Subject: Fw: H: FYI, an unfortunate incident. Sid

Hi sid - our team was alerted to this yesterday too. We had absolutely nothing to do with this. In fact, it happened so quickly that most of our staff didn't even know it had happened because gw security have this standard operating procedure of anyone who "stands up and starts to speak loudly". We are addressing with gw.

Don't know if you are aware of this unfortunate incident described below on Larry Johnson's website. Ray McGovern, a former CIA officer who gave the daily brief for President George H.W. Bush, is pretty well known in the intelligence community. He's become a Christian antiwar leftist who goes around bearing witness. Whatever his views, he's harmless. Something bad happened at your speech at GW. And it's become a minor cause celebre on the Internet among lefties. You might have someone check this out and also have someone apologize to Ray McGovern.

* Bumped Up *

During a speech by Hillary earlier this week at George Washington University retired CIA analyst, Ray McGovern, was physically accosted and arrested for disorderly conduct for the simple act of standing up and turning his back to Hillary. Ray ended his career at the CIA as one of the senior officers who provided George H.W. Bush his daily intelligence brief. Since then Ray has emerged as an anti-war activist. Ray is a fearless but he also is a kind, gentle soul.

Here's the video:

Now let's go back and watch what happened when Ray confronted Donald Rumsfeld:

Unfortunately Hillary is getting blamed for what happened to Ray, but it is not her fault. Hillary is not in charge of her security detail. She does not call the shots. The thugs who set upon Ray were out of line. He had every right to stand and silently protest. He posed no threat to Hillary and made no threatening move. The security folks grossly over-reacted and Ray should have an excellent law suit against the University and those in charge of the security.

Ray's treatment is part of the Gabby Giffords effect. In the aftermath of the attack on Giffords it is understandable that security officials feel a heightened need to be hyper-vigilant. But protective details also need to exercise common sense and use appropriate force. Since the folks inside the auditorium had gone thru a metal detector there was no reason to assume that Ray represented a threat to do harm. And to reiterate—he made no threatening move, he did not speak out of turn and did not try to approach the stage.

It is the ultimate irony that the Obama Administration is calling on foreign leaders to tolerate protest and dissent but when it comes to an old man standing silently there was no tolerance at all.
