Naming Burger to Justice Post Unites Ex-foes

A pair of political foes today were teamed up in the coming national Republican administration with selection of Warren E. Burger, St. Paul, as an assistant United States attorney general.

Burger was named Sunday to head the big general civil division of the department, hand-picked by Herbert Brownell, Jr., who will become attorney general in the Eisenhower administration.

The division is the largest unit of the justice department, with a staff of nearly 200 lawyers handling litigation which last year amounted to more than two billion dollars.

Brownell and Burger have fought each other on the political front since 1944 in the battles between Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota for the Republican presidential nominations. Brownell has been Dewey's frontline strategist and Burger has been Stassen's chief of staff.

Friends of Brownell report that he also went to Stassen, needy- named 'mutual security', administrator, and asked the former Minnesota governor not to invite Burger into the MSA, but rather to encourage him to take the justice department appointment.

The St. Paul man accepted the appointment after a confer-ce in New York last week.

"Any one concerned with good government cannot refuse to assume part of the burden when requested to do so," Burger commented.

Burger, 45, is a member of the law firm of Farley, Burger, Moore and Costello. He will take a leave of absence from the firm to assume his new $15,000-a-year job, which is a financial loss to Burger.

"When you see me back in town," he said today, "you'll know my savings have run out."

Burger has held no offices in the Minnesota Republican party, but has been an active party worker since his first association with Stassen in 1934 in forming the Minnesota Young Republican League.

Burger helped direct the campaign for the GOP presidential nomination for Stassen in 1944; was chief of Stassen's campaign staff in the initial battle for the nomination against Dewey in 1948, and was associate floor manager for the Stassen forces in the 1952 GOP national convention.

As a lawyer, Burger has two notable court victories. He and his law partners won a breach of contract settlement of $750, 000 for Byron Calhoun, former manager of the Lowry and Saint Paul, hotels, who sued Tom Moore, Minneapolis, in a dispute arising out of their joint purchase of the Radisson hotel in Minneapolis. The settlement was reportedly to be the largest ever recorded for a private case in the federal district court.

Burger also won a large judge-mint of its kind with an award of $173,000 in a breach of contract suit against Maple Island Farm, Inc., of Stillwater.

His appointment was praised by leading Minnesotans. Sen.( Edward J. Thye said Burger "will reflect great credit on Minnesota" and predicted the St. Paul attorney will make "an outstanding, contribution" to the new national administration.

Chief Justice Charles Loring of the state supreme court commented:

"He is a lawyer of high standing, at our bar and will acquit himself with great credit in his work for the government. Best of all, he will conduct the government's business on a high-ethical plane."

Burger said he does not plan to move his family to Washington immediately. He is married to his high school sweet-theart, the former Elvera Stromberg. They have three children, Wade, 16, and Margaret, 9.
Another Minnesotan Goes To Washington

Appointed to be assistant United States attorney general in the new Republican administration is a merited recognition of personal ability and also of Minnesota's record as a stronghold of progressive Republicanism and good government.

Mr. Burger not only is an able and successful lawyer and civic leader, but for more than 15 years has worked constantly to advance the cause of a progressive Republican party both in the state and nationally. He was "chief of staff" in Harold E. Stassen's hard-fought but unsuccessful campaign for the presidential nomination in 1948 and had an important role in the 1952 national convention which nominated General Eisenhower.

It is an interesting fact that Mr. Burger now goes to Washington at the instance of Herbert Brownell, chosen by General Eisenhower to be attorney general. Brownell was one of Governor Thomas E. Dewey's chief strategists in his presidential campaign. In pre-convention contests Brownell and Burger were opponents, each trying to outguess and outmaneuver the other. Notwithstanding this, the two men developed a mutual respect which now has led Brownell to call his one-time antagonist to head the largest division in the Justice department.

Mr. Burger's record in Minnesota gives assurance that he will administer his new duties with a conscientious concern for the public interest. The Justice department, handling many millions of dollars of claims, for and against the government, became a haven for political manipulators under Democratic administrations. Minnesota can be proud that one of its citizens will have an important part in a reorganization and cleanup now long overdue.

The selection of Burger was a reminder of the Republican National Convention in Chicago, and the part the Minnesota lawyer played in Eisenhower's nomination. A floor manager for Harold E. Stassen, Burger sent word to the platform that Minnesota was switching from Stassen to Eisenhower. It was this move that clinched a first-ballot nomination for Ike.

Rankin, who heads the list of those chosen to assist Brownell, was born in Huntington, Neb., July 14, 1907. He received his B.A. degree from the University of Nebraska in 1924 and his law degree there in 1930. He has been a practicing attorney in Lincoln since that time, and is a member of the firm of Bechtol and Rankin.

