appointee's falling out with his wife, her understanding was that it was as the result of the appointee "going out" with other people and "drinking heavily." She has, however, no first hand knowledge of any impropriety regarding the appointee.

When asked as to whether she was in the position to recommend the appointee for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government, she responded that she does not know the appointee well enough to give him a positive recommendation, although, "to my knowledge, he's never done anything detrimental."

SAMUEL CUMMINGS, Chief Executive Officer, INTERARMS, #10 Prince Street, Alexandria, Virginia, telephone number 548-1400, was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and the purpose of the interview. CUMMINGS provided the following information:

CUMMINGS advised that he first met the appointee approximately twelve years ago, in London, England, in a hotel where they were both staying, for unrelated business. He is familiar with the appointee strictly on a social basis, although did associate with him on one occasion, on a professional basis. This professional basis was in the January of 1987, when the appointee asked CUMMINGS to testify in the Iran Contra Hearings, as an expert witness, in international arms dealings. CUMMINGS was asked to provide details on how private arms, on an international basis, are bought and sold. CUMMINGS had no direct contact, other than in the context of the hearings, with the appointee. CUMMINGS associated with the appointee, on a occasional basis, during the time the appointee was married to his sister, LILLA BURT CUMMINGS TOWER. He had dinner with the appointee and Mrs. TOWER one to two times a year during their marriage. The last contact CUMMINGS had with the appointee was by telephone, in Geneva, sometime in 1985. He had called the appointee to ask if he, Mrs. TOWER and his Russian counterpart [redacted] would like to come up and visit them, in their house, which was only a few hours from where the START talks were being held. The appointee, at that time, advised that he would like to come up to CUMMINGS' home. Shortly after that time, the appointee and his wife were separated, and the meeting never took place. b6 b7C

CUMMINGS characterized the appointee as a capable politician, and "in a political sense, gave me the impression that he knew his onions." The appointee was not very technically versed, but he never pretended to be. Although he heard the rumors regarding the appointee's alcohol abuse, and womanizing, through the press, CUMMINGS is not aware of anything derogatory, that he has witnessed firsthand, regarding the appointee. The appointee appeared to have a good reputation, amongst his associates, although CUMMINGS was not familiar with his constituents other than some of his staff member.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

CUMMINGS personally, never saw the appointee drink "even as much as a glass of wine". The appointee was never known to use any illegal drugs nor to abuse prescription drugs or any alcohol of any nature. The appointee lives well within his financial means and "always gave me the impression as being very economical". The appointee was emotionally stable, at the time that CUMMINGS was familiar with him.

The appointee never displayed any indication of being bias or prejudice toward any groups or individuals, for any reason, while in the presence of CUMMINGS. CUMMINGS had no reason to question the appointee's loyalty or dedication to the United States Government.

Although CUMMINGS has heard allegations of sexual indescretions, and womanizing through the press, he has no personal knowledge of the appointee being involved in anything of that nature. When asked whether he had ever seen the appointee severely depressed or heard him speak of suicide, CUMMINGS indicated that the appointee always seemed to be in a great mood, when he saw him. The appointee never indicated nor mentioned suicide in his presence.

CUMMINGS advised that although he heard the appointee was on several boards, and was a consultant to several aerospace companies, he is not aware of any major conflicts of interests that presently exist. He surmised that the appointee would resign from any compromising position, and further stated that he felt there was probably nobody in his position, that would not have at least some contacts, with corporations of that nature. CUMMINGS was not familiar with any illegal campaign contributions or spending, and advised he would have no way to know any of this.

When asked whether he would recommend the appointee, CUMMINGS advised that "he would be a good man to handle the Congress, whether he would be a good man to handle the Defense Department, I am not sure." The appointee could "be a helpful ally to the White House". CUMMINGS further advised that he had no personal knowledge of anything, that would cause him not to recommend the appointee, for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government. He further advised, though, if any of the allegations regarding alcohol abuse, were proven to be true, he would have serious reservations as far as the appointee, successfully discharging his duties.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription

Former Senator JOHN TOWER, 2101 L Street, Northwest, Washington, D.C., was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents and that it was necessary to ask him additional questions to complete the background investigation currently being conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

TOWER was asked to waive the Attorney-Client Privilege and allow agents of the FBI to speak to his attorney in connection with his divorce and also in connection with all other aspects of this investigation. TOWER advised that, before waiving this Attorney-Client Privilege, he would need to speak to his attorney privately. He would advise the FBI in the near future of his response to this question.

TOWER was advised that the FBI believes that the divorce record for his September, 1987, divorce at Washington, D.C., is sealed under court order and is unavailable for review. TOWER stated that he does not recall anything indicating that this divorce decree was sealed and he suggested that his attorney, who has an office in the same building, be allowed to join in this conversation. Moments later, [redacted] of the firm Dickstein, Shapiro and Morin, joined the conversation. [redacted] advised that the entire divorce file is not under court order, but rather only the final property settlement between TOWER and his former wife is sealed. Other pertinent documents which are part of this file, should be available for review and should already be part of the public record. TOWER provided to the interviewing agents one copy of the Complaint for Absolute Divorce between himself and LILLA BURT CUMMINGS TOWER filed at Washington, D.C., on May 30, 1986. He also provided one copy of Plaintiff's First Set of Interrogatories to Defendant which was dated April 22, 1987. Both documents indicate they come from jacket number 1403-86, and are filed with the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. In addition, although he began giving a deposition, he recalls this deposition having been stopped in the middle when both parties decided to make another attempt to come to an agreement. He does not recall whether LILLA BURT CUMMINGS completed her deposition or not. TOWER stated that he does not know the current location of these depositions, does not know whether his lawyer has a copy, and does not even know whether they exist or have been destroyed. TOWER stated that he would have his attorney search the files in an attempt to obtain the copy of this deposition.

TOWER was asked about any dealings he had with the Senate Ethics Committee, and any communications he might have received from them. TOWER stated that he had several documents from the United States Senate pertaining to his closing down of his Senate Office. He provided the interviewing agents with one document containing three parts, privileges available to a former member of the Senate, a letter to TOWER from the Sergeant at Arms dated November 14, 1984, and one Closing Office Checklist. TOWER advised that the other document which is in his possession is a letter from the Senate Ethics Committee, which letter was the source of the guidance which TOWER used in handling disbursements of former campaign contributions. TOWER advised, however, that the copy of this document is not located here in Washington, but rather is maintained in his Dallas, Texas office. TOWER would make a copy of this Senate Ethics Committee letter available at his Dallas, Texas office.

TOWER was asked with whom he had consulted while working for Rockwell International, Incorporated, El Segundo, California. He responded that he had dealt or consulted directly with [redacted] who was then the [redacted] of Rockwell International. He also had dealings with the present Chief Executive Officer, [redacted] Finally, he has had contact here in Washington with [redacted], who works for Rockwell International here in the Washington, D.C. area. TOWER was advised that the FBI had been unable to locate the exact person with whom he had been consulting at that company in the Los Angeles, California area. b6 b7C

TOWER was asked for the location of the records for the TOWER Senate Club. He stated that all available records are maintained by him at his Dallas, Texas office. Anticipating a question in this regard, TOWER has had his staff in Dallas, Texas, going through cancelled checks in an effort to precisely document expenditures from this Club. He advised that all available records could be obtained from his employee, [redacted] who can be located in TOWER's Dallas, Texas office. In addition to having the cancelled checks, [redacted] would also be available to explain each of the expenditures for which the check was written. Finally, as mentioned above, [redacted] would provide the FBI with the letter from the Senate Ethics Committee mentioned above.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription b6 b7C

[redacted] Dickstein, Shapiro and Morin, Washington, D.C., advised that he has not been in contact with JOHN TOWER since December 6, 1988, when TOWER, [redacted] and the interviewing agent met. [redacted] was advised that several matters remain outstanding following that December 6 meeting. The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) wishes to interview [redacted] as a close professional associate of the appointee. Does [redacted] have a copy of the deposition given by TOWER during the divorce proceedings and would TOWER agree to release a copy of this deposition to the FBI for inclusion in this investigation? Does TOWER have in his possession copies of any documents filed with the Federal Election Commission, or documents received from the Federal Election Commission, and would TOWER make these documents available to the FBI for inclusion in this investigation?

[redacted] advised that he understands the request that he be interviewed as a close professional associate of TOWER's and would respond to the interviewing agent in the near future.

[redacted] advised that the deposition in question is not part of the court divorce file, to the best of his knowledge. [redacted] stated that he has not read this deposition recently, but was present when it was given. He does not recall any information in the deposition concerning extra-marital affairs or any similar areas of interest, but recalled that it contained only "more routine stuff." He further recalled that the deposition was never completed and Mrs. TOWER's lawyer did not even get a chance to finish his questions to TOWER. This occurred because the two parties came to an agreement, making the deposition moot. [redacted] advised that he will discuss the matter of making this deposition available with Mr. TOWER.

[redacted] advised that he has not yet had a chance to search TOWER's files for any documents filed with the Federal Election Commission.

[redacted] advised that he would speak to Mr. TOWER and call the interviewing agent when he had done so.

Approximately one hour later, [redacted] advised that he has spoken to Mr. TOWER. [redacted] will gladly speak to the interviewing agent and make comments concerning TOWER as a professional associate. Concerning the deposition, however, [redacted] was quite concerned. He explained that this deposition is not a completed document, and there are inaccuracies and misstatements in it, which would have been corrected or clarified during the latter half of the deposition. In addition, although the deposition contains no information concerning any extra-marital affairs by TOWER, it does contain a great deal of personal information concerning TOWER's finances, employment and other personal matters. [redacted] was concerned that this detail, which he does not believe is pertinent to this investigation, would fall into the wrong hands and would unneccesarily become part of the public record. [redacted] proposed that he and TOWER would be willing to provide the interviewing agent with a copy of this deposition, and with an office in which to read the deposition. In addition, TOWER would be glad to answer any questions which the agent might have as a result of having read this deposition.

[redacted] was advised that the interviewing agent could not accept these terms without checking further with FBI Headquarters. [redacted] was advised that the interviewing agent would call him on the morning of December 8, 1988, with the response to this proposal.

[redacted] ROCKWELL INTERNATIONAL CORPORATION (RI), 2230 EAST IMPERIAL HIGHWAY, EL SEGUNDO, CALIFORNIA, ADVISED HE IS UNSURE OF THE EXACT DATE THAT THE APPOINTEE BEGAN HIS RELATIONSHIP WITH RI AS A CONSULTANT. HE BELIEVES IT WAS SOMETIME AFTER THE APPOINTEE CONCLUDED HIS ARMS CONTROL ACTIVITIES IN 1986. THE APPOINTEE ACTED AS AN ADVISOR TO SEVERAL DIVISIONS OF RI CONCERNING LONG-TERM TRENDS OF THOUGHT BY MILITARY AND GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS ON ICBM GUIDANCE AND CONTROL PROGRAMS AND OTHER PROGRAMS RI IS INTERESTED IN SUCH AS THE HIGH FREQUENCY JAMMING PROGRAM. Rep. Chappell's Backdoor Move

Foreign Aircraft Firms Benefit

NATIONAL JOURNAL/CRAIG R. BLOOM

Rep. Bill Chappell Jr. pushed contract.

Few members of Congress who voted for final passage of the massive 1988 spending bill knew that the potential beneficiaries of an obscure multimillion dollar aircraft program were three foreign companies. And the legislators certainly had no idea American aircraft companies that had wanted to bid had been deliberately excluded.

But Rep. Bill Chappell Jr. (D-Fla.), the feisty and powerful chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense, did know.

It was Chappell who was mainly responsible for language buried deep in the 1,053-page bill, inserted without public debate, that potentially translates into a $100 million windfall for one of three firms from Great Britain, Israel, or Canada.

Chappell, a 20-year veteran of the House known for his staunch support of military spending, defends his actions on grounds of national security. He argues that the aircraft produced by the foreign companies who qualify to bid under his language are better suited for their mission.

"I don't care who gets the contract," says the 66-year-old Democrat. "If I feel something is good for this country, I'm a fighter and I will fight for it."

Air Force Undersecretary James McGovern, who has met with Chappell, says through a spokesman that at no time did Chappell "even hint that he had a preference for who would be awarded the contract."

But a number of critics, including Air Force officials responsible for the program, describe Chappell's move as another example of the congressional budget process gone awry.

"This is a sneak trick designed to avoid the normal budget process in the hope nobody will ask questions," says one key congressional aide.

Fueling the Budgetary Fire

The controversy over Chappell's aircraft program is yet another offshoot of the growing debate over the congressional budget process. A number of last-minute additions to the continuing resolution, critics contend, would never have survived more open and deliberative treatment. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) has drawn fire for his amendment forcing Rupert Murdoch to sell some media properties, while Sen. Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii) has had to explain his sponsorship of an $8 million amendment to fund a school for Jewish refugees in France.

The controversial appropriation for the foreign aircraft bidders pushed by Chappell occupies less than one page of subcommittee testimony; yet, millions of dollars are at stake. In September, Congress rejected a backdoor method to fund the program, and the Air Force itself is lukewarm at best about the project.

Against this backdrop, critics are wondering why Chappell has been moved to intervene so aggressively.

Chappell acknowledges that he has met with officials from two of the three foreign bidders, British Aerospace Inc. and Canadair Inc. But he flatly rejects any insinuation that he is responding to the special pleading of an interested party.

Lobbying on the aircraft program has been nearly invisible. Spokesmen for all three foreign manufacturers deny that they lobbied Chappell or anyone else.

But Chappell says he met with Charles Gray, director of government relations for Canadair, a Montreal-based aircraft manufacturer and a potential recipient of Chappell's largess. Chappell describes Gray, a retired Air Force officer, as "a friend." Gray says he told Chappell that the program "deserves the committee's support."

Chappell offers, "I talked to the president of British Aerospace when I was in London—what's his name?" Sir Edward Hanson is president of British Aerospace.

One powerful former official may have played a behind-the-scenes role in the controversy. According to two Senate aides, former Sen. John Tower (R-Texas), who once chaired the Armed Services Committee, has made calls on behalf of British Aerospace and a subcontractor, the Dallas-based LTV Corp. Tower, now an aerospace consultant in Washington, is a British Aerospace director and an LTV consultant.

Tower, who is not registered as a British Aerospace lobbyist or agent, declined repeated requests for comment. Two Senate sources say that Tower has placed calls on the issue to Air Force Undersecretary James McGovern, who directed the staff when Tower chaired the Armed Services Committee, and to Arnold Punaro, now the committee's staff director.

Punaro could not be reached for comment. Chappell says he does not recall talking with Tower about the aircraft program.

Limiting the Bidding

Chappell's initiative would replace six aging executive-type "flight inspection" jets that have been in the inventory for more than 20 years. Four are Lockheed Jet Stars, now out of production, while two are Sabreliners, first built in the 1950s by the predecessor to Rockwell International. The small jets have been based in Europe and Japan and contain a sophisticated inertial navigation system.

"Essentially, in case of a combat-type crisis," explains one Air Force Reserve pilot, "they fly ahead to check the ground instrumentation landing systems to ensure it is safe to land."

Chappell's provision requires the Air Force to award the contract for replacement flight-inspection planes, known as C-FINs, to aircraft that can fly at least 2,400 nautical miles.

This seemingly innocuous language essentially limited the bidding to three firms: British Aerospace, Israel Aircraft Industries, and Canadair. Large domestic companies, including the Cessna Corp., the Gates Learjet Corp., and the Beech Aircraft Corp., are excluded because their aircraft fly shorter ranges.

Chappell says Air Force officials communicated to him that the longer-range aircraft was desirable. In fact, the Air Force in 1984 originally planned to replace the aging jets with 2,400-mile C-FINs. But in subsequent years, the Air Force officially sought the shorter-range jets.

"The C-FIN is a very important program that doesn't have much visibility," says Chappell. "I strongly feel it ought to be done."

Knowledgeable aircraft industry sources say the Cessna and Learjet aircraft are cheaper than their British and Canadian counterparts. The Israeli aircraft is comparably priced to the American planes, industry sources say.

"Cessna and Learjet at least, on their merits, should have been allowed to bid on C-FIN," asserts one knowledgable Air Force official.

Through the Back Door

The Pentagon did not ask for C-FIN funding in its 1988 budget request. But the public record shows that Rep. Chappell, as his subcommittee considered the Air Force 1988 procurement budget, wanted to push C-FIN through a back door. If C-FIN was not in the regular budget, money for it could be found by reprogramming, or transferring, funds already appropriated for other military programs

On March 12, 1987, Lt. Gen. Bernard Randolph, an Air Force deputy chief of staff for research, development and acquisition, had an exchange with Chappell that illustrates how the lawmaker was pushing for the longer-range, foreign aircraft.

"Now, we are still talking about a 2,400-mile-range aircraft?" Chappell asked. "Yes, sir," Randolph answered.

Chappell then drove home the point that the Air Force competition was only going to be open to the longer-range aircraft.

"I think congressional intent is clear on that 2,400 miles?" he asked. "Yes, sir," the general saluted. "No doubt in my mind."

Shortly after the March hearing, the Air Force—which earlier had approved an 1,850-mile-plus range for the C-FINs—requested a $70 million reprogramming to buy 2,400-mile range C-FINS.

"When the Air Force issued its 2,400-mile range RFP [Request for Proposal]," says a Beech official, "we had to drop out." Gates Learjet and Cessna also quit the competition.

Gates Learjet officials would not take calls on C-FIN. A spokesman for General Dynamics Inc., the giant defense contractor that owns Cessna, says that the corporation decided "not to make a big fuss over this one program that might antagonize Congressman Chappell."

But Kansas-based Cessna did not go without a fight.

"Cessna exercised the rights of any constituent," says the General Dynamics spokesman, who confirms that the company alerted its home-state senator, Minority Leader Robert Dole.

Dole could not be reached for comment, but Senate sources credit him with inspiring last September's congressional action to kill the reprogramming request.

The Kansas senator complained about the 2,400 mile C-FIN requirement in letters to Sen. John Warner (R-Va.), the ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, and the committee chairman, Sen. Sam Nunn (D-Ga.).

"Nunn and Warner were cool to the way the C-FIN reprogramming was handled anyway, and Dole's letter gave them an excuse to kill it," says one key defense aide.

Dole also talked to the ranking Republican on the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense, Sen. Ted Stevens (R-Ala.), who agreed not to support the reprogramming, according to congressional insiders.

The reprogramming died after Sept. 30 when the Senate Appropriations and Armed Services Committees failed to approve it before the fiscal year ended.

British Aerospace hopes its jet will win the $100 million contract.

Sen. Robert Dole intervened for some Kansas-based companies.

'On Top of the Table'

But Chappell, combative as ever, was not ready to quit. He resurrected the reprogramming by inserting language in the year-end continuing resolution that Congress approved last Dec. 21.

Chappell says he is "very much opposed" to the practice of enacting omnibus year-end continuing resolutions. "I think it's the worst way we can legislate."

He says the committee did not not intend to hide anything. "We try to put everything on top of the table," Chappell says.

The Air Force has not announced which of the three foreign bidders will be awarded the contract. The Air Force also has not said which defense program will lose the $100 million that will be transferred for the C-FIN procurement. "Usually, we kind of hope we don't have $100 million lying around that we can use to buy corporate jets," says one official with a trace of sarcasm.

Although the firms now destined to win the C-FIN contract are all foreign, some American firms will also benefit since they serve as subcontractors to the foreign companies.

For example, both Canadair and Israel Aircraft Industries use Garrett engines, which are built by Arizona-based Garrett Aerospace, a division of Allied-Signal. Accordingly, Garrett and C-FIN have the support of both Arizona senators, Republican John McCain and Democrat Dennis DeConcini, who recently wrote letters to Air Force Undersecretary McGovern supporting Chappell's provision.

Although Chappell says he is unaware of it, his stance on C-FIN appears to have done little to harm his political fortunes in the eyes of hopeful C-FIN subcontractors.

According to Federal Election Commission records, several American defense contractors who hope to be C-FIN subcontractors have supported Chappell's 1988 re-election campaign. They include: Allied-Signal PAC, $1,000; the LTV Corp., $2,000; the General Electric Co., $1,500. Also contributing are loser Beech Aircraft, $1,000; and Cessna's parent corporation, General Dynamics, $1,000.

Chappell says anyone who thinks he is doing a good job in Congress is free to make campaign contributions, but he warns that they have no influence on his policies.

He is interested in C-FIN, he says, "because of the taxpayers of this country and for no other reason." □

[redacted] stated that he was knowledgeable about John Tower and that he had worked with Tower during [redacted] prior employment as [redacted] further stated that Tower was the Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee while he was a House staffer and [redacted] would often work with the Senate staffers on different proposals. [redacted] advised that he considered Tower to be a vindictive individual and he had trouble working with Tower when he had to discuss programs with him. [redacted] stated further that, unlike [redacted] Tower was not open to the suggestions proposed by either the Senate or the House staffers. [redacted] also stated that he felt that Tower had favored certain defense contractors and certain programs and [redacted] felt that there was possibly improprieties involved because it seemed to be more then just constituent concerns.

[redacted] stated that Tower had been involved with the HARM missile program and that Texas Instruments (TI) was the defense contractor working the program. According to [redacted] TI was overcharging on the HARM program and that Secretary of the Navy [redacted] wanted to cut the funding for the program and the House was seeking to second source the program but Tower refused to allow any changes to the program. According to [redacted] Tower would not "hear of it" and would not agree to the second sourcing of the program. [redacted] advised that he, along with some other staffers, had proposed the use of a low cost seeker option which would have appeased everyone but that Tower only provided token support for the idea and would not go along with [redacted] proposal.

Investigation on 12/1/88 at Fredericksburg, Virginia File # WMFO 58A-2151

by SA [redacted] t11 Date dictated 12/2/88

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

[redacted] also related that he had heard that Tower had dealings with a company called TRACOR which had defense contracts out of Patuxent River, Maryland. [redacted] described how a [redacted] worked for TRACOR while Tower was a Senator. [redacted] according to [redacted] described how he took [redacted]

According to [redacted] when [redacted] returned from the trip he [redacted] advised that [redacted] TRACOR because of this incident and presently commutes to a new job with ITT in New Jersey. [redacted] stated that [redacted] had kept some documents and that he would be willing to be interviewed. [redacted] also stated that [redacted] made the allegation that Tower went to TRACOR and that "things stopped." According to [redacted] had the impression that TRACOR and Tower had a relationship and Tower had told the company to be careful.

[redacted] also stated that he knew that Tower was involved with the ATACC program and that this was one of the programs mentioned in the press as being part of the ILLWIND investigation. [redacted]

[redacted] also described Tower as being "totally dedicated to the services regardless of the cost." [redacted] stated that, whereas [redacted] wanted to do what was the right thing, Tower would do whatever the Services wanted. [redacted] stated further that Tower's Senate staff would always check with the Navy when a decision was to be made. [redacted] stated that Tower was also against the [redacted] reorganization proposal. [redacted] stated also that Tower did not follow the advise or suggestions of his staffers. [redacted] stated that it was difficult to get Tower to go against the government's desires.

[redacted] described how he had read a letter that had been sent to the Senate Armed Services Committee when Mel Paisley was being confirmed. According to [redacted] the letter was from one of [redacted] and it raised questions about Paisley and the death of one of his wives. [redacted] stated that he was bothered by this and he felt that the Chairman of a key committee should have been more concerned with the allegations about Paisley. [redacted] stated that it is "a different world under Nunn and Stennis" then it was under Tower. [redacted] also stated that Tower protected his constituent's interests and [redacted] eventually soured on porkbarrel programs.

[redacted] also stated that he thought Tower was involved with maintaining funding for the B-1. [redacted] stated that Tower had been advised by the staffers that the government was asking for too much money for Research and Development for the program but Tower would not allow the funds to be cut. [redacted] stated how Senator John Glenn talked to [redacted] about [redacted] and how "no-one was watching the money running through it." [redacted] stated that this was the problem during his years on the Committee, there was "no-one watching the store." [redacted] repeated that Tower did not care about the deficit or the cost of a program, that if the Services wanted it they got it and, even though the staffers would work hard to get the facts about a program, no-one would use them. Without going into detail, [redacted] also stated that the Divad-gun was another example of a program where money was being excessively spent.

[redacted] stated that he [redacted] is presently employed as a [redacted] for such companies as [redacted] stated that his office is at [redacted] and he gives advice, he listen's to his client's concerns and he gives them his best judgement. [redacted] stated that he blames the expensive programs and the defense problems "on the Towers of the world" because they never cared about the cost or quality of a program. [redacted] stated that he was contacted a week ago by a reporter who asked if he would recommend Tower and [redacted] stated he refused to answer but he did state what qualifications he felt a Secretary should have. [redacted] stated that he told the reporter that he felt an individual such as [redacted] would meet those qualifications. [redacted] stated that these qualifications should include being intelligent, knowledgeable about the defense industry, firm in one's convictions and know how the government works. [redacted] stated that he felt Tower was probably intelligent, smart and firm in his convictions but misguided and he should not have "blind faith in defense contractors."

[redacted] advised that he had spoken about numerous programs with Les Aspin and [redacted] felt that, if Aspin was "let loose" he could probably do some good "but now he has to hold on to his job, he has too many bills to pay" and has to do a lot of politicking. [redacted] stated that he personally does not think that politics should be so heavily involved in defense. [redacted] continued discussing Tower's relationships with defense contractors and he stated that no-one could touch Texas Instruments, no money could be taken from their programs. [redacted] stated that Tower would not allow the second sourcing of the HARM missile and [redacted] stated that not allowing second sourcing was the wrong thing to do. [redacted] advised that China Lake handled the HARM program and that there were problems there when people challenged TI.

[redacted] stated that companies should learn that they can not defraud the government but he said total debarrment is not the answer and is not feasible. [redacted] proposed a hypothetical situation though wherein the Macdonald Douglas and Mel Paisley relationship, which the press has stated is part of the ILLWIND investigation, is proven and shows the defense contractor to have received information illegally then the company should lose the contract and be barred for life from ever bidding or working on any part of that program again. [redacted] felt that such a result would punish the company while still allowing the Services to use it on other contracts. [redacted] stated that he felt such a system would develop compliance. [redacted] also mentioned that he lectures at the Defense Management School.

[redacted] continued and stated that Tower did play favorites with certain defense contractors and that he knew of TI and he had hearsay concerning TRACOR. [redacted] stated further that [redacted] General Bob Russ and [redacted] and they may be knowledgeable concerning Tower, his activities and other defense contractors. [redacted] stated that these individuals used to kid [redacted] about how [redacted]

[redacted] when asked if he knew [redacted] stated that he knew [redacted] when [redacted] was [redacted] and he knew that [redacted] a senator, thought to be Senator Herman Talmadge. [redacted] stated also that he knew there had been problems with the Senator but [redacted] described [redacted] as being honest and straight. [redacted] stated that he did not know if [redacted] was a [redacted] for Tower but he did know that [redacted] worked for Tower on the Commitee. [redacted] stated that the Senate Armed Services Commitee operated differently from the House in that the Senators would hire people as Senate staffers but put them on the Committee payroll. [redacted] advised that he never had any problems with [redacted] and that he could work with [redacted] on joint House/Senate situations.

[redacted] stated that the following individuals may be more knowledgeable concerning Tower. [redacted] on the Senate Armed Services Committee during the Tower years and he can be reached at [redacted] and [redacted] who are both [redacted] also stated that he knew [redacted] and [redacted] have strong feelings and objections concerning Tower. [redacted] also stated that Tower's ex-wife would be knowledgeable. [redacted] also advised that the China Lake low-level laser-guided bomb (LLLGB) problem involving TI could be described by [redacted] at China Lake and Vern Orr (not further identified). [redacted] stated that Tower's [redacted] kept telling the Navy that they would get the money or the program back but it was eventually killed by Vern Orr. [redacted] also stated that [redacted] at China Lake, would be knowledgeable about Tower and the HARM missile. [redacted] also stated that [redacted] was involved with Tower on the HARM program.

Lastly, [redacted] stated that he did not think, based upon his experiences with Tower, that Tower would make a good secretary. [redacted] stated that there were lots of hearsay concerning Tower's drinking from his ex-wives, and about Harm, TRACOR, campaigns and Texas Instruments (TI). [redacted] stated that he knew that Tower held "onto his warchest" when he decided not to run for re-election. [redacted] stated that he would be available if necessary for additional information.

A search of NEXIS, a computerized news retrieval service, disclosed approximately 9,000 articles relating to Senator Tower. A search of major newspaper morgues in the State of Texas disclosed approximately 4,000 articles relating to Senator Tower. Numerous articles related to allegations of sexual indiscretions, alcohol abuse, and conflict of interest against Senator Tower. Several articles also criticized his use of campaign contributions which remained after he retired from the Senate in 1985. As contained in the Interviews, Issues, and Agency Checks portions of this summary memorandum, these issues were addressed during the course of this investigation.

During the course of a routine interview of Senator Tower in Dallas, Texas on December 3, 1988, the results of which are incorporated in this summary memorandum, Senator Tower advised that he was aware of various newspaper articles, relating to the above mentioned allegations. He denied any current or previous alcohol abuse. Senator Tower added that articles alluding to marital infidelity on his part were based upon interrogatories submitted during the course of his divorce from Lilla Cummings Tower, and were totally false. Concerning his use of campaign contributions after he chose not to run for reelection, Senator Tower advised that he has made an accounting to the Federal Election Commission and the Internal Revenue Service regarding the expending of these funds. Senator Tower's interview (Page 20, INFRA) references a letter dated January 25, 1985 from the Senate Ethics Committee, which sets forth two tests to avoid the violation of "personal use" rules relating to the spending of these funds, copies of which are attached.

Senator Tower also advised that his current business associations listed on his Standard Form 86 would be a conflict of interest is he were to be named Secretary of Defense, or employed by the Department of Defense. He stated he intends to resign from all of those associations if and when he is appointed to or employed by the United States Government again. Senator Tower is not aware of any past associations which involved or could have involved conflict of interest allegations.

During that interview on December 3, 1988, Senator Tower advised that in December, 1985, he and his former wife, Lilla Cummings Tower, consulted a marriage counselor.

[redacted] Dallas, Texas, advised that he counseled Senator Tower regarding specific problems in his marriage on two to four occasions several years ago. He could not recall the exact dates of the counseling. [redacted] was not made aware of any drug use or alcohol abuse on the part of Senator Tower, and it was his impression that Senator Tower was able to function very well under stressful situations.

Issues

1. Senator Tower's alleged marital infidelities/sexual indiscretions:

The following individuals were interviewed in an attempt to resolve allegations that Senator Tower, while a United States strategic arms negotiator in Geneva, Switzerland, engaged in a sexual liaison with a foreign national:

b6

[redacted] advised he knew of the rumor concerning the above allegations, but recollected that the alleged sexual liaison was with a member of the U. S. delegation, and not a foreign national. He could provide no further information concerning the allegations.

[redacted] stated he recalled seeing a communication regarding the above allegations, but that his office did not conduct any investigation regarding it. He did not recall what type of communication contained the allegations or their exact content.

[redacted] also recalled seeing a communication, possibly a memorandum, regarding the above allegations. He believed the memorandum addressed the issue of Senator Tower's alleged "drinking and philandering." His only recollection of an incident involving Senator Tower was related to a case involving a former Air Force [redacted] and [redacted] (A review of the Office of Special Investigations (OSI), United States Air Force (USAF), investigation concerning that case revealed that the only reference to Senator Tower was a character reference letter which he wrote on behalf of the Air Force Colonel under investigation.)

[redacted] advised he was aware of the allegations against Senator Tower, stating it was common knowledge at the U. S. Mission in Geneva that Senator Tower was involved with a Soviet woman who was a member of the Soviet delegation working on the START negotiations. He added, however, that the ACDA did not conduct any investigation regarding this matter.

[redacted] special agent, recalled hearing allegations regarding Senator Tower as a result of an investigation conducted by the OSI, USAF, involving an USAF [redacted] assigned to the Geneva delegation. [redacted] could not recall the nature of those allegations.

2. Senator Tower's alleged excessive consumption of alcohol:

All individuals interviewed during the course of this investigation were specifically queried as to their knowledge of Senator Tower's consumption of alcohol. As reported under the Interviews section of this summary memorandum, only one individual commented that he/she believes Senator Tower to be an alcoholic. No other individuals interviewed believe Senator Tower to abuse alcohol.

[redacted] attorney, [redacted] Dallas, Texas, advised he has known Senator Tower since the 1950's, and [redacted] SMU, Dallas, Texas, advised he has known Senator Tower since 1937-1938. Both individuals commented that they were aware that in the 1970's, Senator Tower was a heavy drinker. However, neither man believed Senator Tower ever lost control of his faculties, or ever discussed classified information while under the influence of alcohol. Both individual's recommended Senator Tower for a position of trust and responsibility. b6 b7C

[redacted] and currently a partner in the law firm of [redacted] Huntsville, Tennessee, stated he has known Senator Tower since 1961. He stated the Senator Tower enjoyed a distinguished career in the Senate, and is universally respected. He has known Senator Tower to drink heavily at times, but opined that Senator Tower came from an area where heavy drinking was accepted. [redacted] stated he never saw Senator Tower drink to the point where his judgment was impaired and advised, "to accuse John of having an alcohol problem is ludicrous." He highly recommended Senator Tower for a position of trust and responsibility.

3. Disbursement of Campaign Contributions Remaining after Retirement from the United States Senate:

Investigation at the Federal Election Commission remains outstanding.

4. Current Status of "Ill Wind":

Former Senator Tower's name surfaced during the course of the FBI's "Ill Wind" investigation into fraud and bribery in the Department of Defense (DOD) procurement system. While not a subject of the investigation, evidence has been obtained indicating Senator Tower's association with several of "Illwind's" subjects.

"Illwind" has utilized a number of investigative techniques to gather evidence, including: court-ordered wiretaps, consensual monitoring, search warrants, and Federal grand jury subpoenas. As a result, Senator Tower's name has been associated with three principal issues:

1. Senator Tower's possible role in assisting a defense contractor's consultant in the restructuring of a congressional funding profile for a DOD program;

2. Senator Tower's receipt of monies from a businessman to allegedly assist in the resolution of the businessman's problems in fulfilling a DOD contract; and

3. Senator Tower's receipt of campaign contributions which may have been made in contravention of Federal election laws.

Issue 1:

This issue developed from an intercepted conversation between a defense consultant and a DOD contracting official in which the DOD contracting official indicated that a second consultant (who was not present at, nor a party to, the intercepted conversation) used Senator Tower's influence to reprogram DOD funds. The conversation does not identify the impacted DOD programs, nor does it identify the amount of funds involved, the time frame during which it allegedly occurred, or Senator Tower's motivation for providing assistance. The conversation indicates that Senator Tower's action resulted in the second consultant and the second consultant's client receiving a significant amount of money.

Senator Tower was not intercepted in this conversation. Senator Tower was interviewed and denied knowing the second consultant and stated that anyone who claimed to have manipulated him was not being truthful.

The second consultant was interviewed under a grant of limited immunity and claims to have met Senator Tower only once and that occasion was very brief. He denies having ever prevailed upon Senator Tower to affect any DOD programs. The second consultant admitted to having made two $1,000 campaign contributions to Senator Tower (one in his name and one he made in the name of his girlfriend) which were verified by Federal Election Commission (FEC) records as having been made in June, 1983. However, the second consultant denied that this was a quid pro quo with Senator Tower, but he considered it to be a politically expedient thing to do because his client was urging its employees to make contributions.

The intercepted DOD contracting official was also interviewed. He maintained that the second consultant did brag about having Senator Tower reprogram funds, but the program, time frame, and amounts were never identified, and there was no indication Senator Tower did anything improper. He believes the second consultant was "puffing."

Issue #2:

This issue developed from an intercepted conversation between a defense consultant and a businessman. In that conversation, the businessman related that Senator Tower had assisted him in resolving problems which were being encountered on a Government contract. The businessman continued that it cost him money for this help. The conversation did not disclose the Government contract involved, the time frame, or the nature of the assistance rendered by Senator Tower.

Senator Tower was not intercepted in this conversation. Senator Tower was interviewed and advised that during 1986 or 1987 a former staff assistant to Senator Tower on the Senate Armed Services Committee (SASC) approached him on behalf of a client who was having difficulty obtaining sufficient quantities of a product. As a result, Senator Tower spoke to the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of a company that could assist that businessman, and the CEO agreed to supply the needed product. The businessman then paid the former staffer a finder's fee, and the former staffer then insisted that Senator Tower accept $5,000 as a share of the finder's fee, which Senator Tower did.

The former staffer was interviewed, and he acknowledged that the businessman was seeking assistance in obtaining a sufficient quantity of a product necessary to fulfill a DOD contract. The former staffer attended a couple of luncheon meetings with the businessman and Senator Tower during which Senator Tower may have given advice to the businessman. Senator Tower may also have helped put the businessman in touch with another company for assistance. The former staffer received a consulting fee for arranging the meetings with Senator Tower. The former staffer split this fee "50/50" with Senator Tower, which he claimed was a customary practice when one consultant refers business to another. Senator Tower initially did not want to accept the fee, but the former staffer persuaded Senator Tower to accept two checks, each for $2,500. According to the former staffer, these transactions took place after Senator Tower left the Government and began his consulting work. The former staffer is unaware of any other payments to Senator Tower in this matter.

The businessman who sought assistance from the former staffer was interviewed. He acknowledged contacting the former staffer for assistance in obtaining a line of credit for a DOD contract. The former staffer suggested contacting Senator Tower and giving Senator Tower "something" for his assistance.

Subsequently, the businessman and the former staffer attended a luncheon with Senator Tower. (According to the businessman, this occurred after Senator Tower left the Senate, date unrecalled). The businessman is unaware of any action taken by Senator Tower concerning his problem other than to "open the door" to another company. However, he did arrange to pay Senator Tower $5,000 by giving a check to the former staffer for payment to Senator Tower. The businessman denied ever giving anything else of value to Senator Tower except for occasional drinks and meals he purchased for Senator Tower as a friend. A review of FEC files failed to locate any record of campaign contributions by the businessman to Senator Tower.

Issue 3:

This issue developed from evidence obtained pursuant to search warrants and intercepted conversations. Evidence indicates that a former SASC staffer (not an appointee of Senator Tower) became a consultant for a variety of defense contractors. One defense contractor allegedly paid this former staffer/consultant $3 million between 1981 and 1988 through various companies he owned or controlled, in return for the submission of fraudulent consultant reports. (This matter is being separately pursued in "Illwind.") The former staffer/consultant is alleged to have participated with the defense contractor's employees to launder these monies, convert them to personal use, make political campaign contributions, confer gratuities upon Congressmen, and charge them against defense contracts. A "budget" and "quota list" were recovered during a search which identified target amounts of contributions to Congressmen and identified the defense contractor's employees and consultants who were to be tasked to make particular contributions.

The "budget" recommended $20,000 for contribution to Senator Tower. The "quota list" contained an entry for Senator Tower's 1984 campaign in the amount of $10,000. The former staffer/consultant was listed for a $1,000 contribution.

Review of FEC records determined that approximately $4,500 was contributed to Senator Tower by the designated defense contractor's employees and consultants. However, there is no record that the former staffer/consultant contributed his designated $1,000.

Senator Tower was interviewed. He believed that the former staffer/consultant had been a Democratic staffer and that he only vaguely remembered him. Regarding the"quota list," he advised that he did not know "how these guys network," but that it was not uncommon for individuals to attempt to raise money from within a certain industry or trade group. He also advised that such lists did not necessarily reflect actual donations made. He stated that in the area of fund raising, it was not unusual for someone to say that he wanted to raise a certain amount of money and then to come back with that amount in checks of $1,000 or less from some group of individuals. However, such a group of checks would normally go to his finance chairman, who was not a Government employee. By way of example, he explained that in his 1978 campaign, he received numerous individual and Political Action Committee contributions, but it was not his policy to attempt to go behind the information on the face of the campaign contribution check to determine the source of the funds. He stated he lacked the staff and resources to do so.

When asked about those "quota list" contributions that appeared on the FEC's records, Senator Tower responded that he did not know some names, but one sounded familiar, although he couldn't place it. He commented that these contributions were very small when compared to the overall campaign fund.

Senator Tower noted that often contributions were given by companies competing for the same program, but he never kept a list in front of him which indicated who contributed to his campaign.

Senator Tower denied receiving any campaign contributions from corporations and stated that he never agreed to do anything in return for campaign contributions. He continued that he never promised anyone anything in return for anything and would say so under oath.

The former staffer/consultant was interviewed. He stated he was not aware of Senator Tower being influenced by any individuals or corporations regarding SASC decisions. He denied ever being solicited to give contributions to Senator Tower's campaign.

One of the "quota list" identified contributors was the second consultant (supra) who allegedly obtained Senator Tower's assistance in restructuring a funding profile for a DOD program. This second consultant acknowledged making two $1,000 contributions to Senator Tower, one in his name and one in the name of his girlfriend. However, he denied any coercion to do so and indicated it was politically expedient to do this because his major defense contractor client did significant DOD business.

The "quota list" contributor's name which sounded familiar to Senator Tower was interviewed. He did not recall making a June, 1983, $500 check payable to the " Tower for Senate Committee." He stated that, if indeed he had done so, it would have been at the instruction of a particular employee of the defense contractor. He indicated he would not have made such a contribution on his own. He also claimed that he would not have been reimbursed for the $500 contribution.

In summary, no corroborating evidence has been developed which would indicate criminal culpability on the part of Senator Tower with regard to the articulated principal issues.

It should be noted that some pertinent "Illwind" subjects did not agree to talk to FBI investigators about Senator Tower, and it is unknown what information they might provide at a future date should they be subjected to criminal prosecution.

Investigative efforts continue regarding the obtaining of documentation to pinpoint the specific dates upon which Senator Tower received money for assisting the businessman.

To date, no credible evidence has been developed that Senator Tower has participated in or is knowledgeable of illegal activities associated with "Illwind." Inasmuch as this is an ongoing investigation, which will continue for an extended length of time, it is unknown as to what, if any, additional information pertaining to Senator Tower may be developed.

As of this time, it is the opinion of the United States Attorney who is personally overseeing the "Illwind" investigation that "as best as can be forecast, it is unlikely that the balance of Ill Wind investigation will unearth information reflecting adversely on Senator Tower's integrity."

Tower, Bentsen Deny Illegal Oil Firm Gifts

By J. JOE THORTON
Star-Telegram Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Both U.S. Senators from Texas, Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower, yesterday denied charges that they [redacted]

[redacted] acting executive vice president of the American Public Gas Association, Edwin Rothschild, yesterday afternoon said in a statement that "a majority of the senators who voted for natural gas deregulation were recipients of illegal campaign contributions from major oil companies.

"Under these circumstances, a cloud is cast as to whether these contribution may have influenced their votes."

The statement names 25 senators, both Democrats and Republicans.

Bentsen is named as having been given an allegedly unlawful contribution by Gulf Oil Corp. "[redacted]

[redacted]

Jack Devert, news secretary for Bentsen, said of Rothschild's charge, "It's not true. We have never received any illegal contributions."

Tower's news secretary, Mike Kelly, said Tower has "never knowingly taken an illegal contribution."

Rothschild said the APGA is made up of about 200 municipally-owned gas distributors, located primarily in Alabama, Tennessee, Iowa and Minnesota. There is one member-town from Texas, he said, "but it's a small town and I don't remember the name."

Earlier this month, Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill filed suit in district court, seeking damages totaling $1.4 million from Gulf and Phillips.

Hill estimated the is three times the amounts given Texas politicians between 1960 and 1974.

Rothschild's statement does not specify how much either Tower or Bentsen illegally received.

The charge comes months after the Senate voted to deregulate production of natural gas and shortly before backers of the bill, including Bentsen, are to meet to decide whether to try to compromise their difference with a House-passed bill or to drop their efforts.

Bank denies Tower's post behind loan

MORN MAY 12 1982

By DAVE MONTGOMERY
Star-Telegram Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The bank president who authorized a $108,000 loan to Sen. John Tower said Tower was given favorable interest rates because he was a preferred customer and not because of his stature as chairman of a Senate banking subcommittee.

"We're a small bank hustling customers," said Joseph F. Lusk, president of the state-regulated Mercantile Bank in San Antonio. "I don't have clout to sway any policies in Washington. That's for the big boys."

The loan was reported by Tower in his annual financial statement filed Thursday with the Senate secretary's office. Tower said the loan was used to finance the purchase of a drilling rig, but he offered no further details about the investment.

In his statement, Tower reported that the May 1981 loan was secured by a lease agreement on the drilling rig and was granted at a variable interest rate of 1 percent above the federal discount rate — a rate generally lower than what banks charge customers with the best credit.

Lusk, reached by phone Friday at his San Antonio residence, said Tower, a friend of the bank's owner Lawrence Wood of Corpus Christi, requested the loan to finance what he thought was a good investment.

Lusk declined to offer details of the drilling rig purchase, saying that it was a confidential matter between the bank and Tower.

He said Tower had been a depositor at the bank for about two years before requesting the loan.

"We make loans to a lot of businessmen and congressmen," Lusk said. "They've all got to bank somewhere."

Lusk said Tower was offered a choice of fixed interest rates or several variations of "floating rates," which rise and fall according to market conditions.

He said Tower chose an interest rate tied to changes in the federal discount rate. On May 1, 1981, the discount rate was 13 percent, but a surcharge in effect at the time nudged it to 16 percent.

By comparison, the prime rate was 18 percent.

The prime rate topped out at 20.5 percent at the end of the month, but the discount rate rose only to 14 percent. Meanwhile, however, the Federal Reserve boosted the surcharge so that the discount rate plus the surcharge was 18 percent at the month's end.

"It's hard to say whether it's a good deal or a bad deal," Lusk explained. "The interest rates have been so wild lately."

He said the floating rates can be advantageous if interest rates remain stable or drop but are risky if "you guess wrong" and rates increase.

> "We solicit everybody that we can. The owners of the bank solicits their friends and everybody else they know, and Mr. Tower is a friend."
> — Joseph P. Lusk, San Antonio banker

Lusk described the transaction as "an arm's-length deal" that was no different than arrangements made for other choice customers seeking financing for business deals.

"Your better-rate deals are for better customers," Lusk said. "We have thousands of customers who ask to borrow money for different business ventures. This was no different."

Lusk denied that any special consideration was given to Tower because of his role as a senior member of the Senate banking committee and as chairman of its subcommittee on financial institutions.

"We solicit everybody that we can," Lusk said. "The owners of the bank solicit their friends and everybody else they know, and Mr. Tower is a friend."

Wood, the owner, asked Tower to place his deposits in the bank, Lusk said. Tower has an account at the bank that he valued in his report at between $5,000 and $15,000.

Before authorizing the loan, Lusk said, the bank conducted a credit check examining the background of the proposed investment, Tower's "credit [illegible]ture" and other details. The loan was approved despite Tower's [illegible]k of significant financial assets.

"We thought the idea was a good one," Lusk said. If Tower defaults, Lusk said "we'll come after him just like anybody else."

The investment in the drilling rig altered Tower's reputation as one of the poorest members of the Senate. Tower's major sources of income are limited to his Senate salary and speaking fees.

On his latest report, Tower reported $26,450 in speaking fees and $15,000 to $50,000 in rental income from leasing the drilling rig.

Tower's involvement in the rig lease, which presumably involves partners because of the high cost of drilling equipment, paralleled energy-related business ventures involving his wife, Lilla.

In her financial statement that she filed last year as newly appointed director of the Institute of Museum Services, Mrs. Tower reported holdings in "oil, gas and mineral interests" in lease-hold estates in Texas and Louisiana.

She also reported debts of between $10,000 to $15,000 to Medders Oil Co. in Wichita Falls, Towers' hometown. Tom Medders Jr., who heads the oil company, declined to comment when contacted by a reporter Friday.

In contrast to her husband, Mrs. Tower, a former Washington attorney, reported holdings of at least $743,000 and perhaps as much as $1.8 million in the financial disclosure filed last August with the Office of Personnel and Management.

Since the couple's marriage in 1977, Tower has explained in each of his annual finance statements that he has no involvement in his wife's financial assets.

Rep. Chappell's Backdoor Move

NATIONAL JOURNAL/RICK BLOOM

Rep. Bill Chappell Jr. pushed contract.

BY GREG RUSHFORD

Few members of Congress who voted for final passage of the massive 1988 spending bill knew that the potential beneficiaries of an obscure multimillion dollar aircraft program were three foreign companies. And the legislators certainly had no idea American aircraft companies that had wanted to bid had been deliberately excluded.

But Rep. Bill Chappell Jr. (D-Fla.), the feisty and powerful chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense, did know.

It was Chappell who was mainly responsible for language buried deep in the 1,053-page bill, inserted without public debate, that potentially translates into a $100 million windfall for one of three firms from Great Britain, Israel, or Canada.

Chappell, a 20-year veteran of the House known for his staunch support of military spending, defends his actions on grounds of national security. He argues that the aircraft produced by the foreign companies who qualify to bid under his language are better suited for their mission.

SEE CHAPPELL, PAGE 16

"I don't care who gets the contract," says the 66-year-old Democrat. "If I feel something is good for this country, I'm a fighter and I will fight for it."

Air Force Undersecretary James McGovern, who has met with Chappell, says through a spokesman that at no time did Chappell "even hint that he had a preference for who would be awarded the contract."

But a number of critics, including Air Force officials responsible for the program, describe Chappell's move as another example of the congressional budget process gone awry.

