Subject: Checking In

There are no words for how much I feel for the nonstop crises and outbreaks in every corner of the globe you are dealing with.

Some updates to share:

First, insane me said yes to a long-ago ask to keynote a gathering of the "Farm Team" meeting in Richmond, VA so I'm on the 7:40 train to get there. You may recognize the name -- it got started a "militant" band of women for you in the VA primary, led by a friend who headed Robb's and later Biden's Senate offices. Mission is to try to energize them even more to be active in politics and-or run for office. When I read my Times yesterday and saw a piece abt GE paying no taxes and Michigan unemployed losing 6 weeks of UI benefits to help balance the state budget, I myself got more motivated than ever.

Still having a ball at work, involved in such terrific issues. And a biggie can be, with our board's approval of big bucks into our desired external support role, is to help ratify Law of Sea is the effort Is made in the months ahead. I had touched base first with Rich Verma, then with Jake, and have spoken to Kerry pple plus Chamber to see whether the word of a potential push was real. This is therefore just an FYI knowing your front burner is beyond crowded. But if the push gets made, we Pew team can do some very unique work with our tool box like focus group, polling, and hiring hard-core GOP lobbyists to do targeting.