He is a member of the American Bar Association, the American Law Institute, and the Nebraska and Lincoln Bar Associations. He is married and has two sons and a daughter.

Will Head U.S. Attorneys

Olney, in charge of the Criminal Division, will be responsible for the enforcement of Federal criminal laws and will be the boss of United States attorneys who conduct criminal prosecutions.

Olney was born in Oakland, Calif., February 25, 1904. He was graduated from the University of California in 1925 and received his law degree from the same school two years later. He has See Ike, Page 2, Column 3.

held a number of posts in the California State government, and for a time served as an assistant to Gov. Earl Warren when Warren was a district attorney and an attorney general.

Olney served in the Pacific in World War II with the Fourth United States Marine Air Wing. He is at present a lieutenant colonel in the Marine reserves.

Olney was appointed chief counsel of the first Crime Study Commission in California in 1947 and served in that capacity until 1950. He was reappointed in 1951. He is also professor of law and professor of criminology at the University of California. He is married and has two daughters and a son.

Burger, who will be in charge of civil suits and claims for and against the Federal Government, was born in St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 17, 1907. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1925. He received his law degree in 1931 from St. Paul College of Law. He has been a practicing attorney in St. Paul since then. He is a member of the law firm of Farley, Burger, Moore and Costello of St. Paul.

Burger is a trustee of MacAlaster College of St. Paul, and is a member of the Minnesota Governor's Interracial Commission. He is married and has two sons and a daughter.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. TOLSON
MR. LADD
MR. NICHOLS

On Tuesday, December 30, 1952, I saw Mr. Herbert Brownell, Attorney General-designate, at General Eisenhower's headquarters. He requested that the following names be checked by the FBI and reports submitted to him upon same as soon as possible:

Warren Olney of San Francisco, who has been connected with the California Crime Commission. Mr. Olney is under consideration for appointment as Assistant Attorney General in Charge of the Criminal Division.

J. Edward Lombard, Jr., of New York City, and a member of General Donovan's law firm. He is being considered for a position as U. S. Attorney for the Southern Judicial District of New York.

Warren Burger of St. Paul, who is being considered for Assistant Attorney General in Charge of Claims Division, which will probably be renamed to the Civil Division.

J. Lee Rankin of Lincoln, Nebraska.

Mr. Charles Metzner of New York City, who is at present secretary of Justice Hecht of the New York Supreme Court.

Upon leaving Mr. Brownell, I phoned Mr. Ladd to convey these names to him and the investigations upon these persons should be expedited and copies of the reports sent to Mr. Brownell only, not to Governor Adams, as these persons are being considered for appointments in the Department of Justice.

Very Truly yours,

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. TOLSON
MR. LADD
MR. NICHOLS
MR. ROSEN

Mr. Ross Malone called me today and stated that Attorney General Brownell's office had just called him and indicated that Senator Langer of the Judiciary Committee had requested the summary reports on Burger, Rankin, Clune and Holland. The Senator is desirous of having these before 10:00 in the morning and he wondered if it would be possible to get these summaries. I told him that I believed it would be best if he contacted either Mr. Brownell or Mr. Rogers first; that the reports had already been sent to Mr. Brownell on Burger, Rankin and Clune on January 15, January 19, and January 17, respectively. I told Mr. Malone that the request for an investigation of Holland had only been received today. He then asked if we had summaries available on these three individuals and I told him that we did have extra copies. He stated he would check with Mr. Brownell or Mr. Rogers regarding Senator Langer's request and would call me back.

Very truly yours,

TO:        MR. TOLSON   DATE: January 22, 1955
FROM:     L. B. NICHOLS
SUBJECT:  While in the Attorney General's Office taking pictures today, the Attorney General inquired as to whether we had completed the investigations on all of the Assistant Attorneys General who would require Senate confirmation, as it would be necessary to have the FBI reports at the time their appointments went up.

I told him that I knew that he had several of them. I mentioned Warren Burger, Warren Olney, and J. Lee Rankin. He stated, yes, he recalled those. He then asked about Holland and I told him I did not know, I would have to check. He stated there was a good possibility that name had not been given to us.

I checked with Mr. Morris in Mr. Callan's office, and we do not have the name of Holland.

An item appeared on the appointment of H. Brian Holland in the Times Herald, January 16th, announcing his appointment as Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Tax Division.
He was born in London in 1904, came to the United States in 1915, was naturalized in 1939, graduated from Yale in 1925, Harvard Law School in 1928. You will recall that yesterday communications were sent to the Attorney General and Governor Adams furnishing a list of names on whom requests for investigation have not as yet been received. Holland's name was mentioned in that memorandum.
The AG instructed that all on list be investigated.