"This is a sneak trick designed to avoid the normal budget process in the hope nobody will ask questions," says one key congressional aide.

Says one indignant Air Force official: "I never thought I'd see the day when a U.S. congressman deliberately kept American companies away from a defense contract in favor of foreign interests."

Fueling the Budgetary Fire

The controversy over Chappell's aircraft program is yet another offshoot of the growing debate over the congressional budget process. A number of last-minute additions to the continuing resolution, critics contend, would never have survived more open and deliberative treatment. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) has drawn fire for his amendment forcing Rupert Murdoch to sell some media properties, while Sen. Daniel Inouye (D-Hawaii) has had to explain his sponsorship of an $8 million amendment to fund a school for Jewish refugees in France.

The controversial appropriation for the foreign aircraft bidders pushed by Chappell occupies less than one page of subcommittee testimony; yet, millions of dollars are at stake. In September, Congress rejected a backdoor method to fund the program, and the Air Force itself is lukewarm at best about the project.

Against this backdrop, critics are wondering why Chappell has been moved to intervene so aggressively.

Chappell acknowledges that he has met with officials from two of the three foreign bidders, British Aerospace Inc. and Canadair Inc. But he flatly rejects any insinuation that he is responding to the special pleading of an interested party.

Lobbying on the aircraft program has been nearly invisible. Spokesmen for all three foreign manufacturers deny that they lobbied Chappell or anyone else.

But Chappell says he met with Charles Gray, director of government relations for Canadair, a Montreal-based aircraft manufacturer and a potential recipient of Chappell's largess. Chappell describes Gray, a retired Air Force officer, as "a friend." Gray says he told Chappell that the program "deserves the committee's support."

Chappell offers, "I talked to the president of British Aerospace when I was in London—what's his name?" Sir Edward Hanson is president of British Aerospace.

One powerful former official may have played a behind-the-scenes role in the controversy. According to two Senate aides, former Sen. John Tower (R-Texas), who once chaired the Armed Services Committee, has made calls on behalf of British Aerospace and a subcontractor, the Dallas-based LTV Corp. Tower, now an aerospace consultant in Washington, is a British Aerospace director and an LTV consultant.

Tower, who is not registered as a British Aerospace lobbyist or agent, declined repeated requests for comment. Two Senate sources say that Tower has placed calls on the issue to Air Force Undersecretary James McGovern, who directed the staff when Tower chaired the Armed Services Committee, and to Arnold Punaro, now the committee's staff director.

Punaro could not be reached for comment. Chappell says he does not recall talking with Tower about the aircraft program.

Limiting the Bidding

Chappell's initiative would replace six aging executive-type "flight inspection" jets that have been in the inventory for more than 20 years. Four are Lockheed Jet Stars, now out of production, while two are Sabreliners, first built in the 1950s by the predecessor to Rockwell International. The small jets have been based in Europe and Japan and contain a sophisticated inertial navigation system.

"Essentially, in case of a combat-type crisis," explains one Air Force Reserve pilot, "they fly ahead to check the ground instrumentation landing systems to ensure it is safe to land."

Chappell's provision requires the Air Force to award the contract for replacement flight-inspection planes, known as C-FINs, to aircraft that can fly at least 2,400 nautical miles.

This seemingly innocuous language essentially limited the bidding to three firms: British Aerospace, Israel Aircraft Industries, and Canadair. Large domestic companies, including the Cessna Corp., the Gates Learjet Corp., and the Beech Aircraft Corp., are excluded because their aircraft fly shorter ranges.

Chappell says Air Force officials communicated to him that the longer-range aircraft was desirable. In fact, the Air Force in 1984 originally planned to replace the aging jets with 2,400-mile C-FINs. But in subsequent years, the Air Force officially sought the shorter-range jets.

"The C-FIN is a very important program that doesn't have much visibility," says Chappell. "I strongly feel it ought to be done."

Knowledgeable aircraft industry sources say the Cessna and Learjet aircraft are cheaper than their British and Canadian counterparts. The Israeli aircraft is comparably priced to the American planes, industry sources say.

"Cessna and Learjet at least, on their merits, should have been allowed to bid on C-FIN," asserts one knowledgable Air Force official.

Through the Back Door

The Pentagon did not ask for C-FIN funding in its 1988 budget request. But the public record shows that Rep. Chappell, as his subcommittee considered the Air Force 1988 procurement budget, wanted to push C-FIN through a back door. If C-FIN was not in the regular budget, money for it could be found by reprogramming, or transferring, funds already appropriated for other military programs

On March 12, 1987, Lt. Gen. Bernard Randolph, an Air Force deputy chief of staff for research, development and acquisition, had an exchange with Chappell that illustrates how the lawmaker was pushing for the longer-range, foreign aircraft.

"Now, we are still talking about a 2,400-mile-range aircraft?" Chappell asked. "Yes, sir," Randolph answered.

Chappell then drove home the point that the Air Force competition was only going to be open to the longer-range aircraft.

"I think congressional intent is clear on that 2,400 miles?" he asked. "Yes, sir," the general saluted. "No doubt in my mind."

Shortly after the March hearing, the Air Force—which earlier had approved an 1,850-mile-plus range for the C-FINs—requested a $70 million reprogramming to buy 2,400-mile range C-FINS.

"When the Air Force issued its 2,400-mile range RFP [Request for Proposal]," says a Beech official, "we had to drop out." Gates Learjet and Cessna also quit the competition.

Gates Learjet officials would not take calls on C-FIN. A spokesman for General Dynamics Inc., the giant defense contractor that owns Cessna, says that the corporation decided "not to make a big fuss over this one program that might antagonize Congressman Chappell."

But Kansas-based Cessna did not go without a fight.

"Cessna exercised the rights of any constituent," says the General Dynamics spokesman, who confirms that the company alerted its home-state senator, Minority Leader Robert Dole.

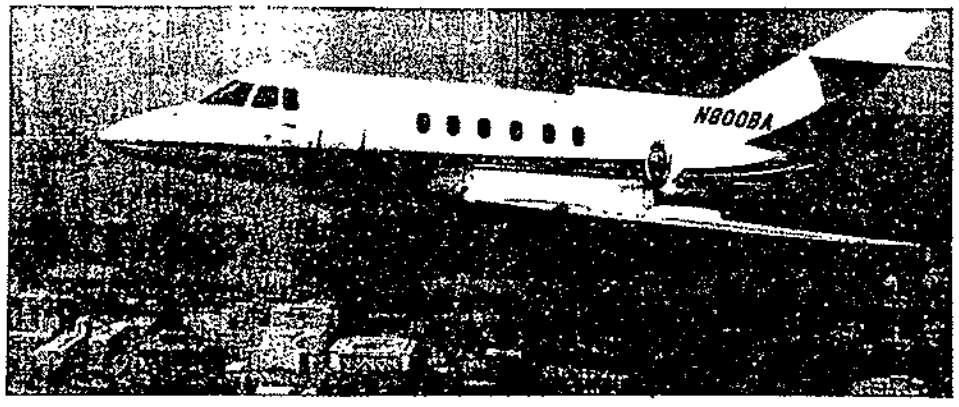
Dole could not be reached for comment, but Senate sources credit him with inspiring last September's congressional action to kill the reprogramming request.

The Kansas senator complained about the 2,400 mile C-FIN requirement in letters to Sen. John Warner (R-Va.), the ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, and the committee chairman, Sen. Sam Nunn (D-Ga.).

"Nunn and Warner were cool to the way the C-FIN reprogramming was handled anyway, and Dole's letter gave them an excuse to kill it," says one key defense aide.

Dole also talked to the ranking Republican on the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense, Sen. Ted Stevens (R-Ala.), who agreed not to support the reprogramming, according to congressional insiders.

The reprogramming died after Sept. 30 when the Senate Appropriations and Armed Services Committees failed to approve it before the fiscal year ended.



British Aerospace hopes its jet will win the $100 million contract.

Sen. Robert Dole intervened for some Kansas-based companies.

'On Top of the Table'

But Chappell, combative as ever, was not ready to quit. He resurrected the reprogramming by inserting language in the year-end continuing resolution that Congress approved last Dec. 21.

Chappell says he is "very much opposed" to the practice of enacting omnibus year-end continuing resolutions. "I think it's the worst way we can legislate."

He says the committee did not not intend to hide anything. "We try to put everything on top of the table," Chappell says.

The Air Force has not announced which of the three foreign bidders will be awarded the contract. The Air Force also has not said which defense program will lose the $100-million that will be transferred for the C-FIN procurement. "Usually, we kind of hope we don't have $100 million lying around that we can use to buy corporate jets," says one official with a trace of sarcasm.

Although the firms now destined to win the C-FIN contract are all foreign, some American firms will also benefit since they serve as subcontractors to the foreign companies.

For example, both Canadair and Israel Aircraft Industries use Garrett engines, which are built by Arizona-based Garrett Aerospace, a division of Allied-Signal. Accordingly, Garrett and C-FIN have the support of both Arizona senators, Republican John McCain and Democrat Dennis DeConcini, who recently wrote letters to Air Force Undersecretary McGovern supporting Chappell's provision.

Although Chappell says he is unaware of it, his stance on C-FIN appears to have done little to harm his political fortunes in the eyes of hopeful C-FIN subcontractors.

According to Federal Election Commission records, several American defense contractors who hope to be C-FIN subcontractors have supported Chappell's 1988 re-election campaign. They include: Allied-Signal PAC, $1,000; the LTV Corp., $2,000; the General Electric Co., $1,500. Also contributing are loser Beech Aircraft, $1,000; and Cessna's parent corporation, General Dynamics, $1,000.

Chappell says anyone who thinks he is doing a good job in Congress is free to make campaign contributions, but he warns that they have no influence on his policies.

He is interested in C-FIN, he says, "because of the taxpayers of this country and for no other reason." []

Tower: Too Hot for Bush to Handle?

His Personal Problems May Cost Ex-Senator Post of Defense Chief

By Jim Stewart
Journal-Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Former Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, the leading contender to be the next secretary of defense, could prove to be a controversial choice because of lingering questions over his personal life and finances.

Advisers to President-elect George Bush reportedly are pushing an alternative list of candidates with Mr. Bush, including a Pittsburgh industrialist and former Defense Secretaries Donald H. Rumsfeld and James R. Schlesinger.

In addition to his personal problems, some Republicans believe Mr. Tower may have too strong an alliance with the military at a time when defense spending must be cut back. Mr. Tower was a leading proponent of the Reagan arms buildup when he served as chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

And there is the apprehension that a Tower confirmation hearing would open the door to more questions about Mr. Bush's role in the Iran-contra affair. Mr. Tower served as chairman of the presidential commission that investigated the scandal. The Tower Commission report shied away from directly criticizing the vice president and concluded that Mr. Bush's role in the episode was "passive."

Mr. Tower has been dogged with rumors about his personal life since a bitter divorce last year.

In a divorce petition filed in Washington, Lilla Burt Cummings Tower accused Mr. Tower, 63, of "marital misconduct." She requested depositions from three women, including a Texas socialite, a Dallas television personality and a maid hired by the couple in Geneva, Switzerland, where Mr. Tower was a member of President Reagan's strategic arms negotiation team.

Mr. Tower was granted an uncontested divorce in September 1987. Although District of Columbia Superior Court records do not disclose the details of the settlement, Mr. Tower reportedly agreed to pay alimony and withdraw his claim for a share of his wife's property, which Mr. Tower had estimated at $2 million.

The Towers married in 1977 and separated in 1985. It was his second marriage, her third.

"Mr. Tower's marital misconduct is directly relevant to the division of property," Mrs. Tower's attorneys told the District of Columbia court last year.

In preparation for trial, Mrs. Tower's lawyers served notice that they would seek the names of all the women Mr. Tower allegedly socialized with outside his marriage "and the women with whom you spent the night or any portion thereof."

Mrs. Tower also requested detailed financial information from her estranged husband that included records of his clothing, other personal purchases and travel. Mr. Tower, usually attired in British-made Savile Row suits, long has had the reputation of being one of the best-dressed men in Washington.

He already had drawn criticism for spending nearly $500,000 in leftover campaign contributions after he shocked supporters and retired from the Senate in 1985.

According to reports filed with the Federal Election Commission, Mr. Tower used some of the funds for personal air travel, banquets, expensive gifts and contributions to his college alma mater and favored candidates.

Nearly two years after he left the Senate, supporters of Mr. Tower spent $1,845 in leftover campaign money one afternoon for a luncheon at the fashionable Mansion on Turtle Creek restaurant in Dallas. Later they paid $1,104 for lunch at The Monocle restaurant on Capitol Hill, the records show.

Mr. Tower also made a $100,000 contribution from the campaign funds to Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas, for a library in his name.

The expenses were legal under a grandfather clause in the election laws that permits members of Congress elected before 1980 to use campaign funds for personal expenses.

While Mr. Tower's marital affairs and clothing tastes would not normally be the target of questioning at a confirmation hearing, combined with other concerns they would inject controversy into one of the president-elect's most important appointments, some observers believe.

The first Republican senator from Texas since Reconstruction, Mr. Tower won a special election to replace Lyndon B. Johnson in 1961. He was re-elected in 1966, 1972 and 1978. He expressed interest in being secretary of defense under President Reagan but was passed over for Caspar W. Weinberger. For the past year, Mr. Tower has worked closely with the Bush campaign as a defense policy adviser.

Now, with the Pentagon bucking orders to trim $250 billion from its fiscal 1988-92 five-year defense plan, Mr. Tower's identification with bullish defense spending might cause concern in Congress.

"John Tower is not beloved on (Capitol Hill), but he does have secure connections there," said a senior Pentagon official who could expect to stay on during a Tower secretaryship. "He's one of the club. The question is whether that's enough."

Secretary of State-designate James A. Baker III has denied published reports that he is one of the Bush team opposed to Mr. Tower. Still, rumors persist at the Pentagon that alternative nominees are being sounded out and urged on the president-elect.

Other suggestions include Mr. Schlesinger and Mr. Rumsfeld, both secretaries of defense under President Gerald R. Ford; former National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft; Paul H. O'Neill of Pittsburgh, board chairman and chief executive officer of Aluminum Company of America (Alcoa); current Defense Secretary Frank C. Carlucci; and retired Alabama Rep. Jack Edwards, co-chairman of the Pentagon's Commission on Base Realignment and Closure.

Senior military officers are known to eye Mr. O'Neill with special caution. A deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget under Mr. Ford, the Alcoa chief has a reputation as a tight-fisted manager. Since Robert S. McNamara attempted to instill corporate thinking in the Pentagon in 1961, military leaders have shied away from leaders of big business.

Mr. Carlucci, although popular with Congress and Mr. Bush, is not believed interested in staying on with the new administration. After a lifetime in government, Mr. Carlucci was president of Sears World Trade Inc., a subsidiary of Sears, Roebuck Inc., when President Reagan tapped him to be national security adviser and later secretary of defense.

"He absolutely lights up when he talks about his time as a chief executive," a Pentagon associate said. "He said the experience enlivened him, and he wants to go back."

Mr. Schlesinger has held positions in three administrations, but never an elective office. A man who describes himself as a "moderately conservative fellow," Mr. Schlesinger first came to Washington in President Richard M. Nixon's budget office. Later, President Jimmy Carter appointed him as the nation's first secretary of energy.

Mr. Schlesinger is not remembered kindly at the Pentagon. "Basically, he hates people," said a current senior Pentagon official. "He was most comfortable discussing nuclear strategy."

Mr. Rumsfeld succeeded Mr. Schlesinger at the Pentagon.

Sen. John G. Tower, with his wife, Lilla, announces in 1983 that he will not seek re-election. Personal problems brought out in his divorce may rule out his assuming the post of defense secretary.

JOHN G. TOWER, Room 4E830, PENTAGON, Washington, D. C., was advised of the identities of the interviewing Agents and of the fact that the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI) had additional questions for him in connection with the background investigation currently being conducted of him.

At the outset of the interview and in response to a prior request, TOWER furnished a copy of the visa stamps on his United States passport. In particular, TOWER noted that the one triangular shaped stamp on page 8 of his passport is the stamp which was received when he entered Islamabad, Pakistan. TOWER advised that, although the stamp does not copy well, the date on this stamp is readable, "24-8-87," the date when TOWER arrived in Islamabad on his direct flight from London, British Air flight 223. He had departed London on August 23, 1987. He further advised that the rectangular shaped stamp which overlaps the triangular shaped stamp was the one he received upon exiting Pakistan at Karachi, dated "29-8-87." A copy of these pertinent pages from the passport of JOHN G. TOWER are included and are made a part of this document.

TOWER was asked whether or not he knew [redacted] b6 b7C TOWER advised that he did not know [redacted] until recently when he heard that [redacted] has made specific allegations concerning TOWER's inappropriate behavior on three specific dates. Selected portions of the form FD-302 reporting the interview of [redacted] by the FBI were read to TOWER, in order to secure his comments concerning these allegations and details. [redacted] description of TOWER's actions on August 25, 1987, through August 26, 1987; on December 12, 1987; and on May 16, 1988, were read to TOWER. Concerning the August 25, 1987, through August 26, 1987 period, TOWER advised that a review of his schedule, which has previously been furnished to the FBI, reveals that he was in Islamabad, Pakistan, during that period of time.

by SAs [redacted] & RPC:mye Date dictated 2/27/89

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

The visa stamp, a copy of which was furnished earlier in this interview, should also verify this fact. Concerning the December 12, 1987, allegations, TOWER advised that his travel schedule, previously furnished to the FBI, reveals that he departed Washington, D. C., enroute to Dallas, Texas, by American Airlines at 12:50 p.m. Concerning the May 13, 1988, allegations by [redacted] TOWER advised that he traveled to Seattle, Washington, that day and was speaking at the HENRY S. JACKSON MEMORIAL FOUNDATION Dinner. TOWER was the principle speaker for that occasion. b6 b7C

TOWER was asked whether any of the specific allegations or details of these allegations might lead him to believe that [redacted] had the wrong date, but the correct information. TOWER advised that none of these people, dinners, or actions which were described by [redacted] sounded at all familiar to TOWER. He explained that he very rarely goes into the bar at the JEFFERSON HOTEL and has dinner in the restaurant area, not in the bar. The only time he might go to the bar is to sit and wait for a particular individual before joining that individual for dinner in the restaurant. He does not recall ever having socialized with an Australian or a group of Australians at the JEFFERSON HOTEL. Speaking of [redacted] and the allegations made by [redacted] TOWER advised that "this guy is a first class liar." Upon hearing the description which [redacted] gave of TOWER's alleged behavior on May 16, 1988, under the influence of alcohol, TOWER advised that "in my heaviest drinking days, I never conducted myself in this manner." In summary, TOWER denied all allegations made by [redacted] and stated he does not recall any actions on his own part which could possibly have been the source of these allegations.

TOWER was advised that investigation by the FBI revealed that there were several dates during which TOWER and [redacted] were both staying at the JEFFERSON HOTEL. These dates were July 15, 1987; July 16, 1987; and July 17, 1987. TOWER advised that a search of his records reveals that, on July 15, 1987, he gave an interview at 4:00 p.m. with BRUCE MORTON of CBS NETWORK; a 6:30 p.m, interview with TOM BROCAW of NBC NETWORK; and a 10:10 p.m. interview with NANCY DICKINSON of CHANNEL 5. TOWER advised that on July 16, 1987, he had a dinner with two individuals at the JEFFERSON HOTEL. These individuals are [redacted] and a British friend of TOWER's. The dinner broke up approximately 11:00 p.m. and TOWER retired for the evening. At 3:29 p.m. on July 17, 1987, TOWER left Wasnington, D. C., to travel to Dallas, Texas. As a result, he did not stay in Washington, D. C., on the evening of July 17, 1987. TOWER advised that on none of these three evenings did he abuse alcohol or conduct himself in any way which might have been the source of any of the allegations made by [redacted] b6 b7C

TOWER advised that he is aware of the fact that the FBI interviewed [redacted] who is now employed at [redacted] Washington, D. C. He is also aware that the FBI had received allegations concerning inappropriate behavior by TOWER with a female dressed in a strapless gown. This behavior was alleged to have taken place at a restaurant in Dallas, Texas. TOWER advised that, following a conversation with [redacted] he recalled the evening in question. That evening, TOWER had dinner alone at the MANSION RESTAURANT in Dallas, Texas. Following that dinner, TOWER joined the group which he described as the HISPANIC ASSEMBLY OF DALLAS at the SAN SIMEON RESTAURANT. At the gathering that evening were [redacted] and [redacted] TOWER stated that he had known [redacted] for many years and has known [redacted] many years, as well. He joined this group for about one or one and one-half hours and left alone. He estimated that he left that group about 11:00 p.m., but this is only an estimation on his part. Concerning his use of alcohol that evening, TOWER commented that when he came in, the group was finishing their dinner. He sat down among them and believes he had a glass of their dinner wine. He cannot state exactly how much wine he had that evening, but he is certain he was not under the influence of alcohol at any time during that entire evening. At all times, his conduct and deportment were proper. He did note, however, that this was a very cordial and sociable group of friends, many of whom had known each other for many years. Although the entire group was active and sociable, there was no improper behavior on TOWER's part or the part of anyone else to the best of his recollection. TOWER was advised that the allegation received by the FBI involved TOWER's inappropriate behavior with a female, who is said to have fallen down while wearing a strapless dress. TOWER advised that he does not have any recollection whatsoever of anyone falling down. He stated that he is aware of the fact that [redacted] advised the FBI that the female in the allegation received by the FBI was [redacted] TOWER stated that he cannot verify this fact from his own knowledge, although he does recall that [redacted] was wearing a strapless and low-cut dress that evening.

TOWER was asked whether he recalled anything which occurred on the evening in question which might have been misinterpreted by others who did not know the individuals in that party. He advised the he could not think of any behavior on his part or the part of anyone else which might have been misunderstood by anyone. He advised that the restaurant was quite noisy and it was necessary to be quite near any individual with whom one intended to carry on a conversation. He speculated that this physical proximity during conversation might have led to a misunderstanding, but he repeated that this is strictly speculation on his part.

The information in this summary memorandum supplements the information contained in summary memoranda dated December 13 and 23, 1988, January 6, 13 and 25, 1989, and February 8, 20, 27 and 28, 1989. Additional investigation is being conducted.

Additional allegation of criminality on the part of Senator Tower.

On February 28, 1989, a confidential source told the FBI that he/she had recently received information from an official in the Executive Branch, that Senator John Tower had been paid off by the president of a Defense contractor for his influence as a Senator in assisting the contractor in its negotiations with the Department of Defense.

The confidential source has no personal knowledge of any payoffs or bribes to Senator Tower, only what he/she recently heard. He/she did identify a former employee of the Defense contractor who may be knowledgeable of the relationship between the Defense contractor's president and Senator Tower.

The confidential source also indicated that he/she had heard that this Defense contractor at one time was under investigation and had used Senator Tower's assistance to resolve the problem.

The FBI has verified that the particular Defense contractor has been and continues to be under investigation, and that the Executive Branch employee in question was in a position to have regular contact with Senator Tower when the Senator was Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The FBI has initiated an expedite criminal investigation to resolve these allegations.

Also, during the aforementioned surgery, the appointee's liver was seen by him to be completely normal; as was the appointee's pancreas and gall bladder. He does not recall the exact dates on which these tests were performed, inasmuch as his records regarding such are in another location at this time. To the best of his recollection, the test was conducted in either late December, 1988, or just prior to the apointees surgery in January, 1989.

[redacted] furnished the following information:

He stated that during the time the appointee was in BAYLOR HOSPITAL following colon surgery in January, 1989, [redacted] He stated sometime that during that period of time, the exact date, the exact circumstances, and exact wording unrecalled by him, the subject was brought up regarding whether or not it would be alright for the appointee to have a glass or two of wine with dinner.

[redacted] noted that this question is raised on many occasions by patients of his following surgery.

He generally advises these patients to the effect that medically, as far as ones surgery is concerned, it will probably not hurt to have one or two glasses of wine, or a cocktail, or several beers, with dinner.

He stated that he does not advise persons to begin drinking as part of their post operative care, and only discusses it if the matter is brought up. He stated that with regard to the appointee, as he had previously noted, he can not recall whether the appointee asked the question or not. He stated however that he seems to recall that the appointee did so ask this question. He stated that he also recalls giving a reply similar to that noted above in response to same. He stated that he can not recall any other discussion of alcohol with the appointee. He further advised that he can not recall any concern on his part as a physician with regards to the appointee's consumption of alcohol.

He noted that according the appointees personal history taken from him at the time he entered the hospital on January 4, 1986, the notation is listed "patient it a smoker; he drinks alcohol occasionally". He noted this was apparently what the appointee reported when he entered the hospital.

He also noted that with regard to the blood test he gave the appointee on December 26, 1989, it is known as a SMAC 28. He stated that this is a blood test which measures various areas of the blood. It is based on a reference range of values set up by the pathologist who designed the test. In this particular laboratory, and in this particular test range, all testees are measured against the same reference range, no matter what their age, previous medical history, alcohol consumption, sex, or any other difference that he can think off.

He also noted that a portion of this Smac 28 test is known as the GGT, and it is a very sensitive test as regard to the liver with regard to over use of alcohol. He noted that the appointees GGT test, as were all of his tests, were within the normal ranges.

He also noted that during his viewing of the appointee's liver and pancreas, etc., during the surgery, all appeared perfectly normal to the naked eye, irrespective of any other factor, including age, sex, race, drinking habits, etc.

He noted that these organs are either considered normal or abnormal. The only time these organs would be considered abnormal is when they are seen to be diseased or cancerous, or some other type abnormality.

As he had previously stated, the appointee's organs as noted above were normal to his viewing.

He also noted that as previously stated the only discussion regarding a resumption of alcohol with the appointee was as note above, and there was no indepth discussion about levels of consumption or threats to the appointee's life and health.

He noted that he, as well as the appointee's family, were much more concerned with the fact that the appointee is a smoker of cigarettes than with the appointee's drinking habits.

He noted that the cigarette smoking would appear to him to pose a much greater health risk to anyone.

ELWIN L. SKILES, JR., Senior Vice-President, Corporate Staff, Assistant General Counsel, TEXAS INSTRUMENTS, INCORPORATED, Dallas, Texas, was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and of the fact that he was being interviewed with regards to his knowledge of JOHN G. TOWER, the appointee.

Mr. SKILES noted that he was well aware of the fact that the appointee had been nominated for the U.S. Secretary of Defense and that the appointee was still under consideration by the Senate Armed Forces Committee in this regard.

He noted that he was employed as a member of the appointee's Senate staff from January 1971 through November 15, 1976. He stated from January 1971 through April 1973 he was the legal counsel for the Senate Banking Committee, and from April 1973 through November 15, 1976 he was the administrative assistant in Washington, D.C. He has likewise had periodic contact with the appointee since that time, usually two to three times a year.

He stated that he considers the appointee to be a person of outstanding moral character, associates, reputation, and loyalty. He has never known the appointee to use drugs or have any financial problems.

He stated that the appointee has in the past consumed alcohol in his presence. He stated that he has never seen the appointee consume alcohol to a degree which would impair his effectiveness, efficiency, ability to render decisions, or function. He stated that he has never observed the appointee, nor does he feel that the appointee would ever in the future consume alcohol to such an extent that he might reveal secret or confidential information.

He noted that the appointee occasionally, in the U.S. Senate duties, would return to his office after a late session in the Senate. He noted that also occasionally at lunch, the appointee would have a cocktail, possibly a gibson, or a martini. He stated that this was not an everyday event, nor was it a regular occurrence.

He stated that he, again, does not feel that the appointee would ever reveal any confidential information. Primarily, due to the fact, as previously stated, he does not feel the appointee ever drank that much alcohol. He also noted that the appointee is not a very verbose individual anyway, and is basically a shy person who is not outgoing.

He stated with regard to the rumors and allegations he has seen regarding alleged "womanizing" on the part of appointee, she does not feel this to be true. He stated that when he was working for the appointeee, he was closely associated with the appointee's schedule and location.

He noted that it is entirely possible individuals who are not acquainted with the appointee may have seen him embracing two attractive young women in airports when he would return to the Dallas, Texas area from Washington. He noted that these would be the appointee's daughters, who generally greeted him there.

He also noted that the appointee may have been seen in public with other female individuals, but this certainly did not indicate a sort of extra-marital or deep relationships, other than those individuals who were his wives during the time he was married.

He also advised that he has no knowledge of any questionable contributions made to the appointee at any time.

He noted that the appointee also had a rule that no one on his staff accept any gratuities from, for instance, defense contractors. He noted that, often, various Senate staffs are offered free rides on aircraft, which have been used by contractors to bring people to Washington. He stated that many of the Senate staff take advantage of these free rides back to their particular hometown. The appointee would not allow his staff to do so.

He stated that he certainly has never heard any allegation to the effect that the appointee "totally corrupted" him or anyone else.

He stated that he is not exactly sure of what the definition of "totally corrupted" might be. He stated he is from a family who was Southern Baptist. He stated that it is certainly possible that someone who was of that faith might consider an individual who takes a drink, as SKILES stated he does on occasion, to be "totally corrupted". He stated he would certainly not agree with that connotation.

He also noted that allegations regarding a lack of personal ethics and highly partisan politics, which have been levelled at the appointee are totally untrue, in his opinion. He noted that during his tenure with the appointee there was never any instance that he was asked or placed in a position which compromised his personal ethics.

He noted that he thinks very highly of the appointee and feels he is very well qualified to perform duties as the U.S. Secretary of Defense. He recommends the appointee highly for such position without any reservation whatsoever.

SKILES Sr. has met TOWER on several occasions through his son to include the Inauguration of President RICHARD NIXON and a commencement address TOWER gave at HSU a number of years ago. SKILES Sr. was impressed with TOWER and at the commencement reception where alcohol was not served, TOWER acted like a perfect gentleman.

SKILES Sr. said he was aware of the current inquiry regarding TOWER'S alleged drinking problems and womanizing. He thought TOWER would have problems being confirmed due to a perceived lack of respect relating to the above allegations. SKILES Sr. said his relationship with TOWER was too limited to comment regarding his suitability for the Secretary of Defense appointment or to make a recommendation. On 2/13/89, an anonymous caller describing himself as a "citizen-tax payer" in the independent oil business advised that he personally saw JOHN TOWER on approximately six occasions in 1972 in the upstairs bar at the TRADEWINDS MOTEL in Wichita Falls, Texas. He saw him on the weekends and on approximately three occasions saw him in a drunken condition. He pointed out that TOWER impressed him as a heavy drinker, and on one of the occasions "drank a hell of a lot of whiskey and like to fell on his ass when he got up". On that occasion he had two unknown women with him, and on one of the other occasions had a woman with him.

The caller learned from general discussions during 1972 and 1973 that TOWER was allegedly making "thousands of dollars" out of the oil shortage. He was allegedly receiving money from independent oil producers and from an Association known as the INDEPENDENT OIL PRODUCERS AND DRILLERS ASSOCIATION. He believed that TOWER was acting as a lobbyist for them when in actuality he was a Senator at the time. The caller mentioned Wichita Falls, Texas, Abilene, Texas, and Midland-Odessa, Texas as areas in which the oil producers Association operated. He said that the Association furnished TOWER money which TOWER used for an airplane and pilot. On one occasion the caller talked with TOWER's pilot, with nothing of substance discussed, and he described this pilot as a white male, age [redacted] years, 5'9", 170 pounds with [redacted] hair. b6 b7C

During this same period of time he had a specific conversation with an independent oil producer who was a member of the Association, and who told him that the producers were getting help through TOWER but that they had to pay money to TOWER to get him to help them. This producer told the caller that he had given a $15,000 check to TOWER for his unspecified aid, and it was this same producer who told the caller about thousands of dollars being made by TOWER.

The caller does not know the name of this producer but described him as a white male, age early [redacted] tall, 6'1", 180-190 pounds, with [redacted] hair with [redacted] in it. This producer's office was described as being on the [redacted] of the [redacted] in [redacted] past the

Dear Senator Tower:

[redacted] and I sincerely appreciate the opportunity we have had in recent weeks to discuss with you some of our plans and opportunities regarding our new Triad Plus™ product for personal computer workstation management and data security. Thank you for making some time available to discuss the various events, primarily relating to trade shows and other special occasions for which you have agreed to assist us as a public spokesman.

I truly believe in view of the tremendous proliferation of IBM PC workstations throughout the U.S. and the world, that this issue of computer security and data integrity is most critical and in need of high level attention in order for solutions to be implemented. We are firmly convinced that your many years of public service in the U.S. Senate on armed forces and intelligence committees, your present involvement on the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, and your work on the Tower Commission places you in a most unique position to be the best national leader on this hot issue.

The schedule of various events we have for you this fall will help to keep your name in the spotlight by means of the publicity related to these special targeted events. From midyear '87 to midyear '88 we foresee this as an important window in time for national emphasis on this computer/data security problem and its solution. From '88 to '89 we see the need for a global emphasis on this same issue.

The schedule for the four panel events discussed recently with you is attached. At this juncture the detailed logistics and other aspects of briefings for you have not been worked out. Please advise us when it would be most convenient for us to brief you, sometime around early to mid-September for the October 1 breakfast meeting/panel in Washington, D.C. This private, invitation-only breakfast with you, followed by a panel discussion, will be for about one hundred key government, military and industry leaders whom we believe are the principal decision and policy makers in the Washington and East Coast areas.

I also take this opportunity to confirm with you the telephone conversations you had with our [redacted] on August 11 and 12 regarding the schedule for the four panels and the agreement made with you with respect to compensation. For working with us during the remainder of this calendar year (four panels and introductions to certain of your key contacts in the U.S. and Europe) we will give you an option for 5,000 shares of Micronyx common stock at the current price of $3.00 per share, exercisable anytime within four (4) years. In addition, you will be paid a fee (or honorarium) of $1,000 in cash for each appearance on a panel plus all reasonable travel and out-of-pocket expenses.

Micronyx, Inc.
1901 N. Central Expressway
Suite 400
Richardson, Texas 75080
Telex: 293219 STI UR

Micronyx is making a commitment to you for a total period of approximately one year ending on June 30, 1988, which would additionally entail typically one event per month from January through June of 1988, if that is satisfactory with you. On the other hand, at the end of December, 1987, if you so desire you may terminate our agreement with no further obligation on the part of either party. If you desire to continue the relationship through the first half of 1988, your compensation will be an additional stock option for 5,000 shares of Micronyx common stock at $3.00 per share, plus you will be paid a fee of $1,000 cash for each appearance on a panel with the same reimbursement of travel and out-of-pocket expenses.

If our working relationship continues through December 1988, we acknowledge and agree to address the possibility that you might once again be in an appointed high position in the U.S. government in a succeeding Republican administration. Thus, assuming full participation and commitment on your part for 18 months, we will agree to accelerate your stock options for the full 24-month period.

If you are in agreement with the general terms of this letter, I will have a definitive stock option document drafted for execution.

b7C

Senator Tower, again I express our thanks to you from [redacted] and our other board members for your willingness to assist us as a public spokesman and in making certain key introductions for us with some of your diverse contacts in government and industry. The success of our enterprise, I believe, depends primarily at this point in time on raising the level of awareness among key persons on the issues and solutions. With your help and Lord willing, we shall succeed.

Sincerely,

[redacted]

[redacted] Telephone number [redacted] was re-interviewed concerning flights from DALLAS/FORT WORTH INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT (DFWIA) to Europe during the period May through September, 1987. She furnished the following information:

She stated that she has flown from DFWIA to London, and return, during the past two years, and that she has been in the company of Senator JOHN TOWER on some occasions. She stated that she maintains a personal diary for her own records, but she could not locate her diary for the year 1987.

She said that she recalled travelling to London from DFWIA on or about May 29, 1986, alone and later meeting Senator TOWER during September, 1986, in London. She recalled that she and Senator TOWER returned together on the same flight on this occasion.

She also recalled that she may have travelled from DFWIA to London with Senator TOWER during September, 1987, but she was not certain and could have confused this travel with travel during the same time in 1988.

She said she could not recall well any of the flight attendants on any of these flights to London, but she noted that Senator TOWER, because of his frequent travel, knew many of the flight attendants on these flights. She stated that on one occasion, while she and Senator TOWER were returning from London to DFWIA, a female flight attendant offered a bottle of champagne to her and the Senator and that she accepted the unopened bottle of champagne and later gave it as a gift to a friend.

She stated she could not recall any specific male flight attendant on any flight from DFWIA to London in which she accompanied Senator TOWER.

[redacted] stated that neither she nor Senator TOWER eats the entree served on the flights from DFWIA to London and that both eat only the shrimp or caviar served on these flights.

She recalls specifically that on each occasion that she flew with Senator TOWER, he consumed either one or two glasses of champagne or wine, along with the shrimp or caviar, and then "slept like a baby" for the remainder of the flight. She said that she generally consumed one half a jigger of vodka, along with the above dish, and then read a book for the remainder of the flight. She pointed out that Senator TOWER was always very alert at the end of the flight because he had slept, and that she was tired and ready to go to sleep, resulting in her and Senator TOWER kidding one another about their different habits.

[redacted] referred the interviewing agent to [redacted] Amelia Martin Travel Agency, 3811 Turtle Creek Boulevard, Suite 250, Dallas, Telephone Number [redacted] indicating that all her travel arrangements to Europe had been made through this agency. She also referred the interviewing agent to [redacted] and [redacted] employees at her office, Telephone Number [redacted] indicating that these individuals maintained her records concerning expenses for her travel and other business records.

[redacted] AMELIA MARTIN TRAVEL AGENCY, 3811 Turtle Creek Boulevard, Suite 250, Telephone [redacted] caused a review of agency records for travel of Senator JOHN G. TOWER and [redacted] to be made for the period of calendar year 1987, for travel from DALLAS/FORT WORTH AIRPORT (D/FW AIRPORT) to London. She located records for the following travel:

Senator TOWER and [redacted] were ticketed for travel from D/FW AIRPORT on AMERICAN AIRLINES Flight 50, departing on May 31, 1987 at 5:30 PM to London, Gatwick Airport (LGA). Senator TOWER was ticketed to return from LGA to D/FW AIRPORT via AMERICAN AIRLINES Flight 79 on June 8, 1987, departing London at 1:25 PM. [redacted] was ticketed to return from LGA to D/FW AIRPORT on AMERICAN AIRLINE's Flight 79 on July 6, 1987, departing at 1:25 PM.

Senator TOWER was also ticketed to travel via AMERICAN AIRLINES Flight 50 on June 26, 1987, departing D/FW AIRPORT at 5:30 PM to LGA. Senator TOWER was ticketed to return via AMERICAN AIRLINES Flight 79, departing LGA on July 2, 1987, at 1:25 PM.

Senator TOWER was also ticketed to travel from Washington, D.C., Dulles Airport via BRITISH AIRWAYS (BA) Flight 188 on June 12, 1987, departing at 1:00 PM, returning on BA Flight 217 on June 22, 1987, at 4:15 PM to Dulles Airport.

She could locate no other records of flights to Europe by either [redacted] or Senator TOWER during 1987.

She noted that during 1987, airline regulations allowed travel agents to issue tickets to passengers traveling on the "frequent flyer programs" and that any travel under such a program by either [redacted] or Senator TOWER, made through her office, would have been located in this record review.

She concluded that, to her knowledge, all travel booked by Senator TOWER is made by her agency through arrangements made by Senator TOWER's offices in Washington, D.C. and Dallas.

[redacted] was advised of the purpose of the interview, specifically, to determine her knowledge of the presentation of an award to the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER by the USAFA. [redacted] voluntarily provided the following information:

The appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER, received the MAXWELL A. KRIENDLER Memorial Award from the USAFA at the Nineteenth National Air Force Salute on March 13, 1982. This award is presented annually in recognition of outstanding contributions by individuals and organizations to the advancement of aerospace power, the enhancement of the image of the United States Air Force and the reinforcement of our National Security. The award was presented by the Iron Gate Chapter, USAFA.

The event was held at the New York Sheraton Centre, 7th Avenue and 52nd Street, New York, New York. The USAFA provided the appointee with accomodations at the New York Sheraton Centre and [redacted] recalled that the appointee was very ungracious and that he complained that his room wasn't large enough.

[redacted] was in attendance at the Nineteenth National Air Force Salute and saw TOWER but she observed no misconduct by the appointee in his dealings with women or excess consumption of alcohol. She did however, hear rumors the following day that TOWER attended a party sponsored by the HUGHES Aircraft Company in the Presidential Suite of the New York Sheraton Centre after the award presentation to TOWER. TOWER apparently drank so much alcohol at the HUGHES party that he had to be physically assisted back to his room. [redacted] could not recall specifically who she heard this rumor from.

She provided a seating chart with the names of the HUGHES Aircraft Corporation people that were in attendance at the award ceremony to the investigating agent and the current addresses of the people sitting at the Head table with the appointee that night.

What did the swallows learn in Geneva?

A party atmosphere and potential security risks prompted a CIA inquiry

During John Tower's tenure in Geneva as a senior American arms negotiator in 1985 and 1986, federal officials were sufficiently worried that his social activities, and those of other delegates, presented major risks to the security of the United States that they launched a full-scale investigation, according to sources familiar with the government inquiry. So concerned were the officials about possible security breaches within the arms-control delegation that they enlisted the aid of the Central Intelligence Agency. The biggest worry was that some women who dated members of the U.S. delegation were operatives for hostile intelligence services, but no hard evidence has ever surfaced linking any of them to Tower.

The findings of the Geneva investigation, though inconclusive, are now being reviewed by the Senate Armed Services Committee. It has delayed a confirmation vote on Tower, President Bush's Defense Secretary-designate, for at least another week. The committee is awaiting the results of an FBI investigation into financial matters involving a Tower aide, and committee Chairman Sam Nunn (D-Ga.) has said he is concerned about whether Tower may have a drinking problem. Nunn has cautioned that rumors and allegations about Tower's time in Geneva have not been corroborated and that there is no known evidence that Tower was involved in any security breaches. Allegations about some delegates' loose social life in Geneva, which prompted the security investigation, had been known. It had not previously been disclosed, however, that the conduct of some U.S. officials in Geneva had created such concern as to warrant an investigation by the CIA. Bush has said he continues to support Tower, and spokesmen say that Tower did nothing in Geneva to justify concerns that he was a security risk.

Spy heaven. There are indications, however, that security was a serious problem for the U.S. delegation. Geneva is regarded as one of the most active intelligence-gathering areas in the world. And using female agents, known as "swallows," to entrap officials is a familiar, and often successful, Soviet espionage technique. "The investigators were able to determine that there were KGB swallows working the [U.S.] delegation," says an American official familiar with the inquiry, adding that some of the delegates made little effort to avoid them.

According to government records obtained by U.S. News, security officials were concerned about "upgraded infiltration efforts by the Soviets" in Geneva. Sources say investigators became suspicious of KGB penetration after learning that some delegates' female companions frequently traveled to Soviet-bloc countries. The officials investigated and established that some of the women were indeed intelligence agents.

The records of the investigation, which was conducted by officials of the CIA, the Defense Department and the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and headed by an ACDA security officer named Berne Indahl, show that "the social atmosphere in Geneva was very lax." Contacted at his current posting, in the Ivory Coast, Indahl refused to discuss the inquiry.

The records, many of which are based on uncorroborated statements of U.S. employes, detail "14 extramarital relationships" within the U.S. delegation, some with foreign-national females. Investigators also discovered that delegation members frequently visited the Pickwick Pub and Jimmy's Bar, "both known KGB hangouts," according to the documents. One employe, whose identity is not disclosed in the records, described a "well-known" beer bash at the Pickwick, an English-style pub two blocks from the delegation's headquarters, "where certain delegation members and support personnel got smashed with the Marines." Some of the party activities "were so disgusting," the employe is quoted as saying, that "certain people drank from a delegation member's shoe and several delegation personnel became very sick from drinking too much." The employe added that "as a whole, there was too much alcohol in [an] official capacity."

Soviet bar tabs. The security investigation discovered evidence of other potential problems, including sloppy handling of top-secret documents by delegation personnel, but the chief concerns seem to have centered on risks posed by delegates' social activities. Investigators were told of a number of incidents of Soviets "hitting hard" on U.S. delegation secretaries at Jimmy's, a basement nightclub in the lake-front Noga Hilton Hotel. And while visiting the Pickwick, the investigators were approached by a Soviet "who bought 10 beers for them" when an agent mentioned that he was connected with the U.S. delegation. Although these approaches were often clumsy and obvious, the investigative records conclude, "they were a constant." ■

[redacted] Corpus Christi, Texas, after being advised of the official identity of the interviewing Agent and the purpose of the interview, provided the following information:

[redacted] advised she had known Senator JOHN TOWER for many years, and during that time, she has been with him when he has consumed what she feels is a large quantity of alcohol. [redacted] advised that even on these occasions, Senator TOWER was able to carry on a lucid conversation and also able to make clear judgments. The last time she saw Senator TOWER drinking was during the fall of 1988 when she, [redacted] and Senator TOWER met at the LA MADELON, an establishment in Dallas, Texas, and had drinks and dinner. Senator TOWER had many drinks and occasionally slurred his words. [redacted] stated that although the conversation was light in nature, she remembers someone asking JOHN TOWER a political question, and he gave a very intelligent response as though he had not been drinking. [redacted] advised she could not remember any other specific times when she was with Senator TOWER when he was drinking, although there were other occasions. [redacted] also stated she has heard rumors of Senator TOWER's alleged womanizing but has no firsthand knowledge regarding that activity.

[redacted] advised that [redacted] a Corpus Christi, Texas resident, is an associate of Senator TOWER and may have firsthand knowledge of Senator TOWER's personal habits.

[redacted] advised she felt that if Senator TOWER were to be Secretary of Defense, he could possibly make a mistake in judgment if he was drinking, but this could occur with anyone, and she has no prior experience with Senator TOWER to base this opinion on. [redacted] advised that she has been with Senator TOWER when he talked about politics, but he has never divulged any classified information. [redacted] advised that Senator TOWER is a very loyal man [illegible]

[redacted] Tucson, Arizona 85718, advised that he has been employed as a Pilot with AMERICAN AIRLINES for [redacted] years. [redacted] further advised that he flys in the position of Captain on domestic flights and in the position of Co-pilot (1st Officer) on international flights. [redacted] stated that an in-flight log book which he personally owns and maintains reflected that he was the Co-pilot (1st Officer) on AMERICAN AIRLINES flight number 79, from Gatwick Airport, London, to Dallas-Fort Worth, Texas Airport on September 3, 1987. His in-flight log book also reflected that [redacted] was Captain of the flight and [redacted] was the Flight Engineer. [redacted] did not know nor did he have a record of who the flight attendants or any of the passengers were.

[redacted] recalled that at some point during AMERICAN AIRLINES flight number 99, he had been told by one of the flight attendants that Senator JOHN TOWER was a passenger on the flight. Approximately 4-6 hours into the log 10 hour flight, [redacted] decided to walk through the airplane to the galley to stretch his legs. As he walked through the First Class Section of the aircraft, he believed he observed an individual who looked like Senator JOHN TOWER, sleeping in a seat on the right hand side of the airplane. The cabin was dark because all the plastic slides which cover the windows had been closed so that passengers could sleep or watch movies if they do desire. [redacted] recalled that he did not see any alcoholic beverage or even any glasses on the table in front of Senator JOHN TOWER. [redacted] had no idea which flight attendants served the Senator and did not remember even seeing another individual sitting next to TOWER.

[redacted] stated that this brief observation of an individual resembling TOWER during the flight was the only time he possibly saw the Senator and he did not see or hear anything regarding TOWER during the remainder of the flight.

[redacted] advised he had no idea whether or not TOWER was drinking alcoholic beverages during the flight nor did he have any information regarding TOWER's behavior during the trip.

Dear [redacted]

On February 6, 1989, I wrote to you concerning problems the Committee had encountered in obtaining files on [redacted] particularly a file maintained by the Office of Personnel Management. At that time, I asked that the FBI determine who at OPM was responsible for the initial failure to provide the file in January in response to our request and whether there was tampering with the file. It is also important that the FBI determine why the attached document from the OPM file, entitled "Memorandum to Office of Special Investigations, USAF" was not provided to the Committee in response to its initial request, and was apparently not provided to the FBI until a request was initiated by this Committee in February.

We were advised today by the Air Force that this material was not in the OSI file, and that the Air Force personnel connected with the [redacted] inquiry had never seen it before. This leaves open questions as to the origin of the document, the reasons it was not included in the OSI file, and the circumstances under which it was obtained and considered by OPM. These are questions that are likely to be asked as we proceed with consideration of this nomination. Therefore, I urge you to ensure that we receive a thorough and timely explanation of these matters.

Sincerely,

Sam Nunn

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agents (SAs) [redacted] and [redacted] at the [redacted] in Refugio, Texas on February 17, 1989: b6 b7C

LAWRENCE WOOD advised he has known JOHN TOWER in excess of twenty years, having met him when JOHN TOWER first ran for the United States Senate. WOOD advised he does not feel JOHN TOWER has an alcohol problem. WOOD stated JOHN TOWER overcame whatever alcohol problem he had in 1980 when his second wife, LILA, made him promise to give up "spirits" (as LILA TOWER called it). JOHN TOWER did, and switched to wine. WOOD stated he has only seen JOHN TOWER drink wine since that time.

