RE: FOIA Request No. 16-0179

Dear Mr. Greenewald:

This is an interim response to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, assigned case number 16-0179. You requested the following: "I respectfully request a copy of records, electronic or otherwise, of all communications between SEED GLOBAL HEALTH (previously known as Global Health Service Corps), and the Peace Corps. I ask that you include all letters, e-mails, faxes, etc. between your agency and SEED GLOBAL HEALTH (along with their previous name Global Health Service Corps) from the dates of January 1, 2011 to the date of processing this request." Please be advised that offices used these cut-off dates to conduct the record searches.

Our search for responsive records located material in Global Health Service Partnership (GHSP), the Office of Global Health and HIV (OGHH), and Peace Corps Response (PRC). We are providing GHSP's response of one document, totaling 539 pages. Certain information is withheld pursuant to 5 U.S.C. §§ 552(b)(5) and (b)(6). Exemption 5 protects internal communications which are deliberative and pre-decisional. Exemption 6 protects information of which the disclosure of such information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

If you are not satisfied with this response, you may contact me as the Peace Corps FOIA Public Liaison to discuss it at yburke@peacecorps.gov. Additionally, you may contact the Office of Government Information Services (OGIS) at the National Archives and Records Administration to inquire about the FOIA mediation services they offer if you are unable to resolve any initial disputes with this office. The contact information for OGIS is as follows: Office of Government Information Services, National Archives and Records Administration, 8601 Adelphi Road-OGIS, College Park, Maryland 20740-6001, e-mail at ogis@nara.gov; telephone at 202-741-5770; toll free at 1-877-684-6448; or facsimile at 202-741-5769.

You also have the right to submit an administrative appeal to the appellate authority within 90 business days of receipt of this letter. Please address the appeal to Clark Presnell, Associate Director – Management, Peace Corps, 1111 20th Street NW, Washington, DC 20526. An appeal can be submitted by U.S. mail to the listed address, by fax at 202-692-1385, or by email at foia@peacecorps.gov. Your appeal must include the FOIA request number and a statement explaining the reason for your appeal. Clearly mark “Freedom of Information Act Appeal” on the letter and envelope, email subject line, or the fax cover sheet.

Sincerely,

Virginia E. Burke
FOIA/PA Officer

Unfortunate and strange. If we have time, it would be great to discuss this briefly in our meeting next Tues, as well as Uganda's current challenge in placing med school graduates for their intern year.

Best,
Laura

Dear Bonny and Colleagues,

It was a great talking to you last week and it gives us sense of progress on the proposed collaboration. The University is yet to appoint a substantive head of the Nursing department but has already identified a suitable candidate who most likely will be appointed in February 2015 (The Nursing program starts in August 2015), till then i will be handling any issues on this program. It is true that in the first year the students will be doing the foundation courses (I do hope that you had a look at our curriculum which i shared with Bonny). Some of these foundation courses are shared with the medical program as is the case with most Universities in Uganda. This means that some of the staff already on the ground can contribute to teaching on these foundation courses. But we need to get a good skills mix, with nurses specialised in areas such as Midwifery, Adult medical or Pediatrics to help give a sense of focus to the teaching team. Of course we welcome any nurse with interest in teaching on the foundation courses. Further our curriculum has a strong element of early clinical exposure as a stimulus to learning. This means that the specialised nurses can introduce basic clinical skills to students early in the training in small but increamental doses.

I saved a copy of this in the Tanzania BMC site application folder, but was wondering if you could print out a copy for the binder to include with the application for this site.
Thanks.

Mark,

I hope this email finds you well! I'm not sure if you have time off over the holidays, but I wanted to see if I could help with the one-pagers for the site application review. Can I help to do the Uganda one's?

Hope you're doing well and happy new year!

Hi Katelyn,

Looks like Krista will be out of the country at a workshop, but we can schedule without her. Marie will look to move things around, as will Dick. I haven't been able to find a room we can use for the 3 hour window starting at 12:30. The one conference room I was able to book, we have from 1-4. Could this work?

Hi Laura,

Do you think Tuesday, January 13th from 12:30pm-3:30pm could work to review the site applications?

We could start with the MDs from 12:30pm-2pm

RNs from 2pm-3:30pm?

If it takes us less time than what we have allotted - even better!! :)

Would that work with your schedule? Do you think Dick wants to be on this call too or would it be debriefing after?

Hope the training is going well!!

Subject: Peace Corps Response GHSP Staff Changes

Hello everyone. I am letting you know about a few staffing changes in Peace Corps Response for the Global Health Service Partnership.

Julie Marshall, who has been with Peace Corps for 9 years and the GHSP since its inception in 2012 as our designated recruiter, is leaving the agency at the end of next week. Julie is taking a position at the USDA in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), where she will work as a Program Analyst in the Program Administration and Accountability Division. Julie told me that she looks forward to continuing to hear about the successes of GHSP (and promises to continue to promote it where she can!) (b) (6)

Michael (Mike) Robie, will be taking Julie's place as the recruiter for the GHSP. Mike covered for Julie in 2013 when she was out on leave so comes to us with plenty of knowledge about the partnership. Mike has been a recruiter with Peace Corps Response for the last 2.5 years, and prior to that worked in the Peace Corps Atlanta Regional Recruiting Office as a recruiter for the 2-year program. Mike is an RPCV from Georgia (2005-07). He has a BA from Vanderbilt where he majored in philosophy.

Brianna Geary, is filling a new position with Peace Corps Response as a program support assistant, working with the GHSP recruiter. Brianna was first introduced to the GHSP when she was an intern with Peace Corps in the summer 2013. Brianna received a BA from Notre Dame, majoring in English while also fulfilling all of her premed prerequisites. She then went back to Notre Dame to get her MS in global health.

I know I speak for all of us when I say that words cannot describe the gratitude I feel toward Julie for the work that she did to help launch the GHSP and to get us three fantastic groups of Volunteers. We will miss her terribly but I am guessing that we have not heard the last of Julie Marshall....

Please also join me in welcoming Mike and Brianna to the GHSP team.

With warm regards,

Sarah

Its possible that Pat or Julie may join the call as well to talk about the nursing site applications too if that's alright with you.

Thanks Towela and talk to you tomorrow,

As you COS, I wanted to take a moment to appreciate your exemplary and distinguished service. I know in this I do not only speak for myself but for the GHSP team, the students and faculty at MUST and fellow Volunteers for whom you have been a resource, leader, mentor and role model. We welcome you back to Uganda in your new capacity and congratulate you for making that noble decision to continue availing your wisdom and experience to the Ugandan populace.

I dug up two quotations from my archives but I know there are countless kind words out there about you;

"Life would have definitely been very difficult without a community of other Volunteers here – especially Mary. They were very supportive" – RPCV MUST

"Mary made me realize how important I am as a nurse. I used to see suction as something dirty but now I do it with pride." – MUST nurse

Congratulations Mary, we wish the best in your life after Peace Corps

Partnering to Build Healthcare Capacity in Uganda, Tanzania and Malawi

1. Program/Project Purpose:

There is a critical shortage of healthcare professionals in 57 countries worldwide. These shortages leave neither enough healthcare professionals to provide direct patient care nor enough to teach a new generation of healthcare providers. Uganda, Tanzania and Malawi are three countries facing the most severe shortages.

2. Structure/Method/Design

Funded by the President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) in 2012, the US Peace Corps (PC) and the non-profit Seed Global Health (Seed), partnered to form the Global Health Service Partnership (GHSP). In its inaugural year, the GHSP sent 30 US doctors, nurses and midwives to serve for one year as faculty in training schools in Uganda, Tanzania and Malawi. Seed and PC worked closely with Ministries of Health and Education and together selected 11 partner institutions. Seed and PC collaborated on recruitment, placement and support of volunteers. Seed provided loan repayment to encourage US health professionals to serve despite a potential barrier of financial debt. The GHSP developed a comprehensive monitoring, reporting and evaluation plan to understand outcomes and assess early impact. Volunteers submitted quarterly reports on hours taught, students and courses. Institutional leadership, faculty, students and Volunteers were qualitatively surveyed through interviews and focus groups at year's end.

3. Outcomes & Evaluation:

In the GHSP's inaugural academic year from July 2013- June 2014, Volunteers were placed at 13 sites affiliated with 11 institutions in the three countries. The Volunteers taught 85 skills workshops and courses to over 2,800 trainees including faculty, assistant and clinical medical officers, residents, and students in over 35,000 activity-hours. New educational initiatives included establishing post-admission conferences, case reviews and problem-based learning, morning report, reviews and incorporation of multi-media, group work, bedside ultrasound and skills labs. The most cited impact of the GHSP was more consistent and high quality clinical supervision. The GHSP Volunteers' impact on faculty was reported as helping to offset overburdened workloads, introducing new teaching methods to faculty and students, and modeling professional behavior. The most cited challenges by Volunteers included unfamiliarity with clinical decision-making in a resource-poor settings and subsequent difficulty framing lectures. Language barriers were also an area of weakness, especially for the Volunteers' communication with patients or students.

4. Going Forward:

The GHSP's inaugural year was a first step in partnering with local teaching institutions in Tanzania, Malawi and Uganda to help strengthen their teaching and clinical capacities. Long-term impact will be measured over years but early outcomes indicated the GHSP had an initial positive impact on training at its partner sites.

5. Funding:

President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief, Covidien, Draper Richards Kaplan Foundation, Exxon Mobil Foundation, the Engelhard Foundation, FedEx Foundation, GE Foundation, and Pfizer Foundation.

Speakers:

Vanessa Kerry, MD, MSc, Seed Global Health

A Year in Review: Teaching the Next Generation of Doctors in Tanzania

By Maureen Ries

On my last day at Sengerema district hospital, in true Sengerema fashion, it was busy: a hysterectomy, a fourth-degree vaginal laceration repair subsequent to domestic violence, an emergency postpartum hysterectomy, donating blood because our region’s blood banks are completely devoid of spare units, and getting called immediately afterward for a seizing woman in labor. Staying busy until the end made the reality of leaving difficult to grasp.

But upon leaving our rural hospital and traveling back to Dar es Salaam, the tree-studded landscape that flashed by over a year ago brought on a great deal of nostalgia. I remembered a sense of excitement, anxiety and hope as I watched the shifting landscape last August. It was a challenging year, but a great one. I laughed, I cried, I bled, and I most certainly sweat. Was I looking forward to returning home and reuniting with friends and family? Absolutely. But did I have a heavy heart when saying goodbye to my students, colleagues and friends? Undoubtedly.