It's suggested that in view of the Attorney General's comment that they would have to have the FBI reports on all of these people prior to their confirmation, that we initiate an immediate investigation and handle it in the most expeditious way possible. If approved, a memorandum is attached to the Attorney General.

With reference to your inquiry of Mr. Nichols today as to whether the results of the investigations had been furnished on the Assistant Attorneys General requiring Senate confirmation, I wish to advise that reports on Messrs. Warren Burger, Warren Olney, and J. Lee Rankin have been furnished to you, along with the results of the investigation of Mr. William P. Rogers.

We had not been requested to initiate an investigation on Mr. Brien Holland, the Assistant Attorney General-designate in charge of the Tax Division. In view of your instructions of this morning, however, an immediate investigation of Mr. Holland is being undertaken.

RECORDED - 79
EX-123
Robert Minor informed me that a disgruntled employee fired by Warren Burger, was testifying against Burger before the Senate Judiciary Committee. Minor pointed out that in our investigation of there is reported in the report of SA G. A. Freeman, at St. Louis, 9/20/46, that was arrested and charged with violation of the 93rd Article of War; that while under arrest he submitted his resignation for the good of the service.

Minor when he called first talked in terms of being discharged by court-martial and asked if that information could be made public. I told him that we would, of course, have to check with the Army. I did not have the file at the time when the check was requested of liaison and when I did secure the file and got the exact facts, seeing that they were somewhat varied from those given to me by Minor, liaison made an additional check and received word from the Judge Advocate General's Office to the effect that this record could be utilized by the Department for the purpose of furnishing it to the Senators on a confidential basis as an aid to their evaluation of the credibility of the witness. The Judge Advocate General's Office ruled, however, that this could not be put into a public record. I so informed Minor. The Judge Advocate General's Office also ruled that any court-martial resulting in a dishonorable discharge is not classified and can be made public.

Mr. Rosen
Tony Russo, the Attorney General's confidential assistant, called to advise that the results of the investigations on Messrs. Burger, Rankin, Olney, Rogers and Holland had to be delivered to Senator Langer by 10 a.m. Saturday morning. (Warren E. Burger, J. Lee Rankin, Warren Olney, William P. Rogers and H. Brian Holland).

Russo wanted to know what the procedure would be and were the reports here. I told him that summaries on Burger, Rankin, Olney and Rogers had already been furnished Mr. Brownell. He asked if this was all that should be sent up. I told him, of course, this was a policy matter. He asked if anything else is sent up. I told him that in the past investigative reports have been shown to the chairman of the committee. He asked where the investigative reports were and I told him that we had them in our files inasmuch as there had been no place to send them until the present.

Russo then inquired whether we would take the reports up. I told him this was strictly a Departmental matter and had been handled heretofore in the Deputy's office. He asked who in the Deputy's office and I told him Mike Horan had handled this in the past. He then asked how long it would take to get the reports together and I told him I would have to check.

After talking to the Director and learning that Malone had been in touch with the Director on this, I so informed Russo. Russo stated that he would call Malone but in view of his total lack of familiarity would I call Malone. I told him there was not much I could call Malone on. He then stated just to be certain Malone handled it.

I, accordingly, called Malone and he stated that he was originally to call the Director back but that he felt the investigative reports should be taken up, as otherwise this might place the Attorney General in an embarrassing position as he would thus be giving the chairman of the committee less than his predecessors had. I told Malone this was a policy consideration and that heretofore reports had only been made available to the chairman; that when the Judiciary Committee considered the Attorney General and Mr. Rogers a summary was sufficient. I told him we, of course, would do whatever the Department desired. He stated he felt.

Memorandum to Mr. Tolson
January 23, 1953

The reports should be made available and that he wanted Mike Horan to have them so that if they were requested he could make them available to the chairman. I told him this was solely up to him; that he should bear in mind the policy involved. He stated he fully understood and felt in view of the established procedure of permitting the chairman to read the reports that they should be available if he requested them.

In discussing this matter with Russo, I also made it clear to him that the matter of making reports available to the chairman was a policy decision to be made in the Department and not for the Bureau to make. Russo stated that he thought there was no problem involved as long as this was handled as other cases had been in the past; that he thoroughly understood.

I asked Mr. Morris, in Mr. Callan's absence, to start pulling the reports on Burger, Rankin, Olney and Rogers and endeavor to have them ready in time for Horan to pick them up by 9:30 in the morning.

ADDENDUM: LBN:hmc; 1/26/53

The reports were made available to Horan, who called my office and left word that everything had worked out satisfactorily. He told me before he went up that he was not going to make the reports available to the chairman but would give him the summaries and have the reports if the chairman asked for them.