WOOD advised he last saw JOHN TOWER drink about four to five months ago prior to the general election. They were at the LA MANSION in Dallas, Texas, and JOHN TOWER had one drink of white wine at that time. Afterward, JOHN TOWER drove the Mr. and Mrs. WOOD back to their hotel and was never intoxicated during the evening.

WOOD advised that he was also with JOHN TOWER at the Paris air show and also in Washington and Geneva when JOHN TOWER was drinking, but it was only wine, and JOHN TOWER was never intoxicated. WOOD stated that [redacted] had told him that in Geneva during the Arms negotiations, JOHN TOWER never drank on duty. Also, he never divulged any classified information, and on the contrary, was very guarded about the aspect of his work.

WOOD advised that JOHN TOWER's ability to make correct judgments would not be affected by his current drinking habits. By "current", WOOD meant "since 1980".

WOOD advised that he knows of no "womanizing" by JOHN TOWER and has only known him to be with his first two wives [redacted] WOOD advised he has no hearsay information to report regarding this.

WOOD advised that he was Chairman of the Board of MERCANTILE BANK in San Antonio, Texas a number of years ago [redacted], JOHN TOWER approached him to make a loan for JOHN TOWER. WOOD advised he told this person to contact the Loan Department and proceed through normal channels as everyone else did. WOOD did this specifically to avoid any appearance of illegality. The loan was made at the going rate, and he only reviewed it after it was made. WOOD advised it was paid off early.

WOOD advised he has not been a financial advisor to JOHN TOWER, but has donated the legal amount to his campaigns.

WOOD knows of no occasion when JOHN TOWER was hospitalized to "dry out", and this was the first time he has heard of this allegation. WOOD advised he has never paid JOHN TOWER's bill for this type of treatment.

The following information was provided by a person hereinafter referred to as WF T-1 or "he" who requested that his identity remain confidential and not be disclosed outside the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI). For convenience, the source may be referred to as "he" where appropriate; no inference regarding the sex of the source may be made from this usage.

He was asked by the interviewing agent whether he had placed a call to a member of Congress or a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, or someone at the White House asking them if they had been made privy to the information that he had provided to the FBI, during the investigation, of JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. He immediately asked the investigating agent why he was being contacted, regarding a phone call. He was then told that FBI Headquarters had received a call from someone at the White House, stating that WF T-1 had called a Senator and asked them if they had received the information, that he had provided, to the FBI.

He responded that it was "absurd". He never made that call, "and anyway it is none of our business who he calls and why." He went on to advise that he was "damn angry that his name had been dragged through the mud by the White House." WF T-1 stated that he "does not trust the people in the White House." He further stated that he did not believe a call was made from a Senator, and demanded the source of the phone call. He was advised that the source could not be made public to him.

WF T-1 went on to state that JOHN TOWER, Secretary of Defense-Designate, was bringing his former wife to the inauguration. He was doing this specifically to "show BUSH and everyone else that he was a family man."

WF T-1 then went on to say that the agent's call to him and the call to the White House and FBIHQ was "shocking and very irregular." Once again he demanded the source of the phone call, and once again it was denied. He then advised that he would sue the interviewing agent, his boss, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, if his name was made public. He advised that "he is tired of getting the short end of the stick."

Once again the interviewing agent advised that the call was made to determine whether he had indeed contacted a Senator, or anybody in the Senate Armed Services Committee, under the premise of wanting to make them privy to the information that he had previously provided to the FBI, absent his identity. He was told that the only way this information, including his identity, could be made privy to the Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman and the Chief Minority Leader, would be if he specifically gave the Federal Bureau of Investigation permission to release his statements, with his name on it.

WF T-1 again stated he never made that call and would "call anyone he damn well pleased." Again he requested the identity of the Senator or the staff member who made the call. Again the request was denied and he was told he would have to go through normal Freedom of Information Act channels.

WF T-1 then advised that he was made aware that JOHN TOWER recently checked into a hotel in Dallas, under an assumed name to have some surgery done. He wanted to know what name he used, and if it was the same name that he told us he was using when he was abroad.

WF T-1 was advised that we were aware of the fact that TOWER had checked into a hotel, under an assumed name, and we were "looking into the matter." WF T-1 then advised that we (the FBI) are "dealing with a man with a barren mind, whose judgment is impaired on a permanent basis. This is because of his alcohol consumption."

WF T-1 again stated that he never made a call and would talk to anyone he pleased. Once again he "officially requested the source" of the phone call. Once again it was declined.

WF T-1 then stated that the interviewing agent took for granted that the call from the White House, if there was such a call, came in good faith. He stated that "you, (the interviewing agent) are being used by the White House or FBIHQ or the Senate to get the information."

Again he "officially" requested the source of the information and was declined. WF T-1 was then told once again that he would have to go through the official channels of the Freedom of Information Act, to get the source. He then stated that he should not have to go through "the goddamn channels to get that information", after he cooperated with us. At that point I gave him the phone number of [redacted] the Supervisor of the SPIN Squad, at the Washington Field Office. b6 b7C

After he was given that information, he stated that he "had enough," and then he began asking the interviewing agent questions. He wanted to know how many people we talked to, how many people we contacted, and how many other people requested confidentiality. The interviewing agent refused to comment on any of these questions, and at that time, terminated the interview.

For convenience, the source may be referred to as "she" where appropriate; no inference regarding the sex of the source may be made from this usage.

She advised that she did have information, of a personal nature, regarding TOWER. Due to her position, she was hesitant to provide that information. The situation involved something that happened to her several years ago and she was concerned about the impact the situation may have on others associated with her.

WF T-18 went on to characterize the appointee as "a slime ball, a cretin and cheap." She stated that everyone knows about his character, and that even the Senators know about him. She and a friend were at a party recently and everyone was telling "TOWER stories." Everyone was laughing and joking about the situation. A friend of her's, whose identity she would not reveal, told a story about TOWER playing "grab ass" with a woman in the Senate elevator.

WF T-18 went on to state that several people were familiar with the situation regarding her and TOWER, including several Senators, but at this time she did not want to provide that information to the interviewing agents. She was requested to contact the Federal Bureau of Investigation should she desire to provide her information. WF T-18 provided no other pertinent information.

He believes the appointee to be a "smart politician" as well as a "smart one-on-one negotiator", additionally characterizing the appointee as " very professional, a quick study." When asked to comment on the appointee's reputation during the START negotiations, he advised that the appointee was "universally well respected, admired."

When asked as to whether he was aware of any work-related problems experienced by the appointee, he mentioned that there were occasionally minor disagreements between negotiating groups, centered around how to put the best foot forward during the negotiations, mentioning that these matters were always resolved in a timely fashion and that they were not personal in nature.

He believes the appointee to be emotionally stable and is unaware of any mental incapacities suffered by the appointee, to include depression.

Investigation on 2/14 & 17/89 at Arlington, Virginia File # WMFO 161A-19411

He has never known the appointee to use or sell drugs of abuse.

He is unaware of any foreign contacts of the appointee which would be considered unusual in any kind of a national security sense, characterizing all of the appointee's contacts, to his knowledge, with the Soviet Delegation at START to be professional in nature.

Regarding allegations of womanizing by the appointee in Geneva, he advised "that just did not happen," going on to relate that he had personally spent the better part of 16 hours per day, weekdays as well as weekends, with the appointee during the START negotiations, mentioning of the appointee "he was always on top of what he was susposed to be doing." He advised that during the fourth round of the negotiations, at his own expense, the appointee brought [redacted] over successively, to serve as his "social companion" or "affiliate," in that Mrs. LILLA CUMMINGS TOWER had not accompanied her husband during that round. He speculated that as one or both of [redacted] accompanied the appointee to several social gatherings and receptions, to those who might not have known the appointee's [redacted] the observation that he was out with young women might naturally occur. He noted that he learned during the fourth round of negotiations that the appointee was separated from Mrs TOWER, but stipulated that the appointee "wasn't dating or womanizing," rather characterizing him as "celibate".

When asked as to whether he was aware of any instances of sexual harassment during the START negotiations, he related that the only instance of this kind which comes to mind was the matter involving [redacted] and [redacted] It was his understanding that the two had had a good working relationship, that being the basis for [redacted] invitation for [redacted] to attend the START negotiations [redacted] He surmises that "something he [redacted] did made her angry (as) she went after him with everything she could think of." He does not recall the appointee ever having escorted either of these two women to any social activities, although mentioning that as automobiles were at a premium in Geneva, many times various of the appointee's staff were transported with the appointee during the Accords. He iterated that the appointee brought over [redacted] at his own expense, the [redacted] for a period of three to four weeks, and the [redacted] for a period of about three weeks, the two sharing a one or two week over lap, to serve as his female companion(s) to various receptions, Congressional as well as with the Soviets. When asked as to whether he had any recollection of a flood in the basement of either of the appointee's residences in Geneva, he responded that the only flood that he has any knowledge of was in the basement of the appointee's Washington, D.C., home on Kalorama Circle, in the summer of 1985. He noted that he was the appointee's Military Assistant at the time and had helped the appointee, his wife, and a male friend of the appointee's wife, in an effort to save memorabilia damaged by the flood, which was the result of leaves clogging the home's drainage system.

He noted that Geneva was a "pretty stressful environment (requiring) long hours, (in a) fish bowl environment" advising that "pressure like a steam cooker would build". He related that the poker games relieved much of that stress and that they were of the "nickel, dime, quarter" variety. He noted that the counting of the cards was a mental exercise for the appointee and that he was "very much more sober than any one else at the game." He added that visiting Congressmen, as well as their staffs, participated in these games.

He knows of no criminal activity in the appointee's past nor of any aspect of the appointee's past that would render him susceptible to the any kind of a coercive effort.

When asked as to whether he was in a position to comment upon the appointee's interaction with his own family, he characterized as "excellent" the appointee's relationship with [redacted] going on to mention that "his second wife is an absolute liability". JOHN G. TOWER was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents and of the fact that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had questions to ask in connection with the background investigation being conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of TOWER.

At the outset of the interview, TOWER furnished the interviewing agents with one copy each of three letters dated May 27, 1986, May 28, 1987, and May 16, 1988. Each letter is on the stationery of British Aerospace, Incorporated. In addition, TOWER provided one copy of a letter from TOWER to the President of British Aerospace, Incorporated dated December 16, 1988. TOWER advised that these are copies of his agreement with British Aerospace, Incorporated and a copy of his resignation from any relationship he may have had with that company.

TOWER was asked to explain his relationship with a company known as Micronics, and to state any payments, stock options, or fees which he may have received from them. TOWER advised that he has made a number of public presentations for this company on the subject of computer security. He explained that Micronics is a young, Texas based company which makes a product involving the security of smaller computers. He advised that he made a speech approximately four or five times to a gathering of potential customers for this company. In each case, he spoke from a script provided by the company, and spoke about the need for computer security in general, the need for computer security which could be fulfilled by the product made by Micronics in particular, and gave examples of what can happen when a company does not have proper security on his computer. TOWER stated that he was not working for this company particularly for the money, since he took a very low payment for each speech, about $1,000 each. He noted that he asks and receives $10,000 for making a speech at a college. However, since this was a young Texas company, he agreed to take $1,000 for each speech and also received an option to purchase 5,000 shares of the company stock at $3 per share. He stated that this stock option was recently sold for a profit of $7,500 and the proceeds were placed in TOWER's account January 25, 1989. He advised that all of the above details have previously been furnished to the General Counsel of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He further noted that this company is not a direct contractor to the Department of Defense, but rather is a subcontractor, one which sells its product to a company which is a Department of Defense contractor.

In response to a direct question, TOWER stated that he did know Mr. HILLARY SANDOVAL, who died a number of years ago. He stated that he also has known [redacted] for many years also. TOWER was advised that an allegation had been made that SANDOVAL, as head of the Small Business Administration, had arranged for a loan to [redacted] in the amount of $350,000. Shortly after receiving this loan, [redacted] is said to have loaned $250,000 to TOWER's election campaign. TOWER advised that he has absolutely no knowledge of the Small Business Administration making a loan to [redacted] and does not know anything about [redacted] having made a $250,000 loan to his election campaign. TOWER stated that it would be highly unusual for his campaign to have borrowed money from an individual. He advised that if the campaign needed money, it would borrow the money through a commercial bank against future contributions to be received by the campaign. In other instances, the loan from the bank would be underwritten by wealthy campaign contributors. But in either case, the loan would be from a bank, rather than from the individuals. Having become aware of this allegation prior to this interview, TOWER called [redacted] who formerly worked as [redacted] for TOWER's 1972 election campaign. [redacted] advised TOWER that [redacted] does not recall any loan in the amount of $250,000 from [redacted] TOWER stated that he, TOWER, cannot provide any additional information concerning this allegation.

TOWER was advised that an allegation had been made that a group known as the Independent Oil Producers and Drillers Association, Wichita Falls, Texas made a contribution to TOWER's election campaign in the amount of $15,000 during 1972. TOWER advised that he has never heard of an organization known as the Independent Oil Producers and Drillers Associations. He speculated that the group in question is probably the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owner's, a trade organization of independent operators. He described this as a perfectly legitimate organization, one which has been in business for many years. TOWER advised that he does not specifically recall any contributions made by TIPRO. Any contributions given to the re-election campaign would have been accepted by the finance committee of that campaign. TOWER believes that it is and and was the responsibility of that finance committee to judge the legality of any contributions which it accepts. TOWER stated that, over the many years he has run election campaigns, he has always stayed away from handling contributions and campaign financing, leaving that responsibility to the finance group. He explained that, in the early days, the group handling such matters would have been a finance committee within the election campaign. In recent years, however, such matters would have been handled by a private organization which has as its business the raising of campaign finances for a committee. In addition, TOWER stated that he believes that, at the time the alleged donation was said to have been made, it would have been perfectly proper for a trade association to give any amount of money to a campaign, just as a political action committee could have given any amount of money in those days. In any case whatsoever, TOWER does not recall any information concerning a contribution from either the Independent Oil Producers and Drillers Association or even the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners.

TOWER was advised that an allegation had been made concerning Southern Airways of Texas, a company which had a contract for flight training at Fort Walters, Texas during 1972. The allegation states that employees of this organization were required to have $100 or $150 deducted from their pay and that the money was donated to TOWER for his 1972 election campaign. TOWER advised that he has absolutely no information about this matter. He stated that, if such a thing happened, it may have been done by the local finance committee for his election campaign but was done without his knowledge or his permission. He referred to his previous comments concerning the fact that financing a campaign was handled by the finance committee and was not handled by TOWER himself. He stated that his only relationship to campaign financing would have been to attend and give speeches at campaign dinners and fundraisers. Had someone tried to come up to TOWER and hand him some money, he would, without any doubt, have referred that individual to a member of the campaign finance committee. He explained that these were his procedures, but repeated that he has absolutely no information concerning this allegation.

In response to a direct question, TOWER advised that he does not know anyone named [redacted] and does not recall meeting any such person in connection with United Technologies. However, he certainly does know VINNIE PROTHRO. TOWER has known the PROTHRO family for many years and noted that TOWER's father, a minister, was minister to PROTHRO's parents years ago. In addition, "VIN" PROTHRO has [redacted] who is TOWER's [redacted] in Wichita Falls, Texas. He advised, however, that he does not have any information concerning the collection of funds from individuals employed by United Technologies, and does not ever recall receiving any money in any amount from either [redacted] or PROTHRO. Since he has known the PROTHRO for so many years he would not be at all surprised if VINNIE PROTHRO or one of his immediate family members was involved in TOWER's campaign or campaign financing. In addition, TOWER noted that, for the 1983 campaign, all fundraising would have been the responsibility of a professional fundraising corporation. TOWER stated that he, himself, would not have handled any money, any dinner tickets, or any other details involving a fundraising social function or involving campaign finances. TOWER repeated that he does not have any information concerning this allegation.

In response to a direct question, TOWER advised that he did, in fact, write a letter in support of [redacted] When asked for the circumstances surrounding his having written this letter, TOWER advised that questions had been raised concering [redacted] in Geneva, Switzerland. TOWER stated that he does not specifically recall whether or nor a request was made of TOWER to write such a letter. He speculated that [redacted] may have asked TOWER to write such letter. In any case, TOWER advised that he wrote this letter willingly and without any conditions being placed upon him. TOWER stated that he is fully aware of the allegation that [redacted] TOWER stated that [redacted] could not have done so primarily because there was nothing with which he could have [redacted] In addition, had anyone ever tried to [redacted] TOWER stated that he would have gone directly to the proper authorities. TOWER never saw any indication that [redacted]

TOWER was asked whether he was aware of [redacted] concerning the delegation or its work. In addition, TOWER was asked whether he had ever directed [redacted] such information. TOWER responded in the negative to both questions, stating that he has no information concerning [redacted] and TOWER never made a request to [redacted] to do so. TOWER noted that [redacted] and stated that he, TOWER, would not have authority to order [redacted] to take any such action.

TOWER advised that he does not specifically recall any former employee by the name of [redacted] Whether or not he ever had such an employee during the mid to late 70's, TOWER stated that he absolutely never had any sexual relationship with anyone named [redacted] He never [redacted] including anyone named [redacted] TOWER later called the interviewing agent and advised that he had checked with his [redacted] and his [redacted] Each advised that she did not recall any former employee of TOWER's [redacted] named [redacted]

When asked whether he ever kept any mistresses while he was employed in Geneva, Switzerland, TOWER stated that he definitely never did keep any mistresses. He is well aware of allegations that he kept [redacted] as mistresses and had a sexual relationship with one or both of them. He stated that these allegations are absolutely false. In response to a direct question, TOWER stated that he could not think of any actions on his part which might honestly have been misinterpreted by others to indicate that he was having a relationship with either or both of [redacted] In addition, he never paid for their room or lodging. The only instance he recalls having visited the room of either of [redacted] was once at the end of the particular round of talks. TOWER and [redacted] visited the hotel room where [redacted] lived for a social gathering.

TOWER was asked to describe the circumstances surrounding the hiring of one of [redacted] and to describe her duties while in Geneva, Switzerland. TOWER advised that [redacted] was hired as a [redacted] during [redacted] while TOWER was still a member of the United States Senate. She was hired by TOWER's [redacted] He advised that the appointee was hired as a [redacted] but [redacted]

b7C

[redacted] At the request and suggestion of another individual, TOWER kept [redacted] on the payroll after TOWER left the United States Senate because he found her to be very well organized and highly efficient in handling the office responsibilities. In Geneva, [redacted] performed a wide range of functions including that of "sort of a gofer". The [redacted] in Geneva, [redacted] was used primarly as the [redacted] TOWER described [redacted] as a very professional [redacted] one who has come to make a very high salary within the government based upon her ability and skill. While [redacted] was utilized by TOWER as an [redacted] which TOWER has always undertaken. She did some [redacted] but was utilized mostly because of her ability to efficiently handle a large number of details. In fact, TOWER placed [redacted] in complete charge of each of the moves which TOWER has made over the years, from the Senate to private life, from private life to Geneva, Switzerland from Geneva, back to Washington, D.C. and most recently from private life to Secretary of Defense. TOWER advised that [redacted] responsibilities within the office, and that one activity should not be used to judge her effectiveness or benefit to the office.

TOWER was advised that an allegation has been made that he utilized a suite in the officer's club at the Naval base, Corpus Christi, Texas, for illicit purposes. TOWER advised that he does not ever recall having been in the officer's club at the Naval base, Corpus Christi, Texas. If he was ever within this club at all, it would have been in connection with his official duties as the Senator from the state of Texas and would have been a reception, meeting, or some other official function. However, he does not recall ever having done so. He did recall having been in the Non-Commissioned Officer's Club on that Naval base, since he took initiation into the Naval Reserves at that club. In any case, he has never utilized any rooms or suites at either club for illicit or illegal purposes.

In response to a direct question, TOWER stated that he certainly does know LAWRENCE WOODS, of Corpus Christi, Texas. TOWER was advised that an allegation has been made that WOODS paid for a one month stay by TOWER in a detoxification center, a stay which is said to have taken place approximately 1980. TOWER advised that he has never been in any detoxification facility of any kind at any time. In addition, he has never taken any lengthy stay or vacation which was paid for him by [redacted] He did advise, however, that he has visited [redacted] home with the second Mrs. TOWER on one occasion and recalls having stayed there alone once also. In both cases, his stay at the house would have been one or two nights.

TOWER was advised that an allegation has been made concerning his consumption of alcohol on the flight number 79 from Gatwick Airport, London, England to Dallas, Texas on September 3, 1987. TOWER stated that he "never consumed an inordinate amount of alcohol on any flight." He advised that [redacted] b6 b7C details of his various flights have already been provided by [redacted] to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. From memory, however, TOWER stated that he recalls having flown from Karachi, Pakistan to London during late August, 1987. He flew from London to Zurich, Switzerland, from Zurich back to London, and finally from London to Dallas, Texas. He believes that he was accompanied both from Zurich to London and from London to Dallas (on the particular flight in question) by his former [redacted] He cannot be absolutely certain of this fact, but he believes it is true. TOWER advised that he does not ever drink any more than a glass or two of wine with a meal on an airplane. On a flight such as the flight from London to Dallas, he usually has a little lunch, and then goes to sleep. When asked whether or not he ever drinks vodka on air flights in general, and whether he had any vodka on that flight in particular, TOWER stated that the only time he ever drinks vodka is when it is served with caviar. When it is served with caviar, it is served in a very small glass. Concerning his use of champagne, TOWER stated that he does not drink more than one or two glasses, since more than that upsets his stomach. He advised that he does not specifically recall drinking vodka or champagne on that flight in question. In response to a direct question, TOWER stated that he does not recall having had a female traveling companion on that particular trip, or having met a female traveling campanion during that trip. TOWER explaiend that he usually flies American Airlines whenever he can, and because of this fact, the airline leaves the seat next to him empty whenever they can.

TOWER was advised that an allegation has been made that he consumed too large a quantity of alcohol and was slurring his words while having a dinner during the Fall of 1988 with [redacted] [redacted] He was asked whether or not he recalled such a dinner and whether he recalled how much alcohol he consumed. TOWER immediately made a telephone call after which he advised that he did, in fact, have lunch at the Yacht Club in Corpus Christi, Texas with [redacted] and [redacted] [redacted] TOWER advised that he, himself, had one and one half glasses of wine and one glass of iced tea during that meal. He advised that he does not recall the specific quantity of wine consumed by the group as a whole. He is certain that he did not consume any more wine than stated above, because both he and [redacted] [redacted] were scheduled to catch a plane back to Dallas, Texas that afternoon. He advised that they did fly back to Dallas that afternoon, and he is certain he did not consume any excess amount of alcohol during that meal. He speculated that the group of four people having lunch probably did not consume more than one bottle of wine.

TOWER was asked whether or not he ever drank alcohol to excess during either the election campaign or the Republican National Convention, 1988. TOWER stated that he does not believe he drank alcohol to excess during these times. He explained that, when he has work to do, he never drinks at all. He explained that these were very busy and difficult times and he does not believe that he ever consumed alcohol to excess. He believes that this fact can be verified through interview of people who were active in the campaign and convention, including [redacted] and [redacted] [redacted]

TOWER was asked whether or not he was familiar with an allegation that a particular Defense Contractor had made payments to a Defense Consultant in order to influence TOWER. In addition, TOWER was asked whether he has ever received payments from a Defense Consultant for information or services. TOWER advised that he is very familiar with the Defense Consultant in question, and has already been asked during a prior interview by the Federal Bureau of Investigation about the Defense Contractor. TOWER advised that he does not ever recall meeting this Defense Contractor. TOWER advised that he has never, ever promised to do anything in exchange for a campaign contribution or other financial gain. Specifically, he never did receive any payment from the Defense Consultant in this particular allegation. Doing so would be completely against TOWER's sense of ethics. TOWER advised that, based upon his personal knowledge of this Defense Consultant, he doubts very much whether the Consultant ever accepted money from the Contractor, but in any case TOWER never did receive any money from this Consultant for any purpose whatsoever.

TOWER was advised that an allegation has been made that he was ejected from his house in Geneva, Switzerland by Mrs. TOWER becasue he was keeping a mistress. TOWER advised there is absolutely no truth to the accusation that he was thrown out of his house, and there is no truth to the accusation that he kept a mistress in Geneva, Switzerland. TOWER advised that, to understand what happened in Geneva during February, 1986, it is necessary to have some background concerning the relationship with he and Mrs. TOWER. He stated that when he returned from Geneva at the end of the third round of talks, approximately November 9 or 10, 1985, he decided that he needed to separate permanently from Mrs. TOWER. He explained that he found her to be verbally abusive and humiliating to TOWER. As a result, he left his residence with Mrs. TOWER here in Washington on November 11, 1985. Although they subsequently made efforts to reconcile, it was later accepted by both parties that the November 11, 1985 date was the effective date of their having separated. TOWER returned to Geneva, Switzerland during January, 1986 to begin the fourth round of talks. This round was due to end during late February, 1986 and he agreed with Mrs. TOWER that she could return to Geneva at the end of the fourth round in order to help divide and pack the family furniture which was maintained at Geneva. He advised, however, that Mrs. TOWER arrived completely unannounced and unwelcomed on February 6, 1986 and took up residence in the home where TOWER and [redacted] had been residing, a place they referred to "the villa". Later that day, TOWER returned to this home, packed his personal belongings and he and [redacted] left that residence that very afternoon. For about two days, TOWER stayed in a hotel and [redacted] stayed with TOWER's [redacted] Meanwhile, TOWER's [redacted] arrived in Geneva to stay with [redacted] On February 13, 1986, TOWER and [redacted] took up residence in an apartment used by one of the individuals who would not be present in Geneva for this round of talks. He stated that the above are the facts surrounding his having left the villa which was occupied by Mrs. TOWER. He never was thrown out of this house, it was his house to begin with and he left on his own accord. He denied, as stated previously, that he has ever kept or maintained a mistress in Geneva, Switzerland. Finally, he advised that none of these happenings had anything to do with his later resignation.

TOWER was asked whether or not he recalls returning home to his residence in Turtle Creek, Dallas, Texas in an inebriated condition within the last two years. TOWER responded in the negative, stating he has never returned to his residence in Turtle Creek in an inebriated condition within the last two years. TOWER was asked whether or not he recalls having returned to his residence in an inebriated condition and having found himself locked out of his apartment. He stated that he definitely recalls having returned to his home and finding himself locked out, but he denied being in an inebriated condition at the time. He explained that he was returning from a campaign trip at approxiamtely 12:00 midnight or 1:00 a.m. in the morning. At that time, he found that he did not have his house key. He stated that he went to the area of the lounge where he waited for the building superintendent, who was said to arrive at 4:00 a.m. or 5:00 a.m. each morning. TOWER stated that he clearly recalls this incident and clearly recalls that he was not in any condition which could be interpreted as inebriated. He recalled that he had flown in a short time earlier from a campaign trip, possibly to southern Texas. He stated that he came home directly from the airport and made no stops on the way. When asked whether or not he had consumed any alcohol on this plane trip, he stated that he may have had "a couple" of glasses of wine on the plane trip. When pressed for the number of glasses of wine he had on that occasion, TOWER stated that it was probably one or two, maybe even three. When advised that the allegation in question indicated that he needed to be assisted to the area of the swimming pool in order to wait for the manager to arrive with his key, TOWER stated that the lounge mentioned above is immediately adjacent to the swimming pool. In addition, he stated that he definitely did not need any assistance in getting to the area of the lounge, and was perfectly capable of traveling to the lounge on his own. He again denied having had too much alcohol to drink on that occasion. TOWER stated that he could not attempt to guess at the date when this might have occurred, but stated that he believes it would have been during warm weather.

As [redacted] of NAVAL AIR STATION, Corpus Christi from [redacted] there were only two or three occasions that can be recalled where Senator JOHN TOWER was met. One was when the namesake, "Corpus Christi" submarine was visiting the base and another was an honorary ceremony where the Senator was promoted to Master Chief in the Naval Reserves. He may have also given a talk at the Chief's Club at one time. On these occasions, the contact was of a professional nature and there is no knowledge of the Senator on a social level.

There is no recollection of the Senator ever having visited the Officer's Club. Had he ever been there, it would have been known at the Commander's Office. On those few occasions that he came to the base, it was not without a great deal of planning and preparation. The Senator was always highly thought of and had a good reputation at the base. At no time did knowledge of alcohol consumption by the Senator become an issue, nor is there any personal knowledge that he ever consumed alcoholic beverages while there. Based on this limited knowledge of the Senator, there were never reasons to question his use of alcoholic beverages or to question his personal integrity.

In addition, on February 16, 1989, an anonymous letter was received by the FBI alleging that in the early 1970's Senator Tower took a female congressional staffer home and attacked her; however, the woman fought him off. The letter named two individuals who allegedly possessed additional information concerning this incident. This letter was addressed to Jack Anderson and a copy was addressed to Senator Sam Nunn.

[redacted] New York, New York, advised that from October, 1971 to April, 1974, she was a [redacted] for the [redacted] and was stationed in Washington, D.C. As a [redacted] she came into contact with Senator Tower professionally on many occasions and, on one occasion, she [redacted] Tower. She advised that she never met him on a social basis. [redacted] advised that in the 1970's, Senator Tower had a reputation as a "womanizer" but she knew of no specific instances where Senator Tower made immoral advances to anyone, including herself or any congressional aides.

An individual,[2] who requested confidentiality, advised that he/she had never heard of an incident where Senator Tower took a female Congressional staffer home and attacked her. He/she is aware that in late 1971 or early 1972, Senator Tower constantly telephoned [redacted] and asked her for a date. Other than the persistence of his calls, he/she was not aware of anything offensive concerning their content. He/she had no other personal knowledge of womanizing or excessive drinking by Senator Tower.

2. Page 12 of the summary memorandum dated February 8, 1989, sets forth allegation 5, entitled "A lobbying firm rented a hotel room during 1969 until 1970 for Senator Tower which he utilized to meet with prostitutes and to conduct 'job interviews' with prospective secretaries, and that Senator Tower was found inebriated in the room."

[redacted] Washington, D.C., advised that from [redacted] he was employed as [redacted] for the United States Savings and Loan League (USSLL). He stated that he and a [redacted] named Glenn Troop, who is now deceased, knew many Congressmen including Senator Tower. discuss politics over lunch. [redacted] stated that the Club leased a dining room area in the hotel and members ate lunch there during the week. He advised that meals were prepared by the hotel and were charged to the individual members. The USSLL had an account with the hotel and received a monthly bill for all meals purchased by USSLL employees at the Club. [redacted] stated that at no time during the USSLL's membership in the Club did Senator Tower or any other Congressman have account signing privileges with the USSLL. [redacted] added that at no time did the USSLL rent a room at the hotel for Senator Tower's use or for any other purpose. The Club disbanded following unfavorable publicity it received regarding a former member, as members later formed another club at a different location.

He advised that he definitely never arranged a meeting between Senator Tower and any woman and he never procured the services of a prostitute on behalf of Senator Tower or any other Congressman. [redacted] also stated he does not recall ever requesting an employee of the USSLL to telephone a female with instructions to meet someone at the Carroll Arms Hotel. He added that, in no instance, did he ever send women to Senator Tower's office who were interested in employment or sexual liaisons. [redacted] also stated he has never heard of [redacted] [redacted] United States League of Savings Institution (formerly the USSLL), stated that from 1959 to 1968, she worked as [redacted] for the chief USSLL Lobbyist, Glenn Troop, who is now deceased. [redacted] also stated that she had no knowledge of either Mr. Troop or [redacted] arranging or asking anyone to arrange escorts or prostitutes to meet with Senator Tower. She also commented that she was unaware of any USSLL member ever recommending or sending any female to meet or visit with Senator Tower or of any personal services or favors provided to Senator Tower by USSLL members.

[redacted] advised that in 1968, she became the USSLL [redacted] and, as such, she was responsible to [redacted] She stated that the USSLL had an account with the Carroll Arms Hotel which was used primarily for dining expenses and was billed monthly. [redacted] did not believe that the USSLL rented or leased a room at the Carroll Arms hotel on a regular basis. Additionally, [redacted] could not recall receiving or paying any bill for expenses incurred in entertaining Senator Tower. She opined that Mr. Troop's [redacted] would be able to provide more information regarding Mr. Troop's activities. b6 b7C

An individual, who requested confidentiality, advised that he/she knew numerous individuals who were employed with the USSLL during the 1970's. However, he/she had little contact with either [redacted] or Mr. Troop but he/she never heard of or knew of any improprieties on the part of Mr. Troop or [redacted] in connection with Senator Tower.

He/she never received or reviewed a bill from the Carroll Arms Hotel, the Club, or any other hotel or restaurant for expenses incurred for Senator Tower. He/she also stated that he/she was unaware of any USSLL member ever recommending or sending any female to visit or meet with Senator Tower or of any USSLL member providing services or favors to Senator Tower.

He advised that, prior to the early 1980's, USSLL did not maintain detailed records and they now only maintain records for seven years. [redacted] stated that lobbyists would often only write a brief description, such as "entertaining congressional staff," on bills and they never indicated any detail of events or the names of the individuals whom they entertained.

[redacted] could not recall ever receiving, reviewing, or paying any expense account from the Carroll Arms Hotel. To his knowledge, the USSLL never received a bill for expenses incurred by Senator Tower.

[redacted] had no knowledge of either [redacted] or Mr. Troop arranging or asking anyone to arrange escorts or prostitutes to meet with Senator Tower. He also stated he was not aware of either of them recommending or sending a female to meet with Senator Tower or of any services or favors being provided to Senator Tower by any USSLL member.

[redacted] Sterling, Virginia, advised that, from 1970 to 1972 she was employed as [redacted] for Glenn Troop, chief lobbyist for the USSLL. [redacted] stated that she has never met or had any contact with Senator Tower. [redacted] advised that, during the time she was employed with the USSLL, she heard numerous rumors regarding Senator Tower's abuse of alcohol and sexual misconduct. She advised that [redacted] was responsible for [redacted] received at the office.

[redacted] denied ever being involved in any scheme to arrange for escorts for Senator Tower, any other politician or member of their staff. [redacted] believes that, if this practice of arranging escorts took place, it would have been done based on a decision by [redacted] who was responsible for [redacted] never heard of [redacted] arranging "dates" for Senator Tower.

3. Page 14 of the summary memorandum dated February 8, 1989 sets forth allegation 2, entitled "Senator Tower was observed on an airplane in 1987 consuming large quantities of alcohol."

As previously reported, it was alleged that in June or August, 1987, Senator Tower was observed on an airplane consuming large quantities of champagne and a "fifth" plus six ounces of vodka.

Based on subsequent FBI investigation and a comparison of the records of American Airlines (AA) and Senator Tower, it has been determined that Senator Tower and the source were actually on a September 3, 1987 flight from London, England to Dallas, Texas, AA flight 79.

The source of this allegation was subsequently recontacted for additional information concerning the correct flight on which he/she observed Senator Tower to be inebriated, the results of which are incorporated in the summary memorandum. He/she also advised that he/she had told [redacted] and [redacted] about Senator Tower's behavior on that flight. It has also been determined that the source does have experience as a [redacted] as previously claimed.

[redacted] Dallas, Texas, advised that the source of this allegation contacted her on February 11, 1989 to ask if she remembered a conversation they had concerning Senator Tower. [redacted] stated she vaguely recalled the conversation, which occurred in late 1986 or early 1987, and that the source had stated to her that he/she "had never seen someone drink that much." [redacted] recalls JOHN TOWER on a European flight. He was seated in the forward first class section known as Premium Section. [redacted] worked the Business Class section just to the rear of First Class with [redacted] She recalls that the crew was aware that TOWER was drinking heavily. She noted that a male crew member, possibly [redacted] from First Class pointed out TOWER as he passed through the Business Class galley, saying that he was on his second bottle of champagne. [redacted] had no direct contact with TOWER during the flight, but mentioned that the crew was clearly aware of his very high level of consumption of alcoholic beverages. In particular, she noted that it appeared he had a level of tolerance for alcohol beyond that of a normal drinker, if TOWER had drunk as much alcohol as stated by members of the crew. TOWER was able to walk without staggering and thus was not refused alcoholic beverages by the crew.

She further advised that other members of the crew (names unrecalled) said he was in the company of a woman. [redacted] did not recall TOWER with any woman. TOWER was arrogant in behavior. He stood out as a heavy drinker due to the extreme amount of alcohol consumed and the usual temperance of travelers to or from Europe.

She cannot recall specifically other crew members than [redacted] for that particular flight, although she has worked with them previously on unrelated flights. She believes that [redacted] was on the flight and worked in the Premium section. She believes also that [redacted] was working there as well. She cannot recall whether it was the morning or evening flight because it was dark and that could mean it was night or the shades were pulled for a movie.

She further advised that the male crew member, possibly [redacted] said to her about TOWER, "I can't believe how much he's drinking," on several occasions during the flight. In addition, this crew member was holding a bottle of champagne and said it was TOWER's second.

[redacted] said she recalls one flight approximately one year ago when Mr. TOWER was flying to London in the company of a lady with [redacted] hair. Five additional* crew members on AA flight 79, to include the captain, the flight engineer and three flight attendants, were interviewed. Those individuals had no knowledge of Senator Tower being on the flight. American Airlines is unable, at this time, to re-construct a flight manifest to provide the FBI with passenger seating assignments.

[redacted] Dallas, Texas, advised that during the past two years, she has flown from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport to London on several occasions with Senator Tower. [redacted] specifically recalled that on each occasion Senator Tower consumed one or two glasses of champagne or wine and then "slept like a baby" for the remainder of the flight. She advised that she herself generally consumed one half a jigger of vodka. [redacted] also advised that she maintains a personal diary for her records but she could not locate her diary for the year 1987.

On February 17, 1989, the source of this allegation was afforded a polygraph examination by the FBI with regard to the truthfulness of his/her previous statements furnished to the FBI. This exam determined that deception was present regarding the use of vodka, particularly the issues of a) the attendant seeing or observing Senator Tower actually consume vodka and b) the attendant serving vodka to Senator Tower on the September 3, 1987 AA flight to Paris.

See Section E of this summary memorandum entitled "QUESTIONABLE ACTIVITIES ON THE PART OF SENATOR TOWER WHILE IN GENEVA, SWITZERLAND" for additional information concerning this allegation.

5. Page 17 of the summary memorandum dated February 8, 1989 sets forth allegation 5, "Current status of "ILLWIND"."

As previously reported, an Illwind subject, who initially was one of several who declined to be interviewed concerning Senator Tower, recently concluded plea negotiations with the United States Attorney, Eastern District of Virginia. Subsequently this subject alleged that a Defense Consultant claimed to have paid Senator Tower $20,000 for use in Senator Tower's 1984 election campaign. Records seized during a June, 1988, search of that Defense Consultant's office did not reflect any payments to Senator Tower, but they did contain cancelled checks totalling $20,000 that were paid to an individual who was formerly employed on Senator Tower's staff.

The investigative plan to address this issue included the conduct of interviews of the Defense Consultant-payer of the $20,000, the former staff member-payee of the $20,000, and the representative of the Defense Contractor to determine: (1) the purpose and circumstances surrounding the $20,000; and (2) the degree of knowledge and participation of Senator Tower in the transaction.

On February 15, 1989, [redacted] was interviewed. He advised that, [redacted] to take a position with a Federal agency, where he remained until 1983, at which time the left Government service.

[redacted] indicated that he was contacted on two occasions by the Defense Consultant, who he knew represented a specific Defense Contractor, and was asked by the Defense Consultant to ascertain the degree of Senator Tower's support for a particular Defense program. The first contact was in 1983, while [redacted] was employed at the Government agency, and the second contact was in 1984. On both occasions, [redacted] contacted members of Senator Tower's staff, not Senator Tower, and reported back to the Defense Consultant Senator Tower's support for the program and its inclusion in the Defense budget.

[redacted] advised that he believed his efforts on behalf of the Defense Consultant were a common courtesy, and that he did not expect to receive payment. Nonetheless, after the former staff member's 1984 contact with Senator Tower's staff, the Defense Consultant paid him $25,000 for his efforts. In addition, the Defense Contractor forgave [redacted] repayment of a series of small personal loans totalling $15,000 that [redacted] received during a period of financial hardship while he was employed by the Federal agency. These were "handshake" loans with no formal agreement.

John Goodwin Tower

[redacted] denies that any of these monies b6 b7C were provided to Senator Tower, in any form, by himself, his family, or his company. He also denies acting in any capacity as a conduit for Senator Tower to receive anything of value or benefit, including contributions, honoraria, or bribes.

On February 18, 1989, the Defense Consultant was interviewed. He specifically denied paying $20,000 to Senator Tower, either directly or indirectly. He denied using anyone else to funnel money to Senator Tower, except for two $1000 campaign contributions-one in his name and one in the name of his girlfriend. (This contribution issue was previously reported on February 13, 1988 as part of "Illwind" Issue 3 dealing with the campaign contributions from contributors identified on a "quota list." This individual is the Defense Consultant who allegedly obtained Senator Tower's assistance in restructuring a funding profile for a Department of Defense program and who admitted making two $1000 contributions.)

The Defense Consultant acknowledged having contacted [redacted] while [redacted] was employed by a Federal agency. The Defense Consultant requested [redacted] to check with Senator Tower, or someone on Senator Tower's staff, to determine the status of a particular Defense program in the Defense budget. Although the Defense Consultant does not know with whom [redacted] checked, [redacted] reported back that the Defense program was in the budget, and the Defense Consultant related that information to his Defense Contractor client. He claims that this was the only time he called upon [redacted] to obtain information from Senator Tower or Senator Tower's staff.

The Defense Consultant acknowledged paying money to [redacted] on two occasions. The first was a $15,000 undocumented loan between friends which he made because [redacted] was experiencing a financial hardship while working for the Government agency. The second was an unrecalled amount when [redacted] left government service and moved to New York and was short on funds. The Defense Consultant gave him these monies and forgave the $15,000 loan because during the previous year he had received a "windfall" from two of his major clients (both Defense Contractors). The Defense Consultant attributed much of the "windfall" to his use of [redacted] to obtain information from Senator Tower's staff. His clients therefore thought he had an "in" with Senator Tower, perceived him as valuable consultant, and thus paid him well.

Efforts to interview the representative of the Defense Contractor have been delayed due to his ongoing negotiations to [redacted] The FBI will pursue this interview upon completion of [redacted]

It is again noted that some pertinent "Illwind" subjects decline to be interviewed concerning Senator Tower, and it is unknown what information they might provide at a future date should they be subject to criminal prosecution.

To date, no evidence has been developed that Senator Tower personally participated in or was aware of these transactions. No credible evidence has been developed that the transactions with [redacted] are illegal.

In a related Illwind matter, on February 17, 1989, the USAO, EDVA, advised that [redacted] a Defense Consultant awaiting trial has issued a subpoena for John Tower to be a witness in his defense. [redacted] was indicted on January 6, 1989, and charged with [redacted]

[redacted] stated that he moved to California from Dallas, Texas approximately 18 months ago. Prior to that move, he would occasionally see TOWER at social functions and at the Mansion Bar/Restaurant in Dallas. On one occasion, [redacted] was having dinner at the Mansion and TOWER was seated in the booth next to him. At one point, [redacted] had a telephone call and the phone was brought to his table. [redacted] said TOWER had been drinking but was not, in his opinion, intoxicated or out of control. There was no other exchange on that occasion between TOWER and [redacted]

[redacted] had seen TOWER on other occasions at the Mansion at charity functions, drinking and in the company of different women. [redacted] believed this was after TOWER's divorce and never saw TOWER intoxicated to the point of being drunk.

LARRY COMBEST, United States Congressman, was advised of the identities of the interviewing agents, both orally and by a display of credentials. Congress COMBEST was advised the desired interview was sought at the request of United States Senator SAM NUNN to provide amplification to information he provided to Senators NUNN and JOHN WARNER on February 3, 1989, concerning former Senator JOHN TOWER's consumption of alcohol. Congressman COMBEST provided the following the information:

He met former Senator TOWER in 1970 when he (COMBEST) was Chairman of his County Republican Committee. He commenced working as a legislative aide in November, 1971, in TOWER's Washington, D.C., offices and was so employed until approximately the summer, 1974. In the summer, 1974, he became office manager of TOWER's Senatorial Offices in Austin, Texas, later in Dallas, Texas, and once again in Austin. In his capacity as office manager of Senator TOWER's offices, he would travel with TOWER during TOWER's visits within Texas and performed other, administrative and routine, functions for TOWER. In May, 1977, he became Treasurer of TOWER's re-election campaign, resigning from that position in March, 1978. His knowledge of TOWER is based primarily on his professional association with him during the period November, 1971 through March, 1978; however, he has met socially with TOWER on infrequent occasions since that time, noting that TOWER assisted him in his (COMBEST's) political campaign for Congressman. His knowledge of TOWER, while extending over several years, is not one of confidant or close personal friend.

He characterized TOWER as "one of the best statesmen but worst politicians" he has known, explaining that TOWER is neither a "back slapper," a "chew the fat" politician nor a "bullshitter", but is, in reality, a shy person, whose shyness is frequently miscontrued as "aloofness".

When requested to comment on TOWER's comportment, demeanor or behavior that could be construed, perceived or interpreted in a derogatory manner, COMBEST indicated he could recall no instances when TOWER's behavior was other than correct and proper.

When asked to comment on allegations reported in the public media recently regarding TOWER's sometimes excessive alcohol consumption, he indicated he was fully aware of the "rumors" but discounts them as being incorrect assertions that are, probably, based on innuendo and incorrect facts and are, at any rate, relevant only to events taking place in the past, at least thirteen or fourteen years ago.

TOWER's consumption of alcohol was heaviest during part of the period of time he (COMBEST) was employed by TOWER; i.e., heavier than in times prior to or after his most direct association with TOWER, a fact he attributes to TOWER's divorce from his first wife, LOU; it is his recollection this event took place in 1975 or 1976.

COMBEST has observed TOWER to drink to what he would consider as "to excess" on no more than a "few", perhaps two, occasions. In so noting this, however, he has never observed TOWER to lose total control of his faculties or to have alcohol interfere with his ability to walk unaided or dress or undress himself or perform like functions. He does not believe, based on his experiences and associations with TOWER, that TOWER was ever a "captive to alcohol", ever in a position to seemingly "require" alcohol to perform, or to have his past consumption of alcohol interfere with his performance as a senator.

In describing the phrase "to excess", he would equate the term to being drunk, inebriated or intoxicated and in a position as seemingly in need of some form of assistance. On the few, perhaps two, instances, he has observed TOWER in such a condition, a condition COMBEST described as "out of control", he would describe TOWER as having slurred speech, to walk in a "wobbly" manner, as being with a "different personality", and with his coordination "not as sharp" as at other times when TOWER was otherwise drinking. While he has observed one or more of these manifestations with regard to TOWER on other occasions, he can recall only two instances in which he believed TOWER might need some form of assistance, noting, however, that it was only his opinion at that time that TOWER could have used assistance rather than absolutely requiring such assistance. As stated by COMBEST, TOWER was "never a stumbling drunk".

In recounting the two instances noted above, it is his recollection the events occurred during periods when TOWER was traveling in Texas, most likely between 1974 and 1977. On these occasions, TOWER would be met at his hotel or in his hotel suite by two or three good friends in the evening hours in a social setting where they, accompanied by one or two staff assistants, would have a "few drinks" before dinner, a few more during dinner, after which, all would proceed to TOWER's suite "to visit". According to COMBEST, the staff aide who most frequently accompanied TOWER on his travels through Texas was BILL KEENER, now deceased. COMBEST himself would, on frequent occasions, be the other staff assistant accompanying TOWER.

TOWER's good friends were aware that TOWER's favorite drink was "Johnny Walker Red" scotch-whiskey and they would usually bring a bottle of this brand of scotch to TOWER. Additionally, the host hotel, also aware of TOWER's preference for that brand of scotch, would usually provide a bottle of scotch to him.

He does not know how many glasses of scotch TOWER himself drank on these occasions. It was his observation, however, that between TOWER and his guests, the bottles, provided either by the guests or the host hotel, or both, were "emptied" by evening's end. Several bottles of scotch, "fifths" or quart size could routinely be consumed between TOWER and his guests over the course of several days running as TOWER and his staff traveled through Texas.

It was his observation that TOWER could consume two or three glasses of scotch (usually prepared with a mixer) without apparent visible adverse effect. On occasion, when drinking, TOWER exhibited slurred speech, or other effect, but was, except on those two occasions, in control of his faculties and alert. He indicated that during the "visits" to TOWER's suite, TOWER "was not the only one feeling his liquor". It was his further observation that as the evening wore on, TOWER might exhibit a tendency to become quiet or non-conversant, a "clue" to those present that they should begin departing. He cannot comment with any degree of certainty whether TOWER's quietness was brought on by the consumption of alcohol inasmuch as TOWER sometimes became quiet and non-conversant in other, less convivial, circumstances, such as when driving to an airport or similar occasion. He attributes TOWER's periodic quietness more to TOWER's personality as an essentially shy person or to TOWER's mental preparations, re-emphasizing that TOWER was not one for "small talk".

He noted that the same process as described above could take place over the course of the next evening or next several evenings, without any apparent adverse affect on TOWER's ability to perform any and all official and social functions the following day.