Throughout the past year, there were many high points (the highest was literally at 19,341 ft. when we summited Mt. Kilimanjaro) and obviously there were challenges. For those of you who have ever wondered if, in the middle of a surgical case, it was possible to have a cockroach crawl across your sterile patient and then scurry across your abdomen, I’m here to tell you, it’s possible.

I am a better teacher, a better doctor, and hopefully a better person for the experiences the past year brought. But there were days during the soccer-frenzied summer when I felt like I was playing for a grossly outnumbered team. It can be exhausting to push through a relentless opposing side made up of patients, medical emergencies and all the difficulties associated with a shortage of supplies and healthcare personnel. There were days when I didn't feel like playing. There were trying days when I needed to just sit out.

And yet, a friend who is a fellow volunteer aptly described the year as an opportunity to wake up every morning and realize that you are doing exactly what you want to be doing with your life. Even with the challenges, I feel incredibly fortunate to have been extended the opportunity to go to Tanzania to teach and work with its warm-hearted people.

That last day, I had an incredibly joyful visit with all the students that I worked with throughout year. It was the last day of their final exams, and soon they would disperse to clinics and hospitals to begin working as doctors in Tanzania. One of my local colleagues found me later and said, "This year in gynecology, the students are doing very well. You have made them good."

It was a tremendous year – difficult to encapsulate with words – but if my colleague's statement is really true, then I couldn't think of a more gratifying closing thought with which to end.

Maureen Ries is an Obstetrician Gynecologist who worked in Tanzania as part of the first-ever class of Peace Corps Volunteers in the Global Health Service Partnership program. Ries recently completed her service and returned home to southern California to join the University of California, Irvine, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology. She continues to work with program partner Seed Global Health part-time to support the Global Health Service Partnership.

Please hold this time requested by the Seed team for the site application reviews, although we may have to shift to 1-4 based on room availability. We will review the renewal and new site applications for Uganda, Tanzania, and Malawi to make decisions about continuation (or start) of the program at each site and number of volunteers that will be sent to each site.

Please let me know about conflicts, so that I can have an idea who will attend what part of the long meeting (sorry).

Krista will unfortunately be out of the country.

Subject: Peace Corps Response GHSP Staff Changes

Hello everyone. I am letting you know about a few staffing changes in Peace Corps Response for the Global Health Service Partnership.

Julie Marshall, who has been with Peace Corps for 9 years and the GHSP since its inception in 2012 as our designated recruiter, is leaving the agency at the end of next week. Julie is taking a position at the USDA in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), where she will work as a Program Analyst in the Program Administration and Accountability Division. Julie told me that she looks forward to continuing to hear about the successes of GHSP (and promises to continue to promote it where she can!) Julie also hopes to one day return to Peace Corps – when her children are grown – hopefully as a Volunteer with her husband. Julie and her husband both served in the Peace Corps before coming on board as staff.

Michael (Mike) Robie, will be taking Julie's place as the recruiter for the GHSP. Mike covered for Julie in 2013 when she was out on leave so comes to us with plenty of knowledge about the partnership. Mike has been a recruiter with Peace Corps Response for the last 2.5 years, and prior to that worked in the Peace Corps Atlanta Regional Recruiting Office as a recruiter for the 2-year program. Mike is an RPCV from Georgia (2005-07). He has a BA from Vanderbilt where he majored in philosophy.

Brianna Geary, is filling a new position with Peace Corps Response as a program support assistant, working with the GHSP recruiter. Brianna was first introduced to the GHSP when she was an intern with Peace Corps in the summer 2013. Brianna received a BA from Notre Dame, majoring in English while also fulfilling all of her premed prerequisites. She then went back to Notre Dame to get her MS in global health.

I know I speak for all of us when I say that words cannot describe the gratitude I feel toward Julie for the work that she did to help launch the GHSP and to get us three fantastic groups of Volunteers. We will miss her terribly but I am guessing that we have not heard the last of Julie Marshall....

Please also join me in welcoming Mike and Brianna to the GHSP team.

With warm regards,

Sarah

Agree on the second week of jan. that's what I had asked our team here for availability too. Tuesday seems to be a good day in general- but will keep you posted. This also gives the PMs time to complete their site evals for our review too.

Hi Mark,

Here is a timeline/process document that Katelyn and I put together last year to try to keep on track with these steps. It will be a similar process this year, but we are pushing things back a bit (not doing the review of the site applications until early Jan), but I thought this would be a good reference for you to review. Let me know if you have any questions about the information here and I could explain more to you about what is done/who is involved at each step.

Thanks.

I'm hoping we can have Sad join the call from 7:30am-8am EST to discuss MD specific sites & specialty questions and have Pat join the call from 8am-8:30am to discuss nursing. Site visits, volunteer extensions, site updates, and upcoming country site visits all seem connected and relevant to the MD and RN team so hopefully this will work okay. I'm not sure what AOB is, but we can discuss on Monday.

Thanks and look forward to connecting on Monday,

Subject: RE: Volunteer Extensions

Hi everyone,

Hopefully by this point everyone has been able to send GHSP extension guidance to the current volunteers and the deadline for letting us know about their intent to extend their service. I wanted to let you all know that although the guidance in the extension document is mostly the same as what we had in the Extensions FAQs last year (with the addition of information about the option to have an accompanying spouse that would not serve in PCR), I still reviewed all of the policy-type issues with Dick Day. He had 2 additional comments that I incorporated, but just wanted to explain these a little further.

1. An extension for a full 12 months is not required if the school year will end before that time (for example, in Uganda where most universities are done at the end of May/early June)
2. If an extending volunteer takes their special leave during a school holiday and the holiday period is long, he feels that it is acceptable for the leave time to be extended over that time period, using the leave without allowance status, if a volunteer wants to do this.

Thank you all and have a great weekend.

Best,
Laura

Dear Bonaventure, Towela, Robin, and Henry,

Attached, please find a document to share with the GHSP Volunteers regarding extensions. Laura and I have put this together and it answers questions about the process. It also includes information on Seed's loan and debt repayment. We are asking that volunteers notify both you and Seed of decisions to extend no later than February 6th. If you have heard of any volunteers who are considering extending at this point in time, please let us know. This information is extremely useful as we are starting the matching process for next year with new volunteers.

Let Laura and I know if you have any questions! Thank you for sharing this information with the Volunteers.

Thanks and take care,
Katelyn

We are hoping to organize the call for RN specific questions and MD specific questions and Sad, Pat, and Julie will also be able to join the call. It sounds like Carol may be able to join part of the call- so we can prioritize the questions (for nursing) when Carol would be available.

Here are a list of topics for discussion:

RN Questions:

1. St. John of God

2. Mzuzu

[REDACTED]

3. KCN

[REDACTED]

MD Questions:

1. [REDACTED]

2. [REDACTED]

3. [REDACTED]

General Questions

1. [REDACTED]
2. [REDACTED]

Please feel free to add to this.

Thanks and look forward to connecting on Monday,

Hi everyone,

I talked to Carol this morning and she is trying to rearrange her schedule to be on the call Monday, so hopefully this will work out. [REDACTED]

For St. John of God, here is information that Towela forwarded today about the school calendar:

1. 8th February - opening of 1st Semester of Year Two (Semester two of year 1 for the Diploma in Nursing)
2. 7th April - Clinical placement begins
3. 12th June - Clinical Placement ends
4. 15th June - Students begin exam preparation
5. 22nd June - examinations begin
6. 30th June - students go on holidays for two weeks
7. 7th July - Opening of Semester TWO of YEAR Two (BSc - Nursing; Clinical Medicine & Dip. in Psychosocial Counseling)
8. 14th September - Clinical placements begin
9. 23rd November - Exam preparation week begins
10. 30th November - Final exams begin

I feel like the one big concern might be that there appears to be over a 2 month break between academic years (all of Dec and Jan).

Thank you all.

We should probably schedule an hour, too, because a lot of times we end up discussing the entire program (and how to save the world) 😊
Thanks.

Those are indeed the dates and I look forward to meeting. How would next Tuesday work for you and Laura? Maybe 2? Unfortunately the other days next week are already booked by clinical shifts or the holiday. I am also going on vacation on Friday the 20th and will be out all of the last week of February. Let me know if Tuesday afternoon works for you. Jim

Will it be possible to set up a time in the next two weeks when we may talk to begin planning for this orientation? Also, if you believe it would be beneficial for others from Seed Global Health to be included in this initial discussion, please let me know. Hi All,

Thanks for the agenda items. It would be helpful if we can rework the timing for these topics so we can discuss nursing specific topics for the first 30mins and MD specific topics for the last 30 mins. Sad & Pat & Julie would like to join the call as well to touch base with Bonny too. I just sat down with Pat and Julie a few minutes ago and there a few follow up questions that have come up as the matching process is in the works. It would be helpful to touch base on:

Nursing Topics:

1. (b)(5) (b)(6) [REDACTED]
2. (b) (6) [REDACTED]

Towela,

This schedule outline looks amazing! Thank you!!

-The Sunbird hotels you mentioned for (b) (6) sound great as well. Thank you. Julie and Moe can pay by credit card when they arrive if you are able to make the reservation. I'll send you the flight reservations.

Moe arrives into (b) (6) on Sat, March 7th. Would it be possible for you to reserve a hotel room for her Sat night in (b) (6), and have the hotel pick her up at the airport in (b) (6). She'd then leave Sun, March 8th to go up to (b) (6). I can work with Jessie and Allan on her car transportation to (b) (6) & accommodations in (b) (6).

Julie would arrive into (b) (6) on Tues, March 3rd.

I should be able to send their flight itineraries tomorrow. (Moe's is booked and just finalizing Julie's).

Hello everyone!

Is an e-introduction an appropriate way to connect you? Also who would you like me to include in that email?

(b)(5) (b)(8)

I think it would enrich the training program in DC immensely. As a former PC volunteer the grass roots approach is one area I've felt that has been less emphasized in our training. While our roles are specific and focused as clinical instructors, I do think looking at the larger picture of what we're doing and building is important.

I've also been reflecting on the developing marriage of PC culture and SEED culture, and trying to find opportunities for growth. Thus far I have observed that the "development" perspective/grass roots approach that makes PC (in my opinion) unique and successful has not been discussed. The challenge, of course, is bringing the community-based perspective to a medical model. I'm confident Mike can provide this for trainees. Even if it's an hour or two talk, I think it's important.