Following my conversation with the Director on Friday evening, I advised Mr. Ladd that it was desired hereafter in connection with Departmental applicants that we send the investigative reports to the Department and that it would not be necessary to prepare summaries. If, however, the applicant was for some other government department, which would require the preparation of a summary for Governor Adams, we should continue, also, to send a copy of the summary to Mr. Brownell.
In the original of a memorandum captioned and dated as above, the Congressional Record for Tuesday 6.21.55 was reviewed and pertinent items were marked for the Director's attention. This form has been prepared in order that portions of a copy of the original memorandum may be clipped, mounted, and placed in appropriate Bureau case or subject matter files.
Judge Burger called 1-19-60. He has an old and very close personal friend who will be married in Paris, France, within the next several days. The friend is marrying an European national. He has indicated in a letter to Judge Burger he expects to have considerable trouble getting into the United States for a 30-day visit in view of the nationality of his bride. He has asked that Judge Burger inform the U. S. Ambassador to France of his identity. Judge Burger advised me he does not know the current Ambassador to France and consequently he would appreciate very much the Director dropping a note to the FBI Legal Attache in Paris so that the Legal Attache can assure the U. S. Consul, American Embassy, Paris, that Judge Burger is a well established judicial representative of the U. S. Court of Appeals, Washington, D. C.

Judge Burger stated he did not mean to infer the FBI should vouch for his friend. He merely desires our Legal Attache inform the Consular Office at the American Embassy of his, Judge Burger's, identity so that when the U. S. Ambassador receives a letter from Judge Burger within the next several days the Ambassador and the Consular Office will not believe this is a phoney letter.

I told Judge Burger that the Director would, of course, be glad to do this.

An Irish War

There was a beautiful little war among two clans of Irishmen that got lost in the shuffle of getting Congress out of town in a hurry.

The war began over President Eisenhower's nomination of Assistant Attorney General Warren E. Burger of St. Paul, Minn.—definitely not an Irish type himself—as a member of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

This nomination was sent to the Senate for confirmation on June 21. It had the endorsement of Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. and of judges, lawyers and Republican political leaders of Mr. Burger's home state.

A routine hearing was set before a Senate Judiciary sub-committee to examine Mr. Burger's fitness for the bench. It was expected confirmation would sail thru without any trouble before Congress adjourned.

It seems, however, as the stories always say, that there were three Irishmen—Mr. McGinty, Mr. O'Brien, and Mr. Mackin—who decided to block it. All three were Democrats, naturally.

They had been employed as attorneys in the Department of Justice Civil Division which Mr. Burger headed. Shortly after the Republicans took over in 1953, they were dismissed, and they were out for revenge.

They showed up at the Senate Judiciary sub-committee hearings presided over by another Irish Democrat, Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, of Wyoming. Messrs. McGinty, O'Brien, and Mackin charged that Mr. Burger was anti-Irish, anti-Catholic, anti-veteran, and anti-clean Government. Irishman O'Mahoney decided to delay proceedings.

They all failed to reckon, however, on the wrath of another tribe of Irishmen—the McGannerys. One in particular, named James P., had been President.

Truman's last Attorney General. He had been given the specific job of trying to clean up the Department of Justice, which was in something of a mess.

Mr. McGrannery charged in on Sen. O'Mahoney, demanding to be heard in opposition to Messrs. McGinty, O'Brien and Mackin. This put the Democrats on something of a spot. It would never do to have one Democrat testifying against other Democrats before still another Democrat—particularly when they were all Irish. Sen. O'Mahoney put Mr. McGrannery off.

Instead, deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers was called in. Republican Rogers, tho not Irish, revealed that early in 1953 Mr. McGrannery and his deputy, Ross Malone—definitely Irish—had conferences with Messrs. Brownell and Rogers. At these meetings the Democrats had passed along to the Republicans their recommendations for reorganizing the Department of Justice. Included was a list of lawyers Mr. McGrannery said should be dropped from Government service.

It developed the trio opposing Mr. Burger's nomination for a judgeship had been ticketed for dismissal in the McGrannery clean-up of 1952. The action was blocked by the Eisenhower victory.

Mr. McGrannery gave full support, however, to having his recommendations carried out by the Republicans. And the co-operation between Messrs. Brownell and McGrannery on this point is really something to behold.

In the end Messrs. McGinty, O'Brien and Mackin won the battle temporarily. While the O'Mahoney sub-committee decided to approve Mr. Burger's appointment to the bench, the full Judiciary Committee never found time to recommend his confirmation to the Senate.

Until the next session of Congress at least, Warren Burger must remain a mere assistant attorney general instead of becoming His Honor the judge, because of the Irish war.
Senate Unit Ends Hearing on Court Post for Burger

By the Associated Press

A Senate Judiciary Subcommittee yesterday wound up hearings on President Eisenhower's nomination of Warren E. Burger, Assistant Attorney General, as a member of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Chairman O'Mahoney, Democrat of Wyoming, of the subcommittee told reporters he did not know whether he could get his group together to take official action.