In describing the two instances in which he provided assistance to TOWER after TOWER had consumed considerable alcohol, he (COMBEST), at the end of the evening's events, assisted TOWER in loosening his tie and removing the starched collars from his shirts. He explained that TOWER, while traveling, would wear collarless dress shirts requiring separate, attaching, collars. These shirts required attachments that were somewhat awkward to handle; consequently, it was COMBEST's belief that TOWER, while perhaps not absolutely requiring such assistance, would appreciate assistance in removing the collar from the shirt. This function was performed on perhaps two occasions. COMBEST, however, never assisted TOWER in removing TOWER's clothing to assist him into bed nor performed any other activities to physically assist TOWER. He performed this assistance to TOWER to "accommodate him". As far as he can recall, TOWER never threw his clothing down in a pile and always was well dressed in the morning.

COMBEST recalls making a comment to Senators NUNN and WARNER to the effect that, "Yes, I've put the man to bed drunk". In explaining this comment, COMBEST noted that the comment was made in response to a question asked of him by Senator NUNN who asked whether he (COMBEST) had ever seen TOWER "inebriated?" COMBEST's response was, "Yes, I've put the man to bed drunk". The subject of "putting TOWER to bed" was not pursued further in his discussion with Senators NUNN and WARNER. COMBEST emphasized that the comment regarding his "putting the man to bed" should be taken in the context related above; i.e., helping to remove TOWER's shirt collars as opposed to helping an otherwise incapable person into a bed because the man was "falling down drunk". His comment to Senators NUNN and WARNER was meant to convey the impression that TOWER occasionally drank heavily and that on two occasions he did assist TOWER.

In response to another question asked of him by Senator WARNER regarding the number of times COMBEST observed TOWER "inebriated", COMBEST responded that the only times he observed TOWER in a "drunken" state were when TOWER traveled in Texas, while away from home, during which times TOWER sometimes had "more drinks than usual", in the company of friends. As reported to the interviewing agents, he would characterize TOWER as having been "drunk" (or "out of control") on two occasions.

COMBEST noted that he was asked by Senator NUNN a question to the effect: "Had you (COMBEST) ever observed TOWER in such a condition (from alcohol) that were he to receive a telephone call and need to make a critical decision based on information received as a result of the call, would he be in a position to make that decision?"

COMBEST responded to the effect that he had, in fact, observed TOWER with his faculties impaired, that persons whose faculties were impaired from alcohol as had been TOWER's, "can't make decisions as well", and that he has seen TOWER "out of control" on perhaps two occasions. COMBEST explained to the interviewing agents that these two occasions were the ones previously described to them and which are recounted above.

When requested to comment on the accuracy of a statement attributed to him to the effect that he has seen TOWER as drunk as he has ever seen any human being, COMBEST indicated he does not recall making such a statement and that the words were not his own.

COMBEST indicated that he never observed TOWER consume alcohol in the morning hours nor did TOWER ever request he "go out" and purchase or obtain alcohol on any occasion for him. He did not know nor suspect TOWER to be a solitary drinker at any time during his association with him.

With regard to TOWER's consumption of alcohol while in the Washington, D.C., area (November, 1971-summer, 1974), he knew TOWER kept a bottle of "Johnny Walker Red" scotch in his Senate offices and would, at the end of the day's legislative activities, consume a glass of scotch. He does not know how many glasses of scotch TOWER might consume as such times. He commented that if he were to leave the room and return "twenty minutes later" TOWER might still have a glass of scotch in his hands; however, he does not know if TOWER might still be "nursing" the same drink or was having another. TOWER, routinely, would have a glass of scotch in his office at the end of the day; there were instances, however, when TOWER "would not touch it".

In response to whether he ever believed TOWER needed assistance after drinking, while in the Washington, D.C., area, COMBEST noted that staff personnel are intensely loyal to the senators for whom they work and some consider their assignments to be for "twenty-four hours a day". He would sometimes, at the end of the day, help TOWER with his coat or carry his briefcase, after TOWER had had a glass of scotch, but did so as a courtesy rather than as perceiving a need to help TOWER because of alcohol consumption.

When asked to comment on whether, in his opinion and based on his observations, he believed TOWER to have had a "drinking problem", COMBEST replied, "Yes". It is COMBEST's opinion that anyone who habitually had a "drink" every evening as part of a habit, had a "drinking problem", in the same sense that a person who smokes a cigarette every day has a "smoking problem".

COMBEST has been present in a social environment with TOWER in recent years in which "drinks are customary"; however, he has never seen TOWER "touch anything other than a glass of wine" since approximately 1978. Nonetheless, he has heard comments and questions raised, in a general sense, on these occasions whether TOWER was "still off the hard stuff" or "off the sauce".

He attributes TOWER's apparent ability to curtail his drinking of alcohol to TOWER's second wife, LILLA, who told him to "stop drinking". He believes TOWER's ability to stop drinking "hard liquor" is indicative of TOWER's personal discipline and strength of character.

It is COMBEST's belief that despite what he knows to be TOWER's intense desire to become Secretary of Defense, TOWER would "take himself out of the picture" if he believed he had an "alcohol problem".

With regard to allegations of TOWER's womanizing, COMBEST stated, "This is more perception than truth". TOWER is very complementary of attractive women and has been known to "hug or kiss" his female staff assistants. COMBEST believes TOWER's actions were more related to bolstering his own ego in light of his short stature, that TOWER nurtured the idea he was a "ladies' man" and encouraged the notion that a short person could be a "ladies' man". TOWER's actions, in this regard, have been widely misread, in COMBEST's opinion, in that TOWER's actions were more a sign of affection than sexual in their meaning. He characterized TOWER's manner toward as "that's just TOWER".

COMBEST commented on the fishbowl atmosphere" within which events take place in "this town" (Washington, D.C.) and stated his belief that TOWER probably regrets now the idea he nurtured for himself as a "ladies' man". COMBEST knows of no instances when TOWER behaved inappropriately or ungentlemanly in the presence of females.

COMBEST does not believe that, as Secretary of Defense, TOWER would be beholden to any defense contractors or to those to whom TOWER has served as a consultant. TOWER, based on COMBEST's knowledge, had a rule in running his office as senator that campaign contributions given to influence legislation would be returned to the contributor. In explaining this, COMBEST recounted that it was TOWER's practice that if any contributor attempted to put "even the slightest squeeze" on TOWER to influence him or legislation of interest to the contributor, the contributor would be escorted out of the office and any contribution previously made by them would be placed in an envelope and returned. It is COMBEST's opinion that "TOWER would never cross the line between policy issues and campaign contributions". As stated by COMBEST, "TOWER believed that when people made contributions, they were contributing to good government; if anyone is absolutely clean, it's TOWER".

COMBEST has only positive things to say about TOWER's character, his associates and reputation. He considers TOWER a loyal citizen and the most qualified person anywhere to serve the United States as Secretary of Defense. He knows of no use or any other involvement in illegal drugs by TOWER, nor any reason to believe TOWER ever abused prescription drugs. He knows of no biases ever exhibited by TOWER toward any ethnic, religious or other group, noting that as senator, TOWER was very concerned about the rights of minorities. He believes TOWER to be thoroughly trustworthy and suitable for access to classified information.

COMBEST provided the names of the following persons who could knowledgeably comment on TOWER's character, reputation, associates and loyalty to the United States: ELWIN L. "WINN" SKILES, TOWER's Administrative Assistant between 1974-1977, and staff aide before 1974, currently employed by Texas Instruments, Dallas, Texas, telephone number (214) 995-4855, home address 9617 Atherton Drive, Dallas, Texas, telephone number (214) 349-3246; [redacted] b6 b7C currently employed at the [redacted] telephone number [redacted] home telephone number [redacted] to TOWER for many years and frequent traveling companion, currently, [redacted] Dallas, Texas; [redacted] currently in Dallas, Texas; [redacted] an attorney and close friend to TOWER; [redacted] (phonethic), a former [redacted] to TOWER and currently the [redacted] to [redacted] Dallas, Texas.

COMBEST commented that while he wholeheartedly supports the nomination of TOWER to be Secretary of Defense, he is "afraid" that his attempt to provide useful and helpful information to Senators NUNN and WARNER with regard to TOWER on February 3, 1989, may have inadvertently done more harm than good in that his meeting with Senators NUNN and WARNER lasted only approximately twenty minutes and, therefore, his information could not be as detailed as that provided to the interviewing agents; therefore, it is possible his information, in being conveyed to the FBI as a basis for the current interview, may not be within the context as initially intended. Consequently, he expressed a willingness to meet again with Senators NUNN and WARNER, in the presence of the interviewing agents if so desired, in an effort to clarify any information he originally provided on February 3, 1989 or surrounding which there may exist any misperceptions regarding the extent of TOWER's use of alcohol and to place whatever information he may have with regard to TOWER in the appropriate context.

He further expressed a willingness to again meet with the interviewing agents as might be necessary and to that end, provided his home address and telephone number as: [redacted] Arlington, Virginia, telephone number [redacted] b6 b7C

COMBEST stated that he neither contacted nor has been contacted by anyone with regard to the information he provided to Senators NUNN and WARNER on February 3, 1989 and has received no advice regarding this matter.

COMBEST stated that he unhesitatingly supports the nomination of JOHN TOWER and recommends him for a position of trust with the United States Government.

PART C: ADDITIONAL ALLEGATIONS BROUGHT TO THE ATTENTION OF THE FBI SINCE FEBRUARY 8, 1989.

1. During the 1970's, Senator Tower received thousands of dollars from independent oil producers in return for acting as a lobbyist.

On February 13, 1989, an anonymous telephone caller,1 alleged that in 1972 and 1973, Senator Tower received "thousands of dollars" from independent oil producers and from the Independent Oil Producers and Drillers Association (IOPD), in return for his having acted as a lobbyist while he served in the Senate. The caller speculated that IOPD members in Witchita Falls, Texas, would be familiar with those allegations.

Five independent oil producers in Wichita Falls, Texas were interviewed. These individuals, who are members of the North Texas Oil and Gas Association (NTOGA), all advised that they have never made any payments to Senator Tower. In addition, two former Presidents of the NTOGA, covering the periods from 1970 to 1972 and from 1978 to 1980, and the current President of the NTOGA were interviewed. Each advised that the NTOGA never made any payments to Senator Tower other than travel expenses in connection with speeches. The current President advised that NTOGA records date back to 1930 and disclosed no record of any payments to Senator Tower.

Two of these individuals advised that an independent oil company was never located at the site claimed by the anonymous caller. Four of them stated that they were unaware of any organization known as the Independent Oil Producers and Drillers Association, located in Wichita Falls, Texas.

(See page 84 of this summary memorandum for additional information concerning the allegation that in 1972, Senator Tower was observed to be in a drunken condition at the Tradewinds Motel in Wichita Falls, Texas.)

2. Senator Tower's reelection campaign received a loan of $250,000 from monies derived from a loan granted by the head of the Small Business Administration, who was a friend of Senator Tower's.

HANK GROVER, 116 Jackson Boulevard, Houston, Texas, telephone (713) 721-1106 telephonically contacted the Houston office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and provided the following information.

GROVER is a former State Senator, and ran for Governor of the State of Texas in 1972. He knows both President GEORGE BUSH and Secretary of Treasury JAMES BAKER. He has become increasingly concerned regarding media reports that there is "no substance" to allegations of womanizing and drunkenness on the part of Senator JOHN TOWER. GROVER stated that it is common knowledge that TOWER is a "drunk" and that he acts in a "disgusting" manner regarding women. He said that this has been well known in Republican circles for twenty years, and that anyone who denies it is liaing. GROVER is good friends with [redacted] of the [redacted] and recently called him to inform him of this information. b6 b7C

GROVER does not have first hand knowledge, could not provided details of specific incidents, and could not provide a specific source of information. He stated that he was aware that TOWER has frequented the FORTY ACRES CLUB, located on the campus of the UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS in Austin, Texas in the past, and that TOWER's drinking exploits there are legendary. He stated "anyone up there should be able to provide information." Regarding TOWER's alleged womanizing, GROVER stated that he could not provide specifics, but that it has also been talked about for years that TOWER engaged in many extramarital affairs; he added, "we're talking young girls here, nineteen or twenty years old." He stated that women who are active in the Republican party "won't have anything to do with him" (TOWER) because of his reputation.

When President REAGAN named TOWER to a Defense Conference team in Geneva, Switzerland, GROVER was disgusted. He remarked to his wife at the time that TOWER would embarrass the country, and that he would be trying "to bed every maid and secretary" over there. GROVER recalled that TOWER's second wife did in fact name a [redacted] in divorce papers. This is the most recent womanizing incident that GROVER has heard of.

GROVER stated that he is sincerely concerned, and that he considers TOWER to be a serious security risk. It is his opinion that President BUSH nominated TOWER because he owed him a favor, since the TOWER COMMISSION gave BUSH a clean bill of health regarding the Iran-Contra affair.

GROVER stated that in the early 1970's President NIXON named HILLARY SANDOVAL (male) to head the Small Business Administration (SBA). SANDOVAL was a friend of Senator TOWER's. Soon after SANDOVAL was appointed, (late 1971 or early 1972) a close friend of TOWER's, [redacted] (male) applied for and was granted a $350,000 loan by the SBA, which was the maximum amount allowed at the time. Two weeks later, [redacted] loaned $250,000 to TOWER's re-election campaign. Soon after that, TOWER's re-election headquarters, located at 58th and La Vaca, Austin, Texas "mysteriously" burned down. GROVER recalled that the matter was widely reported in the media at the time. The media developed the story because a TOWER staffer who evidently "wasn't too bright" had allegedly made the mistake of recording the $250,000 loan with the Secretary of State's Office in Austin. GROVER stated that he personally searched the newspaper morgues in El Paso, Texas for news accounts of this incident, but for some reason, he could not locate any record of it.

GROVER advised that Texas state law requires that candidates for Federal office file campaign contribution records with the Secretary of State's Office in Austin. [redacted] $250,000 loan to TOWER should also be on file with Chief Clerk's Office of the United States Senate.

GROVER stated the [redacted] business has grown tremendously since the early 1970's, and he believes he is still located in El Paso. He indicated that [redacted] was in charge of TOWER's Austin campaign office at the time of the fire, and should be able to provide information. [redacted] SBA, El Paso, Texas advised a review of his records revealed [redacted] obtained an SBA loan on June 9, 1972, in the amount of $350,000 under the business name of Pan-American Optical Company. The loan, which was paid off in 1980, was partially (10%) funded by the Coronado Bank, El Paso, Texas. [redacted] advised that, after two years, records are transferred to the Federal Records Center in Fort Worth, Texas, where they are maintained for five years and are then destroyed.

[redacted] Minority Small Business, Capital Ownership Development, SBA, San Antonio, Texas, advised that, due to the passage of time and the number of loans that he processed, he was unable to recall details or persons involved in this loan.

Investigation has determined that Hillary Sandoval is now deceased. Efforts to locate [redacted] who according to [redacted] was a [redacted] employee who interviewed him, were unsuccessful.

Contact with the Coronado Bank, El Paso, Texas, disclosed that their records concerning the SBA loan to [redacted] have been destroyed and that there is no further record.

John Goodwin Tower

[redacted] El Paso, Texas, advised b6 b7C that he was [redacted] of the Coronado Bank in [redacted] He recalled [redacted] as a customer of the bank, but could not recall any specific loan to [redacted] is certain that all documents relating to any loan from that long ago have been destroyed.

During his interview, [redacted] claimed that the loan was obtained through [redacted] Coronado State Bank, El Paso, Texas. [redacted] and O. B. Haley, Sr., both of [redacted] Texas, advised that they were unaware of any loan to [redacted] Mr. Haley, Sr. advised that from approximately 1967 to 1976 he owned a life insurance company and his only relationship to the Coronado Bank was that of a customer.

[redacted] Disclosure, Public Records, Federal Election Commission (FEC), Washington, D.C., advised that the FEC began keeping records in 1975. Any records in their possession from the years 1972 to 1975 are copies of those maintained by the Clerk of the Senate.

A search of microfilm records of filings by Senator Tower under Rule 44, Standing Rules of the Senate, for the years 1968 through 1977 at the Office of Public Records, Office of the Clerk, United States Senate, Washington, D.C., revealed no contributions or honorariums to Senator Tower in the amount of $250,000 or any figure close to that amount.

A review of available records for the years 1971 and 1972 filed by Senator Tower with the Clerk of the Senate in accordance with the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 (ACT), which became effective April 7, 1972, revealed no listed contribution or loan in the amount of $250,000 or any similar amount.

However, a review of a "Registration Form and Statement of Organization for Political Committees", dated April 14, 1972 as well as a "Receipts and Expenditures Report of Committees," both filed by the "Friends of John Tower"(Friends), revealed that Friends had $252,114.65 on hand when the ACT took effect on April 7, 1972. On April 13, 1972, this amount was loaned from Friends to "Texans for Tower", Senator Tower's principal campaign committee. The source of Friends' funds could not be determined from a review of these records. However, a number of banks were listed as repositories for the subject monies which were transferred. None of the banks listed was the Coronado Bank.

[redacted] Dallas, Texas, advised that he was the [redacted] Friends and the "Texans for Tower" in [redacted] in [redacted] He stated that Friends was set up to raise money to meet political costs in the State of Texas, incurred by Senator Tower, that were not covered by Senator Tower's official business expenses. [redacted] advised that in May, 1971, a fund raising dinner was held by Friends, which was the major fund raiser for this organization. [redacted] stated there were no further fund raising activities. b6 b7C

[redacted] commented that, when he joined Friends in August, 1971, there was three to four hundred thousand dollars on hand. He does not know if all of these funds came from the fund raising dinner or not.

[redacted] stated that in late 1971 or early 1972, when Senator Tower announced his candidacy for that term, [redacted] closed out the funds of the Friends and wrote a check payable to the "Texans for Tower", which was the campaign committee established for that year. He recalled that the amount of the check was approximately $250,000, which was all that remained in the Friends' account. From that point on, Friends ceased to exist [redacted] the "Texans for Tower".

[redacted] noted that in May of 1972, a fire occurred in the Austin, Texas, office of "Texans for Tower" and some records were destroyed; however, he advised that those records were limited in nature. He stated that a limited audit of the financial records of "Texans for Tower's" was done by the General Accounting Office.

[redacted] advised that he never heard of [redacted] and he has no knowledge of anyone ever making a contribution to the campaign that was over the legal limit while he was associated with it. He also stated that there was never any $250,000 contribution received by the campaign committee from anyone. [redacted] further advised that he has had no direct contact with Senator Tower since 1977.

3. Campaign contributions to Senator Tower were deducted from Southern Airways employees paychecks.

[redacted] telephonically contacted the FBI on February 7, 1989. He advised that from the mid 1960's to 1970 or 1971, he was employed at Southern Airways of Texas, Incorporated (SA), Mineral Wells, Texas. SA's major contract was to train entry level United States Army military helicopter pilots at Fort Wolters, Texas who were scheduled for duty in Vietnam. Near the end of the Vietnam War, SA employees realized that the operation would in all likelihood be phased out. [redacted] left SA at that time.

John Goodwin Tower

Prior to his leaving, [redacted] advised he received a paycheck for $150 less than it should have been. [redacted] went to his supervisor, [redacted] and flight commander, James J. Greenhalgh, to complain. [redacted] stated he was advised that the $150 was taken from his pay, without his prior authorization, as a campaign contribution. [redacted] vaguely recalled a memorandum explaining that the contribution was for Senator Tower who, in return, would attempt to keep SA in business. [redacted] stated he was subsequently reimbursed for this $150 after he raised the issue. [redacted] stated he never personally saw Senator Tower at Fort Wolters, but he indicated it was possible that Senator Tower had been there as he resided in Wichita Falls, Texas, at the time, which was only seventy to eighty miles away.

[redacted] Lake Charles, Louisiana, advised that in 1971, he was employed by SA as a helicopter instructor at Fort Wolters, Texas. [redacted] recalled that in mid-1971, SA received a letter from either the United States Army or from the office of Senator Tower, informing SA that Fort Wolters would be closed due to a reduction of the troop level in Vietnam.

Shortly after this notice was received, [redacted] advised a memo was published, possibly by unrecalled senior SA officials, which requested a $150 donation to be voluntarily provided by each SA employee for contribution to Senator Tower's re-election campaign. To [redacted] knowledge, no pressure or duress was placed on himself or any other instructor to contribute. [redacted] advised that he did not contribute.

James J. Greenhalgh, Mineral Wells, Texas, advised that he was employed by SA from 1956 until Fort Wolters closed in either November or December, 1973. He stated that approximately one year before the base closed, he was approached by [redacted] SA, who asked him to contribute $200 to Senator Tower's campaign fund. [redacted] allegedly asked each of the approximately 150 SA employees to contribute. Mr. Greenhalgh told [redacted] he would not contribute and he suffered no adverse consequence from SA for his refusal to contribute.

Mr. Greenhalgh stated that many SA employees did contribute to the campaign in the hope that, if Senator Tower was re-elected, he would help keep the base open. Mr. Greenhalgh stated that he had never seen Senator Tower at the SA facility and has no knowledge of contributions being deducted from SA employees' paychecks.

John Goodwin Tower

b7C

[redacted] Waco, Texas, advised that during early 1970, when he was a flight commander for SA, an unrecalled representative of SA informed the section commanders of SA that Senator Tower favored keeping Fort Wolters open and that SA wanted approximately $120 from each flight's "safety money" to support Senator Tower. He explained that "safety money" was $125 to $150 given to each flight by SA when a class completes a course without an accident. The money was then used to pay for parties and flight functions. He stated that none of the money came from employees of SA. [redacted] is certain he would have recalled if any unauthorized campaign contributions had been taken from his salary. He specifically stated he does not recall [redacted] complaining to him about any unauthorized deduction.

[redacted] Tampa, Florida, advised he was the [redacted] at SA at the time the facility was closed in 1973. He recalled that, near the end of the Vietnam War, there were persistent rumors that SA's facility at Mineral Wells, Texas, was going to be closed. There was also strong sentiment that Senator Tower, if re-elected, would be SA's only recourse if he could intercede on SA's behalf and retain that facility. [redacted] said that, as an ardent Republican, he probably personally donated approximately $25 to Senator Tower's campaign. However, he adamantly denied ever soliciting contributions on Senator Tower's behalf and further denied the existence of an SA corporate initiative on Senator Tower's behalf. He also denied the existence of a memorandum regarding employee contributions. [redacted] said he is not a personal friend of Senator Tower and could recall having seen him on only one occasion at a Republican function.

[redacted] Mineral Wells, Texas, advised he was formerly General Manager of SA and, as such, was in a position to know about any solicitation of campaign funds for Senator Tower or if SA officially sought campaign contributions from its employees. He said that, to the best of his knowledge, Senator Tower never visited SA and never asked for campaign contributions in return for his efforts to keep Fort Wolters open.

Concerning a reduction in pay shortly before Fort Wolters shut down, [redacted] explained that SA had to bid below cost to secure its last contract. It was therefore necessary to cut costs and the only way to do this was to cut payroll. The company told all pilots that their salaries would have to be cut by $100 per month to keep the company operating. [redacted] was not aware of any employees or supervisors soliciting campaign contributions for Senator Tower and advised that if they contributed, it was on their own and not at the instruction of management.

Incorporated in this summary memorandum are the results of two interviews of [redacted] Minneapolis, Minnesota, concerning his allegation that [redacted] telephonically contacted him in the Fall, 1983, and requested that he make a personal contribution to Senator Tower's re-election campaign.

[redacted] also advised that in 1983, Senator Tower joined [redacted] on a trip to Germany which was sponsored by UTC. Prior to this trip, [redacted] was forewarned about Senator Tower's use of alcohol and on the trip he observed Senator Tower to be inebriated on one occasion.

In May of 1983, [redacted] of UNITED TECHNOLOGIES CORPORATION (UTC); as [redacted] of UTC, he received a telephone call from the [redacted] requesting that UTC executives make personal contributions to Senator JOHN TOWER's campaign fund.

This telephone call was the first and only telephone call that he received from [redacted] and to the best of his recollection it occurred during the fall of 1983, a few weeks prior to one of Senator TOWER's Texas fund raising dinners. His recollection of the telephone conversation with [redacted] is as follows:

-- [redacted] asked: Where's your money for TOWER's campaign?

-- [redacted] replied: We sent a major Political Action Contribution (PAC) on behalf of the corporation.

-- [redacted] answered: I don't give a damn about the corporation, you have to stand up and be counted.

This conversation ended without any other issues being discussed. His recollection as to the amount of money contributed by UTC as a PAC contribution was that it was from five to ten thousand dollars.

At the conclusion of the telephone call he joined HARRY GREY, Chief Executive Officer of UTC, and other members of his staff and told them that [redacted] wanted them to "stand up and be counted" in support of Senator TOWER's re-election campaign. GREY's meeting was attended by other corporate officers, possibly [redacted], and [redacted]

There was no discussion about [redacted] statement, as it was accepted by the group that they would contribute, and he and GREY each wrote campaign contribution checks for $1,000. The others present also wrote contribution checks; however, he does not remember which specific people wrote checks or in what amounts. He considered that this kind of contribution was what was expected of [redacted] UTC, and the issue of reimbursement by UTC was not mentioned.

After the meeting he contacted [redacted] of PRATT AND WHITNEY AIRCRAFT, and [redacted] (Last Name Unknown) (LNU) from MOSS TEK COMPANY (owned by UTC) to raise some contributions for Senator TOWER's campaign. He stopped contacting associates within UTC when he thought he had raised a sufficient amount of contributions that would adequately show their support for the Senator. [redacted] gave him the checks he obtained from his contacts at PRATT AND WHITNEY and he recalls that the total amount he collected was between five and ten thousand dollars.

He felt that the appropriate thing to do was to attend the Texas fund raiser personally, and he went to Dallas, possibly Houston, to attend the dinner about two weeks after the phone call from [redacted] to Texas and either [redacted] (LNU) gave the checks totaling between five and ten thousand dollars directly to Senator TOWER.

He only attended the one political fundraising dinner on behalf of Senator TOWER and does not recall seeing representatives from other defense contractors at the dinner. He attended the dinner with [redacted] (LNU) as he was from Texas and was seated with [redacted] The only aerospace industry attendee he recalls seeing during the dinner was [redacted] of TEXAS AIR/CONTINENTAL AIRLINES.

He does not know of any contacts [redacted] made with any of the senior executives within UTC's operating companies such as HAMILTON STANDARD, NORDEN SYSTEMS, or SIKORSKI, as he did not contact these executives to obtain contributions on behalf of Senator TOWER's re-election campaign. However, it is possible that the senior executives at these companies could have been contacted without his knowledge, as these kinds of things were not generally talked about.

During this 1983/1984 time period, he and the other UTC corporate officers were keenly aware of UTC's need to maintain a positive relationship with the United States Navy, as they were performing numerous Government contracts for the Navy and were bidding on engine contracts through PRATT AND WHITNEY AIRCRAFT and on helicopter contracts through SIKORSKI that had the potential for hundreds of millions of dollars of contracts within the foreseeable future.

When UTC became aware that Senator TOWER had decided not to run for re-election in 1984, both [redacted] and GREY discussed how upset they were about having "the arm" put on them by [redacted] for a campaign contribution to a Senator who was not going to run. The newspaper reports at the time indicated that the Senator had collected in excess of nine million dollars for his re-election campaign which would be available to him for personal use. He and GREY opined that because of the large amount of money collected they were not the only ones in the defense industry that contributed.

Prior to the trip he was forewarned that Senator TOWER had difficulty "holding" his liquor and one night during the trip he observed Senator TOWER to be inebriated. The trip to Germany was made with UTC's corporate jet and [redacted] knows of nothing out of the ordinary concerning the honorarium that TOWER was provided. He is unsure as to whether or not TOWER was still serving as a United States Senator during the trip.

He felt that his personal attendance was appropriate because [redacted] telephone call was a personally-oriented request to him [redacted] of UTC, and his attendance at the fundraiser would demonstrate that the individuals at UTC were showing their support for the Senator.

While in Germany, [redacted] observed Senator TOWER to be inebriated. [redacted] characterized the Senator as being inebriated because he became loud and garrulous during the course of the evening and [redacted] observed him consume far more than five drinks. He did not see Senator TOWER inebriated at any other time.

John Goodwin Tower

Harry J. Gray, North Palm Beach, Florida, advised that he is the former Chief Executive Officer (CEO), UTC. Mr Gray advised that he cannot recall discussing with [redacted] a telephone call made to [redacted] by [redacted] Mr. Gray indicated that any call of that nature would have been made to him as CEO of UTC and not to [redacted] who was [redacted] of UTC. Mr. Gray commented that he knows [redacted] personally and that a telephone call of that nature would have been highly out of character for [redacted] b6 b7C

Mr. Gray advised that he is not aware of having made a personal contribution to the re-election campaign of Senator Tower as a result of the alleged telephone call. Mr. Gray also did not recall any instance where [redacted] represented UTC in either Dallas or Houston, Texas, [redacted] personal checks written by UTC executives to Senator Tower.

Mr. Gray stated that he has known Senator Tower since the mid-1970's, and he has seen Senator Tower at various functions. Although Senator Tower would often have a drink in his hand, he never observed Senator Tower "gulp" the drink or ask for a second drink. Further, he never observed him to be inebriated or out of control. He does not recall what type of beverage Senator Tower drank, although it was a clear liquid. He advised it was not a dark brown liquid, like bourbon, or light brown, like scotch. He opined that Senator Tower's use of alcohol does not make him susceptible to compromise or effect his ability to perform.

Mr. Gray advised that UTC sponsors an annual trip to Germany called the "North Atlantic Round Table". On those occasions when the UTC aircraft is not fully loaded, invitations are extended to United States Government officials, who are to attend a Round Table session, to ride free of charge. In 1983, Senator Tower was invited to travel to Germany on an UTC aircraft. Mr. Gray stated he is unaware of any honorarium paid to Senator Tower on that occasion as Senator Tower had other business to conduct in Europe at that time. Mr. Gray advised that, while in Germany, Senator Tower attended several UTC affairs and at no time did he ever note that Senator Tower was inebriated, out of control or in any way under the influence of alcohol.

[redacted] Hartford, Connecticut, advised he is [redacted] UTC. He advised that he is positive that he never attended a meeting with UTC officials at which private contributions to Senator Tower's reelection campaign were discussed and that he never made a personal contribution to Senator Tower's re-election campaign.

John Goodwin Tower

[redacted] advised he has met Senator Tower on several social occasions, the first occasion being approximately five years ago at an annual UTC business/social function in Germany. Senator Tower appeared at that UTC function as a guest speaker. He observed Senator Tower consume what he believed were alcoholic beverages. However, he never observed him to be intoxicated. At other social events he has attended with Senator Tower, [redacted] advised that Senator Tower has acted in a proper and dignified manner.

b7C

[redacted] advised he has no information which could adversely affect Senator Tower's appointment as Secretary of Defense.

[redacted] Hartford, Connecticut, advised he is a UTC [redacted] He could not specifically recall having made a personal contribution to Senator Tower's reelection campaign and he could not specifically recall a meeting in the Fall, 1983, with [redacted] at which time the need to contribute to the campaign was discussed.

[redacted] said he did recall discussing with [redacted] and other UTC [redacted] the desirability of making personal political contributions. However, he did not recall if that discussion pertained to Senator Tower's campaign but he believed that it did not. [redacted] advised that a review of his personal records disclosed he made a political contribution in 1981 to an individual other than Senator Tower and that he did not send that contribution through an intermediary.

[redacted] advised he has met Senator Tower on three official occasions, the first possibly in 1983. On those occasions, he observed Senator Tower consuming liquid refreshments, which could have contained alcohol. He observed Senator Tower always to be in control and he has no information that would impact adversely upon Senator Tower's appointment.

Vincent Prothro, Chairman of the Board, Dallas Semiconductor, Dallas, Texas, advised he has known Senator Tower since prior to 1962. Mr. Prothro advised he has never presented checks totaling either $5,000 or $10,000 or any other denomination to Senator Tower. Mr. Prothro added that he had never attended any fundraiser at which [redacted] was present.

Mr. Prothro advised he is familiar with Mr. Carlson, who was a Vice President of UTC when UTC bought Moss Tek in 1980. At that time, Mr. Prothro was a Vice President of Moss Tek which he subsequently left in February, 1982. Mr. Prothro advised that he has had no dealings with [redacted] since that time; therefore, he could not have been called by [redacted] in 1983 or 1984. Mr. Prothro said [redacted] never gave him any checks to give to Senator Tower and he never gave any checks to Senator Tower which had been collected from UTC executives. b6 b7C

Mr. Prothro stated he has observed Senator Tower at numerous social gatherings through the years and he has seen him consume what Mr. Prothro assumes are alcoholic beverages. He did not know exactly what Senator Tower drank on those occasions or how much he drank. He advised he has never seen Senator Tower intoxicated or out of control of his facilities. He has no knowledge of any "womanizing" and he recommends Senator Tower without reservation.

On February 15, 1989, the information provided by [redacted] was provided to the Public Integrity Section, Department of Justice, and a Special Assistant United States Attorney, Eastern District of Virginia. It was determined that the alleged language [redacted] states that former [redacted] utilized to solicit campaign contributions is representative of a Hobbs Act (extortion) violation; however, since it occurred in 1983, the statute of limitations has expired. It was further noted that no criminal violation, nor evidence of knowledge on Senator Tower's part of the contribution solicitation was indicated; therefore, no further criminal investigation or prosecution was warranted.

T1, who can be described as a long-time associate, knowledgeable of Mr. JOHN TOWER, Secretary of Defense designee, was interview at his/her office on February 14, 1989 by Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Agents.

T1 advised that he/she has known Senator JOHN TOWER since approximately 1961 when Mr. TOWER first ran for the Senate seat from the State of Texas. T1 advised that he/she would not consider himself/herself to be a social acquaintance of Mr. TOWER but more accurately associated with him from a professional and/or political standpoint. T1 advised that most recently he/she has had contact with Mr. TOWER during the course of the presidential campaign up to and including November, 1988. During this time frame, T1 advised that he/she had frequent contact with Mr. TOWER including contact at the Republican Convention.

T1 advised that in his/her opinion there is no question as to the loyalty of Mr. TOWER to the United States of America. T1 advised however, that the overall question of character and reliability is most significantly compromised due to what T1 would consider a "severe" problem with drinking and a weakness for "the opposite sex." T1 advised that these two problems have historically come together for Mr. TOWER presenting not only a problem, but a potentially compromising situation should Mr. TOWER be placed in a position of trust, including his current nomination for Secretary of Defense. T1 advised that he/she, based upon lengthy association with Mr. TOWER, could not support Mr. TOWER for any Department of Defense position.

T1 related that he/she has worked with various Department of Defense employees whom he/she described in general as being hard working and "sober people, keenly aware of the need for that sobriety in relation to the sensitivity of materials which they deal with on a daily basis." T1 went on to advise that given this fact, and the additional fact that Mr. TOWER would be a participant in the National Security Council, he/she felt that Mr. TOWER would not be adequately suited for the position with his history of "being out carousing around and crocked."

CLYMER L. WRIGHT, 6038 Darkwood, Houston, Texas 77088 telephone (713) 448-8007 was advised of the nature of the interview and the identity of the interviewing agent. WRIGHT formerly served on the Executive Committee of the Republican Party of the State of Texas, as Texas Campaign Fianance Manager for RONALD REAGAN, and, as a delegate to the 1976 Republican National Convention. He has been active in the Republican Party for over twenty five years. He provided the following information regarding Senator JOHN TOWER.

WRIGHT stated that when he recently heard media reports that the FBI had cleared TOWER of allegations of drinking and womanizing, his comment was that the FBI should be disbanded, as information of that type is widespread and commonly known in the state of Texas. WRIGHT first had an inkling that TOWER had a drinking problem in the 1960's when he read in the paper that TOWER had hit Senator MONTOYA's (then U.S Senator, New Mexico) [redacted] while driving drunk in Washington D.C.. WRIGHT has never personally observed TOWER drink alcoholic beverages, and has never observed TOWER to be intoxicated. However, he stated that TOWER's drinking habits have been openly discussed in the Republican Party for twenty years or more.

b7C

Regarding TOWER's alleged womanizing, WRIGHT stated that he also could provide no personal observations or knowledge in this regard. However, he advised that he had been told the following story by an unrecalled acquaintance. In the 1960's, [redacted] recently elected to the [redacted] was leaving a Republican Party gathering at the HOUSTON OAKS ROOF HOTEL in Houston. When [redacted] his wife, and another couple entered the parking garage, they observed TOWER and [redacted] necking in the front seat of a car. [redacted] was allegedly so excited about seeing TOWER that he ran up to the car, opened the door, stuck out his hand, and introduced himself.

WRIGHT recalled that he was at a party at THE WARWICK HOTEL in Houston, Texas in the 1960's when an announcement was made over the paging system, "Senator JOHN TOWER is paging [redacted] was a [redacted] that TOWER was allegedly "running around with." WRIGHT had no information which could verify or disprove this allegation.

WRIGHT recalled that also in the 1960's, Dr. GEORGE WILLEFORD, of Austin, Texas was serving as the Chairman of the Republican Party of the State of Texas. WRIGHT along with some others sought to oust WILLEFORD, and groomed a candidate to replace him. [redacted] and JOHN TOWER suddenly returned to Texas to rally support for WILLEFORD. WRIGHT recalled that it was mentioned in conversation that TOWER's interest in WILLEFORD could be chalked up to the fact that he was having an affair with [redacted] HANK GROVER had relayed to WRIGHT that TOWER had obtained a contract for WILLEFORD, for treatment of the children of military personnel. b6 b7C

These are the only specific incidents that WRIGHT has heard about, or could recall hearing about. He stated that at the June 1988 State of Texas Republican Convention, held in Houston, JAMES E. LYON, President, RIVER OAKS BANK, had stated that TOWER "can't keep his pants zipped," and that he is an embarrassment to the Republican Party. WRIGHT also stated that at the 1976 Republican National Convention, held in Kansas City, TOWER did not have a floor pass, and the Texas delegation did not give him one. He was later spotted on the floor wearing a Mississippi pass, and the Texas Republicans reported him and had him thrown off the floor.

WRIGHT stated that there are many Republicans in Texas who dislike TOWER. He has heard it said that TOWER is arrogant, and that many Republicans disliked his open criticism of President RONALD REAGAN and his abilities. He stated that no matter how qualified TOWER may be for the position of Secretary of Defense, he feels TOWER could be easily blackmailed, and he considers him to be a security risk. He does not want to see TOWER confirmed as the Secretary of Defense.

HANK GROVER, 116 Jackson Boulevard, Houston, Texas telephone (713) 721-1106 was advised of the nature of the interview and the identity of the interviewing agent. He provided the following information.

GROVER has personally observed Senator JOHN TOWER drink heavily at Republican Party functions on perhaps a half dozen occasions. Each time GROVER observed him at these functions, (all in the 1970's) TOWER was drinking whiskey constantly. On one occasion, GROVER sat at a table with TOWER and observed him drink a whole bottle of Johnnie Walker Red in a two hour period. It was common knowledge at the time that TOWER drank a tremendous amount of alcohol.

On each of these occasions, TOWER was accompanied by young women. GROVER could not identify the women, and stated that TOWER was always with a different one. Typically, the fund raisers were held in hotels, and TOWER would be late. Someone would inevitably comment on TOWER's absence, and people would joke that TOWER would be down "in a couple of hours" after he had finished with his girlfriend upstairs. GROVER personally observed young girls "cuddling up to" and putting their arms around TOWER in public. One time in Austin, GROVER went to TOWER's hotel room with a problem. There was a young woman, 20-22 years old, alone with TOWER in the room.

During the mid to late 1960's it was "passed around as fact" that [redacted] moved to Washington D.C. as TOWER's girlfriend for approximately two years. At the time, [redacted] was separated from her first husband. It is GROVER's observation that TOWER is obnoxious, overbearing, and arrogant, and becomes even more so when drinking. He dismisses people who approach him with questions and problems. GROVER characterized TOWER as a selfish man who has no time for anyone but his "country club" set. GROVER stated that political conventions and fund-raisers do serve a purpose, but that TOWER never wanted to be bothered with any problems or questions relating to the party or politics. TOWER never "mixed with the people" as a politician should. GROVER feels that TOWER could make a mistake in judgement when drinking.

GROVER stated that he thought he should make the Bureau aware that he is no friend of TOWER's, and that he considers him to be a political enemy. During GROVER's campaign for Governor, TOWER made statements to the press that GROVER was not electable. For that reason, as well as other reasons, (previously relayed to the FBI) he does not like TOWER.

g. On February 16, 1989, an anonymous letter was received by b6 b7C the FBI alleging that in 1980 Lawrence Wood, of Refugio and Corpus Christi, Texas, paid for a month long hospital stay for Senator Tower, to help him "dry out".

Lawrence Wood, Refugio, Texas, [redacted] advised that he has known Senator Tower for over twenty years. Mr. Wood does not believe that Senator Tower has an alcohol problem. Since 1980, Mr. Wood has only seen Senator Tower consume wine after he promised his second wife he would give up "spirits." Mr. Wood commented that Senator Tower has overcome whatever alcohol problems he had.

Mr. Wood stated he last saw Senator Tower have a drink approximately four to five months ago when they were at The Mansion. On that occasion, Senator Tower consumed one glass of white wine and was never intoxicated during the evening. (See pages 51 and 52 of this summary of [redacted] recollection of alcohol consumption at this dinner.)

Mr. Wood stated he has no knowledge of any "womanizing" by Senator Tower. He also has no knowledge of any occasion when Senator Tower was hospitalized to "dry out" and he has never paid a bill for this type of treatment.

T-1 provided the following information:

T-1 is a retired naval officer having served over 20 years. From [redacted] he/she was stationed at the Naval Base at Corpus Christi, Texas. He/she resided in base housing at the installation. While there, he/she frequented the OFFICER'S CLUB on an almost nightly basis for dinner. He/she could not recall the specific address of the club, but described it as being a corner lot close to the ocean. He/she described the OFFICER'S CLUB as physically being a two-story building with the club on the first floor and an area referred to as "The Penthouse" on the second floor. "The Penthouse" was an area used to house visiting dignitaries and VIP visitors to the base. While he/she was a patron at the OFFICER'S CLUB, it came to his/her attention that "high class prostitutes" were available to the visiting dignitaries and VIPs on the second floor of the OFFICER'S CLUB. The doorway leading to this upstairs area is usually padlocked and the OFFICER'S CLUB manager has the key. Only the [redacted] knew about the prostitutes, as well as the club assistant manager/bookkeeper (name unrecalled), which T-1 described as an older white/female with blonde hair who has been employed there for at least 20 years. To T-1's knowledge, she was still working there as of six months ago. b7D

During his/her frequent visits to the OFFICER'S CLUB, T-1 met JOHN TOWER who was then a Senator for the State of Texas. TOWER was a frequent visitor of the base from 1980 through 1986, being there approximately one weekend a month. TOWER always stayed in the upstairs area referred to as "The Penthouse" while he visited there. T-1 has no firsthand knowledge of any activity TOWER might have had while staying there with any prostitutes. T-1 described TOWER as a very personable individual whom T-1 shared drinks with. T-1 bears no animosity towards TOWER, but is very concerned with the capacity which TOWER is being considered, specifically, the Secretary of Defense.

T-1 is a retired [redacted] stationed in Corpus Christi, Texas from [redacted] He/she retired at that time and moved off base staying in Corpus Christi until [redacted] From 1980-1983, T-1 was at the OFFICER'S CLUB quite frequently in the evenings during the week and almost every weekend night. After 1983, he/she was there only one weekend evening a month on average. b7D

He/she reaffirmed the fact that Senator JOHN TOWER would visit the base on the average of one weekend a month and stay in the second floor area of the OFFICER'S CLUB referred to as "The Penthouse". "High class prostitutes" were available there, but T-1 has no personal knowledge of TOWER'S activities regarding this. Also, T-1 could not recall any manager's or assistant manager's name, specifically the assistant manager T-1 described as an older white/female with blonde hair who had been employed there for perhaps 20 years.

In regards to TOWER'S use of alcohol, T-1 made the following observations. He/she observed TOWER get "drunk a lot" in the company of unknown individuals whom T-1 assumed to be staff members of TOWER. T-1 described TOWER as a "friendly drunk" who was not a "lone drinker". TOWER would drink to the point of staggering when he walked, but never became loud, belligerent or violent. He never became argumentive and was also congenial "just like a politician". T-1 never observed TOWER drink until he passed out, nor does he/she have any knowledge of TOWER drinking in his room on the second floor.

T-1 characterized a typical evening as beginning with a cocktail hour which would last until 7:00 p.m. or 8:00 p.m. Many of the local officers would leave at this point, but TOWER and those surrounding him would stay unless TOWER had a previous commitment. TOWER constantly drank and those surrounding him would normally pay for the drinks. T-1 himself/herself bought an occasional drink for TOWER, but did not do so on a regular basis. TOWER drank a variety of mixed drinks. He would usually stay until closing time which was between 1:00 a.m. and 1:30 a.m. on Fridays and midnight on Saturdays. T-1 never saw any outrageous behavior on the part of TOWER.

T-1 identified some of the officers he/she could recall being present generally during the cocktail hour. He/she could not recall their first names. They include various [redacted] of the base by the name of [redacted] (late 1980-late 1982), [redacted] (1982-1984) and [redacted] (1984). T-1 also identified another officer who may be able to corroborate his statements concerning TOWER'S use of alcohol as Admiral DISHER, who T-1 believes is now stationed in Pensacola, Florida. During this time frame, DISHER was the rank of Commodore and was in charge of the Training Command in Corpus Christi, Texas. DISHER frequently attended the cocktail hour at the OFFICER'S CLUB when TOWER was present, but would leave shortly after it ended. T-1 could not identify any other individuals involved.

Admiral Disher added that Senator Tower's presence at the base would have been infrequent, if at all. [redacted] noted that some of the charges on the account were made by individuals other than Senator Tower and some purchases were for gifts delivered to persons other than Senator Tower. A review of these alcoholic beverage purchases reflects that the majority of the alcoholic beverages are of various forms of wines and champagnes.

Contact with the Dallas Police Department (DPD) supervisory officers in the area where Senator Tower resides, for the shifts covering 4:00 pm to 8:00 am, disclosed that Senator Tower has not been stopped by any patrol officers in that sector for any reason. Contact with officers of the DPD Tactical Division, Special Events, revealed that several officers have provided security at functions at which Senator Tower was present; however, Senator Tower has never appeared to be inebriated or incapacitated in any way after these events.

[redacted] related that, between 1961 and 1963, Senator Tower addressed the Young Republican Club (YRC), of Memphis, Tennessee, of which she was a member. Because of the passage of time and the duplication of investigative effort regarding allegations of a similar nature, this allegation was not pursued further.

FD-302 (REV. 3-10-82)

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

[redacted] Election Crimes Branch, b6 b7C Public Integrity Section, Criminal Division, United States Department of Justice [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and was advised that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is currently conducting a background investigation concerning former Senator JOHN G. TOWER. [redacted] was further advised that allegations have been made that TOWER was lobbying to the United States Senate before he had registered as a lobbyist with the United States Senate.

[redacted] stated that lobbying at either branch of the United States Congress is regulated by the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act, (2 United States Code, Sections 261-270). This law, passed during 1946, came about as a result of a feeling among the American people that Congress had been excessively influenced by representatives of the defense industry during the second World War period. The law sought to give Senators and Representatives information concerning the individuals who came to them representing various causes. As a result of the limited purposes of this law, the law did not make any provisions for enforcement. In fact, the only obligation it places on the Secretary of the United States Senate or the Clerk of the House of Representatives is that the information filed as a result of this law must be made public and be available for review. If an individual or company wishes to register as a lobbyist under this Act, the law requires that this person or corporation register its name with the United States Congress as well as the names of the corporations or interests which are being represented by them. The Act further requires that quarterly financial statements must be filed disclosing any contributions or income received and any expenses incurred in connection with lobbying. The law, in Section 310a and b, specifies that any person who violates any provisions of this Act shall, upon conviction, be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than twelve months or both fine and imprisonment. Section b requires that, in addition to any penalties provided for in Section a, a person convicted of a misdemeanor specified in Section a is prohibited from attempting to influence the passage or defeat of proposed legislation for a period of three years. Any individual found to be violating this provision shall, upon conviction, be found guilty of a felony and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for more than five years or both fine and imprisonment.

[redacted] described the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act as an early attempt by Congress to legislate a very difficult situation. Not only are the definitions in the law vague to begin with, but courts over the years have narrowed or confined the definitions given in the law and have broadened or greatly expanded exemptions or exceptions given in the law. He specifically noted a Supreme Court case during 1952, United States versus Harriss. In this case, an individual was prosecuted for violating the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act. In its finding, the court greatly narrowed the kind of financing which would cause a requirement for an individual to register as a lobbyist under this Act. Before that court decision, any contribution or payment by a corporation to an individual could have caused that individual to need to register as a lobbyist. After this Supreme Court decision, only payment to an individual from funds which were specifically contributed for the purpose of lobbying placed such a requirement on the individual. As a result of this change in definition, payments to a potential lobbyist from work-related funds, from normal funds produced by a corporation in its daily activities, did not place any requirement on the individual to register as a lobbyist. Only funds which were specifically raised by the corporation for the purpose of lobbying and were thus contributed to the potential lobbyist could have caused the need to register. In addition, the Supreme Court found that only lobbying which was direct and personal between the lobbyist and a Member of Congress was found to be lobbying under the definition of this Act. As a result of this change, any contact between a lobbyist and the members of a Senator's staff would not place any requirement on an individual to register as a lobbyist. Section 307 of the above law states the purposes for which one must register as a lobbyist. To need to register as a lobbyist, an individual must aid in the passage or defeat of any legislation by the Congress or must attempt to influence, directly or indirectly, the passage or defeat of any legislation by Congress.