Hi Bonny, Towela, and Henry,

I hope you all are doing great. Thanks for talking last week about the COS conference. I didn't get to mention this on the call, but I think as you all know, Pat's official last day with Seed was yesterday! Its hard to believe! Fortunately, Pat will be coming to the COS conference and she's looking forward to it. :)

We wanted to get your thoughts on doing an acknowledgment at COS & any simple thoughtful ideas we could present to Pat?

Towela and Henry- Look forward to seeing you at COS....and Bonny- looking forward to seeing some baby pics very soon!! :)

Just spoke with 4imprint and they said for you to go ahead and place the order online using your credit card, and there is a place for you to note that your card is paying for ½ the total cost. Then you can let me know the order number (you will receive this number after placing the order), and I'll call to pay the other ½ on our card. They assured that this wouldn't be a problem.

Since we seem to have more flexibility with the schedule Friday afternoon (ultrasound training and nurse case studies), can we have the volunteers get their lunches and come back to review the in-country orientation plans and have that go from 12:30-1:30? Then we can use the per diem money for lunch on Thursday. Do you think this would work out (would most people want to stay for this presentation)?

Ok, I'm fiddling with a schedule (similar to the one we sent to the volunteers without all the notes) right now that we are hoping to have printed large to be on display in the conference room. I failed to get it to Mark by the recommended time frame today (sorry), but am hoping they can still print it if we forward it in the morning. I'll add the ACOG lunch to the schedule.

Dear Rhonda,

Thanks for your email and we are looking forward to your participation at the Global Health Service Partnership Orientation for our incoming physician and nurse educators. This is a ten-day, comprehensive orientation focusing on clinical and technical content. I am attaching a copy of the orientation schedule so you will have an understanding of the sessions and topics.

As I had mentioned, there will be 29 physicians and nurses in this orientation. Broken down by specialty, we have the following volunteers who will be in DC:

Total Nurses: 18

women's health: 2

midwifery: 3

pediatrics: 4

Adult med/surg: 7

Public health: 2

Total Physicians: 11

OBGYN: 3

Peds: 1

Family medicine: 3

Internal medicine: 3

Anesthesiology: 1

For your presentation/discussion, we are open to how you want to frame it. We were thinking that a discussion w/ the OBGYN, midwives, and women's health would be great and we would keep it open for all the volunteers to join.

We have you on the schedule for Thursday, July 16th from 11:30am-12:30pm at the Peace Corps Headquarters offices, located at 1111 20th Street NW, Washington, DC 20526.

If you need anything that week, please do not hesitate to contact me on my cell phone (b) (6) -

(b) (6)

. I'll be in DC throughout the week.

Kind Regards,

Katelyn

Thanks Maureen and nice to meet you electronically Rhonda, Vineeta, and Janet.

There will be 29 volunteers who will be at orientation in Washington, DC. Of these 29 volunteers, 3 are OBGYNs, 3 are midwives, and 2 are women's health nursing volunteers. We have a range of other specialties of our volunteers including peds, IM, med/surg nursing, etc. We can send the logistics and address information in the upcoming days as well. It will be held at Peace Corps Headquarters in Washington, DC.

Great to hear from you. Yes, ACOG was put into the tentative schedule for July 16th from the 11:30-12:20 lunch hour (tentative until we had heard from you). I am forwarding your email to the individuals organizing the orientation to confirm your coming.

There will certainly be a computer and projector system for you to use.

Volunteers will be eating lunch, so you can make it as formal/informal as you'd like. We will be targeting the Ob/gyn, midwife and women's nursing volunteers but are opening your discussion to everyone, so it depends on you whether you'd like to focus on professional associations within the women's health field or open it up to all in general.

Looking forward to seeing you again!

Hi Laura. Next week sounds good. Stick with Wed or is another time better?

As of this morning there were 20 responses to the orientation survey - that is probably all we are going to get. I will send that around. And I believe the CME/CNE forms were submitted already and they will enter all the data. I will find out more but I think we have scanned copies as well if someone wanted to start compiling comments. (Our interns are done today so there is no one on this end who has capacity for it - unless Madison already had them do it.)

I can pull the COS survey data and make country-specific reports. We can check in next week about how best to disseminate to the different parties.

The individual reports already went out to the volunteers so I can make changes to the tool but I would prefer to wait until September once they start entering data. This way I can get their feedback as well and make all changes at once.

Just wanted to check to see if you wanted to have our call tomorrow. I have nothing super pressing to discuss but thought of the following (all of which could easily be done by email)

1. Orientation survey [REDACTED]

2. COS survey dissemination [REDACTED]

3. Report update/timeline

4. Fall site visits

4. MY REWARD!!!

I continue to have a very strong and successful working partnership with my counterpart and the department in general. The e-mail chain I sent you regarding the Mother's Day surprise generated the type of reaction I was hoping to get from the HOD. I am in the process of presenting my thoughts regarding their kindness and friendship in a formal write up as he requested. [REDACTED] is also learning the hard way that he needed to notify me when he will make any changes with the schedule. I was clear with him from the beginning that I have other pressing commitments on a regular basis (such as grant proposal) and if he will change the schedule on the last minute, he will have to cover my class. He learned! I make sure I communicate any or all changes to the Level II class presidents (one male and one female). So the students will also have the same level of respect as I expect from them. It works! Nobody misses my class, everyone is on time, and they found no reason to make any excuses. I encouraged them to be innovative when faced with challenges such as finances and lack of copies. When challenged appropriately, they are appreciative and can truly live up to it. I am soooooo pleased! My efforts were rewarded when I received the following What's App message from the class president:

Me: Thank you for all that you do for Level II

Class President (Memory): Thanks to you as well, you are a motivator to all of us, we now believe that we can be the best nurses, full of knowledge in what we practice, not just memorizing. God Bless.

I encouraged partnership in learning and thinking critically to break the cycle of rote learning. By encouraging them to think "why" and not relying on "Powerpoint slides" to study. You should see how they responded when I used group presentation as a teaching strategy for presenting my cardiovascular medication module. When provided with clear expectations such as a copy of the evaluation tool (handed to each group at the beginning of the semester with clear deadlines and schedule) each presentation set a higher bar to the next presenters. LOVED IT!

At this point, I am pretty content and clear about the rationale for my decision to come to Africa. I am so honored to be part of this excellent program and look forward to more invaluable experiences I could gain from this ADVENTURE.

Best regards,

Hi Irene and Florence,

I hope you're doing great and looking forward to seeing you next week! I wanted to touch base w/ you on a couple of follow up questions:

1. Do you receive these alerts from the Embassy (see the one below) Yes, the security team sends out these alerts to the Volunteers as per their discretion.. Do you have a sense of the location of the IST at this point in time? Location is (b) (6)
2. Should Eileen, Libby, Mark, and I plan to stay at the (b) (6) when we arrive on Weds, night, Nov 11th or should we plan to go to the location of the IST? We wanted to figure out if we need to arrange and hotels or transport? Sad will be arriving on Thurs night, Nov 12th- is there anything we should arrange for him? We can send flight itineraries if helpful. Yes You can sleep in Entebbe Wednesday night. Peace Corps is planning to book for Mark a hotel in Resort Hotel Mmyonyo near the IST Venue. I will confirm this as soon as I get a word from the Administration team. I requested for transport for this.
3. After the IST, Eileen and I will be planning to travel to (b) (6) . I believe that Libby and Mark will be planning to go to MUST. Do we need to arrange any transportation for this portion? We have requested for transport for these trips and they have given allocated us transport for these. Plan B wouldn't be bad.

Thank you both for everything and look forward seeing you soon!

Worldcue(R) Alert
Warning Alert -- Security

Large rallies to take place during campaign ahead of general elections in Uganda Feb. 18. Violence possible; avoid political events.

This alert affects Uganda

This alert began 04 Nov 2015 23:10 GMT and is scheduled to expire 18 Feb 2016 23:59 GMT.

- Event: General elections
- Date: Feb. 18
- Impact: Possible violence during campaign period; protests; transport disruptions

Summary

Large rallies and other political events will occur nationwide in Uganda - particularly in (b) (6) - ahead of presidential, parliamentary, and local government council elections slated for Feb. 18 (map <<https://www.google.com/maps/d/edit?mid=z0u8xRfOfxsc.kwLJXLTrnz9k&usp=sharing>>). Election-related rallies will become more frequent after the official start of the campaign on Nov. 9. Campaign events will occur on a regular basis until Feb. 16, 2016.

Some events could potentially turn violent. Ugandan police have routinely used tear gas and batons to disperse opposition supporters, and opposition figures have been regularly detained, often on spurious or questionable charges, in the past. Problems are more likely at unsanctioned events; Uganda Police Force chief Kale Kayihura has vowed to block all rallies that do not comply with the country's Public Order Management Act. Sites in ^{(b) (6)} that regularly host political events include the Kololo Independence Grounds, Nakivubo Stadium, and Mandela National Stadium. Expect transport disruptions around rally and protest sites, some of which may occur on streets and in other public areas.

Background and Analysis

Uganda's electoral commission has officially approved eight presidential candidates, including incumbent President Yoweri Museveni of the ruling National Resistance Movement (NRM). The opposition vote will be split between Amama Mbabazi, running as an independent candidate under for The Democratic Alliance (TDA), and Kizza Besigye of the Forum for Democratic Change (FDC). Although five other candidates will take part in the race, Museveni, Mbabazi and Besigye are widely considered to be the main contenders.

Despite initial intentions to rally around a single candidate, the TDA and FDC failed to agree on who should run on behalf of the opposition, as each party remained convinced that its candidate was best positioned to defeat Museveni. The split may help secure reelection for Museveni, who has been in power since 1986. Previous elections have featured localized violence, voter intimidation, bribery, and several attacks on journalists who may have uncovered electoral improprieties.

Advice

Avoid political party offices, campaign rallies, and other election-related events due to possible unrest. Stay away from all demonstrations. Allow extra time to reach destinations; be prepared to use alternate routes to avoid congestion around rally sites. Stay away from polling stations - which are mostly at schools, markets, and places of worship - on Feb. 18 unless participating in the vote.

Hi Libby

Yes we have organized PC transport! Florence will be traveling with you and Mark!

For reservations, she will use PC approved hotels.

Thanks

Hi Irene and Florence

I just wanted to check in about logistics for the MUST site visit. Will we have PC transport? And should I make reservations at the MGH Guest House for anyone? I do not remember the price off hand but can get more information. There is also the Little Woods Inn across from the Guest House ($30) if the GH is full.

Thanks and have a nice weekend

Katelyn, could we possibly use the Seed conference line for the call tomorrow. The reason I'm asking is because our line is going to be used at 10:00 EST for a call with the Minister of Health in Liberia and I don't want to have to kick everyone off the line at 10 if we are running a few minutes over.