Mr. Burger told Senator O'Mahoney in answer to the chairman's question that officials in the Justice Department were not forced out to make room for political appointees.

William P. Rogers, Deputy Attorney General, also told the committee that efforts had been made in the Justice Department to create the feeling that it was non-political.
Fired by U.S. Oppose Burger Judgeship

Three men who were fired from their Justice Department jobs two years ago tried yesterday to convince a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that Assistant Attorney General Warren E. Burger is unfit to sit as judge on the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

The subcommittee headed by Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat of Wyoming, is continuing its study of Mr. Burger's nomination by President Eisenhower.

Rough language was used in the course of yesterday's public hearing. The fired employees called Mr. Burger a "liar," accused him of bias against Irish-Americans and described him as a "callous, ruthless, conniving and deceptive" character who is "reckless with truth."

Mr. Burger, whose integrity was praised by Senator Thye, Republican of Minnesota, as of the highest order, sat quietly at the subcommittee table as the accusations were made. He did not testify except to remark that one witness was correct in virtually only one respect—that he had been fired from Justice—and that another failed to supply a vital piece of information for the Senators.

The Assistant Attorney General, a successful St. Paul lawyer, enjoys the unanimous indorsement of the Minnesota State bar. In addition, 25 trial judges of Minnesota wrote President Eisenhower commending him for selecting Mr. Burger to fill the vacancy created by the recent death of Judge Harold M. Stephens.

Those who sought to block the nomination are John J. McGinty, an attorney of Lackawanna County, Pa.; John J. Mackin of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Joseph F. O'Brien, an attorney, of Stillwater, Minn.

Chairman O'Mahoney indicated most interest in facts surrounding the dismissal of Mr. O'Brien, who claimed efficiency ratings of "superior," "excellent," and "satisfactory" for the entire 20 years of his service at Justice.

The lawyer charged that Mr. Burger, as head of the Civil Division at Justice, had made a "horribly exhorbitant" settlement in an Alaska case. He said the settlement was made while Mr. O'Brien was away for a few days.

Burger Associates Hail Judgeship Nomination

From newspaper carrier to appointment as the newest judge on the United States Court of Appeals here — that's a summary of the career of Assistant Attorney General Warren E. Burger.

Reached yesterday afternoon by telephone at the Athletic Club in his native St. Paul, Minn., Mr. Burger was congratulated and addressed as "Judge." But he quickly corrected the reporter, saying it was "Mr."

"There's the matter of the United States Senate [for confirmation]," he said. "I'm a great believer in protocol."

His nomination by President Eisenhower yesterday afternoon found Mr. Burger getting ready to address commencement exercises last night at St. Paul College of Law. He was graduated from there himself 24 years ago. He will be 48 on September 17.

Heads Civil Litigation

An intense worker, a man with uncommon energy, characteristically open-minded, fair—that's the appraisal of his co-workers at the Justice Department. He's in charge of civil litigation, has dealings with 250 attorneys in the department and has argued prominent cases in the Supreme Court.

In fact, "Attorney General Brownell has entrusted him with a number of special assignments such as last year when he was appointed a member of the Legal Adviser of the United States delegation to the International Labor Conference at Geneva, June 1 to 28.

One of Mr. Burger's primary ambitions is to bring out the best in people, get them to work together well, and he has the knack of getting work done. People like to work for him because he has the ability to inspire confidence.

He's an exceptional lawyer, his associates say. His judgment is on the right lines, regardless of which course is presented.

The reason Mr. Burger inspires confidence is that he backs up his fellow workers, they say. He's friendly, good-natured, and is an excellent organizer.

Chief officers of the Federal Government when they are used.

Mr. Burger has gotten along famously with Congress. Judges he has dealt with have become his life-long friends. He has had experience with all three branches of Government.

Mr. Burger is familiar with the law from many angles. For four years he attended night classes at St. Paul College of Law, graduating magna cum laude in June, 1931. He attended the University of Minnesota. He was chief justice of Phi Beta Gamma Law Fraternity Chapter at St. Paul law college. From 1931 to 1933, he was employed as an associate in the law firm of Boyesen, Otis & Faricy in St. Paul.

Hailed Elected Stassen

He was admitted as a partner in 1935, the year he became president of the St. Paul Junior Association of Commerce. He taught contracts, 1931-1934, at St. Paul College of Law. He was active in boy scouts, lumber and YMCA boys' clubs.

