Have thoroughly enjoyed all kinds of encounters with former State political and career folks, current ones, and savvy observers talking about the swarm of respect and appreciation for your leadership globally but also internally.

I did make the China trip, with an immediate memo going to Todd and several of the group seeing him in person. It was a fascinating experience, with Xie perhaps signalling some areas for "progress," but I don't think much. Sure takes those Chinese forever to make the same point(s).