In summary, [redacted] stated that, in order for an individual or organization to need to register as a lobbyist under the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act, an individual must personally and directly contact a member of Congress in order to bring about passage or defeat of legislation or in order to influence, directly or indirectly the passage or defeat of legislation. In addition, this individual must be paid for this work from funds which were raised through contribution to the lobbyist as opposed to funds which came out of the normal working budget of a corporation, funds which are produced by the work of the corporation. [redacted] stated that this is an extremely narrow definition and set of requirements. In summary, [redacted] stated that "the present law doesn't mean anything and it's impossible to violate it." He stated that he and other officials of the Justice Department worked extensively with Congress during 1977 and finally produced some corrective legislation on this subject. This legislation passed both bodies of Congress, but died in the Conference Committee when the Congress adjourned during October, 1977. No addition legislation has been passed since then. As a result, the original 1946 law along with interpretations by the Courts over the years are the operating requirements concerning lobbying.

[redacted] was shown a copy of the last paragraph on page three and the first paragraph on page four of the December 21, 1988 interview of JOHN G. TOWER by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. [redacted] was asked to comment concerning the validity of the statements made by TOWER concerning his lobbying. Upon reading the last paragraph on page three, where TOWER states that the legal or technical definition of lobbying is "sufficiently vague that you don't know" when you are lobbying and when you are not and where TOWER states his own practical definition of lobbying, [redacted] advised that "that's exactly how I would express it."

Upon reading that TOWER did, in fact, register as a lobbyist on February 1 or 2, 1988, [redacted] stated that TOWER had followed the advice that [redacted] has given over the years many times, that is "if in doubt, do it", by which [redacted] meant that it is often smart to register as a lobbyist even though the requirement to do so is extremely narrow. He feels it is smart to register in such a case to avoid any misunderstanding.

[redacted] advised that, if TOWER was lobbying on behalf of the REAGAN Administration, there was no necessity for him to register as a lobbyist, since the Federal Registration of Lobbying Act contains an exception for lobbying by the Executive Branch. In addition, there would have been no requirement for TOWER to lobby based upon his calls to the [redacted] since the law states that lobbying must be done directly to a Member of Congress, and makes absolutely no mention of members of the Executive Branch.

Based upon the information made available on page four of the December 21, 1988 interview of TOWER, [redacted] advised that it would not even have been necessary for TOWER to register as a lobbyist because of work he did for LTV Corporation, since the law requires that he be paid out of contributions and not out of the normal working budget and work-produced funds of a corporation. When asked how a lobbyist could possibly be paid out of contributions in a similar case, [redacted] advised that if several defense contractors formed an organization and each contributed money to that organization, that organization could then hire an individual to lobby Members of Congress. In that narrow instances, the individual would need to register as a lobbyist since he had filled each of the requirements of the law, dealing directly with a Member of Congress, attempting to influence legislation, and having been paid from contributions.

[redacted] stated that it is perfectly acceptable for an individual to call even a Member of Congress while he is being paid from contributed funds and inquire about the status of a project without being required to register as a lobbyist. This is the case because one does not fulfill any of the purposes as listed in Section 307 a or b of the above law. Thus, based upon a reading of the last several lines of page four of the December 21, 1988 interview of TOWER, he would not have been required to register as a lobbyist based upon these telephone calls and would not have violated the Act for not doing so.

[redacted] was asked whether or not it was necessary for an individual who was employed as a Member of the Board of Directors of a corporation, such as a defense contractor, to register as a lobbyist. [redacted] stated that it would only be necessary for such an individual to register as a lobbyist if he fulfilled the requirements of the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act as interpreted by the Courts, and as described above.

FD-302a (Rev. 11-15-83)

Continuation of FD-302 of [redacted], On 2/14/89, Page 5

[redacted] stated that, for the purposes of the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act (as opposed to the Foreign Agents Registration Act) it makes no difference whether the company for which a person is working is an American subsidiary of a foreign company or is a completely American company. The individual who is a Member of the Board of Directors only needs to register as a lobbyist if he fulfills the requirements stated above. [redacted] advised that it is entirely possible for an individual to earn a great deal of money as a Consultant working for a defense contractor and never find it necessary to register as a lobbyist. Noting the very narrow requirements of the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act, [redacted] stated that there are many activities an individual might undertake as a Consultant which do not come anywhere near requiring registration as a lobbyist. He advised that the penalties for violating the statute are clearly listed under Section 310a and b, as noted above.

RAYMOND LLOYD THOMAS, 258 Southeast Bangsberg Road, Port Charlotte, Florida, (813) 625-5058, a white male born January 11, 1907, advised as follows, after being advised of the identity of the interviewing agent, both verbally and by show of credentials, and of the purpose of the interview.

THOMAS was President of SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OF TEXAS in Mineral Wells, Texas, and confirmed the main function of the company was training all entry-level military helicopter pilots. THOMAS is not aware of any employees' paychecks being reduced by $150.00, or any amount, to cover any type of political contributions to Senator JOHN TOWER or on his behalf, or to anyone else. He is not aware of any written or verbal instructions in that regard. He is not aware of anyone being reimbursed for any such $150.00 deduction from his paycheck.

THOMAS is not aware of any SOUTHERN AIRWAYS employees being asked to contribute $200.00 to Senator TOWER's campaign or on his behalf. He is not aware of any arrangements with a Mineral Wells bank to loan SOUTHERN AIRWAYS employees the $200.00 if they needed the money. He is not aware of any employee of his company being asked for any campaign contributions for JOHN TOWER or on his behalf. If any such contributions or arrangements were made through his company, he should have known, and he is not aware of any at all.

THOMAS did have three or four contacts with Senator TOWER. These were at meetings or appearances of TOWER in Mineral Wells, where he may have been introduced to Senator TOWER and shook his hand. THOMAS never had any private conversations with Senator TOWER, and did not know him very well.

THOMAS recalled that there was a fear of moving the Fort Wolters operation during the Vietnam War, but thought it was around 1966, or at least not around any time that Senator TOWER was running for re-election. TOWER did make a few trips to Mineral Wells to assure the townspeople that he was trying to keep the Fort Walters facility open. THOMAS recalled Senator TOWER stating in one of his addresses to the townspeople that he had just talked to the President that day, and he told the President that, if they did not keep the Fort Walters base open, he, TOWER, would be dead in Texas. TOWER also stated he was doing what he could to keep the base open. TOWER was just trying to show what he was doing for the Texas community, which was dependent upon the base.

The base actually did not close until the end of the Vietnam War, around 1972. By that time there was very little need for the entry pilot helicopter training program, and most of SOUTHERN AIRWAYS' program had been phased out at that point. What was left ended up being transferred to Fort Rucker, Alabama. SOUTHERN AIRWAYS, at that point, just went out of business.

THOMAS admitted that, if the base had closed during the initial threat during the Vietnam War, he stood to lose a lot because his company was geared to the base. THOMAS at one time accompanied a Texas state senator to meet with Governor CONNOLLY of Texas to try to keep the base open. THOMAS was trying as hard as anyone else to try to keep the facility open, but he never had any dealings with Senator TOWER other than those described above.

THOMAS, himself, did not recall making any political contributions to TOWER's campaign, and does not recall anyone soliciting same from him. A long time has passed since then, but THOMAS does not really recall any contributions at this time.

THOMAS also does not recall any townspeople being solicited for contributions to TOWER's campaign. THOMAS commented that, if TOWER needed any money, he would not have to solicit SOUTHERN AIRWAYS employees or the townspeople of Mineral Wells.

THOMAS knows [redacted] but was not aware of any solicitations by [redacted] for Senator TOWER's campaign contributions, nor did he know of any association [redacted] had with Senator TOWER or his campaign. b6 b7C

THOMAS is not aware of any other derogatory or disreputable information regarding Senator TOWER. He has been following the news regarding Senator TOWER's appointment. THOMAS was even surprised about TOWER's drinking problems, as alleged in the media, because he did not even see Senator TOWER take one drink while he was visiting Mineral Wells, and there was plenty of opportunity for such activity.

Title: JOHN GOODWIN TOWER

Character: SPECIAL INQUIRY

Synopsis:

HARRY J. GRAY, former Chief Executive Officer, UNITED TECHNOLOGIES CORPORATION (UTC), advised he was introduced to Senator JOHN TOWER during the mid 1970's by [redacted] UTC, Government Affairs. GRAY indicated that for the next approximate 15 years he would meet TOWER at affairs sponsored by the United States Government or private enterprise and at no time did he observe TOWER to be inebriated or out of control. GRAY is of the opinion that former Senator TOWER's drinking or use of alcohol does not make him susceptible to compromise, lead to him divulging sensitive information, or in any way effect his ability to perform as Secretary of Defense. GRAY recommends TOWER to the position of Secretary of Defense and is of the opinion TOWER would do an excellent job. In 1983, GRAY recommended [redacted] to be selected as [redacted] UTC. GRAY can not recall discussing with [redacted] a telephone call allegedly received by [redacted] from [redacted] wherein [redacted] demanded contributions from UTC top executives. GRAY does not recall making a personal contribution to Senator TOWER's campaign and, if necessary, advised he would go through his cancelled checks for 1983, if requested to do so by the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI). GRAY recalls that Senator TOWER travelled with UTC executives on the UTC jet to West Germany in 1983, and while in his company, both on the aircraft and at affairs in West Germany, he never noted Senator TOWER to be inebriated. Additionally, GRAY is unaware of any honorarium paid to TOWER to induce him to travel to West Germany. GRAY has serious reservations about [redacted] recollection of events concerning [redacted] employment at UTC and questions [redacted] credibility concerning [redacted] was fired by GRAY in September, 1984, for acting outside the scope of UTC policy in attempting to commit UTC to a $700 million contract without having the proposal first passed upon by the Board of Directors.

DETAILS:

GRAY cannot recall what it was that Senator TOWER drank; however, does recall that his drink was clear. He in attempting to recall what it was that Senator TOWER drank indicated that Senator TOWER was not drinking a dark brown drink (bourbon) or a light brown drink (scotch).

In his opinion, former Senator TOWER's drinking or use of alcohol does not make him susceptible to compromise, lead to the divulging of sensitive information or in any way effect his ability to perform as Secretary of Defense.

GRAY advised on those occasions when he met Senator TOWER at affairs in Washington, D.C., if he were to discuss business with Senator TOWER, Senator TOWER would caution him that he does not wish to discuss business at the particular affair at which they were attending and would suggest that the matter be brought up with him at a more private time and location, such as their offices. On those occasions when he spoke with Senator TOWER at TOWER's offices, GRAY noted that Senator TOWER was a good listener, and he was an individual who would never commit himself to any of the business proposals which GRAY presented to him regarding GRAY's obvious pitch for defense contract work for UTC.

He considered Senator TOWER to be an individual who made the best utilization of his time and did not consider him to be a time waster. In all of the contacts that he has had with Senator TOWER, whether they be socially or in a business setting, he cannot recall over the past approximate 15 years anything which would indicate any impropriety or activity which would be considered inappropriate. He considered TOWER to be a very perceptive individual, and notes that TOWER is a very quiet individual, who spends more time listening than he does talking. He indicated that Senator TOWER is the type of individual who readily can get to the heart of the matter without being confused by the chaff. GRAY recommends TOWER to the position of Secretary of Defense, and is of the opinion that TOWER would do an excellent job.

In 1983, GRAY recommended to the Board of Directors, UTC, Hartford, Connecticut, that [redacted] formerly with [redacted] be selected for [redacted] of UTC, Hartford, Connecticut. [redacted] would be directly responsible to him and he would [redacted] of UTC, to include PRATT AND WHITNEY AIRCRAFT and SIKORSKY AIRCRAFT; however, he would have no control over the service companies which comprise such entities as OTIS ELEVATOR COMPANY and several other service companies. b6 b7C

In September, 1984, GRAY [redacted] from his position at UTC. He indicated that the reason [redacted] was that he was acting far beyond his responsibility [redacted] of UTC and operating outside of the policies of UTC. [redacted] was about ready to commit UTC to a business proposition which would have obligated UTC to a commitment [redacted] At that time, UTC policy was such that any business commitment on the part of UTC which was to exceed $50.0 million was to be brought to the attention of the Board of Directors for UTC, who would then decide whether the corporation would proceed in that vein. [redacted] attempted to go around the Board of Directors to commit UTC far beyond the dollar amount in their existing policy and thereafter [redacted]

GRAY advised that he has learned that subsequent to [redacted] [redacted] had made a list of improprieties which GRAY had allegedly perpetrated as CEO of UTC, and the 37 allegations which [redacted] had made resulted in an 11 month investigation to determine whether GRAY should retain his security clearance or not. Several allegations made by [redacted] against GRAY included cover-up of murders at UTC facilities.

An allegation made by [redacted] indicating that in 1983 he received a telephone call from [redacted] demanding that a contribution be made on the part of the Executives of UTC to Senator TOWER's re-election campaign was discussed with GRAY. GRAY indicated that he cannot recall discussing with [redacted] a telephone call which was made to [redacted] by the [redacted] He indicated that if any telephone call like that would have been made, it would have been made to him and not [redacted] He indicated further that a telephone call like that from [redacted] would have been highly out of character by [redacted] He indicated that he knows [redacted] personally and cannot think of any instance where [redacted] would be soliciting funds for an incumbent Senator.

GRAY advised that as a result of the alleged conversation that [redacted] had with [redacted] he is not aware of making a personal contribution to the re-election campaign of Senator TOWER in 1983, and questions why this would have been solicited from him in 1983 for a campaign in 1984.

He advised that if the FBI thought it necessary for him to review his personal checks for the year 1983, he would be happy to do so in an attempt to locate a check for $1,000 or any amount for that matter to support TOWER's re-election.

GRAY does not recall any instance where [redacted] represented UTC in either Dallas or Houston, and presented personal checks written by UTC Executives to TOWER in support of his re-election. b6 b7C

GRAY advised that UTC on an annual basis travels to Germany with their corporate officers and conducts what has been dubbed by UTC Executives the NORTH ATLANTIC ROUND TABLE. On those occasions when the UTC aircraft is not fully loaded, invitations are given to United States Government officials who are also going to be in attendance in West Germany to ride cost free on the UTC aircraft. During 1983, GRAY recalls that Senator TOWER was invited to ride on the UTC aircraft to Germany. He advised that while in Germany, TOWER attended several of the affairs and at no time did he ever note that TOWER was inebriated, out of control or in any way under the influence of alcohol.

Regarding the trip to Germany, GRAY is unaware of any honorarium paid to Senator TOWER to induce him to travel to West Germany with UTC. He advised to the best of his recollection, TOWER had business other than the UTC ROUND TABLE and recalls that TOWER in addition to attending ROUND TABLE affairs, also conducted business while he was in Europe. This business was United States Government related and had to do with TOWER's position on the SENATE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE.

GRAY advised that he has serious reservations about [redacted] recollection of events concerning his employment at UTC and questions [redacted] credibility concerning [redacted]

Synopsis: In 1972 or 1973, LR T-1 was in attendance at a party in Austin, Texas, also attended by TOWER. During this party, LR T-1 saw TOWER drinking either bourbon or scotch heavily, consuming approximately 1/2 to 3/4 of a quart. As the party progressed, TOWER took off articles of his clothing and, toward the end of the party, TOWER stood on a table or a piano, clad only in his underwear, singing with musicians. There was marijuana at the party, and LR T-1 saw Senator TOWER smoke marijuana. LR T-1 does not remember how much marijuana Senator TOWER smoked, but it was definitely more than one puff.

VERNE ORR, 1444 Hillcrest Avenue, Pasadena, California, telephone (818) 796-6526, was telephonically contacted following a visit to his residence on February 17, 1989, which determined that he was unavailable for interview until February 21, 1989. ORR stated that as the past Secretary of the Air Force, he went to many functions that had Senator JOHN TOWER present. ORR did not recall that TOWER had ever been inebriated and had always been in complete control of himself.

As a policy, ORR never attended parties that would hint of a conflict of interest and did not visit one held by the Hughes Aircraft Company on the night in question.

ORR did not know the name [redacted] nor has he been placed in any situation that would make him believe the "womanizing" allegation was true. b6 b7C

[redacted] Petroleum Engineer, [redacted] Midland, Texas 79701, telephone [redacted] was contacted at his office. After being advised of the identities of the Agents and the nature of the interview, [redacted] freely provided the following information:

The interview concerned JOHN TOWER (the appointee) who has been nominated by United States President GEORGE BUSH to be Secretary of Defense.

[redacted] has known the appointee since about 1960. Both [redacted] and the appointee have long been members of the Republican Party in politics, though [redacted] noted the two were not always allies and have had opposing views during certain political primary contests. While [redacted] and the appointee have not visited each other's home, they have spent time together socially in hotels, meetings and functions over the years.

[redacted] while not always agreeing with the appointee on issues, has always supported and admired him. The appointee is a man of character and the utmost honesty. The appointee's associates are all good people and [redacted] has no reason to doubt the integrity of any of them. The appointee holds unquestioned loyalty to the United States and its form of government and is one of the strongest supporters of the country. The appointee has the ability to carry out the duties of the position for which he is being considered. [redacted] described the appointee as articulate and knowledgeable on defense matters.

The appointee enjoys a good reputation with [redacted] personally, however [redacted] was aware that among other individuals the appointee is considered to drink alcohol excessively and to be a womanizer. [redacted] pointed out that he recalled the appointee in earlier times (e.g. 1960s) to drink more than he does now, and to have a liking for ladies. [redacted] felt the word "womanizer" was too strong a term to be applied to the appointee.

[redacted] feels the appointee is being unfairly attacked by people who do not personally like him. [redacted] said that in the last six to ten years, the appointee has consumed very little alcohol and this was the result of the appointee's conscious effort to reduce his consumption. Before that time, the appointee would drink more alcohol than [redacted] personally thought one should, but even then he was never impaired by it. [redacted] believes the appointee would not consume alcohol to the point where it would impair or influence his capability to function for the position under consideration.

[redacted] has not known the appointee to have sexual relations with other women. Since he and the appointee have traveled and spent time together, [redacted] said the appointee would have had to have taken steps to hide such affairs if they occurred. [redacted] had no direct or indirect knowledge of the appointee being a womanizer or behaving chauvinistically toward women. [redacted] knows the appointee to enjoy a good reputation among women.

[redacted] does not know the appointee to consume illicit narcotic drugs or to use prescription medications. [redacted] advised he did not know any derogatory information about the appointee and that the appointee has not engaged in conflict of interest situations.

In response to specific questions from the Agents, [redacted] said he was familiar with one [redacted] a [redacted] in Lubbock, Texas. [redacted] recalled [redacted] as a member of the republican party and as having been [redacted] about 12 to 14 years ago.

[redacted] could not recall ever hearing of an entity named, or know by the letters, "DRG".

[redacted] had no knowledge of anyone ever borrowing money through the SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (SBA) or the DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT (HUD) to be then used in turn to be directed or loaned to the appointee's benefit.

[redacted] was able to recall during the interview that in or around 1969-1970 certain Federally built housing projects were planned for certain communities in West Texas, perhaps near or in the cities of Big Spring or Pecos. These projects were the result of plans put forth during the preceding Democratic Party presidency of LYNDON JOHNSON. As [redacted] recalled it, the appointee was then a United States Senator from Texas and was involved in trying to assemble a group of individuals to sponsor such public housing projects. These sponsors would then build the projects that would be paid for by the Federal government. Each sponsor was expected to profit by approximately 10% for his efforts.

[redacted] declined to be a sponsor for the projects because he was opposed to Federal housing programs as a matter of principle. Some other republican party members did sponsor these projects, however. [redacted] pointed out that there was nothing improper with participating in such a project and that the appointee's efforts in gathering sponsors was nothing more than what every other Senator has done. [redacted] stated it is possible [redacted] was a sponsor for such a housing project. It would also not surprise [redacted] that these sponsors would include contributors to the appointee's election campaigns since such people would have been contributors all along. In any event, the appointee did not personally profit from the housing project to [redacted] knowledge. [redacted] did not know of any SBA or HUD loan proceeds being used in such housing projects.

(Note: Upon returning to the office, [redacted] telephoned Agent [redacted] to state that while he was still unfamiliar with DRG, it may be possible that such was the name of an affiliation of individuals. G may have stood for [redacted] D for [redacted] of Waco, Texas; and R for [redacted] an [redacted] from El Paso, Texas.)

[redacted] had no reservation about re[illegible]mending the appointee for the position.

[redacted] resides at [redacted] Midland, Texas 79705 telephone [redacted] and was born [redacted]

During early 1970, exact date unrecalled, [redacted] was a Flight Commander for Southern Airways of Texas, Incorporated (SAT) at Fort Walters, located at Mineral Wells, Texas. During a Section Commanders Meeting, a representative of SAT, name unrecalled, informed the group that Fort Walters was "on the hit list" for closing. Senator TOWER was in favor of keeping the Base open and SAT employees wanted approximately $120 from each flight's "safety money" to support TOWER. There was a support rally held at the Holiday Inn in Mineral Wells, Texas, which [redacted] did not attend. [redacted] did not like the company telling the Flight Commanders that the contribution had to be made; however, [redacted] is sure that he and all other Flight Commanders instructed that the money be contributed.

[redacted] explained that the "safety money" is made up of $125 to $150 given to each flight when a class completes a course without an accident. The money is given to each flight by SAT and each flight keeps the money to pay for parties and flight functions. None of the money came from the Commanders of the flights instructor pilots or other employees. [redacted] was certain that he would recall if any unauthorized deductions for any type of political contribution had been taken from his salary. [redacted] further commented that had the money been taken from his salary it would have been taken from other Flight Commanders and Flight Instructors; he is sure there would have been alot of talk and complaining. [redacted] specifically stated that he does not recall [redacted] complaining to him about any unauthorized deduction.

[redacted] volunteered that of all of the pilots that he had under his supervision he would have picked Instructor Pilot [redacted] as the individual that would make such a complaint.

Following the 1970 elections, TOWER's campaign fund team, [redacted] met in January, 1971, to begin planning his reelection campaign for 1972. As it was too early to formally announce his campaign, the Friends of John Tower (FOJT) Organization was formed to begin building financial support for the coming campaign. [redacted] was listed as the [redacted] the Organization with [redacted] at the time) listed as [redacted] and [redacted] listed as [redacted] FOJT set up offices in a business building at the intersection of 15th Street and Guadalupe in Austin. In April, 1971, FOJT sponsored a fund raiser which was held in Dallas. This took the form of a testimonial banquet, the "Decade of Service" dinner to honor TOWER's achievements in the U.S. Senate. [redacted] could not recall if the banquet was $50.00/plate or $100.00/plate, but remembered the affair was a phenomenal success. It was recognized as the most successful Republican Party fund raiser held in Texas to that date, and approximately $200,000.00 was raised at this event. FOJT also managed to obtain contributions from other sources, including funds from regular contributors to TOWER's political activities. Prior to the campaign, these funds were used to pay for TOWER's travel to various Republican party meetings and events which could not properly be charged to the government.

[redacted] was absolutely positive that at no time did the campaign receive any extremely large contributions from a single individual or organization. Later in the campaign, [redacted] accompanied [redacted] and [redacted] on a flight across the state to personally pickup the larger contributions and she recalled no contributions in excess of $5,000.00. She was familiar with [redacted] describing him as a successful [redacted] who had been appointed to an [redacted] by President RICHARD NIXON. To her knowledge, [redacted] was a regular contributor to TOWER's campaign, but she believed he never gave more than $1,000.00 at any one time.

In April, 1972, TOWER formally announced his candidacy for reelection and his campaign organization Texans for Tower (TFT), was formed. [redacted] of FOJT transferred approximately $250,000.00, most of which had been raised at the "Decade of Service" dinner in Dallas from FOJT to TFT. FOJT was duly registered with the Office of the Secretary of the United States Senate and [redacted] also duly reported the transfer of funds from FOJT to TFT. New federal campaign laws went into effect in 1972, and [redacted] recalled that particular efforts were made to maintain accurate records of the contributors and the amount they had contributed in order to ensure compliance with the new laws.

After the election, the Political Action Organizations Common Cause (CC) made allegations that TOWER had received $200,000.00 in improper contributions from "campaign angels." [redacted] explained a "campaign angel" is a single, extremely wealthy individual or organization that pledges a huge contribution to a candidate before the campaign is initiated. This serves as a guarantee the campaign will be sufficiently financed in the event anticipated contributions during the campaign prove deficient. As a result of efforts to enforce the new law and the CC allegations, FOJT and TFT were examined by two separate federal agencies. [redacted] recalled one agency was the General Accounting Office (GAO) and she believed the other was the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). Both investigations proved the CC allegations to be incorrect, and that the $200,000.00 came from the FOJT "Decade of Service" dinner in Dallas. Fortunately, FOJT was able to provide complete financial records concerning the contributions despite a fire which destroyed most of their offices at the intersection of 15th Street and Guadalupe. The financial records were maintained in [redacted] office, which was away from the center of the fire, in a metal file cabinet, so they received minimal damage. [redacted] had also made a deposit in FOJT's account at the First City Bank, Austin, on the day of the fire, so no funds were lost beyond $20.00 or $30.00 maintained as petty cash. [redacted] office, where the campaign records were maintained, was a total loss, but she was in the habit of maintaining duplicates of the important records in her home, so these were available for inspection. She did not know where the financial records from the campaign were stored at the present, as she did not work directly with those files. She advised [redacted] being the former treasurer of FOJT, would be the person most likely to know of their location.

[redacted] has not had too much contact with TOWER since 1973, but she is a great admirer of the man. She described him as a "great American" who is very devoted to the United States and has long demonstrated a great interest in the military. She always considered TOWER a "brilliant" man and has seen him exhibit exceptional powers of memory on occasion. She also considered TOWER a person of scrupulous honesty. To [redacted] knowledge, TOWER was a professor of government prior to his election to Congress, and did not enter office as a wealthy man. Due to his position on committee's overseeing the banking industry, he divested himself of any investments he may have had and precluded himself from making any new investments in order to avoid even an appearance of impropriety. It was considered a matter of some amusement in Texas that in the late 1970s TOWER was still driving, and still making payments on, an old Buick automobile he had purchased in the early 1970s. [redacted] reported this was not surprising, however, as TOWER was maintaining residences in Washington and Texas at the time, as well as providing college educations for his three daughters. In her opinion, TOWER probably left the U.S. Senate in the same financial condition as when he entered.

[redacted] pointed out one incident indicative of TOWER's integrity. [redacted] and other members of the campaign staff had pushed TOWER and his family to make a large amount of personal appearances across Texas on numerous weekends, and the TOWER family had accepted the grueling schedule without complaint. After the election [redacted] was present at a meeting with TOWER, [redacted] and [redacted] TOWER's [redacted] owned a condominium in Acapulco, Mexico, which he had offered to TOWER for a post-election vacation with his family. [redacted] and [redacted] in light of the hard work during the election by the TOWER family, were urging TOWER to take advantage of the offer. Sensing TOWER was not able to provide air fare for his family to Mexico from his personal finances, they suggested providing the fare from approximately $25,000.00 in campaign contributions which were held back for post-election expenses. In the past, it had been customary to use campaign funds for short rest and recreation trips awarded to overworked staff members, but TOWER questioned the propriety of such an expenditure under the new federal election laws. Finally [redacted] said, "Go ahead and take the vacation, who will know?" TOWER looked straight at [redacted] and said, "I will." That was the end of the conversation and TOWER did not take the vacation.

During the years [redacted] was closely associated with TOWER, she never observed him to have problems with excessive consumption of alcoholic beverages. She did note he was involved in the Washington "cocktail scene" for over 20 years, due to his position, but she never knew of alcohol consumption ever interfering with performance of his Senatorial duties. During those years, she never had reason to believe that TOWER was unfaithful to his wife in any way. She stated that TOWER would usually be in Texas for a limited amount of time while he was a senator and that staff meetings would often be held at unusual times and in unusual places to maximize TOWER's availability. Breakfast and dinner meetings in restaurants were common, as were meetings in motel suites and airport lounges. [redacted] was familiar with "Forty Acres Club" in Austin, and advised TOWER had often stayed at this facility while in Austin. He found it convenient to be able to have his meals in the restaurant, just downstairs from his room, without having to leave the premises. [redacted] was never aware of any inappropriate behavior by TOWER during his stays there. She pointed out that most of TOWER's staff members were female, due to the nature of the business conducted by the office, and he would often be seen in their company as they had the various staff meetings while he was in Austin. But to her knowledge, TOWER spent the remainder of the time with his wife.

In [redacted] opinion, TOWER has always been a person of good character, associates, and reputation. She described him as a "party loyalist" who always attended the State Republican Executive Committee meetings in Texas. As an employer, he was willing to delegate responsibility while at the same time maintaining an awareness of the office operations and he was sensitive to the welfare of his staff. In his personal life, [redacted] never knew TOWER to use illegal drugs, abuse alcohol or to engage in any conduct which would interfere with the performance of his elected or appointed duties. He was always scrupulously honest in meeting his financial obligations, as well as circumspect in his sources of income. TOWER always displayed an unabiding loyalty to the United States, as well as an impressive knowledge and understanding of his professional duties. [redacted] highly recommended TOWER for the position of Secretary of Defense.

He provided a copy of the Austin Fire Department Investigative Report concerning the fire that occurred at the Tower Campaign Headquarters, 1500 Guadalupe, Austin, Texas on May 9, 1972. He was not involved in the investigation and does not know the whereabouts of the original investigator, [redacted]

The fire was discovered and reported at about 11:30 p.m. on May 9, 1972. By the time it was brought under control, extensive damage had been done to the first and second floors of the building, especially the Tower Campaign offices. The report indicated that the fire was originally thought to have been caused by a firebomb thrown through the front window of the office. A security guard in the back of the building heard what he thought was something being thrown through the window, followed by an explosion. Witnesses on the outside of the building however, stated that the fire was already going in the office area and that the windows broke as a result of the heat generated from within. Two Austin Police Detectives observed a long-haired male subject throw a rock through one of the windows after they had arrived, but the fire was already going and they were unable to apprehend him. In addition, the anti-war movement was quite active in this area and it was immediately assumed that this fire was related to other firebombings that had occurred in the area.

Further investigation by [redacted] led him to conclude that the fire was actually caused by an overheating light fixture in the ceiling of the first floor. Arson was therefore ruled out and the case was closed.

The report also contains the newspaper clippings of the incident as it was reported in the Austin American Statesman. The Austin Fire Department still maintains the original report in their files. A copy of it has been made available to the Bureau.

T-2 was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and the purpose of the interview being conducted. T-2 provided the following information:

During the late 1960's and early 70's, T-2 worked closely with Senator TOWER and was in a position to observe both his professional and personal conduct.

When questioned about specific allegations that Senator TOWER, on one occasion, became quite drunk, took his clothes off, danced on a piano, and smoked marijuana, T-2 emphatically stated that it never happened.

From 1968-70, T-2 was in a position to observe Senator at the Forty Acres Club in Austin. On numerous occasions T-2 observed him drinking to the point of passing out. In addition, he engaged in a variety of intimate affairs with his female staff members. T-2 was unable to provide information on specific instances due to the passage of time but indicated that they were common place happenings at the time.

During the 1972 election, T-2 was privy to information about who was donating money to the TOWER campaign. T-2 indicated that there were a number of donors who made contributions but that none of the contributions were large. T-2 was familiar with [redacted] and described him as a friend of TOWER's and a Republican Party leader in the El Paso area. T-2 does not recall that he made any substantial contributions to the campaign fund in 1972. T-2 stated that, despite his personal excesses, Senator TOWER's professional integrity was uncompromising and T-2 doubts that he would have had anything to do with a contribution that might have even appeared improper. b6 b7C

T-2 characterized the TOWER of 15 years ago as a man who took his governmental responsibilities very seriously and performed his official duties in a manner that was beyond reproach. T-2 was always impressed with the fact that he would always vote according to what he felt was right and would not let special interest groups ie., defense contractors, sway his vote. His personal integrity, however, was a different matter and T-2 feels that his drinking and numerous extramarital affairs may have put him in a compromising situation. T-2 feels that he is one of the most qualified persons for the position of Secretary of Defense, but is afraid that his personal habits and problems will interfere. T-2 believes that TOWER is a loyal citizen of the United States and has never had reason to doubt that loyalty. T-2 has never known him to smoke marijuana and doubts that he would ever use illegal drugs as he has strong feelings against them. T-2 would not recommend him for a sensitive position of trust within the United States Government.

Dear [redacted]

I am concerned about the repeated failures of the Executive Branch to provide documents required by the Committee in connection with its consideration of the nomination of Senator John Tower to be Secretary of Defense, particularly with regard to alleged misconduct in Geneva.

In response to our request in January, the Air Force provided us with the Air Force Office of Special Investigations file on [redacted] who had served with the delegation in Geneva. Information had been brought to our attention indicating that a file on [redacted] might contain material alleging misconduct on Senator Tower's part in Geneva. The file provided by the Air Force contained no adverse information concerning Senator Tower.

We have subsequently learned that the file provided to us was not complete. The FBI Report of February 20 states that the Air Force OSI Report on [redacted] consists of four components, only three of which were provided to us. The fourth component is missing and there is no explanation.

Another problem concerning the Air Force OSI file is that it does not contain a Memorandum to the OSI, which was subsequently provided to by a different agency, which suggests misconduct on the part of Senator Tower. This memorandum is directly related to the [redacted] investigation, yet it was not in the Air Force OSI file on [redacted]

On January 20, we asked your office to determine whether there was a file on [redacted] at the Office of Personnel Management, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, or the Department of State. Your office advised us that no such file existed.

Two weeks later, after publication of a newspaper report purporting to quote from a report on [redacted] (that had not been made available to the Committee), we again raised the issue and were subsequently advised your office that there was indeed a file on [redacted] maintained by the Office of Personnel Management.

On February 6, 1989, I requested that the FBI determine who at OPM was responsible for the initial failure to provide the file in January and whether there was any tampering with the file. We also noted that it was "imperative that the FBI determine whether [redacted] b6 b7C there are any other files on [redacted] at any other agency that have not been previously examined," and I asked that we be advised as to whether these files contain any information on Senator Tower.

Your office provided us with the OPM file, which contained a memorandum to the Air Force OSI alleging misconduct on the part of Senator Tower. That memorandum was not in the file provided to us by the Air Force. As I noted to you in a letter dated February 17: "This leaves open questions as to the origin of the document, the reasons it was not included in the OSI file, and the circumstances under which it was obtained and considered by OPM. These are questions that are likely to be asked as we proceed with consideration of this nomination." I urged you "to ensure that we receive a thorough and timely explanation of these matters." I await your reply on these matters.

On February 20, 1989, the House Energy and Commerce Committee provided our Committee with material that includes a six-page double-spaced statement, which appears to be from the OPM file. The six-page statement, which contains derogatory allegations concerning Senator Tower's conduct in Geneva, was not in the OPM file that you provided to us. A copy of this statement (which we provided to you Monday evening) is attached. This raises yet another question as to whether the Committee can reasonably rely on the materials provided by the Executive Branch in the nomination process. The FBI should determine, in conjunction with our prior requests, who at OPM (or elsewhere in the chain of control over these files) was responsible for deleting this material and whether there was any tampering with the file.

There are several issues regarding the FBI Report on Geneva documents which are addressed in an attachment to this letter. The attachment notes that yet another Air Force file on the [redacted] investigation has not been provided to the Committee. The FBI should attempt to: (1) locate the document and (2) determine who was responsible for deleting the material and whether there was any tampering with the file.

In summary, there are at least four significant matters of concern: (1) we were provided with an OSI report without being told that one of the four components was missing; (2) the OSI report does not contain a memorandum to the OSI that suggests misconduct on the part of Senator Tower, which we learned about through the media; (3) we requested an OPM Report on a specific individual and we were told that it did not exist, yet two weeks later the report appears in the media; (4) we were provided with the OPM report, yet we later determined through a copy provided by a House committee that a crucial document alleging misconduct on the part of Senator Tower was missing. In short, our requests produced files having no bearing on the suitability of the nominee, even though sources outside the Executive Branch had access to documents in the same files which contained derogatory information.

I would also like to take this opportunity to note that we have not received a response to the my letter, dated February 3, 1989, regarding the handling of the Paisley nomination.

The Committee's consideration of the nomination would be greatly aided by a prompt response to each of the issues addressed in this letter.

Sincerely,

Sam Nunn
Chairman

QUESTIONS ABOUT CERTAIN MATTERS IN THE DISCUSSION OF GENEVA IN THE FBI REPORT

The January 6 FBI report states that "ten . . . individuals, consisting of professional associates and social acquaintances, were interviewed. They advised Senator Tower is a loyal American whose character, reputation, and associates are above reproach." Among those listed as being interviewed is [redacted] b6 b7C

The attached exerpt from the OPM report contains the following statement: "Ambassador John Tower, who attested to [redacted] character and loyalty, was reported to have maintained secretaries in Geneva as mistresses. [redacted] said he had no independent corroboration of this, other than the information provided by [redacted] told [redacted] that Ambassador Tower's wife threw him out in February 1986 because of his involvement with secretaries and [redacted] helped Ambassador Tower find an apartment in a hotel in Geneva after Tower's wife had ejected him from their home. Ambassador Tower resigned a short time later and returned to Texas." [redacted] provided similar information to the FBI on February 18. b6 b7C

This raises several questions:

1. What is the explanation for the inclusion of [redacted] as a person giving a highly favorable recommendation in the January 6 report? b6 b7C

2. After the February 18 interview with [redacted] did the FBI discuss his views with [redacted] and [redacted] If so, what did they say? If not, why not? b6 b7C

3. The February 20 FBI report notes that [redacted]

The FBI report now states that [redacted] Why was the Committee not informed of the existence of this file? What is the explanation for the inability of the Air Force to locate the file?

She began her employment with the United Savings and Loan League (League) sometime in [redacted] and was employed as a [redacted] for GLENN TROOP, Chief Lobbyist. [redacted] stated she worked for TROOP until [redacted] when she left to begin employment at another company.

She related that to the best of her knowledge GLENN TROOP and [redacted] another League Lobbyist, had little contact with the appointee. She added: "There may have been some contact." [redacted] rationalized that League Lobbyists concentrated their efforts on the House Banking Committee and not with the Senate.

TROOP was described as an ethical and bright man who did not entertain a great deal. [redacted] stated that TROOP had a drinking problem and therefore it was [redacted] who did a lot of the socializing with the political clientele.

[redacted] advised that while she was employed at the United Savings and Loan League she heard numerous accounts regarding the appointee's abuse of alcohol and sexual misconduct. She indicated that she often heard the appointee's name mentioned in routine conversations at the office. [redacted] said: "He (appointee) did not have the most sterling reputation." [redacted] emphasized that these remarks about the appointee were strictly hearsay. The people making these remarks about the appointee were viewed by [redacted] as being reliable individuals who probably saw something.

Specific accounts heard by [redacted] or the names of the people who told her of these accounts could not be recalled. [redacted] added that the majority of these accounts centered on the appointee's "eye for the ladies". She related that these rumors characterized the appointee as a "skirt chaser". [redacted] stated that other accounts dealt with the appointee's excessive use of alcohol. [redacted] never observed the appointee in an intoxicated state nor could she substantiate any of these accounts.

[redacted] related that the lobbyists had an expense account at the CARROL ARMS HOTEL. She explained that TROOP and [redacted] often dined with their guests at this hotel. She was unaware of any improprieties on the part of TROOP, [redacted] or the League with this expense account. The [redacted] was responsible for reviewing and paying all expense accounts received at the office.

[redacted] denied ever being apart of any scheme to arrange for escorts for the appointee, any other politician or their staff. She advised that she knew that certain people in Washington, D.C., specifically congressional staff members and other noted politicians, make requests of lobbyists for "a date for lunch". [redacted] stated that a person can only surmise as to what such a request meant.

Since [redacted] was responsible for entertaining at the League, [redacted] believed that if this practice of arranging escorts took place it was based on [redacted] own decision. She stated that the League would never condone such actions. [redacted] added that [redacted] was the type of person that would not attempt to involve others in such a plan.

[redacted] explained that [redacted] often joked to her and other secretaries in the office about arranging escorts for political figures. She never heard of [redacted] arranging such a "date" for the appointee. [redacted] advised that [redacted] was a "funny guy" and that she never knew when he was joking or telling the truth.

The League lobbyists were described by [redacted] as being hardworking people who tried to accomplish their jobs within the law. [redacted] stated that some "borderline" practices were done "to establish friendships; something that is sometimes hard to do in this town." [redacted] would not elaborate on these practices.

[redacted] concluded by saying that she did not believe TROOP [redacted] had a great deal of contact, if any, with the appointee while she was employed at the League. She further emphasized that any action taken by GLENN TROOP as a lobbyist was usually done because he became "buddies" with the person and not for any other reason.

The former [redacted] b6 b7C of [redacted] McLean, Virginia, was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents and of the fact that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was conducting a background investigation concerning JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. [redacted] was interviewed in the presence of his attorneys [redacted] and [redacted] of [redacted] in the 9th floor conference room of their offices at [redacted] Washington, D.C., and provided the following information:

When asked to comment upon the allegation that, during the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks (START), Ambassador TOWER was reported to have one or more of [redacted] as mistresses, he responded "I think it's ridiculous", mentioning that he is aware of no information which would substantiate this, and mentioning that he seriously doubts the allegation has any validity whatsoever. During the time that he was in Geneva, from [redacted] he is aware of no extramarital affair(s) or indiscretions of any kind regarding the appointee.

When he was advised that [redacted] one of the appointee's [redacted] was receiving some of her mail at the appointee's residence in Geneva, he related that he does not find this unusual at all. He noted that because of the nature of the mission in Geneva, [redacted] frequently performed personal duties for members of the delegations, for example the appointee's [redacted] often assisted Mrs. LILLA TOWER in preparing for social functions, and were the interface between members of the delegation and their transportation. He noted that he would not even find it irregular if [redacted] had stayed overnight at the appointee's residence, although mentioning that he is unaware that such an event ever took place. As he was not in Geneva for the fourth round of negotiations, he is not in a position to comment upon [redacted] activities while the appointee was residing in [redacted] apartment in the Old Cathedral section of Geneva.

When asked as to whether he was personally aware of any sexual misconduct or indiscretions on Ambassador TOWER's part, either abroad or in this country, he responded in the negative, likewise responding to the question as to whether he was aware of any procurement of sex partners either for the appointee by a third party or by the appointee for himself or the Soviets. He stated categorically that none of the fourteen individuals listed by position or rank in his statement to the Air Force Office of Special Investigations (OSI) as having carried on extramarital affairs in Geneva could be identified with the appointee.

When advised that allegations of misappropriation of government funds regarding the transportation of spouses and dependents of high-ranking members of the Geneva delegation had been made, he commented that he felt these allegations to be largely groundless. He noted that in [redacted] letter to CASPAR WEINBERGER, or [redacted] for airlift support for the delegations, wording was explicitly requested to allow the transportation of ambassadors and negotiators, their spouses and dependents, as well as their staffs. He advised that on a second plane, a C-141, the primary aircraft being a C-135B, transportation for the spouses and dependents of staff members was possible, subject to individual review, [redacted] and on the basis of "as space available."

When advised that mention had been made of the "well-known" beer-bash at the Pickwick, a bar in Geneva, where certain delegation members and support personnel got "smashed" with the Marines, he advised that he has no knowledge of any participation by the appointee in any activity of this kind, nor any evidence of alcohol abuse by the appointee.

When asked to provide additional details regarding cocktail parties at 4:30 p.m. on Fridays in the Botanic Building at which alcohol was served, he characterized these events as "Thank God It's Friday" get-togethers, signaling the end of a week, although noting that the delegation frequently worked through the weekend. He noted that these festivities were "sort of a morale booster" and were not a weekly event. Regarding the availability of alcoholic beverages, he noted that only wine and beer were available and that "I never saw anybody get smashed or even high." Regarding the appointee's consumption, he noted that the appointee was a member of a different delegation, and that he only observed him on a couple of occasions at this kind of get-together. He stipulated that he had observed the appointee only to drink white wine, a toast of champagne or a beer from Texas, the name of which he does not recall. He stated that he has never seen the appointee inebriated, or ever known him to slur his speech after consuming alcohol. He does not recall ever counting the number of drinks consumed by the appointee at any social function. He concluded this aspect of the interview by noting that he has never known the appointee to frequent either the Pickwick or Jimmy's, another popular local bar.

When advised that it has been suggested by some that [redacted] he denied that such a representation was accurate. When asked as to whether the appointee had ever asked him to [redacted] he responded "no ambassador asked me to [redacted]

He advised that [redacted] the [redacted] for the Delegation, had introduced him to [redacted] to whom he described the mechanations of the Delegation. He stipulated that this was the only time that he has ever spoken to [redacted]

When advised that at least one source had noted that [redacted] Clarifying, he suggested the allegations that should be addressed, and to the extent that each individual had personal knowledge, "common themes emerged because that was the truth."

When asked as to whether the appointee was reluctant initially to [redacted] later being brought around to doing so because of [redacted] he responded that such an allegation is "totally unfounded."

When asked as to whether he ever provided any questionable services to Ambassador TOWER, to include any form of entertainment, he responded "absolutely not."

b7C

When asked as to whether the appointee was, during Round Three of the START Negotiations, aware of any circumstances surrounding [redacted] he responded "I don't know whether he was or wasn't." He stipulated that he did not personally approach the appointee about the matter during Round Three and believes the appointee was unaware of the circumstances finding their way into the EEO complaint, and later security violations, during Round Three. He suggested that the only way that the appointee might have become aware of these events would have been if [redacted] had been approached by [redacted] and in turn, had approached the appointee. He has no knowledge of such events having transpired however. He did admit that after receiving the specifics of the complaints against him, on January 8, 1986, he approached the appointee shortly thereafter seeking his support. He noted that the appointee's response to this inquiry is contained in his own statement, of September 30, 1987, to the Department of Energy's Office of Safeguards and Security, summing up the appointee's inclination as, given the process, if there was any way to help he would.

When asked to provide more detail regarding [redacted] he was interrupted by Attorney [redacted] who inquired as to the relevance of this question to the TOWER investigation. After some discussion, the interviewee stipulated that [redacted]

The interview was concluded by his stipulation that he is aware of no extramarital sexual liasons, security violations, nor excessive consumption of alcohol by the appointee.

[redacted] Reston, Virginia, (telephone number [redacted]) was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and was advised that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is currently conducting a background investigation of JOHN G. TOWER.

[redacted] advised that he was formerly employed as a [redacted] in the United States Navy. One of his assignments was the responsibility of [redacted] Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Texas, from [redacted] until [redacted] was advised by the interviewing agent that allegations have been made indicating that TOWER has abused alcohol while at the officer's club, Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Texas. [redacted] advised he recalls several instances where he was in the company of Senator TOWER.

[redacted] recalled that the appointee was the guest of the Navy League at one of its monthly meetings, a dinner at which TOWER gave a speech. To the best of [redacted] recollection, this occurred during the fall of 1980 or winter of 1981. He recalls the evening as one typical of many held by the Navy League. Cocktails were served, followed by dinner, speeches, and more drinks and conversation with the guest of honor. He further recalled that the appointee was accompanied by Mrs. LILLA TOWER. [redacted] clearly recalls the amount of alcohol which the appointee consumed on that occasion because, as [redacted] he felt it his responsibility to be sure the guest of honor, TOWER, had enough to drink and to be sure [redacted] was a [redacted] He recalled that the appointee carried a wine glass throughout the evening, but it was very rarely filled. He does not recall any indication that the appointee drank an excess quantity of alcohol and [redacted] does not recall any adverse behavior on the appointee's part.

[redacted] recalled another dinner, one which occurred during the spring of 1982. On this occasion, the appointee was accompanied by [redacted] This gathering was a

Although [redacted] was [redacted] on this occasion, he was in attendance and was certainly conscious of the alcohol consumed not only by TOWER but by [redacted] and the others. He can state with a great deal of confidence that the appointee did not abuse alcohol and did not display any signs of having drunk an excess quantity of alcohol. He does not recall any adverse behavior on the part of the appointee for this evening. [redacted] recalled that he does not believe there were any women in attendance at this party.

[redacted] recalled that there were two other instances where he was in attendance at a social gathering with the appointee. At one time, [redacted] was the Executive Officer to the Commander in Chief, Europe and TOWER was a guest at a dinner. In another instance, TOWER was being promoted within the Navy Reserve and was the guest of honor at a celebration. In both of these gatherings, as in the ones mentioned above, [redacted] saw no indication of alcohol abuse or excess alcohol consumption by the appointee and [redacted] does not recall any improper behavior on the part of the appointee. As a result of the above instances, [redacted] advised that he has never known the appointee to abuse alcohol or to display behavior indicating that he might have abused alcohol.

[redacted] stated that from the bar he did not have visual observation of former Senator TOWER and his group to be able to determine what they were drinking. He stated he did see the waiter on several occasions go to the table with regular glasses that would give him the impression they were mixed drinks and there were no wine glasses being taken to that table. He got the impression that the mixed drinks were something like bourbon and coke. It was definitely hard liquor because the TOWER party was all drunk. He did not notice the topic of conversation because once he was told it was former Senator TOWER and his group, he tried to tune them off and not be concerned about it.