Mr. Burger aided in the election of Harold E. Stassen as Governor of Minnesota. He had worked with the younger wing of the Republican Party to organize the Young Republican League. He was named by Gov. Stassen as a member of the Minnesota Emergency War Labor Board, a non-salaried job.

In 1948, he acted as pre-convention chairman and floor manager in the campaign of Gov. Stassen for the Republican nomination for the presidency.

In 1952, he was one of the national convention floor managers for Mr. Stassen, who made possible Gen. Eisenhower's first ballot nomination by releasing his delegates.

Mr. Burger's hobbies include horseback riding, gardening, reading—particularly history and political economics, and visiting art galleries.

LOTS OF WORK IN CAPITAL—

45,000 Cases Pending
In Burger's Division

By KENNETH CROUSE
Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—There'll be no lack of work for Warren Burger of St. Paul when he takes over as assistant attorney general in charge of the claims division in the Eisenhower administration.

As of today there were 45,000 cases pending, which is about half of what the peak backlog has been in the past.

The claims division, is one of the most important in the Department of Justice. It handles all civil litigation not specifically assigned to other divisions. At present it has 175 lawyers and a staff of some 200 clerical employees.

Although sometimes not as spectacular as the criminal division of the department, it jumped into the limelight last summer during the steel strike when the government took over the steel industry. That case was argued for the government by Holmes Baldridge, the incumbent in the $15,000-a-year post.

The biggest case presently in the division's hands is one involving the explosion of two munitions ships in the Texas City, Texas, harbor in April 1947. Claims for more than $500 million dollars are pending before the Supreme Court. There are 8,000 plaintiffs in the cases growing out of 796 deaths and property destruction resulting from the blast and fire.

In this type of case the claims division cooperates with the solicitor general's office in defending the government.

The claims division now has 11 subdivisions, and lawyers are sent out to all parts of the country either to defend or prosecute federal cases.

There is a patent section that does just what the name implies. Then there is a veterans section that handles all such litigation. There also is a Supreme Court section.
MR. SULLIVAN

July 26, 1962

On July 23, 1962, I saw Judge Warren E. Burger, who was a former Assistant Attorney General in the Department before going on the bench.

Judge Burger stated he had been requested by a number of his friends to invite me to attend a Convocation of the University of Minnesota sometime in the fall or next spring. He stated there appeared on the campus of the University, Benjamin Davis, a high official of the Communist Party in the United States, who had been invited there by some group of students, and, as a result thereof, there had been considerable criticism about the appearance of Davis and some of the substantial graduates of the University were desirous of having me appear and talk on the subject of communism and responsibility of students.

I told Judge Burger I certainly appreciated the invitation and would like to accept, but it was physically impossible to do so. I told him, however, if his friends desired to have Assistant Director Sullivan appear at some time in the future at a Convocation of the University, I would be very happy indeed to have him appear.

Judge Burger is going to be in touch with his friends to advise accordingly.

Very truly yours,

U. S. SUPREME COURT

Mr. E. W. Kintner, former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission and now practicing law at 1815 H Street, N. W., advised Inspector T. J. Jenkins that he has been a close personal friend of Judge Burger for about the last 15 years. He stated that since Judge Burger has been nominated by the President to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court Burger has expressed to him great concern concerning his security and that of his family. According to Mr. Kintner, Judge Burger is extremely concerned by what he calls the 'hew left kooks.' He has indicated to Kintner that he hopes after he has been confirmed that somebody from the FBI will talk to him about security for his family and himself. Kintner pointed out that he has been named liaison between the American Bar Association and Deputy Attorney General Kleindienst and that he intended to mention this to the Deputy Attorney General. Kintner stated that he knew the Bureau did not have the responsibility or jurisdiction to protect government officials but he knew that anything the FBI could do for Judge Burger would be greatly appreciated by him. He stated that Judge Burger was not concerned at the present time but was speaking about after his confirmation.

Burger Suffered Loss In Old Business Tie

By LYLE DENNISTON

Chief Justice-designate Warren E. Burger was involved as a half owner in an East Capitol street real estate investment for more than two years.

The investment is the kind that lower federal court judges will now have to report, under rules of the U.S. Judicial Conference.

Burger, now a U.S. Appeals Court judge, was on the bench at the time of the transaction — 1963-65 — but the disclosure rules were in effect.

The other owner in the transation, Rowland F. Kirks, general counsel of the American Textile Manufacturers' Institute, confirmed the investment. Kirks said it resulted in a net loss of $2,006.72, "which we shared equally."

Burger's involvement came to light amid continuing public discussion of the scope of judges' outside financial interests in the wake of the controversy that led to Supreme Court Justice Abe
Fortas' resignation.

Columnist's Disclosure

Columnist Drew Pearson first disclosed the Burger-Kirks venture in an article released today.

