Cheryl,
As I look at a	Il the holes that are already becoming apparent re our ability to do development as I phase out and if were not her	re, I wonder again if we shdnt try to hireas deputy director for development in S/P before I leave or w/ the transi	ition (this is assuming succeeds me). Given how much time I put in to trying to get the rest of the building to pa	ay attention to development and to pushing that entire part of S's agenda (as do u, of course), which will not do ex	xcept as specifically tasked, I am increasingly worried about what is going to happen. I think she wd take the job if properl	ly formulated, and we will HAVE an open slot by the end of the year (I just found that out.) But ithe trick is making it a d	leputy directorship like a DAS anywhere else.