[redacted] did not see Senator TOWER drinking but he did see him and he would not describe him as being a little drunk but described him as being "blasted" drunk.

He described the party as "some good old boys" really being loud and drinking heavy.

[redacted] stated that in his opinion, a person under that type of influence of alcohol could be easily compromised and would be a person that would use bad judgment. He stated that he was not surprised when he read in the paper about the former senator's drinking problem and womanizing since he had seen him

Senator Dennis DeConcini
SH 328
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator DeConcini:

In light of the current state of the hearings on the appointment of John Tower as Secretary of Defense, I would feel irresponsible were I to remain silent.

I am not a frequent visitor to Washington D.C., nor have my recent visits been timed to coincide with any events in which general celebration might have a major influence on behavior. Nevertheless, each time I have stayed in the Capitol in the past two years, I have encountered Senator Tower in the bar of the Jefferson Hotel at which I usually stay. On all of these occasions, the last as recent as this September, the Senator has been in a deep state of intoxication and conducted himself in a loud and braggadocio manner inconsistent, in my opinion, with the position he currently seeks.

Thank you for your attention. I hope you will carefully consider this aspect of Senator Tower's recent behavior, as well as his paid relationships with various defense contractors, as you make your decision on his appointment to such a critical post.

Sincerely,

FD-302 (REV. 3-10-82)

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 2/17/89

HARRY J. GRAY, 11094 Beach Club Point, North Palm Beach, Florida, was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and that the nature of the interview was concerning JOHN GOODWIN TOWER and his nomination by President-Elect GEORGE BUSH to the position of Secretary of Defense. GRAY furnished the following information:

GRAY is presently the President of HARRY GRAY ASSOCIATES, Farmington, Connecticut, and indicated that this company is an investment company which has nothing to do with defense contract type work nor is it connected politically to the present administration in any capacity. GRAY was the former Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of UNITED TECHNOLOGIES CORPORATION (UTC), Hartford, Connecticut, from which position he resigned effective January 1, 1986. He stayed with UTC as Chairman of the Board until January 1, 1988, in order to insure that the incumbent CEO was capable of performing that position.

GRAY has known former United States Senator TOWER since approximately the mid-1970's, when TOWER was first elected as a United States Senator. He was introduced to Senator TOWER by [redacted] b6 b7C and who himself was a [redacted] During the period from the mid-1970's until he was no longer employed by UTC, he would meet TOWER frequently at affairs sponsored by corporate entities, as well as by Government entities in Washington, D.C. and overseas. While at these affairs, whether sponsored by the United States Government or private enterprise and on which occasions TOWER would be present, he at no time observed former Senator TOWER to be in a position where he considered him to be inebriated or out of control. He indicated that although he recalled that TOWER would have a drink in his hand, he never observed TOWER to gulp his beverage nor can he ever recall that while in attendance at these affairs, TOWER ever asked for a second drink. He indicated that the affairs sponsored by private enterprise generally would invite the senior members of the SENATE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE, as well as members of the HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE, and noted that these Government officials would stay at the affairs approximately 15 to 20 minutes and then leave.

[redacted] was further advised that information had been received from [redacted] that in the fall of 1983 at a meeting attended by other corporate officers, he discussed making private contributions in support of Senator JOHN TOWER's re-election campaign. During the course of this meeting the corporate officers present made out personal checks, gave them to [redacted] for transmittal to Senator TOWER. [redacted] advised that he is positive that he was never a participant of such a meeting as described by [redacted] and that he was also positive that he had never made a personal contribution to the re-election campaign of Senator JOHN TOWER.

[redacted] further advised that he first met Senator TOWER approximately five years ago at a yearly business/social function hosted by UTC in Germany. This annual function is referred to as "International Rounds" and is a round table discussion with senior UTC officers and German industrialists. He believed the meeting had been arranged by General ALEXANDER HAIG and that Senator TOWER appeared at the meeting as a guest speaker. He was unaware as to how and by whom Senator TOWER had been compensated by for the meeting. During the social part of the gathering, he observed Senator TOWER consuming what he believed to be alcoholic beverages and at no time did he observe the Senator in a intoxicated condition.

He next met Senator TOWER during the Thanksgiving 1988 weekend when they were both dinner guests of the [redacted] Ambassador at the [redacted] Embassy in Washington D. C. There were approximately twelve couples present at the dinner and alcoholic beverages were consumed during the course of the evening. He conversed with and observed Senator TOWER during the evening and observed him to act in a proper and dignified manner throughout the evening. He could not recall what specific alcoholic beverage, if any, was consumed by Senator TOWER. He next met Senator TOWER during the recent Inauguration Ceremonies of President BUSH. During the Inauguration Parade, they happened to be sitting in adjacent boxes and he said hello to the Senator. [redacted] further advised that he did not know TOWER well enough to comment on his susceptibility to compromise nor if he would be the type of individual to divulge sensitive information. He was also unaware of any derogatory information which could affect TOWER's performance as Secretary of Defense.

[redacted] also advised that [redacted] reputation for truth and veracity was satisfactory. He felt that there was no one at UTC who would say that [redacted] was the type of individual who could not be trusted. He could not explain or understand why [redacted] would advise that he, [redacted] was present at a UTC meeting of corporate officers in fall 1983 wherein private contributions to the re-election campaign of Senator TOWER were being discussed and tendered. He surmised that [redacted] could be mistaken about his presence there.

[redacted] advised that he was in possession of no information which could reflect adversely on TOWER's appointment as Secretary of Defense.

[redacted] further advised that he has met Senator TOWER on three occasions, these occasion being official functions in Washington D. C. The first meeting could have been in 1983. During the course of these meetings, he observed Senator TOWER consuming some type of liquid refreshment which could have been alcoholic in content. At all times, he observed Senator TOWER to be in control of himself and there was never any behavior observed which would indicate intoxication.

On February 7, 1989, Mr. BOB JACKSON was interviewed by Special Agent [redacted] at the BAPTIST MEMORIAL HOSPITAL EAST, 6019 Walnut Grove Road, Memphis, Tennessee. b6 b7C

Mr. JACKSON was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and that he was being contacted regarding information that he was willing to provide regarding JOHN GOODWIN TOWER.

Mr. JACKSON provided the following information:

He advised that from 1976 to 1978, he was assigned to the NCOIC Information Office at the BERGSTROM AIR FORCE BASE, Austin, Texas. His primary duties were to coordinate and take visiting dignitaries on tour of the base facilities, specifically the aircraft.

In June, July or August of 1977, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER, then a senator from Texas, came to the base for a tour with the press and other persons (names he could not recall) in order to look at some aircraft and to observe some modifications of some of the planes. When he greeted Senator TOWER, he smelled a strong alcoholic odor on his breath and from the appearance of TOWER's eyes, he was almost intoxicated.

After greeting Senator TOWER, they (he, Senator TOWER and other persons in the group) went to one of the aircraft hangers and there he noticed Senator TOWER greeting a female mechanic working on the plane. When the senator approached the young female mechanic (name unrecalled) the mechanic stood at attention and then Senator TOWER placed his hand on her shoulder and then moved his hand down the female mechanic's back until his hand reached her hips and TOWER kept his hand there for a good while (perhaps 30 seconds) and then moved his hand. The female mechanic did not make any fuss about it.

Mr. JACKSON stated that this type of behavior did not seem right but thought no more about it, nor did he report it to anyone.

In 1978 (month or date unrecalled) TOWER and the press visited the above base again, and when he greeted TOWER, he smelled a strong aroma of alcohol again. He also noticed TOWER stumbling and having difficulty in opening a door. He advised that the type of stumbling was the type that a person under the influence of alcohol would make.

After greeting TOWER on the second visit to the above base in 1978, he escorted Senator TOWER to the Chief Maintenance Officer's office. Upon entering the office a secretary was at work at her desk and when Senator TOWER greeted her, he noticed TOWER place his hand on the secretary's shoulder and then the senator's hand slid down the secretary's chest and rested for a brief period on one of the secretary's breast. The secretary was completely startled.

Mr. JACKSON stated that this too seemed a bit unusual or out of character as this appeared more than just a casual touch.

The above two occasions were the only occasions he had contact with Senator TOWER.

He advised that when he heard on the news and read in the paper about Senator TOWER being considered for the Secretary of Defense position he felt that this information should be brought to the attention of the FBI so that Senator TOWER might be disqualified for the Secretary of Defense position.

Mr. JACKSON further stated that from the above observations of TOWER, he considers TOWER to be a drunk, a dirty old man, and one who enjoys touching women.

Mr. JACKSON advised that he is currently residing at HCR #1, Box 40-1A, Protem, Missouri 65733-9704 and has telephone number 417-785-4599.

Mr. JACKSON was born on May 6, 1930, in Memphis, Tennessee, and has Social Security number 414-42-7045, and is unemployed (retired military).

Mr. JACKSON further stated that since the above incidents happened such a long time ago, he just could not recall any of the names involved.

In response to the second question set forth in Senator Nunn's attachment, the FBI did not discuss [redacted] views with either [redacted] or [redacted] This was a result of the FBI's being aware of [redacted] allegations, as well as [redacted] advisement that he was unaware of any sexual liaisons with either Americans, foreign nationals or anyone of Soviet origin.

HO T-3 was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and the nature of the interview. HO T-3 was further advised of the provisions of the Privacy Act (e) (3). HO T-3 stated that he/she preferred that his/her identity not be disclosed outside the FBI. However, HO T-3 advised it would be agreeable to release his/her identity to members of the Senate Armed Services Committee if it is absolutely necessary for reasons of credibility.

HO T-3 stated that after watching news reports stating that the FBI report had "cleared" Senator JOHN TOWER on allegations of drinking and womanizing, he/she felt compelled to provide the following information. On July 8, 1988, HO T-3 and several friends were celebrating a birthday at SAN SIMEON, a french restaurant in Dallas, Texas. After dining, HO T-3's group adjourned to THE CLUB, a dance club which is part of SAN SIMEON. Senator TOWER was seated against the wall in a booth, with HO T-3's party seated approximately eight feet away. HO T-3 observed TOWER for approximately thirty to forty-five minutes.

In HO T-3's estimation, both TOWER and his date were "obviously drunk." HO T-3 thought that TOWER ordered one or two rounds of drinks during the time he/she was able to observe him, but could not tell what he was drinking. HO T-3 was not close enough to hear TOWER, or to see if his eyes were bloodshot. TOWER did not act "wildly", and did not stumble, but rather seemed to be a quiet drunk. He looked "out of it, lethargic, and comatose," and sat slumped down in the booth.

TOWER's date was wearing a black strapless cocktail dress. HO T-3 stated that one time when TOWER and his companion left the dance floor, his date tripped over HO T-3's chair, and fell to her knees. Her dress fell to her waist. She struggled to her feet, "shoving her breasts into her dress." TOWER did not act embarrassed or appalled, but simply helped his date to her feet, and returned to the booth. HO T-3 stated that this was of course quite a spectacle, and everyone in the club turned around to look.

HO T-3 stated that he/she would check business files, and provide the FBI the names and phone numbers of his/her companions the evening of July 18, 1988.

[redacted] stated that the [redacted] were friends of [redacted] advised the [redacted] were politically active in the Washington, D.C. area but had moved to Dallas and were helping [redacted] further their attempts to create a new [redacted] in Dallas. [redacted] advised the [redacted] attended the meeting and were known to be long-time Hispanic activists. Furthermore, [redacted] stated [redacted] had [redacted] TOWER as his (TOWER) [redacted] in Texas.

[redacted] advised that the [redacted] invited the above-mentioned individuals including Senator TOWER to a dinner at a private restaurant/club called the San Simeon Restaurant/Nightclub in Dallas, Texas. [redacted] explained that it was a chance for all interested parties regarding the [redacted] to meet with TOWER along with introducing the [redacted] to TOWER in the hopes that they would be enticed to help create a new chapter of the [redacted] recalled that TOWER was the last individual to arrive at the meeting/dinner. [redacted] recalled TOWER arrived alone. [redacted] could not recall if TOWER had dinner with the group and advised he (TOWER) may have come to the meeting/dinner from another dinner. [redacted] recalled that with TOWER present, the group had a long and involved conversation which lasted a minimum of two hours but possibly as long as three hours. He stated this occurred at the restaurant and did not recall if TOWER was drinking any type of alcholic beverage during this period. [redacted] advised "I assumed he was drinking" but "I don't recall if it was tonic water or vodka and tonic". "I'm just not sure". [redacted] further added he could not comment on how much of the liquid TOWER consumed during that period.

[redacted] advised he was not sitting close to TOWER but that [redacted] were much closer. During this meeting/dinner, [redacted] advised he never saw TOWER intoxicated, stumbling, or having slurred speech. [redacted] advised that the meeting/dinner was in a "chummy atmosphere".

After the meeting, [redacted] invited everyone next door to the San Simeon Discoteque which was a Dallas night spot. At that point, [redacted] believed the [redacted] left and did not go to the discoteque but that the [redacted] TOWER, and [redacted] accompanied their hosts, the [redacted] to the discoteque. At the discoteque, [redacted] assumed TOWER was drinking because "all of us were drinking". He further added he did not know what TOWER was drinking or how much he had drank during the evening. [redacted] stated his inclination was that TOWER did not drink any more or less than anyone else in the party. [redacted] stated he saw nothing unusual in TOWER's behavior at the discoteque which would include any intoxication by him (TOWER).

[redacted] recalled TOWER dancing at least once with [redacted] who he [redacted] described as a woman in her mid-30's who was short, [redacted] and of [redacted] build. [redacted] added he may have danced with other individuals than her but he was not sure. [redacted] believed [redacted] was wearing a "party dress" because of the festive evening and added that it may have been a strapless evening gown. [redacted] recalled that there was one [redacted] in the group that evening who was [redacted] She could not recall if TOWER ever danced with her. [redacted] advised that he remembers TOWER and [redacted] leaving the dance floor after a song and that [redacted] tripped over a chair which was in an unusual place. [redacted] stated [redacted] fell and lost a shoe but that she quickly got up. [redacted] did not recall if [redacted] dress became disarranged but he did not believe anything unusual happened. [redacted] recalled TOWER helped [redacted] up and stood behind her until she had calmed down enough so that he could escort her back to the group's table. At that point, [redacted] advised that the mood of the evening had changed and that [redacted] had become quite upset. The mood change was a signal for everyone to leave. [redacted] recalled the [redacted] and the [redacted] were the first ones to leave. [redacted] estimated that at approximately midnight to 1:00 a.m., [redacted] and [redacted] left in a taxi to return to their hotels. [redacted] believed Senator TOWER left the discoteque also and was alone. [redacted] stated that he [redacted] returned to his hotel, Reunion Hyatt, Dallas, Texas while [redacted] and [redacted] returned to their hotel somewhere in the Dallas, Texas area. [redacted] stated TOWER was currently living in his condominium in Dallas, Texas and he believed TOWER went there.

On an early Sunday morning in the same time period (July 5-10, 1988), TOWER invited [redacted] and [redacted] to his condominium. There, TOWER and the three individuals had conversations regarding the events of the meeting and the possibility of forming the [redacted] in Dallas. Drinks were served by TOWER wherein TOWER and [redacted] consumed two bloody marys each while both women watched. During this time, [redacted] advised TOWER did not appear intoxicated or act in an uncontrollable way. [redacted] advised this was the last personal contact he has had with TOWER.

[redacted] advised he has never seen TOWER drunk although rumors were circulated that "he was a drinker". [redacted] explained that in the 1978 political campaign for a seat in the United State Senate, the other side (Democrats) were attacking TOWER on allegations of womanizing and excessive alcohol consumption. He believes the current allegations regarding TOWER and his nomination to the position of Secretary of Defense stem from information used from these attacks in 1978 along with added information from TOWER's former wife, LILLA, along with conservative groups in the United States that believe TOWER is against the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI). [redacted] could not further comment on TOWER in regards to any issues of excessive alcohol consumption or alleged womanizing.

[redacted] said that TOWER and [redacted] were having a "quiet" good time because they were enjoying the opportunity to rehash old campaigns. [redacted] said that if anyone was the center of attention in the party, it would have been [redacted] said that if others saw something else at this party they had misrepresented the facts or had misinterpreted them.

[redacted] said he has known TOWER for 12 years and does consider him a friend. [redacted] said that he was "his own person in his own right" and would not hesitate to speak honestly and bluntly about any candidate for high public office. [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and provided the following information regarding JOHN GOODWIN TOWER:

[redacted] said she had been associated with the Republican Party in Texas, and had known TOWER for about a year. She said Mr. TOWER would probably not know her by name but may recall that she was associated with the Texas Republican Party.

[redacted] said that she was also a member of the League of Latin American Citizens (LULAC) and last summer JOHN TOWER was asked to speak at a Breakfast before the group. [redacted] said that at approximately the same time, [redacted] was informally organizing a dinner party at the San Simeon, primarily for [redacted] who was in Dallas. [redacted] said that she believes TOWER was invited to attend if he had time. She described it as a pleasant surprise when TOWER showed up for their dinner party at San Simeon's.

[redacted] said that [redacted] his [redacted] were at the dinner party which started about 9:00 p.m.

[redacted] said she recalled TOWER coming in during the middle of dinner and seated himself with the others. [redacted] said that to her recollection, TOWER was asked to order wine for the table. [redacted] said he may have ordered both red and white wine because the party was having different meals. [redacted] said she was sure that TOWER had only one and not more than two ordinary glasses of wine.

[redacted] said that about 10:00 p.m., the suggestion was made, probably by [redacted] who is a [redacted] San Simeon's, to move to the nightclub area of San Simeon's.

[redacted] said that during the dinner, and especially during the initial period of time in the nightclub, [redacted] was talking in detail to her about her personal problems. [redacted] said she observed [redacted] monopolize JOHN TOWER's attention for a period of time. [redacted] said that [redacted] was dressed "like she wanted to look sexy." She recalled that she had a low-cut evening gown that was "not vulgar but did show cleavage." [redacted] said it was obvious to her that [redacted] was upset and that TOWER was listening as a concerned friend. [redacted] said she observed the two of them dancing for a short period of time. She also recalled that while returning from the dance floor, [redacted] stumbled on a step. She said she recalled seeing another person stumble on the same step and could not recall anything unusual or notable happening the rest of the night.

[redacted] said she did not recall seeing TOWER drinking at all after dinner. [redacted] said TOWER was quiet, well-behaved and sober throughout the evening. She did not believe that TOWER was bringing any attention to himself by his behavior.

[redacted] does not know TOWER as well as most of the other people that were part of the group. She said that what she did know about him was favorable and she had no reason to believe any of the stories about his womanizing or excessive drinking. [redacted] said others who know him well have never relayed any negative stories about him. [redacted] said TOWER gets along well with people and they were delighted to get him to speak at the breakfast for their group (LULAC). She had no reason to doubt his suitability for Secretary of Defense based on her limited knowledge of him.

[redacted] Washington, D.C., (telephone number [redacted]) was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and of the face that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is conducting a background investigation concerning former Senator JOHN TOWER.

[redacted] advised that he does recall having attended a dinner held at a restaurant (name not recalled) in Dallas, Texas during July, 1988. [redacted] explained that he had been invited to this dinner but only knew two of the individuals in attendance, [redacted] and [redacted] He advised that he did not know [redacted] or any of the other individuals in attendance. He further advised that, although he has seen former Senator JOHN TOWER at many political and professional events over the years, this was his first opportunity to meet TOWER on a social or casual basis. As a result of this fact and of the fact that [redacted] was seated at the end of the table opposite where TOWER was seated, he did not take particular notice of TOWER's actions or behavior that evening. He observed, however, that TOWER was cordial and pleasant to those who sat near him and he never observed TOWER to behave in any manner other than that of a gentleman.

[redacted] recalled that the group originally met in the restaurant in question and had dinner for several hours. Then, the group moved next door to the nightclub area where they stayed for about one hour. During both the dinner and the nightclub portion of the evening, [redacted] never saw any indication that TOWER was inebriated or was under the influence of alcohol whatsoever. Although he has a recollection of TOWER having a glass in his hand throughout the evening, [redacted] does not even know whether TOWER was drinking alcoholic beverages or nonalcoholic beverages. He can state with great confidence that the appointee was very coherent and rational in his conversations whether at the dinner table or at the nightclub.

[redacted] was advised that an allegation had been made concerning TOWER's behaving in an inappropriate manner with a female member of that dinner party. [redacted] stated that he does not recall any such behavior on the appointee's part toward anyone male or female that evening. Although [redacted] only knew [redacted] and [redacted] Senator TOWER did know some of the other members of the group, including [redacted] with whom TOWER had conversations throughout the evening, as he did with many people in the group. [redacted] did not recall seeing TOWER doing any dancing with anyone, and stated that he does not recall TOWER acting inappropriate at any time throughout the evening. In fact, [redacted] could not think of any activities which took place that evening which could have been misinterpreted by someone not knowing the individuals in this party.

In response to a direct question, [redacted] advised that, although he did not see [redacted] trip, he did hear the fact that she tripped immediately after it happened. He recalled that there was a step or two not far away from the area of the restaurant where the group had gathered, possibly near the bathroom. He recalls hearing immediately after the incident that [redacted] had tripped. He did not ever hear that TOWER had anything whatsoever to do with [redacted] tripping. He is certain if TOWER had been a part of this incident or had been the cause of it, he would have heard that fact also. He did not hear any indication that TOWER is responsible for her having tripped, which leads him to believe that TOWER had absolutely no part in [redacted] tripping.

[redacted] summarized his comments by stating that he has never seen TOWER drinking any alcoholic beverages prior to this particular evening, and never saw him affected by alcohol consumption even on that evening. Based upon his knowledge of TOWER and his observations of him including that particular evening, [redacted] would absolutely recommend him for a position of Secretary of Defense.

[redacted] Washington, D.C., (telephone number [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and of the fact that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is currently conducting a background investigation of former Senator JOHN G. TOWER. [redacted] was asked to provide details concerning a social event which took place during July of 1988 at the San Simeon Restaurant and Night Club, Dallas, Texas, as well as details of TOWER's behavior and conduct that evening.

[redacted] advised that she wanted to develop a formal group of Republican Hispanics in Dallas, Texas for the purposes of the 1988 Campaign. In an effort to do so, she called together a number of former associates of hers from the Dallas, Texas area. In an effort to assist this group in developing a proper political strategy, she also invited JOHN TOWER to this meeting as well as [redacted] a [redacted] from Washington, D.C. One of the individuals invited to this gathering was [redacted] who [redacted] has known for many years. Although this was a gathering of Hispanic individuals to discuss Hispanic politics, [redacted] also invited [redacted] to join this gathering. [redacted] and [redacted] arrived at the restaurant where the meal was being served later than most other individuals in the group. As a result, they did not have anything to eat before they started drinking alcohol. [redacted] stated that [redacted] had been having marital difficulties and had been separated at the time of this social gathering. However, that evening, they both appeared quite happy and were apparently celebrating something. Soon after their arrival at the dinner, the [redacted] began buying rounds of drinks and offering toasts. It was not until later that [redacted] learned that [redacted] had agreed on that evening to [redacted] had agreed to take [redacted] repeated, however, that this fact was not known to those attending the dinner at that time.

As a result of [redacted] having had several drinks on an empty stomach, the alcohol appeared to have affected her that evening. This was not the case with the others attending this social function, since they had been at the restaurant for a period of time prior to the [redacted] arriving and had had something to eat prior to the rounds of drinks purchased by the [redacted] [redacted] stated that, when she first called TOWER and asked him to attend this gathering and to give advice to the group on political strategy, he was pleased to do so but immediately asked whether [redacted] would be attending. [redacted] advised that TOWER has known [redacted] since approximately 1972 and was very close to [redacted] as well as to [redacted] TOWER had been well aware of the [redacted] from each other and stated during that initial phone call that he would do everything he could to try to convince [redacted] to take [redacted] [redacted] and to try to convince the [redacted] repeated that these comments by TOWER were made during her initial telephonic attempt to invite TOWER to this social gathering. [redacted] explained that TOWER feels very strongly about the [redacted] and "they were like kids to the Senator". Not only did TOWER express his wish to speak to [redacted] about getting [redacted] but TOWER also indicated during this telephone conversation that he had already spoken to [redacted] on occasion concerning the need for her to [redacted] advised that TOWER did not arrive at this social gathering until after dinner had been served. She estimated that the group had been together for about one and one half hours before TOWER's arrival and that TOWER stayed with the group for about two hours before leaving. She definitely recalled that he left alone and not in the company of anyone.

[redacted] advised that during the evening, TOWER spent a great deal of time with [redacted] As a result of the [redacted] was having what [redacted] described as a mid-life crisis. She did not feel that [redacted] During that evening, TOWER was attempting to comfort and console [redacted] as well as attempting to get her to [redacted] with him.

[redacted] described the area of the restaurant where the group held its meeting as an L-shaped corner. The corner had in it a number of small tables which seated only a few people each and one couch in the corner. Although the individuals in the group moved about the area from time to time during the evening, she does recall TOWER having spent time with [redacted] sitting on this particular couch. However, there were others sitting on the couch with these two also. [redacted] further recalls that, while sitting on this couch, TOWER had his arm resting on the back of the couch while talking to [redacted] who sat next to him. As a result, his arm on the back of the couch was also in the area of [redacted] back. [redacted] described [redacted] as very emotional that evening and listening very intently to TOWER. She recalled TOWER giving [redacted] advise, giving her support, and giving her comfort. In the process of comforting her and advising her to [redacted] TOWER did occasionally pat [redacted] on the back and did occasionally put his hand on her leg in a gesture of support or encouragement. Although [redacted] was involved in political discussions throughout the evening, she believes she saw TOWER dancing with [redacted] on at least one occasion. [redacted] stated that it is entirely possible that the close, intimate and personal conversations which occurred that evening between TOWER and [redacted] might have been misunderstood by someone who did not know the relationship between TOWER and [redacted] and by someone who did not realize that [redacted] was also in attendance at that meeting. [redacted] is certain TOWER had absolutely no wrong or improper intentions in his conversations with or touching of [redacted] holds this opinion of TOWER for several reasons, including the fact that TOWER has known both of the [redacted] for many years and is very fond of both of them as well as TOWER's stated intention during the initial telephone invitation to him, his intention to speak to [redacted] and to try to get her to [redacted] repeated that she does not believe any of TOWER's intentions or activities that evening were anything other than proper and well-motivated.

[redacted] stated that she does not recall how much alcohol TOWER consumed during the two hours he was with this group. She explained that she, herself, was involved in political discussions throughout the evening and was not keeping track of who was drinking how much. In addition, she noted that someone was always ordering something to drink, sometimes alcoholic beverages and sometimes non-alcoholic beverages. She did not keep any track of who was drinking alcohol and who was not. She stated, however, that she has never seen JOHN TOWER drunk and that certainly includes the particular evening in question. She considered him to be totally in control of his faculties that evening. She recalls that he has always spoken intelligently after having consumed alcohol, and he certainly spoke intelligently throughout that particular evening.

[redacted] stated that she never did see [redacted] fall or trip while in the restaurant. However, she did hear from others in the party that [redacted] had fallen, possibly while walking to or from the bathroom. [redacted] does recall that the carpet in the restaurant was a dark blue or dark purple, and the restaurant itself was very dark and poorly lit. In addition, there were several stairs on the route to and from the bathroom, and [redacted] recalls almost having tripped on these stairs herself. She repeated, however, that she did not ever see [redacted] fall. She advised, in response to a direct question from the interviewing agent, that she never did hear any indication that JOHN TOWER was anywhere near [redacted] when [redacted] is said to have fallen on the stairs.

[redacted] advised that she is quite upset at the number of false allegations which have been made about JOHN TOWER. She feels that many of these false allegations are from individuals who are motivated by the fact that TOWER is so supportive of minorities and by the belief that TOWER, if he were to be made Secretary of Defense, would actively promote minorities within the Defense Department. [redacted] advised that she would certainly recommend TOWER for the position of Secretary of Defense.

EXEC. PROC. 2-27-89 #35 FEB 28 1989

Dear Senators:

The assault on the character of John Tower has been shocking to me. I have been associated with John politically and socially since 1958 or 1959 and have always been impressed with his ability, honesty and integrity. On the number of times I have been with him, I have never seen him in any condition which would prevent him from carrying out his obligations. He is a patriotic American who has supported his Country in war and peace in the military and public service.

I hope you will support John Tower and his confirmation to the office of Secretary of Defense.

Sincerely,

John G. Hurd

RALPH CHANDLER BLACKWELL, Post Office Box 221, Burgess, Virginia 22432, State Route 1311, home telephone number 804/453-3613, date of birth February 13, 1936, Social Security Account Number 256-30-3595, was advised as to the identity of the interviewing Agent and the nature of the interview. BLACKWELL then related the following:

He first met JOHN GOODWIN TOWER sometime in mid-1960 when he and TOWER sat next to one another during an airplane flight. BLACKWELL stated he then saw TOWER on many other occasions, approximately once every three months, usually on a social occasion, but he has not seen TOWER for the last two to three years.

BLACKWELL explained that he retired in 1974 as a UNITED STATES AIR FORCE Colonel after 30 years of service. From 1962 to his retirement, BLACKWELL's duties were in aircraft acquisition which allowed him to work in Washington, D.C., and attend many defense contractor meetings and functions. It was at these type functions that he usually saw TOWER.

BLACKWELL further explained that after his retirement from the AIR FORCE, he held consulting jobs with such entities as the NATIONAL AEROSPACE SERVICES ASSOCIATION, the ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION, and the SYNTHETIC FUEL CORPORATION. It was his association with SYNTHETIC FUEL CORPORATION which led him to attend the March 1982 function of the Irongate Chapter of the UNITED STATES AIR FORCE ASSOCIATION (USAFA) in New York City, although he stated he usually attends this function annually.

According to BLACKWELL, the Irongate Chapter of the USAFA is a charitable group that has an annual black-tie banquet for which defense contractors and others purchase tables, with the proceeds of the event going to charity. BLACKWELL estimated that 1,000 people attended the banquet which occurred in March 1982. BLACKWELL also explained that it is customary for many defense contractors such as HUGHES AIRCRAFT and LOCKHEED to hold hospitality suites in their hotel rooms. BLACKWELL described these hospitality suites as parties and a place where good friends get reacquainted and have fun, a sort of "gathering of the clan." BLACKWELL stated that it was also the custom to go from one hospitality room to another, talking business and meeting people. He added that there is drinking at these functions and kissing of women. BLACKWELL also added that most of these parties held by the defense contractors were visited by presidents and executives of major corporations who would not allow any type of drunkeness or sexual misconduct.

BLACKWELL stated he saw TOWER drink and kiss females at the HUGHES AIRCRAFT hospitality suite in March 1982, as well as other functions. BLACKWELL stated, however, that at no time did he see any conduct on TOWER's part that he considered "unacceptable to any reasonable person." He described TOWER as a gregarious individual who likes people and likes to have fun, but he cannot say that he has ever seen TOWER visibly intoxicated to such a degree that BLACKWELL would consider it offensive to himself or to the other people he was with. BLACKWELL also stated that he has never seen TOWER take undue liberty with any female, including "french kissing" or long embraces.

When asked why this particular night stands out in his mind, BLACKWELL explained it was probably because the next day, while having an informal breakfast in the HUGHES AIRCRAFT suite, BLACKWELL overheard that TOWER stood on a couch the night before and led the people in singing songs, including "Amazing Grace." BLACKWELL could not recall who told him this, stating that it was not a big deal and was not something that "turned my head." BLACKWELL stated that he did not personally see TOWER lead any singing before he retired to bed that night at approximately 1:30 a.m. or 2:00 a.m.

Post Office Box 221
Burgess, Virginia 22432
State Route 1311
Date of Birth February 13, 1936

BLACKWELL described TOWER as a gregarious person who likes to have fun and tell jokes, but is also sober, honorable, honest, and reliable. BLACKWELL has based this characterization on his personal dealings with TOWER, which are normally in a social setting. BLACKWELL stated that TOWER is a "pretty stable fellow." BLACKWELL stated that it is very difficult to describe someone's drinking habits since it means different things to different people. To some, a few drinks means a lot, while for others, it may not be much at all. BLACKWELL stated that, in his estimation, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER does not have a drinking problem.

BLACKWELL also added that TOWER associated with good, upstanding people and had a very good reputation in the community. BLACKWELL stated he knows of no reason to question TOWER's loyalty to the United States Government. BLACKWELL stated he is unable to comment relative to TOWER's financial posture since he did not know him well enough to do so.

BLACKWELL stated he knows of no misrepresentations ever made by TOWER and has never seen any type of disgraceful conduct on his part. In addition, BLACKWELL stated he has never seen any indications of any prejudice on the part of TOWER toward any individual or group based on race, creed, handicap, sex, color, religion, age, or national origin.

BLACKWELL recommends TOWER for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government and stated his belief that the current controversy surrounding his appointment is due to political fighting between parties.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

FROM: [redacted] RGB

SUBJECT: Telecons with [redacted] and [redacted]

At the instruction of [redacted] I called [redacted] of Phoenix, Arizona, who had written Senator DeConcini regarding [redacted] observation of intoxicated behavior by Senator Tower on several recent occasions at the Jefferson Hotel bar in Washington, D.C. (attached).

[redacted] is the [redacted] a market and public opinion research company which has been in business since 1965. The company also does polling for political campaigns, as well as business consulting. In his letter of transmittal, Senator DeConcini advised Senator Nunn that he had known [redacted] for over 15 years. [redacted] was described to Senator Nunn by Senator DeConcini as "very reliable." He has no prior business, social or political association with Senator Tower. He said he "is not a teetotaler."

In my conversation with him, [redacted] stated that he had written Senator DeConcini after seeing Senator Tower on TV testify that he did not have a drinking problem. [redacted] said that that statement "does not fit reality as I know it."

[redacted] explained that he does not come to Washington frequently but that on the three occasions during the last two years he has been here he has seen Senator Tower drunk on each occasion.

The first such incident was 25-26 August 1987. [redacted] had had dinner at the Jefferson Hotel (where he likes to stay when in town) with a business associate, [redacted] also of Phoenix, and then went into the bar for drinks. [redacted] and [redacted] immediately became aware of loud noise in an adjacent room and asked [redacted] about it. [redacted] said something to the effect that "that is Senator Tower" and told the men stories about previous occasions Senator Tower had been drunk in the bar.

[redacted] did not see Senator Tower, as there was a small wall between the rooms. He described the Tower group's behavior as "raucus, loud and noticeable."

[redacted] could not recall the name of [redacted] but said he was either a [redacted] Anglo" or a "Spanish-speaking" man, since these were [redacted] has seen during his stays at the Jefferson Hotel. [redacted] suggested I call his associate [redacted] to see what he remembered about this incident. b6 b7C

I reached [redacted] at his business in Phoenix [redacted] described himself as the proprietor of his own business, which conducts market research. He has had no previous political, social or business association with Senator Tower.

[redacted] explained that he had traveled to Washington in August, 1987, with [redacted] with regard to a design they had prepared for a research project. They stayed at the hotel for two days. After dinner at the hotel restaurant, they went into the bar and sat at the bar. They heard "a lot of noise going on" nearby and asked [redacted] "What's happening?"

According to [redacted] explained that it was "a famous person," whom he identified as Senator Tower, with others. [redacted] described the activity as "a lot of noise, a lot of carousing, and definitely not a sober group". He said that at one point he went to the bathroom and out of curiosity looked around the wall and saw Senator Tower, whom he described as "very clearly drunk."

[redacted] said [redacted] regularly carried drinks in to the party and "saw no wine glasses." He said he was "99% sure it was hard liquor" being sent in, and he remembers that there were bottles of coke and, he believes, bourbon.

[redacted] described the bartender as "anglo and [redacted] and said he may have [redacted]. He said he was a little over 6' tall, medium-build, in his mid-20's or just over 30.

[redacted] said [redacted] told [redacted] and him stories about several previous occasions when Senator Tower was in the bar "pretty blasted," including, according to [redacted] once with [redacted] was not travelling with [redacted] on the other two occasions [redacted] reports he saw Senator Tower drunk in the bar.

The second incident [redacted] relates occurred, he believes, on December 27, 1987. [redacted] was again staying at the Jefferson Hotel. He went into the bar after dinner and noticed a loud party in the adjacent room. [redacted] said the party consisted of Senator Tower, whom he recognized, and what he believes was a group of visiting Australian businessmen. He said he thinks they were Australians because he does business in Australia and knows Australians. [redacted] said the group was all drunk, that the Australians were "abusive and slurring their words" and that although Tower "wasn't at that level," he had been drinking heavily.

[redacted] explained that although his letter to Senator DeConcini mentioned "this September" as the most recent time he had seen Senator Tower intoxicated, he had since checked his business records and realized his last trip occurred in May 1988. b6 b7C

The third incident occurred on May 16, 1988. [redacted] had gone to dinner with a friend then went to the Jefferson Hotel bar alone. He sat at the bar. Senator Tower, who had been in a back room, came up to the bar with another man. [redacted] said that he and Senators Tower were introduced and "swapped stories", Senator Tower sat at the bar for "the better part of an hour" with his friend, whom [redacted] described as apparently a political friend from the Rio Grande Valley area of Texas. [redacted] believes this to be the case because Senator Tower and the man "swapped distasteful jokes about people and things in the Rio Grande Valley" and "talked about politics" in a congressional district there. [redacted] did not know the name of the man.

[redacted] said Senator Tower was intoxicated. When I asked him why he thought so, [redacted] said it was both because he observed Senator Tower drinking so much and because of Senator Tower's behavior. [redacted] said Senator Tower was "putting it down like a regular sailor." He said Senator Tower, whom he was sitting at the bar with throughout, got "quite loud" and "his stories got stranger and stranger." He said Tower was drinking "steadily" during the time at the bar. He also said Tower acted in a "braggadocio" manner.

[redacted] did not recall what Senator Tower was drinking or whether it was wine or hard liquor. He said it was possible it was wine. He did not observe Senator Tower lose his balance, but described his condition as "deep intoxication."

[redacted] said he is leaving for Australia on business tomorrow (February 23) and will return on March 5. [redacted] said he is leaving tomorrow for San Francisco.

[redacted], Phoenix, Arizona, telephone [redacted] was contacted at his place of employment. [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and that he was to be interviewed concerning information he had allegedly furnished by written communication dated February 3, 1989, to United States Senator DENNIS DECONCINI. [redacted] stated he is a very "private person" and does not desire to furnish his residence address or home telephone number.

[redacted] stated that based on his best recollection, in August, 1987, he was on business in Washington, D.C., and as is his regular routine, he was staying at the JEFFERSON HOTEL. [redacted] advised this hotel is located somewhere near the Soviet Embassy at approximately 14th Street and N Street although he is not certain of the exact address. [redacted] was accompanied by [redacted] who at that time was an employee of [redacted] but who is now self-employed. On that particular occasion, he and [redacted] had completed dinner and had gone to the bar of the JEFFERSON HOTEL and were within line of sight to an adjacent dining area. [redacted] was aware that there was a party of four or more individuals in the dining area who were loud, boisterous and apparently having a very good time. These individuals were approximately 30 feet away from where [redacted] and [redacted] were seated at the bar. There were [redacted] beverages in front of this group of people in the dining area and [redacted] cannot recall if the beverages were alcoholic. He does recall that drinks from the bar were being taken to the table as [redacted] was seated near the serving area of the bar and he can only assume that these drinks were being consumed at the table. [redacted] stated that the group was at the table in the dining room when he and [redacted] arrived and were still at the table one and one-half hours later when [redacted] and [redacted] left the bar area.

During the time that he and [redacted] were seated at the bar, [redacted] offered information that one of the people at the table of loud and boisterous individuals was former Senator JOHN TOWER. This [redacted] further offered his opinion that TOWER was a frequent customer who often drank quite heavily while there. [redacted] stated that when told that JOHN TOWER was one of the individuals at the table, he looked in that direction and merely made note of the individuals at the table. He stated that prior to that time he had never met, seen nor would he have recognized JOHN TOWER based on his name. His only recollection of that occasion was the loud, boisterous group and their leaving the impression upon him that the group had been drinking for quite a while based on the noise level. [redacted] does not recall what brand or type of drinks were being delivered to the table from the bar area as he had no reason to make such a recollection or notation.

[redacted] stated that on the occasions he has stayed at the JEFFERSON HOTEL, there have been [redacted] One is an [redacted] male, originally from [redacted] and the other is a [redacted] to [redacted]-year-old [redacted]-haired [redacted] man.

[redacted] stated that on December 12, 1987, he again was at the JEFFERSON HOTEL in Washington, D.C., in the evening and was alone at the bar. He was engaged in conversation with the [redacted] basically to practice his [redacted] language ability, but aware that there was a group of loud talking customers in the dining room area. This group was approximately 30 feet distance from where he was seated. His observation of the group of individuals determined that there was a lot of drinking going on at the table but he was at that time not aware of who was in the dining party. He does not recall if drinks were being delivered to the table from the bar area.

Approximately 40 to 45 minutes after [redacted] arrived at the bar, two Australians and JOHN TOWER came to the bar from the dining area and in particular from the group of people previously mentioned. He stated that he knows they were Australians because they announced that they were and their accents gave every indication they were from Australia. The two Australians in particular muscled their way to the bar, that is, elbowing through other customers who were standing in the immediate area and were accompanied by JOHN TOWER, who did not aggressively force his way to the bar area. The Australians were offensive in their language and the topic of conversation was about the nature and quality of American politics in general and not in a complimentary fashion. [redacted] was quick to point out that it was a good natured political discussion of American politics and typical "bar talk" with little content of value.

[redacted] stated that TOWER appeared to him to have been drinking and did not appear to be sober. [redacted] based this opinion on having seen numerous other people over the years in that same condition. TOWER did order, receive and consume an alcoholic beverage while at the bar but [redacted] does not recall what in particular TOWER received and consumed. He can only state that he did order something at the bar and that it was an alcoholic beverage. TOWER was loud and boisterous but was not slurring his words. [redacted] stated that he remained at the bar for ten minutes or less after TOWER and the Australians approached the bar area. He stated he finished his own personal drink and left the bar area because the pleasant environment had changed dramatically. He stated that once at the bar and having received their drinks, TOWER and the Australians, while [redacted] was there, did not return to their table and were there at the bar when he left the room. He does not recall the identities of anyone else who may have been present during this incident other than the [redacted]

On May 16, 1988, [redacted] was again at the JEFFERSON HOTEL in Washington, D.C., in the evening and he either was at the bar when JOHN TOWER and an individual from Texas came to the bar or they were already at the bar when [redacted] came into the area. In any event, [redacted] and TOWER ended up seated side-by-side at the bar and TOWER was accompanied by a heavy set Hispanic male in his mid 40's, who was also from Texas. TOWER and this individual were talking about the politics of the Brownsville and Big Bend, Texas areas and primarily concerning old-time political stories. [redacted] introduced himself to JOHN TOWER and the Hispanic whose name he cannot recall. [redacted] stated that he remained seated with TOWER and this other Texan for approximately two hours. All three of them individually were ordering and receiving alcoholic beverages but [redacted] does not recall what drinks in particular TOWER ordered. [redacted] stated his best assumption is that the bartender at the JEFFERSON HOTEL would know what a regular customer drinks and would automatically serve it upon request. [redacted] stated he keeps his own tab at any bar and does not order and pay for drinks for other people nor did he do it on this occasion. He stated that TOWER probably had five drinks during this two-hour time frame, although he kept no running count of what anyone, including he himself, had to drink.

The one impression [redacted] received was that TOWER told jokes that in most circles today would be considered in poor taste. His demeanor was pleasant, "laid back", but his jokes and stories were considered by [redacted] to be distasteful, particularly concerning Hispanics. The type of jokes TOWER was telling were ones that [redacted] is certain TOWER would never consider telling in public or as part of a speech. He could not recall in particular a specific example of one of these jokes except that it left the definite impression of poor taste public conversation.

[redacted] stated it was his judgment that TOWER appeared to be intoxicated. He further explained that TOWER was waving his arms vigorously during conversation, interrupted and overrode conversation, forgot where he was in the middle of conversation and spoke in a confused manner. He could best describe it as a person who had a "buzz" on. That is, his speech became not entirely crisp.

[redacted] stated that it was his opinion during the last two of the above-described incidents, that TOWER was impaired to the point that he should not drive an automobile.

He cannot offer an opinion as to whether or not TOWER's actions were such that he could be compromised. He did state that a drinker has his caution and guard relaxed and is in a risky situation if dealing with important matters. At no time during any of his observations of JOHN TOWER did he overhear or gain any impression that TOWER was discussing sensitive or classified information. His only observation again was that TOWER uses very poor taste in his public conversation topics. He stated he does not know if TOWER can function effectively in a cabinet level position for the United States Government as he has no basis on which to make that evaluation, not knowing the position. He has no recollection nor has he ever received any information of any ungentleman-like conduct by TOWER with women.

[redacted] stated the main reason for his writing a letter to his United States Senators was as a result of his hearing a radio report concerning TOWER's appearance before the Senate Confirmation Hearings, in which TOWER stated he did not have a drinking problem and was a man of "some discipline." He stated his immediate thought was -- "Some discipline!!!" -- based on his three previous observations of JOHN TOWER. Had he not heard that statement, it would never have occurred to [redacted] that TOWER was a moderate or non-drinker based on TOWER's actions and demeanor as observed by [redacted] on the above-described three occasions. He would describe TOWER as being a joke teller and a hard drinker.

[redacted] stated that he had no political motivations whatever in writing the letters to his U. S. Senators and again stated that it was only his reaction to the statements made by TOWER during the Senate Confirmation Hearings that caused him to write the letters.

[redacted] stated that on no occasion had he observed TOWER to be drunk to the point he could not walk, talk coherently or be responsible for his own actions, other than he should not drive an automobile.

T-4 was advised of the nature of the interview and the identity of the interviewing agent. T-4 was further advised of the provisions of the Privacy Act (e)(3). T-4 stated that he/she had heard a U.S. Senator serving on the Senate Armed Services Committee comment that all the negative information previously provided to the FBI regarding Senator JOHN TOWER had come from anonymous sources. T-4 stated that he/she would like to be kept as confidential as possible as a source of information. If it is necessary, T-4 is agreeable to being identified to President GEORGE BUSH and to members of the Senate Armed Services Committee. T-4 provided the following information.

On T-4's birthday, [redacted] 1988, he/she and companions dined at the SAN SIMEON restaurant in Dallas, Texas. At approximately 10:00 pm, they went to THE CLUB, a night club attached to the restaurant. Soon after they were seated, someone in their group said, "Oh look, there's Senator TOWER." TOWER was seated on a banquette along the wall with a very attractive, slender, [redacted] approximately [redacted] years old. TOWER and his date were obviously not sober. T-4 could not remember if he/she heard TOWER speaking. The lighting in the club was low, and T-4 could not observe if TOWER's eyes were bloodshot. The cocktail waitress, named [redacted] had to pass by T-4's table to serve TOWER and his companion. T-4 estimated that TOWER was served at least two or three times in a time period of approximately one and one half hours. T-4 could not tell what TOWER was drinking. He was not falling down drunk, but he did not appear to have good equilibrium, and was unsteady at times when he walked to and from the dance floor. T-4 characterized TOWER as a happy drunk. He was not belligerent, or loud. TOWER was acting somewhat amorously and suggestively with his date. He sat very close to her, and had his arm around her. T-4 did not observe TOWER do anything blatantly inappropriate, but stated that he/she would have felt embarrassed or irritated with a date that behaved as TOWER did in public.

When leaving the dance floor one time, TOWER's date tripped and fell "sprawled out" right in front of T-4's table. Unfortunately, she had also fallen out of her strapless dress. TOWER looked at her and laughed, and seemed to be matter of fact and casual about the whole thing. TOWER's date stood up, then pulled her dress back up. T-4 could not tell if she did this purposely, but added that she certainly was not trying to hide what had happened.

At some point in the evening, T-4 looked up and noticed that TOWER's date was not with him. TOWER had left his table, and had approached a table of two or three young women in their mid twenties. TOWER seemed to know these women, and sat down and put his arm around a [redacted] with long hair. T-4 looked back at the table, and observed TOWER "fondling" the [redacted] buttocks. T-4 is a lifelong resident of Texas, and stated that he/she has long been aware of TOWER's reputation as a womanizer and drinker. At the time, of the above described incident, T-4 and her companions laughed, and said, "Well he's (TOWER) moved on." T-4 stated that the clientele of THE CLUB is well-dressed, and appeared to be the moneyed younger Dallas "society types" with most of the patrons in their thirties. It was not a group of people that could be considered to be TOWER's peers.

4 tell FBI Tower seen drunk in '88

By Juan R. Palomo
POST WASHINGTON BUREAU

WASHINGTON — FBI agents Thursday interviewed four people who said they saw an allegedly inebriated John Tower cavorting with several young women at a Dallas nightclub last July.

Three of those interviewed by the FBI are Texans.

One of those interviewed said they told the FBI that Tower, the secretary of defense nominee, remained at the club after his companion left and continued to dance with other women.

"He was doing his stupor-drunk act," said one of those interviewed. "He was slouching and stumbling when he walked from the dance floor — he obviously was not emarrassed."

Another, who spoke on the condition that o names would be used, said the four infor-ıants contacted the FBI because they got fed up" with defenders of Tower in the Sen-te and the administration claiming that he as not had a drinking problem since the 970s.

"What really solidified it this morning was ıe constant replay of one senator on all the ıorning newcasts saying that all the informa-on about Tower is all anonymous innuendo nd that no one is willing to come forward," ıat person said. "That's wrong. It's not innu-ndo. It's fact — I've seen it."