Pearson criticized the arrangement on the ground that Kirks had been a "registered lobbyist." This column also criticized attorneys for failing to turn up the venture during hearings last month on Burger's nomination to be chief justice.

"Kirks said he had discussed the transaction recently, with Burger, 'and both of us were satisfied there was no impropriety at all.' Kirks said he had not been a lobbyist for eight years, and that he has not been involved in lawsuits in the Appeals

Court during Burger's 15 years there.

Burger’s office declined comment.

Kirks said he had known Burger "intimately since we served together in the Department of Justice, beginning in 1955. My relations with him, except for this one transaction, have been purely social; we have never been associated in any other financial transaction."

Dwelling Converted

The joint investment, according to Kirks, involved the purchase of "a dwelling house converted into offices" at 901 E.
Capitol St., "Each of us paid one-half of the purchase price," which was $37,000, Kirks said.

Pearson reported in his col-mum that the figure was higher, $47,000. The seller of the property, Dr. Myron Draper, of Oxon Hill, Md., said today: "The purchase price was $37,000."

The loss Burger and Kirks suffected on the property, according to Kirks, resulted from damage done to it by vandals when the property was unoccupied.

Moreover, he said, a renter could never have found, so he and Burger said: The sale price was $38,000, and after deducting settlement, charges, and maintenance costs of $3,506.72, the loss was $2,006.72, Kirks said.

Kenneth R. Strawberry, a State Department medical division employee, bought the property. He said Burger and Kirks held a second trust on it for some time after he bought it, but that this was later paid off by him. Strawberry said he has sold the property, but continues to hold a mortgage on it as part of the sale deal.

 instructor
Kirks denied that he is a registered lobbyist. He held such a position with the National Automobile Dealers Association as its legislative counsel, until leaving that group Sept. 1, 1960, Kirks said. He has not been a lobbyist since, he added.

The textile institute for which he now serves as general counsel is the trade group representing producers of approximately 85 percent of domestic textiles, Kirks said. "The institute has two registered lobbyists. Whenever I appear before a committee, it is as counsel for others who are appearing," he said.

Kirks said he holds a position as staff secretary to the institute's tax committee, but that the committee retains outside lawyers for its legal work.

At luncheon with the Chief Justice today, we covered many aspects of security, both of the Supreme Court Building as well as the security of the Chief Justice personally.

Chief Justice Burger is making many appearances before legal groups and will, no doubt, make some appearances before university assemblies.

I extended to him full cooperation of the FBI being of any assistance it could to him even in the way of personal protection, when he is on trips out of Washington, and the use of any automobiles which he may have occasion to utilize on such trips.

Any requests that are received from the Chief Justice along the above lines I desire to have promptly honored.

Dear Warren Burger:

I was very pleased to learn from your letter of November 4, 1970, that you are implementing the suggestions I made to you concerning the improvement of security for the Supreme Court Building. Certainly in these times, with revolutionists and maniacs attacking our system of Government with bombs and arson, we must provide maximum security to our facilities.

As you will recall, it was my recommendation that additional lighting be afforded the outside of the building to protect against an individual placing a bomb against the building, in the shrubbery, in a column or in the driveways. Effective patrol, with proper lighting, should certainly greatly reduce the hazard of an undetected bomb or incendiary device being placed in these areas. In view of the wave of bombings which is occurring across the country, I would recommend that you have additional exterior lighting installed as soon as possible.

I want you to know that I am happy to be of assistance in this matter and if we can aid you further, please let me hear from you.

Sincerely,

Dear Edgar:

Your counsel and help on our security problems has been of great value. All your recommendations as to the Supreme Court Building have been or are in process of being carried out. One exception is the matter of exterior lighting to serve the dual functions of discouraging mischief-makers or vandals from approaching or damaging the building at night, or, alternatively, making such intruders more readily observable by our night patrol.

As you know, we have a heavy growth of decorative foliage surrounding the grounds, and while this adds to the beauty of the structure it also affords excellent cover for someone bent on demonstrative damage or worse. For this reason our own staff concludes that some form of exterior lighting should be installed as soon as possible for security purposes.

You and I discussed this briefly but at that time we were concentrating on interior security problems. If it is compatible with all the "protocol" it would help if you or your staff would write me approving exterior lighting for added security of the building.

I am deeply appreciative of all your help.

Dear Mr. Kelley:

Thank you for your very kind note on Margaret. She has been at the Mayo Clinic for diagnostic testing, relating to a number of problems which she has had over the years. You have been concerned about an injury, which she experienced at work in 1971, because it has failed to heal, but it now appears to be responding to treatment.