Best,
Laura

Hi Akiiki and Irene,

No worries. I was thinking the call tomorrow or Thurs was to discuss (b) (6) but I know there have been a number of emails and a call earlier today to discuss (b) (6) so I think you all are set with a plan for your meetings there. So I don't think we need a call tomorrow.

For our regular team call, we can plan perhaps for next week when everyone is back in the office?

Thanks very much for everything. Best of luck in (b) (6) and keep us posted on how the meetings go.

Take care,

Dear Henry and Deo,

So nice to speak with you earlier today. I have spoken with Eileen, Linda and Fola and wanted to finalize travel logistics for site visits with you both. Please see below for names of Seed team members that will be joining site visits:

RN Site Visits (Deo)

- January 18th, 2016: MUHAS and HKMU
 - Participants: Deo, Eileen and Linda
- January 19th, 2016: Travel to UDom and meetings
 - Participants: Deo, Eileen, Linda and Marykate
- January 20th, 2016: UDom
 - Participants: Deo, Eileen, Linda and Marykate
 - Eileen leaves for Dar on an AM flight
- January 21st, 2016: UDom;
 - Participants: Deo, Linda and Marykate
 - Linda and I have an extra day and would like to leave Dodoma on the 21st instead of the 20th to allow for a full day on the 20th.

MD Site Visits (Henry)

- January 18th, 2016: MUHAS
 - Participants: Henry, Fola and Marykate
- January 19th, 2016: HKMU
 - Participants: Henry, Fola
- January 20th, 2016: Sengerema
 - Participants: Henry, Fola
 - Fola has a preference for visiting Dodoma in one day. Please let me know if this is feasible with the ferry schedule and what flights I should book for her on the 20th that align with your own flight plans.

Thanks so much Henry and Deo, please let me know if this outline works so I can move forward with flight bookings.

Kind Regards,
Marykate

I received the invite and have the calls on my calendar. This is the fortnightly PC/Seed call for Malawi correct?

Hi Katelyn,

Thanks, Bridget was already added to the invite list. Wasn't the invitation received?

And yes, the next call is scheduled this Thursday (11 Feb) at 9am EST.

Hello all.

I will likely miss the call as I will be in transit from (b) (6). The FM launch went well. Had the secretary of health as guest of honour with several delegates from various government departments, partners and stakeholders. (COM, CHAM, MOE, district representatives, ITECH, CDC, PIH, faculty from Scotland and Wits university who have supported the program etc)

Both COM and MOH expressed their gratitude for USG support for FM and highlighted the crucial role GHSP has played in development of the program esp the postgraduate training. Overall a mood of optimism for the growth of FM not only in terms of training but their integration into the system.

Carol and Robin took pictures and will likely share when they are back.

Thanks
 Bridget

Hi Katelyn,
 I wanted to update you on where we are at with the investigations into using the diplomatic pouch for shipments. There are size and weight criteria for each box (Mark can provide these details) and we are unsure if we will be able to estimate the bulk charge ahead of time each time, but for Carol's packages, the charge is estimated to be just under $200. It does sound like the pouch folks can take a credit card number for the billing, so if you think that Seed would be ok with providing this information (and hopefully this wouldn't be an issue that it isn't a USG credit card), then we should be able to work this out.
 One other issue with Carol's delivery is that even though Mark was initially told that the lead acid battery in the auscultation station would be ok to ship, since it is in the machine, he has now been told that is only the case for lithium batteries and lead acid are forbidden. Our thought is that the one package with the battery could be shipped to Seed (and hopefully someone could carry it over) and the other packages could be shipped to PC to go through the pouch. Let me know what you think.

Thanks.

Good afternoon, Katelyn.

The Complete Auscultation Training Station includes the SmartScope, Auscultation Practice Board and Auscultation Trainer. The Practice Board will induce the SmartScope™ to emit various sounds, depending on the stethoscope's location using the Speaker/Amplifier System. This practice will require the batteries for learning and skills. Batteries are included in packaging. You can remove the batteries at your discretion for shipping purposes beyond your approved location after delivery. Please keep in mind this will deliver FREE UPS Ground. This shipment is not available through Diplomatic Pouch.

Hi All,

In speaking with the manufacturer & the distributor and seeing how the battery does need to be removed & shipped separately if using the PC Diplomatic Pouch, it seems that it may be easiest for the distributor to just ship the entire auscultation training station & battery directly to (b) (6) (and not use the diplomatic pouch). I'm afraid we may run the risk of losing the battery or having it delayed significantly if its separate from the rest of the shipment.

We're going to plan to have the distributor ship everything directly to (b) (6) via Fed Ex. Will keep you posted if anything changes- but will plan to place the order & have it send to (b) (6). Carol and I spoke earlier today too and I have an updated shipping address in (b) (6)

Let me know if you have any questions/concerns and thanks all,
 Katelyn

Hello All,

Julie has successful delivered the pediatric IV training arm!

I am realizing that we will need a few accessories such has IV cannulas, an IV pole and a mayo stand to put it on. There is a wholesale pharmaceutical company in (b) (6) that I am hoping I can order those items through. There should still be plenty of the grant money left, even if it takes several hundred dollars to mail the rest of the order.

Can I order these items if available here and submit a receipt for reimbursement?

Thanks!

I hope this e-mail finds you well. Carol, to get you up to speed, we have been exploring the potential to place a very motivated physician, Dr. David Baras (resume attached), with a specialty in physician medicine and rehabilitation and his wife (a RPCV and potential PCR) in one of our GHSP countries this coming year. Uganda and Malawi currently have identified potential needs in this area. Towela and

Hi Carol,

Thanks very much. I wanted to touch base on a couple of final details:

1. We can move forward with the diplomatic pouch.

 2. Seed will plan to purchase these items directly & work w/ the vendor (and keep you away from being reimbursed for such a large sum).
 3. Please confirm- what is the piece that has the battery? I'm unclear and want to be sure the vendor knows what to send to Boston and what to send to PC in DC for the pouch.
 4. There were a few emails regarding estimates and pricing. Attached, please find the excel file w/ what I'm tracking as the budget for this equipment grant. Can you take a look and confirm this is accurate? I'm also attaching copies of the 2 estimates that you sent, and below is the link to the black pediatric IV arm from Laerdal that Julie is checking on.
<http://www.laerdal.com/us/item/375-70001B>
 5. Carol- do you have the equipment grant application signature page? I just seem to have the first page and wanted to confirm that your colleagues at (b) (6) have signed off on this equipment grant as well.
- Thank you all and Carol- thanks for your patience too. Brand new process and brand new systems- so thanks!!

Hi Katelyn,

I think if we can get as much as possible shipped through the diplomatic pouch we will be better off and it more likely to get here.

Our Mail used to be very timely, delivered to the university, etc., but it seems something changed toward the end of December. I have a couple of big boxes that have been in transit over two months, they won't deliver big things to the university anymore for us, want to charge large customs tariffs on our packages, etc. I think the diplomatic pouch is safer.

Thanks,
Carol

Hi Carol,

I wanted to follow up to see what your preference would be regarding the shipping of these supplies? Would you prefer to send the ones that can fit through the diplomatic pouch, or would you prefer have them shipped directly from the vendor to Malawi- I believe you had that shipping price in your quotes? I know the exception would be the one IV arm which could not be shipped directly to Malawi and would need to be carried over from the US.

Seed can help w/ the ordering of these materials. Let us know you'd like to proceed w/ the shipping.

Thanks Carol and talk to you soon,

Hi Carol,

I'm adding Katelyn so that we can talk through some of the details. Here at PC, Mark has been working on the logistics with using the diplomatic pouch for shipment and there have been 2 issues - the dimensions and weight of some of the packages (IV arms) being over the allowable, which will result in a bulk shipping charge that we have had to figure out how we can get this bill to be added to the grant, and the other issue is that although we were initially told that the lead acid battery was fine within the unit, it turns out that it is restricted from going through the pouch.

There are 5 boxes that would be shipped. One would have to be sent to Seed and carried to post (with the battery). The others could go through the pouch, but could take a month and would cost ~ $200 in bulk shipping charges.

We'd have no control over whether the boxes make it to Malawi before your training, if we use the pouch, but the sooner we ship the better chance we would have. If there was an option to bring them all over by hand, here are the details on the dimensions/weight/etc:

3 boxes for an auscultation training system:

- * 24 lbs; 24x18x11 inches
- * 25 lbs; 21x36x6 inches
- * 8 lbs; 25x11x7 inches
- * Safety data sheet notes lead acid battery

IV arms - 2 in suitcases

- * Each case is ~ 35x12x6 inches (will be in a shipping box that will be slightly larger)
- * One case will be ~ 10 lbs and the other ~ 22 lbs.
- * Each suitcase has 1 pint of liquid (fake blood)

Thanks.
Laura

Do you know when this is going to be sent out to the incoming volunteers? I know this was approved by General Council too but can Seed review before its sent to the volunteers? I know we likely can't edit much of this- but wanted to take a quick look through this week.

Thanks Laura, Bridget and all,

Just to echo what has been already said. The placement will have to be based in Blantyre since that is where the bulk of the work happens. I suggest that we work out the placements that have been communicated to currently before we can add otherwise we will have housing challenges.

Thanks,

Noted thanks Laura.

For the PT program by COM all student teaching is happening in Blantyre. They only come to Lilongwe for internship post training so for GHSP placement would have to be in Blantyre.

Hi everyone,

I'm adding Towela to this email trail so that she can be up to speed on this query into the possible placement of a physiatrist/physical medicine physician with our upcoming cohort and the COM discussions.

Do we have a sense if whether this placement would be at the Lilongwe or Blantyre campus? Towela can speak to this better, but we are pretty maxed out right now in terms of housing (at both sites), so this might only be possible if someone drops out.

COM Program (5yr program)

- BSC program started in 2009
- Bsc Program structure: 1st year – Premed (unless have A levels in which case enrol into 2nd year but majority come via Premed route) / 2nd year – Basic Medical Sciences (Foundation course for all PT/Lab and Pharmacy students) / 3 -5th year – core PT modules
- Current intake approx. 30/year had gone up to 40 a few years back bt department had found the load too much and requested reducing numbers
- Current HOD – Vivian Mkumbudzi (Zimbabwean HOD since 2013) (b) (6)
- Faculty – 3 full time, wasn't sure how many partime but potentially between 3 – 5 (some are understudies who have just qualified)

For Malawi - as highlighted in the shared documents - there is definitely a need for having a PT volunteer assisting not only with teaching but practice as well. I think what we need to figure out is how willing COM would be to accommodate a volunteer for this speciality. Quickly browsing over the site renewal application - PT was not mentioned at all (even in terms of students # etc). This might be due to the fact that we specifically asked them to rank the core specialities and potentially that PT is less prioritised anyway. That said I think this can be a great opportunity to assist improvement of a field that is for lack of a better word 'neglected', kind of like the way we are helping develop FM in Malawi.

