For what it is worth, I'd suggest rescinding/modify ing the UN declaration on Friday afternoon with some kind of written statement that this has been misunderstood and is officially rescinded to avoid any further confusion.

Even though it brings it up again, I would close the loop on this and in effect get rid of it. It is the one thing you are being tagged with and I would get rid of it in some way rather than let it just hang out there as the standing policy that US diplomats in the UN are to gather personal information on UN etc.
