RELEASE IN PART
B6

B6

Jake: This is the problem at Harvard involving Derrick Bell that Obama solved simply by emerging there and that gave him the impression his identity had transcended past political conflict into a post-racial, post-ideological realm--identity as post-identity politics, or post-politics.

On Bell: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Derrick_Bell

The fallacies are numerous, not least that it's academia.

I had heard from Khalifa earlier today about the defection of Qaddafi's generals. The TNC is exultant and over-confident. They have consistently believed in the deus ex machina.

Let me know about the matter we discussed if you can. thanks.

Cheers,
Sid