Her determination to master Spanish, in which she has encountered many setbacks due to the limited availability of advanced Spanish classes, has produced frustrations that gave her perhaps undue anxiety. I think that she felt keenly the high standards of the Bureau and wanted to excel in two languages.

We appreciate very much your concern and your kindness.

Cordially,

Honorable Clarence M. Kelley

Strong Wills Hinder Molding of a 'Burger Court'

Warren E. Burger, nearing the end of his third year as Chief Justice of the United States, is giving signs that something is wrong. A "Burger Court" will soon emerge.

It's been said that Justice Burger may be impulsive, but that's his goal: to mold a cohesive bench. Physically, he has had the bench sawed in three and the end portions of the once-solid Honduran mahogany slab have been burned. It's still possible to see the old "Burger Court".

Despite the recent arrival of more like-minded judges, Burger finds himself alone in his dissenting opinions. Even his erstwhile "Minnesota twin," Justice Harry A. Blackmun, is starting to part company with Burger. Some of the differences reflect the strong wills of nine independent men.

News Analysis

Others are seen as symptoms of leadership problems under Burger.

In recent weeks:

- Burger alone invited Congress to write new highway laws to straighten out "a mischievous" U.S. Court of Appeals, commanding the construction of a bridge over the Potomac "even to the point of limiting or prohibiting judicial review."

- Only Burger dissented as the court struck down "laws requiring mobile Americans to wait as long as a year before being allowed to vote."

- Although Blackmun reluctantly declared that "at this date" he could not oppose certain tough rules governing antitrust cases, Burger alone wrote that, if he were to move in the same direction, he would be wrong to apply such rules to supermarket chains which had agreed not to compete with each other.

- With only Blackmun agreeing with him, Burger dissented as the court held that unwed fathers had an equal right to parenthood status with married parents.

"Centuries of human experience" support the way Illinois treats the "male parent," he said.

Of all the recent strongly worded breaks with his fellow justices, Burger's handling of the Three Sisters Bridge controversy was the most puzzling to lawyers, who have watched with interest how the Chief Justice would approach his job. No member of the court is expected to surrender deeply held convictions except in the face of persuasive argument. But students of the court agree that there are special demands on the Chief Justice to bring the court together. Others look to him for an extra measure of statesmanship and conciliation.

With this in mind, the puzzle about why Burger would launch a solo protest against the Supreme Court's decision is inapposite for review. The high court left standing a Court of Appeals ruling that the bridge was unsafe. The decision, which would have made it more fully with federal highway law, and Burger's pithy opinion was labeled a "concurrence" in the court's unanimous decision. In last year's school desegregation cases, in which Burger reversed the Nixon administration's move to curtail the powers of federal judges to enforce the belated dismantling of dual school systems, he received a robust defense from the bench configuration enables the justices to see and hear each other even if they do not heed one another.

Curiously and with apparent thoughtlessness, Burger made one drastic change that caused severe misgivings. He converted the conference room, where the justices meet as nine equals to deliberate secretly on cases, into his personal office.

And when Congress came through with requested money for staff, he added a "personal" clerk for each justice, invading each colleague's professional prerogatives in a way that only a veteran justice could fully appreciate.

Burger, who had appointed his wife to be one of the new justices, is in favor of more adequate budgets. In public appearances, Burger has given fresh publicity to the problems confronting the court, and the neglect of America's prisons. He has brought resentment with stern demands for more "civil" by lawyers when some attorneys contend that the judicial system, too, should protect unpopular advocacy and at a time when Burger himself has set an example of judicial combativeness.

Whether the full participation of the justices will ultimately produce a more harmonious court remains to be seen. The immediate outlook, however, is for a polarized court, not splintered.

In doing so, Burger caused shock waves because he appeared to prejudge the propriety of laws denying access to courts by aggrieved persons. President Nixon's proposed congressional moratorium on school busing, came immediately to the minds of readers who wondered whether the similarity occurred also to Burger, in the offering of advice to Congress, which bothered both lawyers and judges, often counsel against such breaches of the separation of powers.

On the other hand, Burger defended the court's unanimous decision in last year's school desegregation cases, repudiating Nixon administration moves to curtail the powers of federal judges to enforce the belated dismantling of dual school systems. Reports seeping through Washington had Burger on the opposite side of the question in early deliberations among the justices. But if Burger felt pressure to agree with the White House on busing, he ultimately chose to go with the court, maintaining its commitment to racial justice in public education.

Detraction Seen

Unfortunately, in the view of someone, he detracted from his collegial role in a one-justice opinion last summer by stressing that some school boards apparently were overreacting to the 9-to-0 decision by ordering excessive busing.

Perhaps one of Burger's most distinguished performances was his opinion last term, also for a unanimous court, holding unlawful occupational tests which called to measure job capability but were fraught with potential discrimination.