Hi Marykate,

What a terrific addition a PM&R physician would make for GHSP! The possibility of having a volunteer work with medical and physical therapy students is exciting, and I'm writing to let you know some of what I've been able to learn about PT programs in GHSP countries, as well as some thoughts on potential placements. Thanks for making me aware of Dr. Baras and his possible placement with GHSP.

Four year Bachelor of Science Degree Programs in Physiotherapy \(Point of Contact information is available for each institution\):

- Tanzania: (b) (6) [REDACTED] (Henry is aware of this program)
- Malawi: (b) (6) [REDACTED] – Blantyre; please see attached file which includes a copy of an article with contact info I've carried around for over five years
- (b) (6) [REDACTED] of Science and Technology (MUST); please see attached file which includes an outline of the program (education and training), as well as the curriculum

While on a site visit in November 2015, Bonny and I met with the Physiotherapy Department at MUST. Below are some highlights from the meeting:

- o Bonny and Mark met with (b) (6) [REDACTED] (Head of Department) and (b) (6) [REDACTED] (Faculty/Lecturer).

- o (b)(6) began developing the program in 2007 (with just office space) and students started in 2012. (b)(6) is a UK trained PT with Africa Inland Mission and she began at MUST in 2009.
- o Degree Program: Bachelor of Science in Physiotherapy (four years).
- o Three full-time faculty; five part-time.
- o Number of students (maximum number will be 20/year):
 - First Year Students: 21
 - Second Year Students: 13
 - Third Year Students: six
 - Fourth Year Students: five
- o The first graduating class (five students) is scheduled to complete studies this spring.
- o Licensing through Allied Health Professions Council.
- o Four clinical rotations are included in the program. Two are at the hospital at MUST, one is a placement from the program, and one is left to the student to choose (this is primarily due to financial considerations and students often choose a site where they have family/relatives/friends).
- o The program has three main components: Critical thinking, evidence-based practice, and community orientation. (b)(5) (b)(6)
- o There are diploma PT programs in Uganda, but the four year program at MUST is the only BSc in Physiotherapy in the country.
- o PT placements in the country include three at each regional hospital, with one PT at the district hospital level. These are diploma level therapists, and they do the training/supervision when MUST BSc PT students do clinicals there. PTs also work at specialty hospitals, Cure Hospital (cerebral palsy, etc.), private clinics (mainly in in Kampala), and CBR (community based rehabilitation) clinics.
- o BSc students at MUST do a research project and write a thesis. Subjects have included CVA, cerebral palsy, and fitness practices/levels. Published PT research in Africa has been in South Africa and Nigeria.
- o (b)(5) (b)(6)
- o Included in the program is the plan to communicate widely regarding physiotherapy in general, its purpose and function, in an effort to build awareness. As high school students become aware of physiotherapy as a professional option, it is believed that interest will continue to grow. This is an extremely exciting time for the PT profession in Uganda.

Hi Akiiki and Irene,

Please see the email chain below regarding the potential placement of a physical medicine and rehabilitation physician at MUST. Bonny and I met with representatives of the physiotherapy department there during the site visit in November, and there was some thought that the physiatrist in the applicant pool this year could possibly be placed at MUST and be involved with medical and/or physiotherapy students. We don't know if rehabilitation medicine is a priority, and the issue has now become the timeline. (b)(5), (b)(6) (he also has an RPCV spouse) by early next week at the latest. We're not sure if this provides you enough time to contact the Dean, as Bonny suggests, and we want to contact you to ask your thoughts.

Hi Marykate,

What a terrific addition a PM&R physician would make for GHSP! The possibility of having a volunteer work with medical and physical therapy students is exciting, and I'm writing to let you know some of what I've been able to learn about PT programs in GHSP countries, as well as some thoughts on potential placements. Thanks for making me aware of Dr. Baras and his possible placement with GHSP.

Four year Bachelor of Science Degree Programs in Physiotherapy \(Point of Contact information is available for each institution\):

- Tanzania: Kilimanjaro Christian Medical College (Henry is aware of this program)
- Malawi: University of Malawi College of Medicine – Blantyre; please see attached file which includes a copy of an article with contact info. (b) (6)

- (b) (6) (MUST); please see attached file which includes an outline of the program (education and training), as well as the curriculum

While on a site visit in November 2015, Bonny and I met with the Physiotherapy Department at MUST. Below are some highlights from the meeting:

- Bonny and Mark met with (b)(6) (Head of Department) and (b)(6) (b)(6) (Faculty/Lecturer).
- (b)(6) began developing the program in 2007 (with just office space) and students started in 2012. (b)(6) is a UK trained PT with Africa Inland Mission and she began at MUST in 2009.
- Degree Program: Bachelor of Science in Physiotherapy (four years).
- Three full-time faculty; five part-time.
- Number of students (maximum number will be 20/year):
 - First Year Students: 21
 - Second Year Students: 13
 - Third Year Students: six
 - Fourth Year Students: five
- The first graduating class (five students) is scheduled to complete studies this spring.
- Licensing through Allied Health Professions Council.
- Four clinical rotations are included in the program. Two are at the hospital at MUST, one is a placement from the program, and one is left to the student to choose (this is primarily due to financial considerations and students often choose a site where they have family/relatives/friends).
- The program has three main components: Critical thinking, evidence-based practice, and community orientation. (b)(6) (b)(6)
- There are diploma PT programs in Uganda, but the four year program at MUST is the only BSc in Physiotherapy in the country.

o PT placements in the country include three at each regional hospital, with one PT at the district hospital level. These are diploma level therapists, and they do the training/supervision when MUST BSc PT students do clinicals there. PTs also work at specialty hospitals, Cure Hospital (cerebral palsy, etc.), private clinics (mainly in Kampala), and CBR (community based rehabilitation) clinics.

o BSc students at MUST do a research project and write a thesis. Subjects have included CVA, cerebral palsy, and fitness practices/levels. Published PT research in Africa has been in South Africa and Nigeria.

o (b)(5) (b)(6) [Redacted]

o Included in the program is the plan to communicate widely regarding physiotherapy in general, its purpose and function, in an effort to build awareness. As high school students become aware of physiotherapy as a professional option, it is believed that interest will continue to grow. This is an extremely exciting time for the PT profession in Uganda.

(b)(5) (b)(6) [Redacted]

Also attached is a copy of an article entitled 'Challenges Facing Physiotherapy Education in Africa' that may be beneficial for anyone at Seed who may be interested.

Thanks very much, Marykate, for including me in the discussion (b)(5) (b)(6) [Redacted]

Thanks again,

Mark

Hi Marykate

Thank you for your response

If you check my resume and references you will see I taught first and second year med students physical diagnosis and clinical examinations so I am not restricted to my specialty

Mary Jo and I certainly can wait and see if something becomes available

I just wanted you to know that my specialty involves musculoskeletal, non surgical orthopedic, neurology, sports injuries and disorders with functional deficits including stroke spinal cord amputations Parkinsons paralysis

It is common for doctors in other countries and in the USA to be unfamiliar with my specialty and what we do

Thank you for your time and consideration

David and Mary Jo

Hi Katelyn,

The logistics person working on the COS Conference in Tanzania has requested the Rooming List. Is it alright to provide names of the Seed staff scheduled to participate? If not, we could still just confirm that we have 11 rooms for Seed. Also, I'm wondering if you know at this point if everyone is planning to be there from 20 June (Monday check-in) until 24 June (Friday check-out). Laura and I are planning to go a day early (arriving Sunday night, 19 June), I believe. Also, I imagine some people would be checking out of the hotel leaving Thursday (23 June) for Thursday night flights, so I have requested that we check on the possibility of late check-outs on Thursday. Do you have any idea at this point who may be leaving Thursday night rather than Friday? The logistical contact person has been informed that we are only able to provide estimates at this point, in terms of check-out dates. Finally, do you know if there will be more than one person in any room?

Dear Mark,

It is with a heavy heart that I must decline the opportunity to the Peace Corps/Seed Global Health appointment beginning in July 2016. I have tried desperately over the last 2 months to hand off critical projects I am leading in my current appointment. Unfortunately, the severe nurse educator shortage has not allowed for an appropriate reassignment of two grant-funded projects that are critical to my School of Nursing. A serious illness of another member of my team has left me without a designee to carry on my work. My team and I have worked too hard very hard for several years and I cannot simply leave the initiatives without adequate leadership. Other people's jobs would be in jeopardy. In a perfect world, I would love to defer this Peace Core/Seed Global Health appointment for a year as 5 months is simply not enough time for me to hand off and wrap up critical mission projects with the sudden illness of a colleague. I do sincerely apologize for any difficulty I have caused for the organization.

Sincerely,

(b)(6)

Importance: High

Dear (b)(6)

As you may know, the Global Health Service Partnership is a unique program where the Peace Corps works with a private, non-governmental organization, Seed Global Health, to manage and support many aspects of the program. Although the Peace Corps manages and provides medical care during service and is responsible for medical clearance prior to service, there are times that Peace Corps has a specific need to share information with Seed Global Health, such as when a GHSP Volunteer is injured and is unable to fulfill the responsibilities of their assignment, or when the required medical services may not be available in one or any of our sites for an applicant with significant medical needs. The attached waiver is essential for Peace Corps' Office of Health Services to discuss medically confidential information with specific staff members at Seed Global Health.

Please feel free to contact us with any questions about this waiver and we appreciate you signing and returning the acknowledgement as soon as possible. Please return form to Mark Swartz at mswartz@peacecorps.gov.

Thanks for your patience while we were getting this sorted. Below are the arrival & departure dates for the hotel for the Seed team members attending the COS. Two things to mention:

1. I'm confirming whether Vanessa will have (b) (6) security personnel.
2. Bonaventure will have his (b) (6) with him for the COS. I hope that this will be okay in terms of the room reservation.
3. Bridget was going to stay until Sunday after the conference. She will be paying (like the other Seed staff)- but I wanted to see if that was possible to extend the reservation for that long.