The New York Times quoted a White louse official Thursday as saying the admin-stration acknowledges evidence of immoder-ıte or excessive drinking in the 1970s "which ıppears to have been curbed and brought ınder control in the '80s" and that allegations corroborated by other witnesses.

Tower himself told the Senate Armed Services Committee during his confirmation hearing that he is "a man of some discipline."

There was no such discipline evident at the Dallas club that night, one of the sources said.

"This man is purporting to have become a saint and he's not," said that person. "I just don't happen to think that he's changed."

The sources said they had no political motives for volunteering their information and one of them said the political affiliation of the four was "about half Republican and half Democrat."

According to two of those interviewed, FBI agents said the information would be forwarded to the Senate Armed Services Committee, which Thursday night voted to recommend rejection of Tower's nomination by the Senate.

The agents also told them others who had volunteered information before had been unwilling to agree to repeat their allegations be willing to tell their story before the panel or President Bush.

They said they would if their identity is protected.

The four described to the FBI a scene at The Club, the disco portion of the San Simeon Restaurant in Dallas on July 8.

They had gone there for dinner and, at about 11 p.m., decided to go to the disco for a drink to celebrate a birthday.

They said Tower and a female companion repeatedly danced. During one of their dances Tower's partner stumbled and almost fell, they said, causing her dress straps to come loose and expose both her breasts.

They told the FBI that after the woman left, Tower, 63, remained behind and "continued to pick up other young women" to dance with.

"He continued to dance and he would put his hands on their behinds," one said.

The four said they left after about 90 minutes and Tower was still dancing.

Current Status of "Ill Wind"

Page 17 of the summary memorandum dated February 8, 1989 and page 20 of the summary memorandum dated February 20, 1989, sets forth allegation 5, entitled, "Current status of "ILLWIND."

As previously reported, interview of the representative of a Defense Contractor was delayed due to ongoing plea negotiations with the United States Attorney's Office, Eastern District of Virginia. On February 22, 1989, these negotiations were finalized and the representative of the Defense Contractor was interviewed. He furnished the following information.

During the early 1980's, the Defense Contractor was seeking to obtain congressional support for a particular Defense program. One of the Defense Contractor's Defense Consultants contacted the representative of the Defense Contractor and advised that [redacted] was an individual who could help. Accordingly, the representative of the Defense Contractor agreed to pay the Defense Consultant who in turn would pay [redacted] for [redacted] efforts. The representative of the Defense Contractor did not know the financial arrangements nor how much was to be paid to [redacted] and he was unaware of a personal loan from the Defense Consultant to the former staff member. b6 b7C

The Defense Consultant arranged a meeting for the representative of the Defense Contractor with [redacted] at the Defense Consultant's apartment. [redacted] said he would approach Senator Tower's staff to see what could be done. It was understood by the representative of the Defense Contractor that if the Defense Contractor arranged campaign contributions to Senator Tower, it would be helpful in obtaining support for the particular Defense program. The representative of the Defense Contractor committed between $10,000 to $20,000 in contributions disguised in the names of other consultants and their families. The contributions were forwarded to [redacted] at the Defense Consultant's apartment.

During the time period 1981 through 1983, the Defense Consultant arranged a series of additional meetings between the representative of the Defense Contractor and [redacted] in order to explain the particular Defense program to [redacted] so he could present it to Senator Tower's staff.

Periodically, [redacted] would report back that Senator Tower's staff would support the program. The representative of the Defense Contractor told the Defense Consultant that he wanted to ensure that [redacted] was being "taken care of." The Defense Consultant reported back that [redacted] was being "taken care of."

Regarding the specific allegation that the Defense Consultant had claimed to have paid $20,000 to Senator Tower and was unhappy about having not been reimbursed by the Defense Contractor, the representative for the Defense Contractor stated that although unaware of this specific comment, he knew that the Defense Consultant was always trying to get money from the Defense Contractor and that telling this to the "Illwind" subject who reported it was probably a misleading effort by the Defense Consultant to get paid more quickly.

The representative of the Defense Contractor did not believe that the Defense Consultant was making any direct payments to Senator Tower. He did not know if [redacted] was paying Senator Tower and had no information about it.

The FBI has, as yet, been unable to corroborate the details furnished by the representative of the Defense Contractor. As he continues his lengthy debriefing, in accordance with his plea agreement, it is not known what, if any, additional information pertaining to Senator Tower he will furnish.

It is also noted that some pertinent "Illwind" subjects decline to be interviewed concerning Senator Tower, and it is unknown what information they might provide at a future date should they be subjected to criminal prosecution.

To date, however, no credible evidence has been developed that Senator Tower personally participated in, or was aware of these transactions.

The information in this summary memorandum supplements the information contained in summary memoranda dated December 13 and 23, 1988, January 6, 13, and 25, 1989, and February 8 and 20, 1989. An additional interview remains outstanding.

Interviews

As reported on page 63 of the summary memorandum dated February 20, 1989, and entitled "Allegation that in 1983 executives of United Technologies Corporation (UTC) were contacted and requested to make personal contributions to Senator Tower's campaign fund," [redacted] alleged that [redacted] contacted him and requested that he make a personal contribution to Senator Tower's re-election campaign. b6 b7C

On February 13, 1989, [redacted] attorney for [redacted] was contacted to arrange an interview of [redacted] regarding this issue. [redacted] stated that he would advise [redacted] not to talk to the FBI unless assurances were given that [redacted] had no criminal involvement. [redacted] also suggested that [redacted] be granted immunity. [redacted] was subsequently advised that his client would not be given that assurance or be granted immunity and he declined to make his client available for FBI interview.

Pursuant to Part E of the summary memorandum dated February 20, 1989 and entitled "QUESTIONABLE ACTIVITIES ON THE PART OF SENATOR TOWER WHILE IN GENEVA, SWITZERLAND," the reinterview of former United States Air Force [redacted] is incorporated herein.

Synopsis:

No connection found between Senator JOHN GOODWIN TOWER and E-SYSTEMS.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency, it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

Details:

The purpose of this report is to confirm information previously provided to FBIHQ telephonically.

On 2/13/89 Supervisory Special Agent (SSA) [redacted] Government Fraud Unit (GFU), Criminal Investigative Division telephonically contacted Tampa requesting information relative to Senator JOHN TOWER and his relationship with E-SYSTEMS, the subject of Tampa file 206A-180. SSA [redacted] advised that White Collar Crime Section Chief [redacted] was contacted by Department of Justice (DOJ) Fraud Section Chief WILLIAM HENDRICKS inquiring as to the nature and extent of information, HENDRICKS was told by DOJ Attorney [redacted] Tampa had developed. b6 b7C

On 2/13/89 a review of TP 206A-180 was conducted which failed to disclose any information relative to Senator TOWER and case agent orally confirmed that no information relative to Senator TOWER has been developed. Tampa case agent went on to explain he had a telephone conversation with [redacted] on 2/10/89 where he broadly explained the E-SYSTEMS investigation to [redacted] as she was recently designated as the Defense Procurement Fraud Unit (DPFU), DOJ attorney to the E-SYSTEMS case. During the conversation [redacted] asked Tampa case agent as to the connection between Senator TOWER and E-SYSTEMS. Tampa case agent advised that there was none to his knowledge to which [redacted] replied that [redacted] CECOM, (JAG), a Special Assistant United States Attorney in the E-SYSTEMS case, stated there was a connection. Tampa case agent reiterated he was unaware of any connection and told [redacted] to pursue her interest through [redacted] if he was the one who said there was a connection.

On 2/13/89 Tampa telephonically contacted [redacted] who advised E-SYSTEMS is headquartered in Dallas, Texas and TOWER was both a Senator for Texas and on the Senate Armed Services Committee. It was [redacted] understanding that E-SYSTEMS [redacted] as a corporate leader in Texas, had a long standing professional relationship with Senator TOWER who is a political leader in Texas. [redacted] went on to explain that whenever CECOM attempted to take administrative sanctions against E-SYSTEMS or let bidding on the VCR 12 radio contract either the Senate Armed Services Committee or Staff Assistants to Senator TOWER would ask questions of CECOM as to the contemplated actions. The questions were within the realm of authority and responsibility of the entities asking the questions. [redacted] stated he relayed this same information to [redacted] who asked for any documentation. [redacted] said he did locate three memorandums (consisting of seven pages) that related to questions asked by Senator TOWER staffers and the Senate Armed Services Committee relative to E-SYSTEMS. There was no indication that Senator TOWER was personally involved or that the issues raised were improper. At Tampa's request, the three memorandums were facsimiled by [redacted] to the GFU, Criminal Investigative Division.

by SA [redacted] and SA RPC:anc Date dictated 2/10/89

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

A search by the interviewing agents of microfilm copies of filings by JOHN G. TOWER under Rule 44 for the years 1968 through 1977 revealed no contributions or honorariums in the amount of $250,000.00 or any figure close to that amount. *

[redacted] advised that Public Law 92-225 Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 (Section 304a and b) went into effect April 7, 1972. Section 304a and b requires that the candidates' campaign committees file reports on the tenth day of March, June and September each year and on the fifteenth and fifth day prior to an election and on the thirty-first day of January following the election. This report must contain a listing of any loan to or from any person in any amount in excess of $100.00. The report must also contain a listing of each contribution or receipt in excess of $100.00 along with the identity of the contributor. [redacted] repeated, however, that the Act and its requirements took effect 4/7/72.

A review of all available records filed with the Clerk of the Senate concerning campaign financing by JOHN TOWER and any committee working on his behalf for the years 1971 and 1972 revealed no listed contribution or loan in the amount of $250,00.00 or any similar amount. In addition, these reports fail to list the name of [redacted] anywhere as a source of a loan. However, a review of a "Registration Form and Statement of Organization for Political Committees" as well as a "Receipts and Expenditures Report of Committees", both filed by "Friends of JOHN TOWER reveals that that committee had $252,114.64 on hand when the Public Law 92-225 took effect on April 7, 1972. A review of the information contained on these two forms (copies attached) reveals that this same amount, $252,114.65, was loaned on April 13, 1972 from that committee to "Texans for Tower", TOWER's principle campaign committee and the parent organization of "Friends of John Tower". The source of these funds cannot be determined based upon a review of the forms filed since no prior filings were necessary because the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 only took effect April 7, 1972. A further review of these forms revealed that [redacted] of "Friends of John Tower" was identified as [redacted] Austin, Texas. [redacted] of that committee was identified as [redacted] Austin, Texas. [redacted] of that committee was identified as [redacted] Austin, Texas.

SELECT COMMITTEE ON STANDARDS AND CONDUCT

UNITED STATES SENATE

Select Committee on Standards and Conduct

U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE
35-756 WASHINGTON : 1974

Preamble to Senate Resolution 266, 90th Congress, 2d Session

Resolved, It is declared to be the policy of the Senate that—

(a) The ideal concept of public office, expressed by the words, "A public office is a public trust", signifies that the officer has been entrusted with public power by the people; that the officer holds this power in trust to be used only for their benefit and never for the benefit of himself or of a few; and that the officer must never conduct his own affairs so as to infringe on the public interest. All official conduct of Members of the Senate should be guided by this paramount concept of public office.

(b) These rules, as the written expression of certain standards of conduct, complement the body of unwritten but generally accepted standards that continue to apply to the Senate.

Rule 41

Outside Business or Professional Activity or Employment by Officers or Employees

1. No officer or employee whose salary is paid by the Senate may engage in any business or professional activity or employment for compensation unless—

(a) the activity or employment is not inconsistent nor in conflict with the conscientious performance of his official duties: and

(b) he has reported in writing when this rule takes effect or when his office or employment starts and on the 15th day of May in each year thereafter the nature of any personal service activity or employment to his supervisor. The supervisor shall then, in the discharge of his duties, take such action as he considers necessary for the avoidance of conflict of interest or interference with duties to the Senate.

2. For the purpose of this rule—

(a) a Senator or the Vice President is the supervisor of his administrative, clerical, or other assistants;

(b) a Senator who is the chairman of a committee is the supervisor of the professional, clerical, or other assistants to the committee except that minority staff members shall be under the supervision of the ranking minority Senator on the committee:

(c) a Senator who is a chairman of a subcommittee which has its own staff and financial authorization is the supervisor of the professional, clerical, or other assistants to the subcommittee except that minority staff members shall be under the supervision of the ranking minority Senator on the subcommittee:

(d) the President pro tempore is the supervisor of the Secretary of the Senate, Sergeant at Arms and Doorkeeper, the Chaplain, and the employees of the Office of the Legislative Counsel;

(e) the Secretary of the Senate is the supervisor of the employees of his office;

(f) the Sergeant at Arms and Doorkeeper is the supervisor of the employees of his office;

(g) the Majority and Minority Leaders and the Majority and Minority Whips are the supervisors of the research, clerical, or other assistants assigned to their respective offices;

(h) the Majority Leader is the supervisor of the Secretary for the Majority. The Secretary for the Majority is the supervisor of the employees of his office; and

(i) the Minority Leader is the supervisor of the Secretary for the Minority. The Secretary for the Minority is the supervisor of the employees of his office.

3. This rule shall take effect ninety days after adoption.

Contributions

1. A Senator or person who has declared or otherwise made known his intention to seek nomination or election, or who has filed papers or petitions for nomination or election, or on whose behalf a declaration or nominating paper or petition has been made or filed, or who has otherwise, directly or indirectly, manifested his intention to seek nomination or election, pursuant to State law, to the office of United States Senator, may accept a contribution from—

(a) a fundraising event organized and held primarily in his behalf, provided—

(1) he has expressly given his approval of the fundraising event to the sponsors before any funds were raised; and

(2) he receives a complete and accurate accounting of the source, amounts, and disposition of the funds raised; or

(b) an individual or an organization, provided the Senator makes a complete and accurate accounting of the source, amount, and disposition of the funds received; or

(c) his political party when such contributions were from a fundraising event sponsored by his party, without giving his express approval for such fundraising event when such fundraising event is for the purpose of providing contributions for candidates of his party and such contributions are reported by the Senator or candidate for Senator as provided in paragraph (b).

2. The Senator may use the contribution only to influence his nomination for election, or his election, and shall not use, directly or indirectly, any part of any contribution for any other purpose, except as otherwise provided herein.

3. Nothing in this rule shall preclude the use of contributions to defray expenses for travel to and from each Senator's home State; for printing and other expenses in connection with the mailing of speeches, newsletters, and reports to a Senator's constituents; for expenses of radio, television, and news media methods of reporting to a Senator's constituents; for telephone, telegraph, postage, and stationery expenses in excess of allowance; and for newspaper subscriptions from his home State.

4. All gifts in the aggregate amount or value of $50 or more received by a Senator from any single source during a year, except a gift from his spouse, child, or parent, and except a contribution under sections 1 and 2, shall be reported under rule 44.

5. This rule shall take effect ninety days after adoption.

Rule 43

Political Fund Activity by Officers and Employees

1. No officer or employee whose salary is paid by the Senate may receive, solicit, be the custodian of, or distribute any funds in connection with any campaign for the nomination for election, or the election of any individual to be a Member of the Senate or to any other Federal office. This prohibition does not apply to any assistant to a Senator who has been designated by that Senator to perform any of the functions described in the first sentence of this paragraph and who is compensated at a rate in excess of $10,000 per annum if such designation has been made in writing and filed with the Secretary of the Senate. The Secretary of the Senate shall make the designation available for public inspection.

2. This rule shall take effect sixty days after adoption.

Rule 44

Disclosure of Financial Interests

1. Each Senator or person who has declared or otherwise made known his intention to seek nomination or election, or who has filed papers or petitions for nomination or election, or on whose behalf a declaration or nominating paper or petition has been made or filed, or who has otherwise, directly or indirectly, manifested his intention to seek nomination or election, pursuant to State law, to the office of United States Senator, and each officer or employee of the Senate who is compensated at a rate in excess of $15,000 a year, shall file with the Comptroller General of the United States, in a sealed envelope marked "Confidential Personal Financial Disclosure of_____ _____", before the
15th day of May in each year, the following reports of his personal financial interests:

(a) a copy of the returns of taxes, declarations, statements, or other documents which he, or he and his spouse jointly, made for the preceding year in compliance with the income tax provisions of the Internal Revenue Code;

(b) the amount or value and source of each fee or compensation of $1,000 or more received by him during the preceding year from a client;

(c) the name and address of each business or professional corporation, firm, or enterprise in which he was an officer, director, partner, proprietor, or employee who received compensation during the preceding year and the amount of such compensation;

(d) the identity of each interest in real or personal property having a value of $10,000 or more which he owned at any time during the preceding year;

(e) the identity of each trust or other fiduciary relation in which he held a beneficial interest having a value of $10,000 or more, and the identity if known of each interest of the trust or other fiduciary relation in real or personal property in which the Senator, officer, or employee held a beneficial interest having a value of $10,000 or more, at any time during the preceding year. If he cannot obtain the identity of the fiduciary interests, the Senator, officer, or employee shall request the fiduciary to report that information to the Comptroller General in the same manner that reports are filed under this rule:

(f) the identity of each liability of $5,000 or more owed by him, or by him and his spouse jointly, at any time during the preceding year; and

(g) the source and value of all gifts in the aggregate amount or value of $50 or more from any single source received by him during the preceding year.

2. Except as otherwise provided by this section, all papers filed under section 1 of this rule shall be kept by the Comptroller General for not less than seven years, and while so kept shall remain sealed. Upon receipt of a resolution of the Select Committee on Standards and Conduct, adopted by a recorded majority vote of the full committee, requesting the transmission to the committee of any of the reports filed by any individual under section 1 of this rule, the Comptroller General shall transmit to the committee the envelopes containing such reports. Within a reasonable time after such recorded vote has been taken, the individual concerned shall be informed of the vote to examine and audit, and shall be advised of the nature and scope of such examination. When any sealed envelope containing any such report is received by the committee, such envelope may be opened and the contents thereof may be examined only by members of the committee in executive session. If, upon such examination the committee determines that further consideration by the committee is warranted and is within the jurisdiction of the committee, it may make the contents of any such envelope available for any use by any member of the committee, or any member of the staff of the committee, which is required for the discharge of his official duties. The committee may receive the papers as evidence, after giving to the individual concerned due notice and opportunity for hearing in a closed session. The Comptroller General shall report to the Select Committee on Standards and Conduct not later than the 1st day of June in each year the names of Senators, officers, and employees who have filed a report. Any paper which has been filed with the Comptroller General for longer than seven years, in accordance with the provisions of this section, shall be returned to the individual concerned or his legal representative. In the event of the death or termination of service of a Member of the Senate, an officer or employee, such papers shall be returned unopened to such individual, or to the surviving spouse or legal representative of such individual within one year of such death or termination of service.

3. Each Senator or person who has declared or otherwise made known his intention to seek nomination or election, or who has filed papers or petitions for nomination or election, or on whose behalf a declaration or nominating paper or petition has been made or filed, or who has otherwise, directly or indirectly, manifested his intention to seek nomination or election, pursuant to State law, to the office of United States Senator, and each officer or employee of the Senate who is compensated at a rate in excess of $15,000 a year, shall file with the Secretary of the Senate, before the 15th day of May in each year, the following reports of his personal financial interests:

(a) the accounting required by rule 42 for all contributions received by him during the preceding year, except that contributions in the aggregate amount or value of less than $50 received from any single source during the reporting period may be totaled without further itemization; and

(b) the amount or value and source of each honorarium of $300 or more received by him during the preceding year.

4. All papers filed under section 3 of this rule shall be kept by the Secretary of the Senate for not less than three years and shall be made available promptly for public inspection and copying.

5. This rule shall take effect on July 1, 1968. No reports shall be filed for any period before office or employment was held with the Senate, or during a period of office or employment with the Senate of less than ninety days in a year; except that the Senator, or officer or employee of the Senate, may file a copy of the return of taxes for the year 1968, or a report of substantially equivalent information for only the effective part of the year 1968.

If you are entitled to receive an honorarium and directed that it be paid to a charity, church, or school of your choosing, you still must report receipt of the honorarium.

A royalty should be distinguished from an honorarium as a payment to an author, composer, inventor, or mineral shareholder proportional to the number or amount of the products sold or used. Bellmon Says He Warned Bush About Nominating Tower

Gov. Henry Bellmon said Thursday he once called President Bush to argue against the appointment of John Tower as secretary of defense, because of Tower's ties to the defense industry.

"I felt like Mr. Tower's connections with the defense industry would put him in a very compromised position," Bellmon said.

Bellmon, who served in the U.S. Senate with Tower for 12 years, said Nunn has said he had doubts about Tower's sobriety, his fitness to be in the chain of command of the nuclear arsenal and the competence of an FBI inquiry into Tower's dealings.

Asked about his relationship with Tower while he was in the Senate, Bellmon said, "If you're asking me if I partied with him, the answer is no."

When a reporter inquired whether Bush made a mistake by selecting Tower, Bellmon said, "Well, I think I've said enough on this one. I might say that I called the president and talked to him directly on this issue before the appointment was made.

"I'm not terribly surprised by some of the revelations that have come out," he said.

Bellmon said he didn't know whether his comments on the Tower appointment ought to be made public. "What happens, if he gets confirmed?" he said.

The Republican governor said he had not been contacted by the FBI to discuss his knowledge of Tower's activities.

On Page 11:

• Democrats Leery of Tower

Tower was "a difficult man to work with in many ways."

Asked how the president responded to his criticism of Tower, Bellmon said, "Well, you can tell what it was. He went ahead and appointed him anyway."

The nomination of Tower has run into trouble in the Senate Armed Services Committee where chairman Sam Nunn, D-Georgia, has expressed doubts about Tower's fitness.

"I was a little surprised and very deeply impressed in a negative sort of a way when I read that Sam Nunn, whom I respect a great deal, has said that if he had to vote at the present time he would vote no," Bellmon said. "That's a pretty serious indictment."

"But I have no access to whatever intelligence the committee has been furnished," he said.

Re telcal of ASAC [redacted] Oklahoma City, to SPIN Unit Chief [redacted] 2/10/89, and Oklahoma City facsimile to the Bureau 2/10/89.

Enclosed are an original and one copy of an FD-302 reflecting the results of an interview of HENRY BELLMON, Governor of Oklahoma, on 2/10/89.

Referenced facsimile transmitted a copy of a newspaper article appearing on the front page of the 2/10/89 edition of The Daily Oklahoman, captioned "BELLMON Says He Warned BUSH about nominating TOWER."

Approval was obtained during referenced tel call (based on the content of the article) to conduct an interview of Oklahoma's Republican Governor, HENRY BELLMON, concerning JOHN TOWER.

Efforts to conduct an in-person interview with the Governor were not successful as his appointment secretary advised that he did not care to be interviewed for the reason that he possessed no pertinent knowledge of TOWER's activities other than what was already contained in The Daily Oklahoman article.

SAC RONALD A. HOVERSON then contacted the Governor directly, by telephone, and interviewed him. Results of that interview are set forth in the enclosed FD-302.

HENRY BELLMON, Governor for the State of Oklahoma, was reached telephonically by RONALD A. HOVERSON, Special Agent in Charge, FBI, Oklahoma City. Upon being advised of the identity of the caller, Governor BELLMON consented to being interviewed regarding his knowledge of JOHN TOWER, nominee for the position of Secretary of Defense.

Governor BELLMON was aware that the interview was prompted by a front page newspaper article appearing in The Daily Oklahoman on February 10, 1989, entitled "BELLMON Says He Warned BUSH About Nominating TOWER."

Governor BELLMON apologized for the fact that the article appeared in the newspaper commenting that he had no idea his remarks would be made public. He advised that he has had no contact with JOHN TOWER since he (BELLMON) left the U.S. Senate in January of 1981. He related that he had, in fact, contacted President GEORGE BUSH about the prospect of Mr. TOWER's nomination to become Secretary of Defense and informed the President that he had found Mr. TOWER to be a very difficult person to deal with when they were fellow Senators. In particular, he pointed out to the President that he believed Mr. TOWER was unreasonable regarding defense contract issues in that he was overly supportive of the positions taken by private defense contractors.

The Governor advised he had no knowledge of Mr. TOWER's personal life to provide to the FBI and nothing had come to his attention about his alcohol consumption habits or alleged "womanizing."

In conclusion, the Governor said he knew of no one else he could refer the FBI to for interview regarding either Mr. TOWER's dealings with defense contractors or his personal life.

SPECIAL INQUIRY - PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENT WITH SENATE CONFIRMATION

Reference is made to a prior request by the FBI dated 12/19/89 concerning the background investigation of Senator Tower.

The FBI is in receipt of a request from the White House to conduct an expedite background investigation concerning Senator Tower who is being considered for Secretary of Defense which requires Senate confirmation.

Senator Tower was born on 9/29/25, in Houston, Texas. He has Social Security number 451-46-9866.

It has been alleged that [redacted] after his receipt of a $350,000 loan from the Small Business Administration (SBA) in late 1971 or early 1972, proceeded to extend a loan of $250,000 two weeks later to Senator Tower's campaign fund. It has been intimated that the alleged loan to Senator Tower's campaign fund may have been a consequence of Senator Tower's friendship with Hillary Sandoval (phonetic) who was the Administrator of the SBA during this time frame. [redacted] should be thoroughly interviewed regarding any impropriety as to the awarding of the SBA loan or to [redacted] alleged loan to Senator Tower's campaign fund. It is also requested that the amount of each loan be verified and that [redacted] provide the name(s) of any person(s) who are knowledgeable regarding these transactions.

RE PORTLAND TELETYPE TO SEATTLE DATED FEBRUARY 9, 1989.

BUSINESS. HAMILTON IS [redacted]E OWNER OF GREEN LEAVE H[redacted]COPTERS, PEARSON AIR PARK, 101 EAST RESERVE, VANCOUVER, WASHINGTON 98661, TELEPHONE NUMBER (206) 694-2483.

HAMILTON VOLUNTARILY INITIATED CONTACT WITH THE PORTLAND DIVISION OF THE FBI WISHING TO PROVIDE INFORMATION WITH REGARD TO SENATOR JOHN TOWER IN HIS CONSIDERATION FOR SECRETARY OF DEFENSE. THIS WAS AFTER WATCHING PRESIDENT BUSH ON TELEVISION THE NIGHT BEFORE IN A BROADCAST THROUGH WHICH PRESIDENT BUSH REQUESTED CITIZENS TO CALL IN WITHIN INFORMATION REGARDING SENATOR JOHN TOWER.

HAMILTON STATED THAT BACK IN THE MID-60'S TO 70-71 (1960-1970/1971) HE WAS EMPLOYED BY SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OF TEXAS, INC., (SOUTHERN AIRWAYS) LOCATED IN MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS. THE PRESIDENT OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS WAS R. L. THOMAS. AT THE TIME HAMILTON RECALLS THE SENATOR FOR TEXAS WAS JOHN TOWER AND HE WAS POSSIBLY A MEMBER OR EVEN CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE ARMS SERVICES COMMITTEE. HAMILTON EXPLAINED THAT THE OPERATION OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS WAS CONDUCTED AT FORT WOLTERS, TEXAS. THE MAIN FUNCTION OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS WAS TO DO ALL INITIAL TRAINING ON ALL ENTRY LEVEL MILITARY HELICOPTER PILOTS. SOUTHERN AIRWAYS WAS CONTRACTED FOR THIS SERVICE BY THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE DURING THE VIETNAM WAR. ONCE THE PILOTS COMPLETED THEIR INITIAL TRAINING AT FORT WOLTERS THEY WENT TO ADVANCE TRAINING AT FOR RUCKER, ALABAMA. NEAR THE END OF THE VIETNAM WAR, THE EMPLOYEES OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS REALIZED THAT THE OPERATION WOULD BE PHASED OUT IN THAT IT WAS OBSOLETE AND THERE WOULD NOT BE A NEED FOR PRIMARY FLIGHT TRAINING AREA. THIS WAS DUE TO THE FACT THAT THIS FUNCTION COULD BE ACCOMPLISHED AT FORT RUCKER, ALABAMA. THEREFORE, THE PILOTS OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS KNEW THEIR OPERAITON WOULD BE CLOSED. IT WAS AT THIS TIME THAT HAMILTON LEFT SOUTHERN AIRWAYS.

PRIOR TO HAMILTON'S LEAVING SOUTHERN AIRWAYS, ONE OF THE PAY CHECKS HE RECEIVED WAS $15Ø LESS THAN IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN. HAMILTON EXPLAINED THAT AT THE TIME HE WAS PAID BIWEEKLY AT THE RATE OF $1,1ØØ TO $1,3ØØ PER MONTH. HAMILTON REALIZED THAT HIS PAY CHECK WAS $15Ø SHORT AND WENT TO THE FLIGHT COMMANDER TO COMPLAIN. HAMILTON RECALLS THE FLIGHT COMMANDERS WERE ED "SONNY" BLONDELL AND JAMES J. GREENHALGH. BLONDELL WAS HAMILTON'S IMMEDIATE SUPERVISOR.

HAMILTON WAS INFORMED THAT THE $15Ø WAS TAKEN AS A CAMPAIGN

CONTRIBUTION. HAMILTON VAGUELY RECALLS A MEMORANDUM EXPLAINING THAT THE $150 WAS TAKEN AS A CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION FOR SENATOR JOHN TOWER. IN RETURN, TOWER WOULD DO WHAT HE COULD, IN HIS POSITION AS SENATOR AND POSSIBLY MEMBER OR CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE, TO KEEP FORT WOLTERS AND SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OPERATION IN EXISTENCE. AFTER RECONSIDERATION, HAMILTON WAS UNSURE AS TO WHETHER THIS INFORMATION CAME THROUGH WRITTEN MEMORANDUM OR VERBAL EXPLANATION FROM A SUPERVISOR. HAMILTON DOES RECALL, HOWEVER, THAT PRIOR TO THE FUNDS BEING DEDUCTED FROM HIS PAY, HE DID NOT AUTHORIZE THE SAME. HAMILTON INDICATED HE WAS VERY UPSET, RAISED THE ISSUE AND IN FACT WAS REIMBURSED THE $150. HAMILTON WAS SURE THAT THE SAME AMOUNT WAS DEDUCTED FROM THE OTHER $500 OR SO EMPLOYEES PAY AND DOES NOT KNOW WHAT THEY WERE TOLD NOR WHETHER THEY WERE REIMBURSED.

HAMILTON STATED HE NEVER PERSONALLY SAW SENATOR JOHN TOWER AT THE FORT WOLTERS OPERATION BUT INDICATED IT WAS POSSIBLE THAT TOWER HAD BEEN THERE. AT THE TIME, TOWER LIVED IN WITCHITA FALLS, TEXAS, WHICH IS LOCATED APPROXIMATELY 70 TO 80 MILES NORTH OF MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS.

HAMILTON PROVIDED TWO PHOTOGRAPHS OF EMPLOYEES OF SOUTHERN

AIRWAYS. HE INDICATED THAT MOST OF THESE MEN ARE LICENSED PILOTS AND THAT THE FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION (FAA) OPERATIONAL HEADQUARTERS IN OKLAHOMA CITY MAYBE ABLE TO PROVIDE INFORMATION AS TO THEIR WHEREABOUTS. APR 25 1989

CC DESTROYED

Any interviews should focus on SAI management rather than lower level employees to determine if any "improper" campaign contribution pressure existed from Tower.

HELD BY SAI TO TRAIN U.S. ARMY HELICOPTER PILOTS FOR VIETNAM WAR DUTY.

AS [redacted] RECALLS, IN MID-1971, A LETTER CAME TO SAI FROM THE U.S. ARMY, OR FROM THE OFFICE OF THEN SENATOR JOHN G. TOWER, INFORMING THAT FORT WOLTON, TEXAS, HELICOPTER TRAINING FACILITY WOULD BE CLOSED SOON, AND SAI CONTRACT WITH U.S. ARMY WOULD BE DISCONTINUED DUE TO REDUCTION OF TROOP COMMITMENTS TO VIETNAM WAR. ALL SAI PERSONNEL AT FORT WOLTON WERE VERY UPSET, AS THEY BELIEVED THAT THIS FACILITY WAS MUCH BETTER SUITED FOR ARMY HELICOPTER TRAINING THAN FORT RUCKER, ALABAMA, WHICH WOULD BE KEPT OPEN FOR FUTURE PILOT TRAINING. b6 b7C

SHORTLY AFTER THIS NOTICE, A MEMO WAS PUBLISHED, POSSIBLY BY UNRECALLED SENIOR SAI OFFICIALS, WHICH REQUESTED A $150.ØØ DONATION TO BE VOLUNTARILY PROVIDED BY EACH SAI EMPLOYEE FOR CONTRIBUTION TO SENATOR JOHN G. TOWER/RE-ELECTION CAMPAIGN. NO PRESSURE OR DURESS WAS PLACED UPON [redacted] OR ANY OTHER INSTRUCTOR PILOT, TO HIS KNOWLEDGE, TO CONTRIBUTE. [redacted] DID NOT CONTRIBUTE, AS HE FELT THIS WOULD HAVE BEEN USELESS. SENATOR TOWER GAVE NO INDICATION HE WOULD BRING PRESSURE TO BEAR TO KEEP FORT WOLTON OPEN, AND SAI CONTRACT IN EFFECT WITH THE ARMY.

IN LATE, 1971, FORT WOLTON, TEXAS, WAS CLOSED BY U.S. ARMY AS EARLIER ANNOUNCED. [redacted] THEN SOUGHT EMPLOYMENT ELSEWHERE. b6 b7C

FORMER SAI EMPLOYEES THAT WOULD BE KNOWLEDGEABLE ABOUT THE $150.00 CONTRIBUTION INCIDENT, FROM [redacted] MEMORY, WOULD BE FLIGHT COMMANDERS [redacted] AND [redacted] HOWEVER, [redacted] DID NOT KNOW CURRENT LOCATIONS OR EMPLOYMENT OF THESE PERSONS. FOR INFORMATION OF DALLAS AND BALTIMORE, REFERENCED TEL ADVISED THAT JAMES M. HAMILTON, DBA GREEN LEAVE HELICOPTERS, VANCOUVER, WASHINGTON, VOLUNTARILY INITIATED CONTACT WITH THE FBI, WISHING TO PROVIDE INFORMATION REGARDING SENATOR JOHN TOWER IN CONNECTION WITH HIS CONSIDERATION FOR SECRETARY OF DEFENSE IN RESPONSE TO PRESIDENT BUSH'S TELEVISION BROADCAST, IN WHICH PRESIDENT BUSH REQUESTED CITIZENS TO CALL IN INFORMATION REGARDING TOWER.

Note in Summary

ON FEBRUARY 9, 1989, HAMILTON STATED THAT IN THE MID-60'S TO '70-71, HE WAS EMPLOYED BY SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OF TEXAS, INC. (SOUTHERN AIRWAYS), MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS. R. L. THOMAS WAS PRESIDENT OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS. HAMILTON RECALLS TOWER AS BEING THE SENATOR FOR TEXAS AT THAT TIME AND POSSIBLY A MEMBER OR EVEN CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE. HAMILTON EXPLAINED THE OPERATION OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS WAS CONDUCTED AT FORT WOLTERS, TEXAS, WITH THE MAIN FUNCTION OF THE COMPANY BEING INITIAL TRAINING ON ALL ENTRY LEVEL MILITARY HELICOPTER PILOTS. SOUTHERN AIRWAYS WAS CONTRACTED FOR THIS SERVICE BY THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE DURING THE VIETNAM WAR. WHEN THE PILOTS COMPLETED THEIR INITIAL TRAINING AT FORT WOLTERS, THEY WERE SENT

TO ADVANCED TRAINING AT FOR RUCKER, ALABAMA. NEAR THE END OF THE VIETNAM WAR, THE EMPLOYEES OF THE SOUTHERN AIRWAYS REALIZED THE OPERATION WOULD BE PHASED OUT AS OBSOLETE. THERE WOULD NO LONGER BE A NEED FOR A PRIMARY FLIGHT TRAINING AREA , BECAUSE THIS FUNCTION COULD BE ACCOMPLISHED AT FORT RUCKER. HAMILTON LEFT EMPLOYMENT WITH SOUTHERN AIRWAYS AT THAT TIME.

PRIOR TO LEAVING SOUTHERN AIRWAYS, HAMILTON ADVISED HE RECEIVED A PAY CHECK THAT WAS $150 LESS THAN IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN. WHEN HE REALIZED THE CHECK WAS SHORT $150, HE WENT TO THE FLIGHT COMMANDER TO COMPLAIN. HAMILTON RECALLED THE FLIGHT COMMANDERS AS ED "SONNY" BLONDELL AND JAMES J. GREENHALGH. BLONDELL WAS HAMILTON'S IMMEDIATE SUPERVISOR. HAMILTON WAS INFORMED THE $150 WAS TAKEN AS A CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION. HAMILTON VAGUELY RECALLED A MEMORANDUM EXPLAINING THE $150 WAS A CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTION FOR SENATOR TOWER. IN RETURN, TOWER WOULD ATTEMPT, IN HIS POSITION AS SENATOR AND POSSIBLY HIS CONNECTION WITH THE SENATE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE, TO KEEP FORT WOLTERS AND SOUTHERN AIRWAYS OPERATION IN EXISTENCE. HAMILTON SUBSEQUENTLY ADVISED HE WAS UNSURE IF THIS INFORMATION WAS A WRITTEN MEMORANDUM OR A VERBAL EXPLANATION FROM A SUPERVISOR. HAMILTON DOES RECALL THAT HE DID NOT AUTHORIZE THIS DEDUCTION PRIOR TO THE FUNDS BEING DEDUCTED FROM HIS CHECK. HAMILTON INDICATED, AFTER RAISING THE ISSUE, HE WAS REIMBURSED THE $150. HAMILTON STATED HE WAS SURE THAT THE SAME AMOUNT WAS ALSO DEDUCTED FROM THE PAY CHECKS OF OTHER SOUTHERN AIRWAYS EMPLOYEES AND HE DOES NOT KNOW IF THEY WERE TOLD OF THE REASON OR WHETHER THEY WERE REIMBURSED.

HAMILTON STATED HE NEVER PERSONALLY SAW SENATOR TOWER AT THE FORT WOLTERS OPERATION BUT INDICATED IT WAS POSSIBLE THAT TOWER HAD BEEN THERE. AT THAT TIME, TOWER LIVED IN WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, WHICH IS ONLY SEVENTY TO EIGHTY MILES NORTH OF MINERAL WELLS.

HAMILTON PROVIDED TWO PHOTOGRAPHS OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS EMPLOYEES, INDICATING MOST WERE LICENSED PILOTS. HAMILTON STATED THE FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION (FAA) OPERATIONAL HEADQUARTERS, OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLAHOMA, COULD POSSIBLY PROVIDE INFORMATION AS TO THEIR CURRENT WHEREABOUTS. HAMILTON STATED HE BELIEVED THESE INDIVIDUALS, IF LOCATED, COULD POSSIBLY FURNISH INFORMATION REGARDING THE $150 PAY DEDUCTIONS. HAMILTON STATED A [redacted] ASSISTANT FLIGHT COMMANDER TO GREENHALGH, IN PARTICULAR, MAY BE INFORMATIVE. HAMILTON FURTHER FURNISHED THE

NAMES OF OVER ONE HUNDRED OTHER EMPLOYEES OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS.

SEATTLE SET LEAD FOR OKLAHOMA CITY TO CONTACT FAA TO ASCERTAIN THE WHEREABOUTS OF HAMILTON'S FORMER COWORKERS AND TO SET OUT APPROPRIATE LEADS. IT SHOULD BE NOTED THE LIST OF NAMES SUPPLIED CONTAINS NO DESCRIPTIVE DATA. IN REFERENCED OKLAHOMA CITY TELCAL TO FBIHQ, DECISION WAS MADE TO MAKE ATTEMPT TO DETERMINE CURRENT WHEREABOUTS OF R. L. THOMAS, ED "SONNY" BLONDELL, JAMES J. GREENHALGH, AND [redacted] (ALL REFERRED TO SUPRA). ATTEMPTS TO DETERMINE INFORMATION CONCERNING THE NUMEROUS OTHER FORMER SOUTHERN AIRWAYS EMPLOYEES IS BEING HELD IN ABEYANCE AT THIS TIME, PENDING DEVELOPMENT OF SOME CORROBORATION OF HAMILTON'S STATEMENTS.

ON FEBRUARY 10, 1989, CONTACT WITH THE FAA CIVIL AVIATION SECURITY DIVISION REVEALED THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION:

EDWARD BLONDELL, III, SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER 462-42-6830, DOB JULY 21, 1933, BROWN HAIR, BLUE EYES, SIXTY INCHES, 155 POUNDS, LAST KNOWN ADDRESS WITH DATE OF APRIL 1, 1973, ROUTE TWO, BOX 37, BOWIE, TEXAS 76230, WAS ISSUED COMMERCIAL PILOT CERTIFICATE NUMBER 1428802 WITH SINGLE ENGINE LAND, HELICOPTER AND INSTRUMENT RATINGS. ABOVE INFORMATION WOULD INDICATE THAT JAMES JOSEPH GREENHALGH, DOB OCTOBER 2Ø, 1922, LAST KNOWN IN 1973 TO BE RESIDING IN COLUMBIA, MARYLAND, WOULD MOST LIKELY BE THE INDIVIDUAL PREVIOUSLY EMPLOYED BY SOUTHERN AIRWAYS IN VIEW OF THE RATING LEVEL OF THE PILOT CERTIFICATE.

FAA RECORDS IN THE LAST NAME OF THOMAS WITH FIRST INITIAL OF "R" AND MIDDLE INITIAL OF "L" ARE TOO NUMBEROUS TO IDENTIFY THE R. L. THOMAS WHO WAS PRESIDENT OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS.

NUMEROUS INDIVIDUALS WITH NAME OF [redacted] ARE ON FILE WITH FAA WITH THE TYPE OF PILOT RATINGS CONSISTENT WITH EMPLOYMENT BY SOUTHERN AIRWAYS. IN THE ABSENCE OF FURTHER IDENTIFYING DATA FOR [redacted] NO DETERMINATION CAN BE MADE OF THIS INDIVIDUAL'S CURRENT LOCATION.

OKLAHOMA CITY DIVISION MAINTAINS MICROFICHE OF FAA COMPUTERIZED RECORDS OF PILOTS IN CURRENT STATTUS, INDICATING A MEDICAL CERTIFICATE HAS BEEN SUBMITTED WITHIN THE PAST TWENTY-FIVE MONTHS. RESEARCH CONCERNING PILOTS WITH EXPIRED MEDICAL CERTIFICATES REQUIRES A SEARCH OF RECORDS THROUGH THE FAA CIVIL

OKLAHOMA CITY DIVISION IS CURRENTLY REVIEWING THE MICROFICHE RECORDS IN ATTEMPT TO IDENTIFY INDIVIDUALS WITH THE PROPER TYPE OF AIRMEN CERTIFICATION TO HAVE BEEN EMPLOYEES OF SOUTHERN AIRWAYS AND POSSIBLY IDENTICAL WITH NAMES LISTED BY REFERENCED SEATTLE TELETYPE. BALTIMORE DIVISION AT COLUMBIA, MARYLAND. WILL ATTEMPT TO LOCATE JAMES JOSEPH GREENHALGH TO DETERMINE IF HE WAS FORMERLY EMPLOYED WITH SOUTHERN AIRWAYS. TOWER/SPECIAL

A key reason for the holdup of Sen. John Tower's confirmation as secretary of defense is a disputed investigation into the possiblity that several years ago in Geneva he cavorted with a woman who, unknown to him, was a KGB agent. At the time, Tower was the chief U.S. negotiator in strategic arms talks with the Soviets.

The man who began this investigation was a [redacted] who went to work with the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency as a high-level [redacted] His name is [redacted] and, as a result of his single-minded pursuit of the investigation, he was banished to an outpost in [redacted] [redacted] was tipped off to the possibility that Tower might have been compromised. Our intelligence sources tell us that one tipster was the [redacted] in Geneva from 1985 to 1986. [redacted] and the [redacted] shared information while [redacted] was working with the Air Force Office of Special Investigations on a related inquiry.

[redacted] and [redacted] investigated the possibility that Tower had slept with a foreign woman whom they suspected was a KGB "swallow" -- an agent whose specialty is pillow talk. Our sources say the suspicions about Tower were not included in any of the official investigative reports, or Central Intelligence Agency cables because of the sensitivity of Tower's position.

We talked to [redacted] who is now serving on the [redacted] He referred us to the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, but they declined to comment. [redacted] did tell us the investigation took its toll on him: "They were two very difficult years. I sleep well every night knowing we did the right thing for those two years." b6 b7C

The Air Force Office of Special Investigations inquiry focused on an [redacted] in the 100-member arms control delegation who was accused of a variety of activities, including adultery with a woman who had Soviet-bloc connections and sloppiness with classified documents.

[redacted] admitted to a sexual relationship with the woman who had Czechoslovakian relatives, but strenuously refuted all the other allegations. We have reviewed the three-part OSI report which is three and a half inches thick.

[redacted] said, in his defense, that adulterous relationships were par for the course for members of the delegation. He listed 14 married military officers, employees of the Central Intelligence Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency and the State Department and other delegation members who were having affairs in Geneva -- to his knowledge. He did not name them, and none of the descriptions fit Tower.

But [redacted] saw [redacted] charges as the canny reaction of a man trying to protect his own career by threatening to name others. A later inquiry into the case by the Office of Personnel Management reported that [redacted] may have tried to call in favors to save his career: b6 b7C

"After [redacted] became aware of the seriousness of the allegations against him, he solicited a number of written endorsements from several ambassadors involved in the arms negotiations and from a great many high-ranking officials at ACDA. One or two of these individuals had initially made statements damaging to [redacted] but later on revised their statements to fully support (his) character, actions and loyalty. [redacted] said he has information to suggest that [redacted] had assisted and accommodated several of these individuals in personal and professional matters, and their support of (him) may have been influenced by the assistance he had given them in the past, some of which bordered on improper conduct."

Tower was one of the ambassadors who wrote a letter of support for [redacted] Tower called [redacted] "a dedicated, hard-working man. n the face of it, I do not believe that the allegations against (him) re warranted. I regard his service as outstanding and his devotion to is country and his personal patriotism to be above reproach."

The Air Force felt differently. It issued a letter of reprimand ich said: "Your adulterous relationship with (the woman), which you rking in close proximity to a cadre of Soviet agents."

The Senate Armed Services Committee is holding up Tower's confirmation. It has received several confidential communications regarding the alleged antics in Geneva. One came from Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., whose energy subcommittee on oversight and investigations had accumulated some of the investigative files on the inquiries. Another came from a key Republican senator not on the Armed Services Commmittee who has expressed serious concern.

As a result, the FBI has been looking more closely into the allegation during the last week. The FBI interviewed the colonel's secretary over the weekend about Tower.

A spokesman for Tower said the nominee would not comment on these allegations before his confirmation hearings end.

Date of transcription 12/9/88

While conducting interviews of professional associates of JOHN G. TOWER, the interviewing agents were requested to come to Mr. TOWER's office. Shortly thereafter, [redacted] Attorney to Mr. TOWER, joined this meeting. TOWER and [redacted] were advised by the interviewing agents that the Federal Bureau of Investigation Headquarters had declined the proposal previously made by [redacted] that agents be allowed to read the deposition given by Mr. TOWER during his divorce proceedings, but that they not be allowed to take a copy of it. The agents requested instead that they be given a copy of this deposition for inclusion in this investigation. TOWER advised that he would be pleased to release the entire deposition to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and would gladly have it sent to the White House in connection with this investigation. However, he did not wish the many personal and financial details contained in the deposition forwarded to others who might have access to this investigation and who may not have the same strong sense of privacy that the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the White House have. The interviewing agents advised TOWER that any information he provided would be treated as confidentially as the entire investigation, but any information would become a part of this total investigation and would be furnished to anyone who had official access to it. TOWER advised, upon considering the question further, that he would release the entire deposition to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. [redacted] TOWER's Attorney, wished to add that the deposition should be viewed carefully and the circumstances surrounding it should be considered when acting upon information contained in this deposition. [redacted] reminded the agents that this deposition is not a completed product, and contains only a portion of the questions asked by Mrs. TOWER's attorney. Not only did Mrs. TOWER's attorney not finish his questioning, but [redacted] had no opportunity to further question TOWER during this deposition and TOWER had no chance to clarify or further explain any of these answers.

In addition, [redacted] wishes to note that this deposition was given in the midst of what was becoming a bitter divorce dispute. [redacted] noted that the positions taken by TOWER and his lawyer as well as the position taken by Mrs. TOWER and her lawyer were both greatly exaggerated as a strategy toward reaching a final agreement with each other. [redacted] advised that it is a common practice during such proceedings for each side to demand or request much more than it ever expects to receive, knowing that a final agreement between the two parties will fall somewhere in the middle.

Finally, [redacted] stated that he again wished to be sure it was understood that Senator TOWER is not at all reluctant to release pertinent information from this deposition. Rather, his only concern, was that personal and financial information which was contained in this deposition, but which is not at all pertinent to the investigation, would unnecessarily be made public or given to people who did not need to know this information.

TOWER stated that he would gladly release a copy of this deposition to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. His only request in this connection is that the above comments and cautions accompany this document to assist those who might read it and fully understand its meaning.