Subject: running this by you

Hi Laura,

I wanted to run this by you & get your thoughts. Jen Lasman & colleagues at Busitema have recognized the significant gap of knowledge & instruction that medical students receive in pathology. Students received terrible marks & Jen's been seeking ways to improve this. She's been in communication with Dr. Husain Sattar, a pathologist @ the University of Chicago, which Jim Scott has put her in touch with. Dr. Sattar has shared this program. Pathoma w/ Jen and she & Busitema are very interested in getting the textbooks & online access to the videos.

Long story short- she would be asking Pathoma for a donation of 132 textbooks for the 2nd and 3rd year students. The challenge actually is going to be shipping of these text books. They are soft cover and thin. Seed is able to provide a tax donation to Pathoma for this donation- but we would need to determine how to operationize this & get the books to Uganda. (b)(5), (b)(6)

Here's the link for Pathoma:

<http://www.pathoma.com/>

If you have a chance to let me know what you think, that would be great. Happy to discuss if helpful too.

Thanks Laura and talk to you soon,

Katelyn

That would be great, Mark. Thank you! I just send the link. If you can add in the dates- that would be great. And if you have the other countries to add in too- that would be awesome! I think Laura sent me Malawi's last week, but I haven't added them in yet.

Hi Mark and Laua,

I wanted to touch base with you and ask if you had a sense of what days/times you are asking the ambassadors to join the orientation or a reception? I think we had talked about either Tues, July 12th, Weds, July 13th or Weds, July 20th. I know we were thinking perhaps a midafternoon panel and small reception. Were they emailed specific times during these days?

The reason I'm asking is that Vanessa's schedule is starting to fill up during those days and I want to at least block off time on her calendar on what was proposed to the Ambassadors. Even if its not definite- I can hold them for the time being.

Thanks Mark and Laura!

Also just wanted to check. It didn't sound like we were getting any traction w/ the Ambassadors, is that right? If anything, we were looking at Weds, July 20th as part of the closing ceremony- but even that sounds unlikely right now?

Hi Mark,

Okay! So Sorry! I'm just getting Mark and Bridget's itineraries and then I'll send them all to you! Listen, in typical Seed fashion, we had to adjust some itineraries slightly. Vanessa, unfortunately needs to leave on Weds night (instead of Thurs). She has a meeting on Thurs evening back in Boston now that she can't miss. We'll send an email to the larger group to let them know- but that would affect hotel rooms for her and the security detail.

Libby is going to be the M&E person coming. - and she's arriving on Sun night.

And Eileen is going to fly to Kenya Thurs night (instead of Fri).

I do just want to get Bridget' schedule to confirm that she still is staying until Sunday (I'm assuming she still is). So maybe hold on sending this excel sheet to post- until I KNOW all these flights are finalized.

I'm attaching this excel sheet & I've highlighted the changes. Sorry for the change in schedules. Let me know if you think this would be a problem?

Thank you very much for your assistance and for the donation of the textbooks. We are extremely grateful. We are going to have the text books shipped from Pathoma to the Peace Corps office in Washington, DC. Peace Corps will then help to facilitate the shipment of the text books to Uganda. Mark Swartz with Peace Corps is cc'd on this email and can help provide the best shipping address for Peace Corps.

Husain, do you know how Pathoma would ship the books to Peace Corps in DC? If its through Fed Ex- I can see if Seed can provide you our account number. Would you happen to know an estimate on the shipping?

Thanks very much for your time and support.

Hi Jenifer and Katelyn,

We are excited to be able to partner with you in this wonderful effort. Thank you for providing this opportunity.

We would need to invoice someone for the shipping and would require an address to which we can ship the books. In addition, we would need a list of the students so that we can set up their online access to the videos. Ideally, it would be easiest if you can provide an excel spreadsheet with first name, last name and email address.

Thanks
Husain

Yes I got the name from the Embassy and they will be paying straight.

One question, Meena said that Vanessa will need a local phone who is providing this? Is Peace Corps or US embassy?

Dear (b) (6),

Thanks for spending time talking with me yesterday. It was very helpful and allowed me to make the decision to join the Peace Corps. As per your instructions I am sending you this letter.

I am writing to inform the State Board of Medicine that I will be joining the US Peace Corps and the Global Health Service Partnership to work as a nurse midwife in Uganda for one year. I have copied in this email Eileen Stuart-Shor the Nursing Director of Seed Global Health, the medical partner of the US Peace Corps.

Please be advised that I will keep active my nurse midwife license but will put on hold my Prescriptive Privileges until that time that I return. When my CNM license comes up for renewal at the end of 2016, I will renew that application and likewise when my nursing license comes up for renewal in April 2017 I will renew that license.

My home address will continue to be my active address so any and all correspondence can be sent to me there.

My date for the RX privileges coming inactive will be August 10th, 2016.

Thank you very much for helping me with this matter.

Please do not hesitate to contact me by email if there are any questions about this matter.

Sincerely,

Julia Rasch, CNM

3. (2) 100 pks of AAA batteries - expected delivery on Monday (tracking info not available)
4. colored and white chalk

22 arriving today; remaining 42 arriving on Monday

 UPS, Tracking #: (b) (6)

5. dry erase markers pks of 4 - expected delivery on Monday

 FedEx, Tracking (b) (6)

AllHealth

3. Pen lights - delivered

Afya Foundation

4. larger shipment of both donated and newly procured items - expected delivery by Monday (I will send the tracking number to all later today)

- Blood Pressure Cuffs: Adult 70
- Blood Pressure Cuffs: Pediatric 40
- Stethoscope: Pediatric 40
- Pulse Oximeter 70
- Measuring Tapes 25
- Stethoscope: Adult 100
- Urine Dipsticks 20

On our end, we will also be handing out tote bags, Seed pins, and Seed pens. I have given Katelyn plastic ziplock bags to help package the items.

I'm also copying Marykate on this email since I will be heading out today, and she will be able to help put everything together next week with the rest of the team.

Hope this helps!

For the GHSP calls since PST will finish on Aug 11 I anticipate we can skip just the next 2 calls but will defer to Towela and Robin to further advise. Next week will be home stays so definitely skip that one.

Hi Towela and Robin,

We were so excited to wish everyone well at their closing ceremony yesterday. I'll send a picture of the group in their white coats with Vanessa and Carrie as soon as they are "processed" by our comms person.

Everyone set off today with a little excitement (after the bus didn't show up at 6 a.m. and Mark found out that it went to the St. Regis hotel instead of the St. Gregory!), but they let us know when they reached the gate (on time thankfully).

Just wanted to check in because we are anticipating you will want to skip our biweekly calls for the next few weeks, so just wanted to check when you would like to plan on restarting, so that Mark knows which ones to cancel (other than this coming Thursday☺) and which we should leave on the schedule at this point.

Also, Kathleen Messman left a couple of nursing education books at PC HQ, so Mark is sending these through the pouch for her.

Thanks so much.

Additionally, I need a verification letter that states the same from Peace Corps from the PC perspective - (i.e.. that I am a Peace Corps volunteer serving with the GHSP, a partnership between PC and SGH. Please state the dates of service July 11 2016 through our end date July ?, 2017

It would be magical if both could be in PDF attachments so I could just upload them.

I think having both will satisfy the folks at both my student loan sources.

Hi Mark and Laura

We are planning to bring Seed shirts down to orientation and wanted to get a general idea of the sizes to bring - do you have the sizes ordered for the white coats? If possible, we would like to get them packed up by Friday so we appreciate your help.

Hi Laura,

I hope you are having a good day! I wanted to let you know that I had a package sent overnight to you yesterday containing the final academic transcript needed for Janet Gross' license application for Swaziland.

I have confirmation that it has been delivered and was signed for by a (b) (6). Would you be able to make sure Zandy gets this package and include it with the rest of Janet's application materials which Aazamina gave to her earlier this week?

Thanks so much!

Hi Katelyn,

I think it is just PC stuff, but Seed could always set up at a table too if there are forms you need to hand out/have folks sign. Mark might have more insight, but I think we are handing out the debit cards and PCR might be handing back personal passports.

Mark, can you make a name tag for Calla and Bella?

Hi Mark,

I hope you are well despite what I am sure is a very busy time at the Peace Corps office!

We were planning on handing out Seed Global Health t-shirts at closing ceremony and realized that we might be a bit short on a couple sizes. To get them in time for end of orientation, we plan to ship them to the PC Headquarters. Katelyn told me that it would be alright to include your name along with the PC headquarters address. Does that work for you?

Also, do you know what time UPS shipments arrive at the office? Just want to guarantee that they will get there in time.

Thanks!

Hey Laura and Mark. We have been looking at different grant application platforms (more details to come) and plan to introduce it at Orientation and have volunteers set up their profiles. So we wanted to make sure they could actually access the sites!! Can you check the links below and see if they work? [Everything is still in draft/testing stage and we haven't selected a platform, so the final version will probably look very different]

Any one of these

Hi Mark,

Are you dropping off folders to the hotel tomorrow? Do you know what time? Just thinking about the bios for the Seed team & the volunteer maps and bios- which I'm going to send to you in a few mins.

Thanks!!

Hi Bonny,

We also placed an order for short-sleeved coats this year, per a request from some of the volunteers in really hot areas, so Mark requested measurements from the extending volunteers so that they could get these. (Jen opted not to, though, because she said it wouldn't be appropriate for (b) (6))

These coats were back-ordered, so I don't think that we have received them yet. Mark is out for 2 weeks, but should be able to give an update on ETA when he is back, but if you can let Robert know that we haven't forgotten him that would be great.

Best,

Hi Mark,

Thanks. For now, Marykate is not going to be on the TZ team calls. She's going to be focusing on overall MD program manager support (rather than having a country specific focus- like she did last year). And Aazamina will be doing the same thing on the nursing side (so she won't be on the Liberia calls). I'm going to be acting as the chief liaison w/ PC and these calls. A new structure we're testing out for this upcoming year :)

Thanks Mark. Hope you have a great long weekend and take care!!

Hi Mark,

Random question-do you happen to have any of the business card templates that have been made for GHSP volunteers? Perhaps specifically the COM in Malawi? We're creating some for calla/bela and were going to try to model similar ones as GHSP. If you don't (or if they were made directly in country)- no worries and no need to track down. Just wanted to check.

Thanks Mark and talk to you in the AM,

RE: FOIA Request No. 16-0179

Dear Mr. Greenwald:

This is in response to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, assigned case number 20-0030. You requested the following: "the remaining documents for 16-0179 that were not released."

We reviewed the remaining responsive records provided by Global Health Service Partnership (GHSP), the Office of Global Health and HIV (OGHH), and Peace Corps Response (PRC). The remaining documents, totaling 436 pages, were reviewed for final disclosure to you. Certain information is withheld pursuant to 5 U.S.C. §§ 552(b)(5) and (b)(6). Exemption 5 protects internal communications which are deliberative and pre-decisional. Exemption 6 protects information of which the disclosure of such information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

If you are not satisfied with this response, you may contact me as the Peace Corps FOIA Public Liaison. Additionally, you may contact the Office of Government Information Services (OGIS) at the National Archives and Records Administration to inquire about the FOIA mediation services they offer if you are unable to resolve any initial disputes with this office. The contact information for OGIS is as follows: Office of Government Information Services, National Archives and Records Administration, 8601 Adelphi Road-OGIS, College Park, Maryland 20740-6001, e-mail at ogis@nara.gov; telephone at 202-741-5770; toll free at 1-877-684-6448; or facsimile at 202-741-5769.

You also have the right to submit an administrative appeal to the appellate authority within 90 business days of receipt of this letter. Please address the appeal to Francisco Reinoso, Associate Director – Management, Peace Corps, 1111 20th Street NW, Washington, DC 20526. An appeal can be submitted by U.S. mail to the listed address, by fax at 202-692-1385, or by email at foia@peacecorps.gov. Your appeal must include the FOIA request number and a statement explaining the reason for your appeal. Clearly mark “Freedom of Information Act Appeal” on the letter and envelope, email subject line, or the fax cover sheet.

Hi everyone,

I also have been working with the 3rd Goal Office this week to do mass postings on Facebook. There are hundreds of private RPCV groups on Facebook. They range in membership from the thousands (nearing 10,000) to the hundreds. This morning they posted to 30 groups, and will continue to do a more. The groups were:

- 1) country specific Africa RCPV groups
- 2) "friends of" groups (Africa)
- 3) PC Family and Friends (one of the biggest)
- 4) Peace Corps Journey (also huge)
- 5). RPCV groups of various titles for most major cities ie New York RPCVs, Maryland RPCVs, RPCVs of Baltimore, with a focus on east and west coast

Keep in mind that we're not just hitting RPCVs but perhaps more importantly, or as importantly, their friends and family. Parents!!

Dear Laura, Mark, Mike, and Joye,

Hope your week is off to a good start! Aazamina and I are very much looking forward to seeing you later this week and spending some time discussing improvements and strategy for application and recruitment processes in the coming year. We arrive Thursday morning and will plan to meet you at the PC offices around 9:00.

Ahead of our meetings, we wanted to take the opportunity to outline some agenda items we hope to explore during our time with you. We hope we can dive deep on Thursday and Friday and really produce some tangible strategies we can begin acting on jointly for recruitment and applications moving forward.

1. 2015-2016 Recruitment and Application Cycle Overview

- Aazamina and I presented the attached PowerPoint slide deck to our team during the retreat. We would love to have the opportunity to present this to you all prior to diving deeper into discussions
- Discussing trends over time
 - Attached you will also find some literature we have found helpful to get a better understand of the distribution of physicians and nurses on a national level.

2. Recruitment

- Sharing of planned recruitment activities events between now and June 2016
- Discussion of the Seed and PC budgets for GHSP recruitment
 - How can we use our resources and strengths in the most efficient and collaborative way?

- Joint Strategy for the January 1 -December 31, 2016 recruitment cycle targeting the 2017- 2018 GHSP cohort
- Reporting - Annual Indicators
- Communications, GHSP word mark and joint partnership materials
 - Impact on recruitment and establishment of joint guidelines on use of partnership branding in recruitment efforts
 - Understanding PC communication policies around use of partnership word mark and ways to make approval processes more streamlined
 - Development of partnership recruitment materials
 - GHSP communication standards, GHSP statistics, etc.
- Engaging our Alumni in Recruitment
 - How have we included them to date and how do we best work collaboratively with them in the future?
 - Providing current volunteers opportunities while they are still on the ground so they can take the lead on writing conference abstracts and help with recruitment for the next cycle.
 - See attached list of GHSP alumni who have identified an interest helping to support recruitment
- Other Opportunities for Targeted Recruitment
 - Distribution of GHSP case reports to global health residencies?
 - Engagement with diaspora communities in US

3. Applications

- Overview of the 2015-2016 Cycle
 - Review of process changes made
 - What worked, what didn't and how can we continue to improve as we anticipate a growing applicant pool?
 - Outlining and strategy for application process for the coming year
- Application changes for the upcoming cycle
 - Application edits (see attached)
 - Opportunity to meet with the PC DOVE point person overseeing the application structure
- Finalizing an application timeline for the upcoming cycle
 - Targeted application open and close dates. What makes the most sense?
 - Application Process Structure
 - Should applications continue to be rolling?
 - Would having a 1st and 2nd round of applications (similar to MBA programs) be more effective and efficient?
- Reporting - Annual Indicators

Please let us know your thoughts on the above! Again, looking forward to seeing you all soon!

Warm Regards,
Aazamina and Marykate

Ugh! Dropping like flies! Happy for them but very disappointed for us and for Liberia.

I am doing a couple sites visit for UCLA in the Amazon but will have access to email again Monday afternoon and be back in LA Tuesday afternoon if we would like to discuss.

I guess I should reply to her but will need a little time to process. Let me know if we want to relay any particular messaging.

Hope you guys are well!

Hi Laura and Mark,

Please see Marykate's request below, regarding PC taking on a portion of the in-country medical licensure work. I thought you could mull this over, over the weekend, and we could collectively discuss during the Monday meeting. (I had an opportunity to talk to Tom during today's GSHP PCR meeting.) We'll share our thoughts on Monday. But in general, I don't have a strong sense of the work that's involved, so it's hard for me to evaluate 1) the workload and 2) whether from an efficiency standpoint it makes sense to spread the portfolio across multiple offices/people, particularly when Seed must make last-minute placement/country changes, which are inevitable.

I checked the cooperative agreement for any mention of which organization is responsible for the work, as MK implies that it's entirely within our court, but didn't see it.

Thanks,

Additional Seed Interviews

Would you be comfortable with some of the Clinical Directors moving forward with additional interviews and scheduling for those you have not scheduled interviews with yet if they have the time over the holidays? For example, Fola reached out to me saying that it will be challenging given her service schedule to do a lot of interviews in the latter half of January, so she would love to try to schedule all remaining IM physician interviews very soon. Wanted to touch base with you first.

In-Country Licensing Process

I also wanted to touch base with you today regarding the license process. Historically, this process was intended to be housed at Peace Corps, however in the first year of the program Seed took it on and has continued to do so ever since, working with Post directly on this on-boarding piece.

As the program has grown both in number of volunteers and in countries, this on-boarding piece is becoming much more time consuming and complex. Now with (b) (6) on board, I wanted to see how you might feel about dividing up gathering the licensure documents by country between you, me, (b) (6), Aazamina and potentially (b) (6). If we each managed a country, it could really help speed this process up. That being said, I absolutely recognize that you all are responsible for many on-boarding items, and are also often stretched thin, so if you think this is not something that is realistic at this time given bandwidth, please let me know.

Thanks so much Joye (b)(6)

Best,
MK

Dear Peace Corps Colleagues,

I wanted to share with you Seed's plan to engage in a several month strategy process. We are hoping to help define Seed's 3-5 year strategy to better guide our M&E, investments, growth and development. We will be working with an experienced non-profit consultant to help us execute the process and with a goal to be done by the Spring.

Part of the process will rely on understanding the impact we would like on the ground and the local priorities of our stakeholders there. We know there are national strategies in most if not all the countries but we want to get guidance on exactly what the implementation of the strategy should look like and how we can contribute. The process will involve engaging stakeholders at all levels including Ministries and our institutional partners.

I have asked our Country Representatives in Tanzania, Malawi and Uganda to lead this effort in their respective countries; we are still thinking through the approach in Liberia and Swaziland but hope for these latter countries some of this work can happen as we do site visits. We will carry out the strategic process in two phases: at the institutional/ ground and at the governmental/ organizational levels. Our thought was to coordinate with our institutional partners and stakeholders when we are already on site visits, as planned, to avoid any additional fatigue. For our higher level stakeholders, we hoped for our Country Reps to start conversations now, though.

We are hoping to do launch our effort over the next month; we welcome any participation in which you would be interested and will certainly share our learning and ideas!

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you so much

Hi Tom,

(b)(6) is the one pending MD in the GHSP applicant pool. We have been waiting for him to make a decision between (b)(6). He had promised to let us know by May 7, and a few weeks ago I shared with him the timing issue with legal clearances, and gave him a deadline of May 11 (which would be two months before GHSP's EOD date.) Before I let him know that we'll need to have a final decision by May 11, I wanted to check with you. It's my understanding that this is an agency wide policy. I anticipate that we might get pushback on this date. Can we hold firm on May 11?

The only hard deadline that we have on our end, which is a relatively new one (across all Peace Corps assignments): we can't extend invitations less than two months prior to departure, due to the timing required to obtain final medical and legal clearances. For GHSP assignments, this would be May 11. In the last year, we have seen a dramatic increase in the time needed for legal clearances. This is really the main issue—medical clearances are less of an issue with GHSP volunteers ☺

I am reaching out to you because the Global Health Service Partnership has the potential opportunity in 2016 to send a small contingent of nurses and physicians to Liberia. A final decision on this, however, will not be made by the Peace Corps until mid-March 2016.

Although a final decision regarding the Liberia opportunity will not be made until mid-March 2016, we would like to consider you for the group that we would send to Liberia. We therefore wanted to gauge your interest and commitment to serve in Liberia should the opportunity be approved.

If you are interested, I would like to schedule an informal 30-minute call for you to discuss this potential opportunity in greater depth with Seed Global Health's Chief Medical Officer, Dr. Sadath Sayeed, and our Peace Corps Recruitment Specialists, Joye Wagner and Mike Robie, sometime over the next few days.

Below are a couple of days and times that are open. Do any of these work for you? If not, let me know what works for you and we can go from there. Please provide a few options so that we can be sure to accommodate your availability. Note that all times listed are EST.

Subject: Response to The Daily Caller Article Published Today
To: James.Rosen@foxnews.com

Dear Mr. Rosen,

It came to my attention today that you reached out to staff at the State Department for comment on an article that appeared on the website The Daily Caller News Foundation, concerning the the Secretary of State and the non-profit organization Seed Global Health.