The document furnished by JOHN G. TOWER is identified as a deposition given by JOHN G. TOWER on June 9, 1987. A copy of this deposition is included herein and is to be considered part of this document.

EXAMINATION BY COUNSEL FOR THE PLAINTIFF

BY [redacted]

Q. Would you state your full name, please.

A. John Goodwin Tower.

Q. And where are you presently residing?

A. 3525 Turtle Creek Boulevard, Dallas, Texas.

Q. Mr. Tower, would you like to be addressed as Senator, ambassador, Mr. Tower?

A. It doesn't matter. Senator is an honorific title.

Q. Are you in the habit of being addressed as Senator?

A. Yes, after 24 years people continue to call me that.

Q. Your present address, you said, was what?

A. 3525 Turtle Creek Boulevard, Dallas, Texas.

Q. Do you reside any other place or have you during the course of say 1987?

A. Depends on what you call residence. I reside at the Jefferson Hotel when I am in Washington, I have a regular arrangement with the Jefferson. But I do not pay for the time that I am not there, so I don't know how you classify that. But I do regularly stay at the Jefferson and have for I think almost a year.

Q. What is your arrangement with them?

A. That I pay a preferred rate which amounts to I think $100 a day with tax. I can give you a precise figure on that if you would like me to.

Q. And they make efforts to retain a room for you?

A. Not always. Usually it is the same room but not always. Sometimes it varies depending on what their situation is.

Q. Can you give me a little bit of your family background leading up to your education?

A. My father was a Methodist clergyman. And I was born in Houston; we moved around various towns, my father had various pastorates, primarily the eastern part of the state. And I finished my high school education in Beaumont, Texas, my undergraduate education at Southwestern University, my graduate degree is from Southern Methodist and I did graduate work at the London School of Economics, University of London.

Q. What is your age now?

A. My age now is 61.

Q. Date of birth?

A. 29 September 1925.

Q. Could you tell me what degrees you hold?

A. Bachelor of arts and master of arts.

Q. Bachelor from?

A. Bachelor from Southwestern University, master of arts from Southern Methodist University.

Q. Do you have any honorary degrees?

A. Honorary doctorates from Alfred University, New York; Howard Payne in Brownwood, Texas; Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas; Texas Tech at Lubbock, Texas and Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond.

Q. Did you obtain a degree from the London School of Economics?

A. I did not.

Q. How long was your course of study there?

A. I studied there for one year and intended to return and complete the Ph.D. there, but I got so involved in politics I never made it back.

Q. Did you essentially complete your education without first going into business or was it interrupted?

A. After I got my Bachelor's Degree, I laid out for almost a year and was staff announcer for two radio stations in 1948 and 1949. I went to SMU in 1949, took some graduate courses, then spent a year in law school and went back into the graduate school and completed my masters.

Q. The year that you spent in the law school was which law school?

A. The Southern Methodist University Law School.

Q. Did there come a time when you entered what would be full time employment?

A. I was employed as an insurance agent part time while I was a student at SMU.

Q. What type of insurance did you sell?

A. Fire and casualty. Not very successfully.

Q. And after that could you give me your --

A. Joined the faculty of Midwestern State University in September 1951. Took a leave of absence for the year[s]

1952 to 1953 to attend the London School of Economics. Returned to the faculty in 1953, and served on that faculty until 1960 until such time as I was nominated to the Senate.

Q. What position on the faculty did you hold?

A. Assistant professor of political science.

Q. And --

A. Instructor first, and then assistant professor.

Q. And how long did you hold the position of assistant professor?

A. Approximately seven years. Actually, I was a member of the faculty for nine years. One year of that nine I studied in England. The other eight years I was actively teaching, the first year I was instructor, when I returned from England I was made assistant professor. So from 1953 to '60 I was assistant professor.

Q. Did you have tenure at the university?

A. I did have.

Q. Is it in 1960 you first entered politics?

A. No. I ran for the state legislature in 1954. I lost.

Q. When was the next time --

A. Now, beyond that I was an official of the party. For one year I was what is called precinct chairman, which is comparable to precinct captain I think in most jurisdictions. And from 1954 on or 1955 I was a member of the Republican State Executive Committee, which is called the state central committee in most states until such time as I was elected to the Senate in 1961. I was politically active throughout that period, serving as Eisenhower's North Texas campaign chairman in the '56 general election and serving as North Texas campaign chairman in a special election for the United States Senate of Thad Hutcheson Wyatt Huchison, Houston attorney.

Q. You say elected in 1961?

A. In a special election in 1961 on the resignation of Lyndon Johnson to become vice president. Let me clarify that. I ran in 1960. Johnson was up for both reelection to ~~and~~ the Senate and was nominated vice president, so he was running for two offices. He won and had to resign his Senate seat, and I won the succeeding special election May 27, 1961. Sworn in on June 15 of that year. Served in the Senate a total of slightly over 23 and a half years, almost 24 years.

Q. What was the last date you served in the Senate of the United States?

A. January 3 1985.

Q. And when did your last term begin?

A. My last term began January 3, 1979.

Q. Could you tell me the positions which you held as a member of the Senate?

A. I served on the Labor Committee and the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committees originally. I was the ranking Republican on the Banking Committee from 1971 to 1977.

I was also a member of the Budget Committee, briefly a member of the Rules Committee; I was vice chairman of the first Select Committee on Intelligence, known as the Church Committee in 1975 and 1976.

I was the ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee from 1977 to 1981, ranking minority member. I was chairman of the Armed Services Committee from 1981 to 1985. The dates would be January 3 to January 3 in each case.

Q. How long had you actually served on the Armed Services Committee?

A. I was chairman of the Republican Policy Committee for 12 years, therefore a member of the leadership for Republicans in the Senate.

Q. How long did you actually serve on the Armed Services Committee?

A. I began service on the Armed Services Committee on January 3, 1965, so my total service is 20 years ~~in~~ on the Armed Services Committee. At this point I gave up my position on the Labor Committee.

Q. And you served as chairman for four years?

A. Yes. Served as ranking member four years and as chairman for four years.

Q. Do you have a what we call either biographical data sheets or curriculum vitae?

A. I have a biographical sketch we would be glad to provide you. I am sorry, I don't have a copy of it with me.

Q. During the period of time that you were in the Senate, did you keep a calendar?

A. Yes. Calendar like this (Indicating).

Q. Do you still keep a calendar such as that?

A. Yes.

[redacted] And I notice, [redacted] that it has not been produced or at least I have not found it.

[redacted] We would object to producing a calendar unless you can make some demonstration of relevance, [redacted]

[redacted] I am going to ask him about much of his activities in connection with his ten years of marriage to Mrs. Tower. I am also going to ask with respect to his activities concerning his present employment and where he has been and what has taken place.

[redacted] What is the purpose of the inquiry of his activities during the marriage?

[redacted] Standard of living, for one.

[redacted] It is our position that is not relevant to the question of support or property allocations cases.

[redacted] Fine. Also with respect to his activities insofar as his income, expenses, needs, financial ability to support his wife is relevant.

[redacted] Financial ability. So you are speaking about current calendars.

[redacted] Yes.

[redacted] With respect to calendars that were maintained during the marriage, I stated my position.

[redacted] I don't want to debate it with you. You are either going to produce them or not. Apparently you have taken the position there is no basis for producing them, so we will make it an item, I assume, in the matter of the subject of a motion for production of documents which have not been produced, when we seek to compel the production of those documents, as well as others which we will go through as we go along.

[redacted] It is not relevant to any matter in the case. So we can take that up.

BY [redacted]

Q. Senator Tower, do you feel you are in a position to know where you were at any given time in the last two years without the use of your calendar?

A. No, I don't think so. Although my calendars are not always accurate on that point, because occasionally perhaps an appearance was canceled or things were done that didn't show up on the calendar, done on the spur of the moment.

Q. I assume certainly since 1981 you traveled extensively; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Both in the United States and abroad?

A. That is correct.

Q. Sometimes I assume that they may have been, trips may have been on government business and transportation provided by the government?

A. That is true.

Q. Sometimes it may have been provided on private carriers and either paid for by the government or yourself; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. What would be the best record that you would have or might be available which would indicate when those trips were made and where they were taken?

A. I could reconstruct some of it from memory, but I think I would have to consult calendars on that. I made two trips to the Middle East for example in early 1984. I made regular trips to Europe between 1981 and the present time as a matter of fact.

[redacted] Excuse me, [redacted] again I am going to take the position I don't think it is appropriate for these questions to be answered on grounds of relevance. I don't know what the relevance of the Senator's activities in the past two years is to the question of whether or not Mrs. Tower is entitled to any support in this case or any issue with respect to the division of property.

[redacted] A brief answer. Yesterday as an example there was serious question raised as to what she listed as her needs, and the type of life that she had led with the Senator and the type of things she felt she would like to have now that her life with him has ended.

There was some question apparently as to whether her demands were excessive or not and I think that the excessiveness may in some part be resolved by whether or not there was something that she? her and her husband had participated in during their life together.

That is just a very small issue. But again I don't want to take up the time here to debate it with you. I have not asked him anything other than information as to the nature and locality of documents which may be of assistance to us should the court decide that it is appropriate for us to get into such.

[redacted] Today we have no objection to the Senator giving you what information he can off the top of his head to the extent it is helpful in the deposition. I want to maintain on the record however we think that line of inquiry is objectionable and to the extent we believe it gets out of hand we are going to have to resolve it with a judge.

[redacted] Well, it doesn't surprise me you take that position. I will just end this conversation and colloquy by saying if we have to come back and depose him again, that is what we will have to do. But I hope that we could get through.

BY [redacted]

Q. I assume generally where you were traveling on government business for reasons relating to the office that you held, that in many instances the government would provide you transportation?

A. True.

Q. I assume that generally when your travels were of a more personal nature that transportation was on public carriers?

A. Yes.

Q. For private individuals and non-governmental as a general rule?

A. Well, this varied. Sometimes if I were invited to make a speech somewhere, my travel costs would be paid by the host, that kind of thing.

Q. But they would be on non-government airplanes?

A. Yes. I spent a lot of time on commercial carriers.

Q. Where you traveled -- did you have a credit card or an account with a travel agency that made your travel arrangements?

A. Ordinarily we booked directly with the airlines. I currently use a travel agent but I did not at that time.

Q. Who are you currently using?

A. [redacted] in Dallas.

Q. How long have you used her?

A. About eight months to a year. I am not certain of the precise periods.

Q. And she operates a travel agency?

A. Operates a travel agency in Dallas.

Q. What is the name of that agency?

A. [redacted] Travel Agency -- just a second. It is a travel agency that is located 3811 Turtle Creek Boulevard, Suite 250.

Q. In addition, do you have an account with American Airlines, or did you?

A. Yes. Well, I have an airline credit card issued by American Airlines.

Q. Can you give me --

A. All of these air travel cards I believe are issued by individual airlines and mine is issued from American, I do believe.

Q. Can you give me the account number for that?

A. Yes.

Q. The account number seems to be 1001-24013-010233. Repeating. 1001-24013-010233 in the name of U.S. Senator John G. Tower and underneath it says J. Tower.

A. That means the credit card goes to me personally. At one time members of my staff also held that credit card and I don't recall exactly but one might have been provided for Mrs. Tower. But I don't remember. But at least my secretary had one for convenience in making reservations and getting tickets.

Q. I return the card to you. Where would that be sent?

A. Nobody on my staff currently has one. I don't think. Unless [redacted] has one.

Q. Where would that bill be sent to?

A. To 3811 Turtle Creek Center, Suite 710, which is my Dallas office. And that office is run by [redacted]

Q. How long have you had that office at that location?

A. I had that office, oh, a little over a year/year and a half perhaps.

Q. Prior to that time did you have another office in Dallas?

A. I did not have another office in Dallas.

Q. Did you have another office in Texas?

A. No. I acquired that office actually -- actually I officed with a friend until he had to [vest] (divest) himself of a company. And I still office adjacent to him. And for the first year or so I paid no rent. I now pay rent of a little over a thousand dollars a month on that office.

Q. [redacted] you said operates your Dallas office?

A. Operates my Dallas office and also keeps my accounts.

Q. And before you had this Dallas office at Turtle Creek --

A. I had a federal office when I was in the Senate, I had an office in Dallas, one in Houston, one in Austin, one in Lubbock. Those were Senate offices, which of course I gave up when I left the Senate.

Q. Just for chronology purposes, you left the Senate in January 1985; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And shortly thereafter did you establish an office in Dallas, and if so where?

A. I don't remember the exact time, but the only office I have had in Dallas since then is at 3811 Turtle Creek. I seem to remember that perhaps I acquired that office sometime before I left the delegation in Geneva. I can give you an exact time on that, but I can't give it to you now. If you want me to provide that, I will be glad to do so.

Q. I would like to get into the question of where you have lived during the course of your marriage to Mrs.

Tower and subsequently. And could you tell me, do you know the date you were married?

A. We were married the 29th of May 1977.

Q. You were married in Texas?

A. Dallas, Texas. Two o'clock in the afternoon, Perkins Chapel, Southern Methodist University.

Q. At the time you were married did you have a residence of any nature in Dallas?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you have?

A. On January 1, 1977, I took an apartment in a development called University Gardens near the SMU campus in Dallas. I don't recall the precise address.

Q. And how long did you hold that?

A. Until I believe the first of June 1979. I am not certain about that date. Mrs. Tower might recall it because she helped me close it down.

Q. At the time that you were married, did Mrs. Tower also have a residence?

A. Yes, on 34th Street.

Q. And after you were married, shortly after you were married did she continue to maintain that residence?

A. Yes, until the acquisition of 20 Kalorama Circle.

Q. In 1977 when you were married, you of course were a member of the Senate; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. After you were married did you reside when you were in Washington with Mrs. Tower at her 34th Street residence?

A. I did.

Q. Is there any particular time, Senator, when you find over the period of years that you spend more time in Dallas and more time in Washington? I assume as a layman that coming up on elections you of course have to spend more time with your constituents?

A. Yes, in 1978 when I ran for my last term, particularly the last six months of the year a great deal of time in Texas. However, still my Senate responsibilities were sufficiently demanding that during my Senate career I spent more time in Washington than I did in Texas. But during that period I wouldn't spend all of my Texas time in Dallas. As a matter of fact I could be traveling over various parts of the state. I probably spent close to as much time in Houston, for example, or Austin or San Antonio as I did in Dallas.

Q. But throughout this period of time you always had the home in Washington, D.C., 34th Street or 20 Kalorama Circle; is that correct?

A. That is right.

Q. And after you gave up the apartment in 1979, January 1979 at University Gardens, did you rent or purchase any apartment or residence in Dallas?

A. No.

Q. Is it fair to say -- when was the next time that you either rented or purchased an apartment facility in Texas?

A. In March of last year.

Q. And what was that?

A. That is apartment 21 B, 3525 Turtle Creek. I started there on I think April 1. April 1, yes, I had leased the apartment with an option to buy.

Q. When did you start the leasing?

A. I believe the lease started on April 1.

Q. Of 1986?

A. Of 1986. Prior to that time when I was in Dallas

I stayed with [redacted]

Q. What was her address?

A. Her address was on [redacted] I will have to provide that for the record. It is [redacted] I think, but I am not positive about that address. And her name is [redacted]

Q. You say you stayed with [redacted] prior to your renting the apartment at Turtle Creek. What unit is that?

A. 21 B.

Q. When --

A. I have since purchased that apartment. And that was on or about March 1 of this year.

Q. 1987. I will get into that a little later, thank you. You said prior to your renting the apartment at Turtle Creek you stayed with [redacted] That was after your separation from Mrs. Tower?

A. Yes.

Q. During the period that you were married to Mrs. Tower and you went to Texas for whatever purposes, where did you stay, you and Mrs. Tower stay during the course of those travels?

A. I sometimes stayed in hotels. And Mrs. Tower and I, I think, always stayed in hotels in Dallas, usually the Mansion on Turtle Creek.

Q. Now, I have seen an address listed for you in Dallas on some form of documents or something, maybe they were Senate documents for some reason or other, that appear to be a residence but I don't think it was in fact a residence, I think it was more an address or maybe a friend's address or home, or relative or somebody you listed as a Dallas residence during this period of time that you really didn't have an apartment or home in Dallas.

A. In Dallas?

Q. Or Houston. Some place.

A. You were probably referring to Wichita Falls, which is my hometown. And I declared as a legal residence the residence of a friend there. Both Lilla and I declared that as legal residence in Texas.

Q. Who is your friends?

A. [redacted]

Q. What was that address, do you know?

A. [redacted] I believe.

Q. How frequently during the course of a year on the average would you say you actually spent the night there?

A. That is hard to say. Just occasionally. Sometimes I spent the night there and sometimes spent the night with another friend at Wichita Falls by the name of [redacted]

Q. Would it be fair to say that during the course of the year you probably spent no more than four or five nights with [redacted]

A. With the [redacted]

Q. [redacted]

A. Yes, I think that would probably be fair. I can't give you a figure because we traveled of course all over the State of Texas and I was in my home town no more often than I was in Houston, Dallas, usually more often in the major population centers.

Q. You had no place then you could really keep clothes and was called a home since you were traveling so much?

A. Not really.

Q. I think if you would help me now, during the period of time that you were serving in the Senate, did you in the course of your duties or for business purposes or personal reasons have any extended stay at any place other than in Washington? By comparison, what I am suggesting to you is during the period where you were the arms negotiator, you went to Geneva --

A. As a matter of fact I was permanently stationed in Geneva, what is called PCS. So while I was back in Washington, I was actually TDY in Washington.

Q. You understand what I am trying to find out, whether or not during the course of your service in the Senate you had anything comparable to that?

A. Okay, now in 1984 I was the state campaign chairman for the Reagan-Bush ticket. And I spent a great deal of time in Austin and resided at the Driskill Driscoll Hotel while I was in Austin.

Q. But it was a hotel, it was not like --

A. Not a residence. It is the oldest hotel in Austin.

Q. And you were not during the course of your duties for instance as chairman of the Armed Services Committee required to go any place for an extended period of time where they provided you a residence. By that I mean more than a few days or week?

A. Armed Services Committee?

Q. Yes, for any reason.

A. No. Usually when I was traveling under Armed Services Committee business I spent no more than say two nights, possibly three in any one place.

Q. Is that true for your service generally as a Senator? Other than in Texas?

A. Yes. It would be very rare I would spend more than two or three nights. I don't recall of any extended stays.

Q. Is it also fair to say then as a result of the survey that we have been through that your home in the sense of where you hung your hat, got dressed for the great majority of mornings in the mornings when you woke up was Washington, D.C., either 34th Street or 20 Kalorama Circle?

A. I think it would be fair to say that. Except that I did reside with a friend here in Washington in the period between my separation from my first wife, which was September 19, 1976 and my marriage to Lilla.

Q. Yes, I am talking from the marriage on.

A. Yes.

Q. Can you give me some indication of your lifestyle, let's say in the last five years of your marriage -- before we get to that, I guess I should ask you since the last five years of your marriage to cover the period after service as a United States Senator what did you do upon leaving the Senate in terms of your business and professional activities?

A. I opened an office on 11th Street, McLachlen Bank building there, which I had to close down within a few short weeks because I went back into government service. And on confirmation [of] the Senate I closed it down -- [by] the Senate act, closed it down entirely. And I went on the board of [a] public bank in Dallas and Astrotech in Pittsburgh briefly for that period of time. I had two board memberships but that was for a very brief period of time because I went back into government pretty shortly thereafter.

Q. And what position were you appointed to or did you assume?

A. I was appointed as strategic offensive arms negotiator with the rank of ambassador.

Q. Strategic offensive arms negotiator?

A. Yes. As distinguished from defensive, such as antiballistic missile systems.

Q. Did we decide whether these included [toe] (TOW) missiles or not?

A. No.

Q. The offense and the defense --

A. The [toe] (TOW) missile is a tactical weapon. I will tell you what comes in the category. ICBMOs --

Q. I am sorry, I am teasing you.

A. Okay.

Q. It was a question of whether they were offensive or defensive when we apparently transfer them.

A. Yes. Well, it depends on how you use a weapon as to whether it is offensive or defensive.

Q. That is what they say. And you took that position, you said, when?

A. I can't remember the exact date of Senate confirmation. I agreed to do it on the 18th of January.

Q. 1985?

A. 1985. 15 days after I left the Senate. And then I went through the confirmation process and I think, I believe I was put on the payroll of the State Department as a consultant until such time as I was confirmed by the Senate, and I was confirmed by the Senate I think in mid or late February. Well, I can supply you with those dates if you need them. (March 6, 1985)

Q. I don't think that is necessary. During that period of time you continued to reside -- I believe at this point it would have been 20 Kalorama Circle?

A. That is correct.

Q. And with that appointment as strategic defensive --

A. Offensive.

Q. I am sorry, offensive arms negotiator -- I will just use the term arms negotiator to refer to it -- how long did you remain in Washington, D.C. before you took up any other post?

A. Before I went to Geneva?

Q. Before you moved, yes.

A. I think we went to Geneva the first week in March. I can give you precise data on that, but I believe it was around March 6.

Q. And what was the reason for going to Geneva?

A. The first rounds of the resumed arms negotiations between the United States and Soviet Union.

Q. And first of all, how long did you hold that post?

A. I held that post until April 1, 1986.

Q. And from the time you went to Geneva on March 6, did you take up residence in Geneva?

A. We had a residence provided for us.

Q. Could you describe that for me?

A. It was a Swiss villa -- modern Swiss villa type house, a very commodious, comfortable house in Shimbourg (Chenbourg), which is a suburb of Geneva.

Q. And how long did you remain in that home?

A. Oh, let me say initially we were placed in an apartment on Gustafador (Gustav Ador) for about three weeks. And Mrs. Tower discovered that this house was available and we subsequently acquired that as quarters.

Q. Meaning it had been rented --

A. No, it had been occupied by the DCM of the local mission. See, we have a mission in Geneva to the United Nations. See, all the agencies, most of the agencies in the United Nations are headquartered in Geneva and we maintain a mission there, ambassador to the UN in Geneva as distinguished from our embassy to the government of Switzerland, which is in Bern. And the DCM of the mission had occupied that house.

Q. And it was available for you to stay at?

A. Yes.

Q. Without incurring additional rental expenses?

A. I don't know what it cost the government additionally, but they already had a lease on it.

Q. That is what I mean.

A. Yes.

Q. And it is in that home that you remained until after April 1, 1986?

A. No, I actually left there before that time. I think our round ended in March, early March I believe of 1986. I had already sent in my resignation to the president effective April 1, so I worked out of an office in the State Department after I returned until April 1.

Q. What was the reason you resigned?

A. I wanted to get back in private life. And I had some frustrations with the bureaucracy, I would have to say.

Q. When you returned from that position, having resigned effective April 1, where did you live?

A. I stayed at Fort Myer for a while. Guest quarters at Fort Myer. That was on and off because I was back in Texas a good bit of the time thereafter.

Q. And in Texas was there any particular place you stayed?

A. With my [redacted]

Q. That would take us then through the time that you separated from your wife; is that correct?

A. No, that is after the time.

Q. When you returned?

A. That is after the time. We separated before the fourth round in November.

Q. It was during the course of your tour in Geneva that you were separated; is that correct?

A. Yes, it was after we returned from the third round we separated. I went back and negotiated yet another round.

Q. With that specter in mind, from 1977 through the period when you and your wife first went to Geneva and up to the time where you thereafter separated, could you describe for me your lifestyle, not so much in the sense of your working at the office lifestyle but your lifestyle with your wife, where you went, what you did, how you enjoyed yourself, how you didn't enjoy yourself, friends that you may have --

A. I would say we lived comfortably, but not extravagantly. Lilla is an extremely good manager. And we I guess attended the normal round of social events that you do when you are in public life. Some routine and boring, some very enjoyable. It is difficult to generalize about them.

Q. With respect to the things that you did in Washington and the people that you visited with and the places that you went, could you tell me a little bit about that?

[redacted] Just to clarify, [redacted] Are you referring to personal things that were done during the marriage or things that were connected to public life?

[redacted] Either way.

[redacted] Do you want him to distinguish --

BY [redacted]

Q. I assume if you are either invited to a Senator's home or the White House or something like that, it is obviously official nature.

A. Paul [Nitsa] Nitze regularly had receptions for delegations we would usually go to, things of that sort. Usually connected with my job.

Q. Did you attend receptions at various embassies?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you invited to the White House?

A. I don't recall a White House invitation during that period.

Q. No, I am talking about the whole ten-year period.

A. The whole ten-year period?

Q. Yes, the whole period you and your wife were married?

A. Oh, we might have done one or two state dinners, I don't recall. Not many, because you know the way they work at the White House, you are on a list, rotating list, and your name comes up every three or four years or something like that.

Q. Did you attend --

A. More often probably we attended things that were held by the Secretary of Defense in honor of visiting defense ministers from a friendly country. That would be more likely.

Q. Did you attend dinners or parties given by friends just because they were friends?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were obviously invited simply because you were a friend and not because of what you might do for somebody?

A. Well, in Washington you never know. You never know whether this person invited you because he loves you or because he wants to get in your britches. You know this town as well as I do. I assume that they were for friendly purposes. And we attended a number of social functions that I think were just friendly occasions, nobody ever asked me to do anything or intercede for them.

Q. Were they enjoyable?

A. Some were, some weren't.

Q. What would you consider to be the things that you did that particularly pleased you and your wife as a married couple?

A. I think again I would have to generalize and that is being with people we felt compatible with and people that we liked. Some of these social functions that are more or less official or semi official in nature, you don't choose the guest list and you --

Q. Who would you say would be the people that you found, thinking back, that you enjoyed, whose company you enjoyed the most during the course of the years?

A. I wouldn't try to single that out.

Q. There were a group of people, however?

A. Let me say that I can think of ones that I think we particularly enjoyed and those were affairs at the British Embassy. I think we both enjoyed those functions probably more than a lot of others. But you know, I wouldn't say -- I'm not going to get in the business here of trying to say which hosts in this town are crashing bores and which are --

Q. No, I assume you had some good friends better than other friends?

A. I tended to be fairly close to the British and the Germans as far as any foreign contacts are concerned. Might add the Tunisians, the Turks.

Q. Insofar as Americans are concern, people who lived in Washington, D.C., did you have friends you particularly enjoyed being with? I am sure you had many, but I am trying to think of some in particular you spent time with which you would not otherwise have been required to do?

A. Oh, that is hard to say. Trying to draw a list of friends is a difficult proposition. Some of them are good friends, some of them are good acquaintances, if you can appreciate the distinction.

Q. Yes. Did you attend any events of a non-political or governmental nature, for instance the ballet, opera, theater?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you and your wife do in that nature?

A. Usually we were able to get access to the presidential box at the Kennedy Center.

Q. And you and your wife enjoyed seeing what there?

A. Ballet, primarily ballet.

Q. You and your wife both enjoyed that?

A. I think we might have seen a musical or two. I can't remember everything, but ballet in particular. And I think Mrs. Tower was particularly fond of ballet, and so am I, so we usually tried to avail ourselves of the opportunity to see ballet there.

Q. Did you do more routine things, like did you attend any lectures, book clubs, anything such as that?

A. Not much.

Q. Okay.

A. I participated in things of that sort, seminars and did some lecturing.

Q. Did you have occasion to travel out of town for the purpose for business/pleasure purposes or business purposes where you could engage in things that were in addition some pleasure to you, or stay over with friends or to attend the theater during the course of these years?

A. I don't recall attending the theater any place outside of Washington during that period. That is not to say we didn't. We may have. I just can't recall any specific instances. But there might have been occasions where we did attend. Oh, I think we attended the theater once in Dallas, maybe, the Dallas Theater Center. But I don't remember really anything outside of town. Usually when I went any place besides Texas it was to deliver an address, for which I usually got an honorarium of $2,000 which was the limit in the Senate at the time.

Q. Did your wife accompany you on occasion?

A. Rarely.

Q. Did you and your wife travel to any places to visit friends simply for the purpose of visiting friends, say did you or she, or together, go to Palm Beach, Florida?

A. Yes. We did go to Palm Beach, yes.

Q. And why would you do that?

A. Couple of times we stayed at [redacted] house that [redacted] had rented. Once we stayed at a rented residence of a friend of mine in Dallas.

Q. And was that for just personal reasons?

A. Yes, that was just vacation, that was in about September 1980, something like that, we spent about six or seven days in a friend's house in Palm Beach.

Q. Did you ever travel north up into the New England area for personal reasons, for vacation?

A. No. Not to my recollection, no. I don't recall.

Q. Were there any other places that you recall in the country traveling to with Mrs. Tower that you either combined business and pleasure or principally for pleasure?

A. Palm Beach about three or four times. We spent about four days at Padre Island, Texas, once. You say in the country?

Q. Did you take any trips where you would drive any place?

A. I think we only took one driving trip of any length and that was from Dallas down into central Texas. Around San Antonio, somewhere down there.

Q. Directing your attention to trips abroad when you would go for one reason or another during the course of your duties in the Senate, while you were in the Senate, let's just take that period of time first, did you have occasion to go to places abroad, London or elsewhere?

A. Yes, Mrs. Tower accompanied me to the Paris air show I think a couple of times. To Munich I think a couple times. It was a combination business/pleasure. One year I was the President's representative ~~of~~ at the Paris air show, and Mrs. Tower accompanied me, and we were there five or six days I think.

Q. Where did you stay?

A. At the residence, at the embassy residence.

Q. They treated you accordingly?

A. Well, they were always very hospitable.

Q. Meaning that they treated you as the President's representative?

A. Yeah, I shook hands with Mitterand, so I guess I was treated as the president's rep. But that is about all I did.

Q. And did you have occasion to go to London?

A. Yes. And Mrs. Tower accompanied me to London on a few occasions. I think one time we stayed at Claridge's but most of the time we stayed at the admiral's guest flat in Grosvenor Square, the admirable being CINCUSNAVEUR or U.S. Navy European headquarters at Grosvenor Square.

Q. On these occasions was your expenses or the transportation provided by the government?

A. Yes, usually in those instances it was, except that I think there might have been one or two trips that were non-official in which we were still afforded the courtesy of the guest quarters.

Q. Once in Europe did you ever take side trips? For instance if you went to Paris would you go up to London, or if you were in London go down to Germany, or something like that during the course of this period?

A. Well --

Q. Or Geneva. Switzerland?.

A. Usually I would tie a trip to London to a trip to Munich, for example. That would not be unusual.

Q. And generally how long in terms of days would these trips be?

A. Oh, usually less than ten days probably. Sometimes maybe no more than a week. Total time.

Q. Is there any other place that you can recall traveling to with Mrs. Tower of a business or personal nature?

A. Yes, we went to Brussels and to Moscow. And to Reykjavik on one trip, which was a Senate delegation headed by Howard Baker.

Q. Anywhere else?

A. On that particular trip, those are the places we stopped.

Q. Do you remember any other trips?

A. I think the only places Mrs. Tower ever accompanied me were in Europe. She never did accompany me on my Middle East trips.

Q. During these trips when you went to Europe with your wife, what type of facilities were made available to you in addition to what you have already described and in terms of entertainment or events which you would attend? For example, did you ever attend the theater in London or the ballet in London?

A. We may have, but I don't recall.

Q. Or any of the major capitals --

A. Seems to me we might have seen a play in London, but I don't recall.

Q. What generally was the type -- what were these trips like for you and your wife, other than your business?

A. Well, I think they were enjoyable. I don't know how to describe them.

Q. Were the receptions usually --

A. Usually I had official meetings when I was there. I frequently met with, for example, the British defense minister and occasionally the British Secretary of State for foreign and commonwealth affairs, and in Paris I would meet with the minister of defense and Mrs. Tower did not accompany me on those official visits. Now, there were sometimes dinners. Ah, yes, during the foreign (Farnborough) air show once there was a dinner. That was the last time Mrs. Tower accompanied me for the foreign (Farnborough) air show, was in 1984, I guess.

Q. And during the period --

A. And --

Q. Sorry.

A. And there was a dinner in which Geofrey Howe the Secretary of State for foreign and commonwealth affairs spoke.

Q. During the period when you were in meetings during the course of the day, she would have available to her staff or someone to take her to --

A. Sometimes a car, sometimes not.

Q. She could go shopping or meet with friends if she wished?

A. Yes, I suppose so.

Q. But did you sense that those trips were enjoyable for her and that she --

A. Yes, I assume they were.

Q. And she would look forward to them, particularly if they went to places where she had friends?

A. That would have been my impression, yes.

Q. Something different from campaigning in Dallas, Texas?

A. Oh, yes. And different from being in private life. You see, I am not invited to those kinds of official functions now.

Q. You have to give them?

A. I give some.

Q. Do you remember going to Bermuda?

A. Yes. Mrs. Tower and I went to Bermuda for about five days to a week, I don't remember the precise time, and had available to us a guest cottage at the Naval air station there.

Q. Who provided the transportation?

A. I think, again doing this from recall so I would not swear to this, I wouldn't put my oath on the line on this, but I think we went there by military transport and came back by commercial. But I can't be sure. I don't recall. That was I think back in 1981.

Q. How long did you stay there?

A. Five days to a week. I don't remember the exact time.

Q. For a vacation-type stay?

A. Yes, vacation. And, too, I did some official stuff. I spent a day of briefing with the Navy there. We have [AP 3] a P-3 operations there. And I spent part of a day with chief petty officers. We spent a part of one day with the British commandant there.

Q. Let me turn for a moment if I can to your staff during the latter years that you were in the Senate. Let's just say 1983, 1984, 1985?

A. Okay.

Q. Who did you have working for you in Washington, D.C.?

A. Oh, Lord. I had probably up to 90 people at one time. You have to understand, not only did I have my personal office as Senator, I had the Republican Policy Committee staff and the committee staff of the Armed Services Committee, plus one or two staffers for Budget and the Banking Committee. So it would be impossible for me to name all of them.

My administrative assistant during that period was [redacted] now [redacted] to the president for legislative affairs in the White House.

Q. Insofar as your staff in your office was concerned, as Senator, your Senate office, who did you have?

A. For the last three years at least, [redacted] was my [redacted] I had three or four LAs at that time. I think my last one was [redacted]

My secretary during that period, personal secretary, was [redacted]

Q. How long had she been your secretary?

A. She joined my staff in June 1980, I believe.

Q. And --

A. Joined me just before the Republican National Convention in Detroit, whenever that was.

Q. She stayed with you up until the time you left the Senate?

A. Until November 1984 and she is now the personal secretary to Senator Warner.

Q. Who was your secretary from December to January 1985 when you retired?

A. I think [redacted] acted as my secretary during that period.

Q. Did you have any staff in Texas with respect to your Senate office?

A. Yes, I had staff in Dallas, staff in Houston, and staff in Austin. My Dallas staff was [redacted] -- say at the end of my Senate period, my staff director in Dallas was [redacted] [redacted] in Houston [redacted] in Lubbock, I can't remember the name of the young man I had in Lubbock, out of law school. In Austin, young man by the name of [redacted]

Q. Did you have any secretarial staffs in those offices?

A. Yes.

Q. Principal secretaries or secretarial staffs?

A. No, they were clerical staff serving largely the staff director there or serving particular functions. It was kind of hard to distinguish sometimes between clerical and professional because sometimes clerical people might handle a specific type of job, like some case work.

Q. Anyone else that you can recall who served in your Senate office in Texas?

A. Well, in Austin, my employee of longest standing

I guess was a woman by the name of [redacted] who probably handled public works and that sort of thing to a greater extent than she did clerical work. Some of my people start out as clerical people and then move into a more professional category.

Q. Did you have an office in Dallas?

A. Yes, [redacted] handled that. [redacted] was in that office. [redacted] my press --

Q. What was [redacted]?

A. She is the women I retain in my employ now that joined my staff about [redacted] She has been with me about [redacted] years.

Q. What does she do for you now?

A. Keeps my books, my accounts, most of this material we provided for you, she provided.

Q. Your personal things?

A. Yes. And she does clerical and does my scheduling now. She is actually my only staff member in Dallas.

Q. Any other clerical or secretarial person that you can think of who has remained with you?

A. Yes, [redacted] who does my clerical work here in Washington. She was my receptionist for the last year I was in the Senate.

Q. And she came with you when you left?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did she work after you left the Senate?

A. She and [redacted] both worked in my office on 11th Street for that brief period of time. Then I got them on with the State Department so that they served me on the ACDA active payroll I think, Arms Control Agency, until I went back to private life and then [redacted] is the only one I retained.

Q. I would like now to go into your employment. Let's go first while you were in the Senate. Let's take the last five years or so, 1980 to 1985.

A. Yes.

Q. When I say employment, I mean employment, your official duties and whatever else you did that generated income for you?

A. All right, in addition to my salary, I derived income from honoraria.

Q. How long was it limited to $2,000?

A. Oh, it has been limited to $2,000 -- I think at one time it was even a thousand, I don't remember. But it has been the two thousand limit for a long time.

Q. Okay.

A. And I think there is an annual limit, or was one then of 25,000 a year, something like that that you could earn.

Q. What was your Senate salary in the latter years?

A. I think 73.5. I am not sure. I can't swear to that. I will have to give you it, but that is an approximation.

Q. Was there anything else from which you could derive funds?

A. Yes, I had what is called a blow out preventer, which is a piece of equipment on an offshore rig which I borrowed the money to buy, and the purchase was leveraged on a lease contract I had with the operator of the rig from which after payment on my note I derived an income of approximately $600 a month.

Q. You say $600 a month?

A. Yes.

Q. Anything else? This is up to the time that you

A. Yes.

Q. Any other sources of income?

A. No.

Q. I believe --

A. I have no assets. I mean no income-bearing assets, income-producing assets.

Q. When you left the Senate, you told me that you were on two boards briefly.

A. Yes.

Q. Astrotech?

A. In Pittsburgh, yes. And the Republic Bank or Republic of Texas Bank, holding company, in Dallas. And I was paid a director's fee on a per annum basis of $20,000 for Astrotech and 15,000 for Republican. I think that the attendance fee for board meetings for Astrotech was a thousand dollars and for Republic it was 500. I think I made one board meeting each, maybe two Astrotech. Though I think only one.

Q. Did you have to resign either of those positions --

A. Resigned them both when I took on the negotiator's job. And I was permitted no honoraria income during that period, so my only additional outside income was from the blow out preventer.

Q. And you estimate that is about $600 a month?

A. About, yes.

Q. And when you assumed the position of arms negotiator, that was a position of ambassadorial rank at the State Department, is that correct?

A. Ambassadorial rank, this is a strange kind of hybrid thing. I had the rank of ambassador. I was on the State Department payroll, was supported by the Arms Control Disarmament Agency and reported to the president. That is about the best way I can sort that one out.

Q. Well, payroll gets my attention.

A. Yes.

Q. You were on the State Department payroll. What did they pay you?

A. I think that the salary was around 73.5, roughly.

Q. About what you had been earning as Senator?

A. About what I had been earning as Senator.

Q. In addition did they provide for any of your expenses?

A. I have never recovered everything the State Department owes me in the way of per diem for TDY Washington and for a couple of air travel vouchers. It is lost somewhere in the bureaucracy over there.

Q. When you say TDY Washington?

A. Means temporary duty Washington. To use their terminology I was PCS, permanent change of station Geneva, meaning you are actually stationed in Geneva. So between rounds when we came back to Washington we were on temporary duty in Washington and I operated out of the seventh floor of the State Department.

Q. And you were on per diem at that point?

A. Yes. And sorry, I can't tell you how much it was supposed to have been, but I am out probably about five or six thousand bucks for that period, including the air vouchers. Maybe more than that.

Q. When you say you are out, meaning you put a claim in for it and haven't been paid?

A. That is correct.

Q. But actually when you were coming back to Washington, that was home for you, not in the State Department context but --

A. I would have to say that Texas is always home for me even though I didn't have a residence. My residential home was Washington, yes.

Q. But you were being paid a per diem by the State Department because they considered your station to be Geneva?

A. And it is a certain amount they subtracted because we had a house to live in. So they subtract a certain amount from your per diem if you have a house in Washington. If you are out staying at a hotel or something like that, they compensate you more. So I think it would come down to maybe something like $25 or $30 a day when you have your own residence.

Q. When you are in Geneva, do they pick up your expenses?

A. They provided me with a house. They did not -- but we paid for our own food.

Q. They provided you with any maid or servants?

A. Provided us with a maid. A part time handyman and a driver. And a bullet proof car.

Q. Any other expenses that they paid for?

A. We had what we called representational funds for entertainment. The basic rule was that you had to have approximately 50 percent of your guests as non-Americans or in the case of Congressional, when Congressional types came through we could use representational funds to entertain them. For any private entertaining we did, that came out of our own pockets.

Q. What funds were available for entertainment, representational funds?

A. I think something like $4,000, around that, lasting for eight weeks or so, roughly. I don't think I ever used up all my representational funds because, oh, things like wine and liquor could be acquired in the commissary for a very low price. So it was about adequate, I think.

Q. What was your --

A. But that also covered my subordinates entertaining their counterparts. For example, if General Aldridge, who was the JCS rep on my delegation, wanted to entertain General [Star Duboff] Starodubov in the Russian delegation he would have access to those funds as well.

Q. What was your arrangement with Astrotech in Pittsburgh? What were you to provide them?

A. I was to be a consultant as well as a board member.

Q. What were you consulting on?

A. Consulting on matters that the company had an interest, for example, [there] were in those days [services] satellites that went aboard the shuttle. And they had some other interests at that time. I made one trip to England for them with the president of the company which was to try to interest some English people in financing for a particular project. I think to go beyond that would be proprietary information.

Q. Well, how did you come to be employed by Astrotech?

A. [redacted] who is [redacted] is an old friend and associate. I am still on their board, but I think the company is verging on bankruptcy now.

Q. Are they still --

A. Well, I don't think that is relevant.

Q. Are they still paying you?

A. They haven't in a long time.

Q. But you are still there for $20,000?

A. They owe me approximately $30,000.

Q. What was the compensation, $20,000 a year or when you returned --

A. $20,000 a year for the board membership.

Q. And how about your consultancy?

A. That was 25,000 a year.

Q. Well, let's go back for a moment, so we have a before and after Geneva.

A. Okay, I came back on the Astrotech board when I came back.

Q. I understand. Let's deal first with the period before you went to Geneva for that short period of time. Did you have a consultancy then also?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that a flat sum that you were to receive?

A. It was $25,000 a year, which would be the minimum they would pay me on a basis of a thousand dollars a day for activities on behalf of the company. I took one trip last summer on behalf of the company.

Q. That was after --

A. For which I was to be compensated at the rate of a thousand dollars a day plus travel expenses. I think you have to understand that is not a very good business arrangement but [redacted] was a personal friend of mine and this was a company trying to get off the ground.

Q. Why do you say it wasn't?

A. Because I do far better than that in my consultancy arrangements with others, which I think you are already apprised of.

Q. What would you consider to be a good consultancy?

A. I think a hundred thousand is reasonable.

Q. For the year?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it sort of like a retainer basis?

A. It is a retainer basis.

Q. Does that contemplate so many hours or days?

A. Usually they state it arbitrarily in days but it might be a part of one day, or three days running, might be only a phone call one day or you do nothing for days. They usually calculate it is 30 days worth of time.

Q. For a hundred thousand?

A. For a hundred thousand.

Q. And if you began to run over that, they would compensate you for the additional time?

A. Not necessarily. We didn't really keep track of days or times since I was on a flat retainer.

Q. Well, if you were at some place for an extended period?

A. For example, I took a trip for LTV to the Middle East, Turkey as a matter of fact. And with one of their sales reps. And I didn't charge them a per diem or anything like that. They paid my expenses, but that was considered to be a part of my dedication of time to the company.

Q. For which the retainer with LTV was what?

A. Retainer with LTV is 96,000. It is $8,000 a month.

Q. Let me go back and take these sort of one at a time. Astrotech in Pittsburgh, your arrangement with them before you went to Geneva was the same arrangement you picked up again when you returned?

A. Yes.

Q. And which goes on to this day though they owe you about $29,000 or $30,000.

A. Yes.

Q. You say also that you had an arrangement with the Republic Bank?

A. I did not resume that. I did not go back on the Republic board.

Q. Did they pay you in 1985 the $15,000?

A. No, they paid me a portion of it. I guess for something like two months.

Q. Prorated?

A. For whatever the time was between my departure from the Senate and the time I was confirmed by the Senate, my ambassadorial job, they paid me proportionately for that time.

Q. What was the reason you did not go back on the board?

A. Of Republic?

Q. Yes.

A. I was not invited to. And I am a little relieved I wasn't, because a bank board is not a good thing to be on in Texas right now.

Q. What was your financial situation when you left the Senate until the time that you assumed -- well, that is a very brief period of time.

A. I think I was debt free and had a small amount in the bank.

Q. This would have been in the end of 1985?

A. The beginning of 1985. I had a small amount in the bank. I was current on my debts. I had made some money from honoraria and then the money that I was getting off the blow out preventer.

Q. And --

A. I can't tell you how much at this point.

Q. Your situation when you assumed your post in Geneva, your financial situation in the early part of 1985?

A. It would be the same as when I left -- maybe slightly improved. But not much. I got enough out of Astrotech and Republic Bank, maybe one speaking engagement or something like that to pay my rent on 11th Street and pay my staff. And that is about it. I about broke even, maybe came out a little bit ahead on that.

Q. What was your financial situation up until the time you left your post in Geneva and the State Department?

A. I had -- I think I was debt free most of the time and had some money in the bank. One thing that I could do if I needed a little additional money was to defer a payment on my blow out preventer.

Q. Was that cash drain as opposed to --

A. I would just defer payment, pay the interest for that month and the bank permitted me to defer payment.

Q. Were you receiving any income on the blow out preventer?

A. Yes, I paid about -- I think 3,200 was my lease arrangement. I paid about 2,600 on my note.

Q. A month?

A. Yes.

Q. And you were receiving 32?

A. About 32. I am giving you approximate figures now. Not precise.

Q. I see.

So when did your prospects change, if at all, prior to I think we are talking when you left Geneva would have been about March or April? April 1 you resigned?

A. April 1. I did not go on anyone's retainer, payroll, until April 1 because I was officially still --

Q. What were your prospects up to that time, your financial situation. Well, I know what your financial situation was.

A. My prospects were relatively good because I know the defense business pretty well, I know Washington well, I am pretty well plugged in in this town, so I was marketable. And that is why I was signed onto these retainer. British Aerospace asked me to come on board fairly early.

Q. When would that be?

A. I went on board with British Aerospace I think the first of June. Because my contract just expired. Yes.

Q. Of 1986?

A. Yes. I went on to Astrotech right away, I think the first of April.

Q. And when did you sense that you would have this type of increase in income?

A. When did I sense it? I knew once I went back into private life I could improve my income just by going on corporate boards if nothing else. But on a consultancy basis, I thought I was marketable as a consultant.

Q. Your income actually did not -- or did it -- increase prior to the time that you left on April 1, 1986?

A. No, my income increased after that.

Q. Only after that?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you negotiate for any consultancies for which you did not receive an offer?

A. No.

Q. Can you tell me all of the people for whom --

A. They came to me.

Q. Can you give me the names of the people with the companies or their representatives?

A. All right, LTV.

Q. The first you say was whom, the first person that came to you in terms of coming to you?

A. The first person I think was -- the first person unquestionably was Astrotech; [redacted] called me and said I want you on board with me.

Q. When would you say that was?

A. April 1.

Q. As soon as you left?

A. Yes.

Q. And that was the $20,000-$25,000 that we talked about?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was next?

A. The next was British Aerospace.

Q. Anyone in particular?

A. [redacted] in London.

Q. When did he contact you?

A. It was in London in May of last year. We had been personal friends. I saw him in London and he asked me what I was doing, and I said going back into the private sector and he said something to the effect that -- do we have to put all this on the record?

Q. No, I am only interested in whether it appeared that you were going to enter in agreement with them and if so what agreement did you enter?

A. No, I had no knowledge I would until I visited him in London coming back from a speaking engagement in Luxembourg, I believe.

Q. In May?

A. May of last year. And then he asked me.

And then the next I believe was LTV.

Q. Let me ask what was the arrangement?

A. $100,000 a year.

Q. And you said that was about --

A. That included not only consulting, but a directorate on BAE, Inc., which is the American subsidiary of British Aerospace, headquartered out here in Dulles Airport.

Q. And that was in contemplation of something up to approximately 30 days of work?

A. Something like that. Except I am a director, I get no fee for attending board meetings.

Q. Do you have a written agreement on that?

A. I have a written agreement.

Q. Do you also have one with respect to Astrotech?

A. I have a letter of agreement with Astrotech. No contract, but letter of agreement. I have a contract with British Aerospace.

[redacted] Have you provided those?

[redacted] I don't know, frankly.

[redacted] I have not seen them. Would you?

[redacted] I don't think we would have objection. I would like to review them. I am sure we can make them available to you to see, I am not quite sure we want to turn them over.

THE WITNESS: I have to protect proprietary information.

[redacted] I am only interested in the income.

[redacted] We will be happy to give you whatever relevant information on those.

[redacted] The financials.

THE WITNESS: I can give you that, that is simple.

BY [redacted]

Q. Can you tell me a little bit about the type of thing you do for British Aerospace. And I don't mean to intrude into the proprietary information, but I would like to know the types of things if possible?

A. Give them advice on prospects for selling certain systems to the Defense Department. Give them advice on their domestic commercial sales.

Q. What kinds of product do they produce?

A. Occasionally maybe talk to a person for them and relay information back to them.

Q. What kind of products do they produce, sell?