The article contained a number of erroneous and inaccurate claims, and I wanted to provide you with more context on those reports. Despite the allegations of the article, no conflict of interest exists in our partnership with Peace Corps and the US government.

For the record and to clarify the false statements, Dr. Kerry's father, Secretary of State John Kerry, has had no role or influence in the decision making for the Global Health Service Partnership either in the Senate or at the State Department. The process of developing the public-private partnership adhered to full governmental procedures and policies, was transparent, and involved interagency and Congressional approval. The Peace Corps, the Office of the U.S. Global AIDS Coordinator, Seed Global Health, and the very memos cited in the article, are on record as describing the origination of the partnership as responding to a federal mandate to train 140,000 healthcare workers globally. The funding for the program was subject to Congressional oversight by a subcommittee (not including Secretary Kerry at any point) and, as per all programs under the President's Emergency Plan For AIDS Relief (PEPFAR), Congress was given 10 days to review or comment on the requested appropriations where no objections were made. The use of the word "collusion" in the article is entirely false and slanderous.

Further, Dr. Kerry's salary cited from the IRS 990 was erroneously reported as begin drawn from Seed. Review of the 990 will show that Column D is where Dr. Kerry's compensation from Seed would be included, and this column is zero. The compensation reported was from column E and column F, labeled "other compensation" and related to Dr. Kerry's role at Massachusetts General Hospital. Dr. Kerry receives no financial compensation directly from the Peace Corps or US government.

Seed is a non-partisan, non-profit, 501(c)3 organization with a mission to strengthen health education and delivery in places facing a dire shortage of health professionals by working with partner countries to meet their long-term health care human resource needs. Seed provides technical expertise to the Global Health Service Partnership and works closely with Peace Corps in areas of volunteer recruitment, training, and support. Seed specifically works in the areas of medical, nursing, and midwifery education focused on human resource capacity building, making it different than other non-government organizations. The Global Health Service Partnership has trained over 10,000 doctors, nurses and midwives over its first three years through the public-private partnership. Our plan is to make our partner countries self-sufficient so we are no longer needed and US aid and development money can ultimately be reduced.

Additionally, Seed is the only organization that provides debt repayment for US doctors, nurses, and midwives to serve internationally, something Seed does entirely through private philanthropy. Over the eight-year period of the public-private partnership agreement, Seed will raise an additional $23 million through its own effort in private philanthropy to support the program. Part of this funding is to help support the Americans serving in the program with debt repayment. By the end of this year, Seed will have helped offset $3.5 million of debt for 147 US physicians, nurses, and midwives through private funding so that the volunteers can donate a year or more to working in a resource poor setting.

A partnership between the Seed and the US government represents the best of the public and private sectors – to establish the most effective and efficient program of its kind.

Given the early success of our model, we have expanded to two additional countries this year, at the request of the local country leadership, to train a total of 21,000 doctors and nurses in the next 3 years. Additionally, data shows that working abroad increases a health professionals likelihood to work with underserved specialties and underserved populations here in the US when they return.

It is regretful that Mr. Barton didn't spend the time to research and his editors didn't check his claims, before printing the article. We will be demanding the Daily Caller News Foundation retract this article.

Thank you for reviewing this information, and please let me know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Mark Marino

FYI,

We did our event with Sen Markey in DC during orientation. He is now an enthusiast. They want to visit Seed/GHSP in Liberia. Phil called me tonight (in addition to multiple emails today) to make sure it can happen. I re-explained our deep partnership with Peace Corps which he thought was a brilliant example of a public-private partnership and the best of all worlds. I also warned him it is early in our volunteers' time there but the principles of what we are doing and the need are evident. I shared with him that Kevin would be the key to understanding our work and an outstanding Ambassador for the program. They are eager to connect on GHSP as well as to see the broader PC program.

On background, we have asked Sen. Markey to consider ways to champion loan repayment for international service on the hill so highlighting Seed's role in the public-obovate partnership and the power we can help bring to leverage this program would be helpful (within the bounds of what is obviously acceptable). Kevin, since we have no one not he ground, you are the Ambassador! Please let me know if I can help with any talking points. I know you are all over this and completely champion the program. :)

I am going to broker an intro between Phil and Kevin now at Phil's request. He is determined to get GHSP on the itinerary.

Vanessa,

It was great to meet you at your Seed Global Health event a couple of weeks ago. As Senator Markey mentioned he is leading a CODEL trip to Cabo Verde, Senegal, Liberia, and Nigeria, departing this Saturday. The itinerary has been in flux for the past couple of weeks due to uncertainty about (b) (6), but that is resolved now and we are firming up the plans. He would very much like to promote Seed in places where you have programs and include your people in his itinerary. Please let me know if you have any opportunity to discuss this tonight or tomorrow. Thank you.

Subject: GHSP landing page

Hi Leslie,

I have a question for you. I would love to send a landing page out to all of the “friends of friends” groups, similar to Seed’s, to advertise the program and the application closing. Would it be feasible for you to rebrand it and place it on our own landing page by early next week? If we can’t send out the application webinar link, we could easily swap that for the alumni panel webinar, which is better anyway (and captioned). I can write all the text, and reshift the focus to PC, and switch the links. I’ll rework what MK has done, and if you could just convert it to a landing page, and change the logo, that we be awesome!

Do you think we could complete this together to send around by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week? I already emailed Karen Hayes to put the feelers out for emailing our friends of friends groups.

Best,

Joye

Thanks Leslie for forwarding that onto her, once Lien approves the FAQ.

Original:

Can I serve for less than a year?

The Global Health Service Partnership's focus is on long-term capacity building in medical and nursing education. We ask for a one year commitment because our volunteers are appointed as faculty in institutional departments for a full academic year. Together with local faculty, our volunteers share both classroom and clinical bedside teaching duties and serve as mentors for the learners they teach. Sustainability in medical and nursing education is best achieved through consistency in teaching and a long-term investment in relationships that our year-long positions promote.

I'd like to see the edits but don't feel that I need to sign off on the edits if they are in line with language that we are generally using for the program. I did take a quick look at the suggestions yesterday and one change that I noticed (from the Seed team) was a request to remove "sub-Saharan Africa" because Liberia isn't in SSA. We can take out SSA if we want to simplify and just say 'Africa', but just thought that we might want to give Daisy the feedback that Liberia is part of SSA.

I've taken the final, OGC-approved version of the one-pager and accepted all the changes, so that we can start with a clean slate. I'm going through it now to incorporate those Seed edits that I think add value. I'll email it back to the group for everyone's review, and will separate out the one FAQ for Lien. After we hear back from Lien, you can then send it to Daisy. In the interim, I'll explain to Marykate what's happening during our weekly call, which is tomorrow.

I forwarded to you the email that Anne Passmore sent out yesterday with changes to MS 285. These changes allow PCRVs who serve two consecutive years to get NCE.

Noncompetitive eligibility for RPCVs with respect to Peace Corps staff positions is covered by MS 601, para. 8.0. There is no need for any further action in respect of PCRVs who obtain NCE by completing two consecutive one year appointments.

Hi Bill, I do not believe the MS states anything about PCRVs who serve for two consecutive one year assignments are eligible for NCE status. If I am wrong on this, please let me know.

On the issue of whether the Director has authority to give PCRVs NCE preference when applying for staff positions at the Peace Corps, perhaps Jan Miller can chime in. In the meantime we will also draft some bullets for consideration.

On the first issue, I thought we had done that with the change in the Manual Section. Anyone who is appointed (either by way of an initial appointment or an extension of an initial appointment) to a term of service of at least two consecutive years is now eligible for NCE.

On the second issue, I'm not sure what you have in mind.

Bill, did we close the loop on the 2 year question?

Also, Jan Miller suggested that we provide some language for the SPC to consider so that PCRVs could receive NCE preference when applying for a PC staff position because that is within the discretion of the PC Director. Is that something we should move ahead with? If so, what are your thoughts on the length of NCE status for PCR vols who may have varying lengths of service. I am not sure whether giving NCE preference for less than a year will be very significant given how long it take to apply and be selected and vetted for a position.

We are happy to come up with some language for consideration for the SPC if that would be helpful.

We're going to check with OLC that they do not disagree, but the answer should be that PCRVs are eligible for NCE if they satisfactorily complete 2 years of service.

Jennifer,

Thanks again for helping organize the panel on the Global Health Service Corps at the CUGH Conference. I think its a great program and your presentation got more people interested. Peace Corps taught me more about global health than any degree program I could have done, so I am glad you guys were there!

I think working out the Noncompetitive Eligibility (NCE) would help recruit more MDs interested in staying at least 2 years (since I think its required you complete the 2 years service in PC to get the NCE status, or less if deemed appropriate by the PC Director), and help them potentially stay in the government system. NCE would be very helpful for someone looking to go work for the NIH, CDC, USAID and could be a huge recruiting point. Working out the details on the NCE could be very important for the future of your program.

Here is more information on NCE:

<http://www.peacecorps.gov/resources/returned/nce/>
<http://www.peacecorps.gov/resources/returned/carres/ncefag/>
<http://www.archives.gov/federal-register/codification/executive-order/11103.html>

I would think the details of bringing a family will also be helpful in recruitment. Where they would live and estimated out of pocket expenses etc. I am excited to follow the roll out of the program this year!

Thanks so much again and it was really nice to meet you!

Cheers,

Hi everyone,

Thanks, Laura. Please find below an outline of options for our GHSP learning exercise. I look forward to discussing in more detail on Friday.

Kind regards,
Clelia Anna

2016 – 2017 GHSP Learning Exercise Options

Option 1 (Recommended Option)

- A targeted exercise to learn more about GHSP outcomes in Malawi, Uganda and Tanzania, and increase our understanding of behavior change (e.g., norms, attitudes) and other changes in the learning environment to which GHSP has contributed.
- GHSP Monitoring, Evaluation & Learning (MEL) team would contract with a short-term consultant that has developed a methodology to capture qualitative outcomes. That consultant and her team of in-country data collectors would help us to gather and map the data. She would then work with the GHSP team to identify key learning.

Option 2

- GHSP MEL team would contract with 1 to 2 in-country data collectors (per country) to capture program learning in the five GHSP countries. Data collectors would spend approximately 1 day at each site to conduct participatory sessions with two key groups – students and counterparts/faculty. Data collectors would facilitate sessions using a participatory qualitative methodology – such as Most Significant Change (a participatory process where stakeholders generate stories of significant change as a result of the program and they themselves select the most significant of these stories) or PhotoVoice (a group analysis methodology using photography).

Option 3

- GHSP MEL team conducts interviews and focus groups with key stakeholders (students, counterparts/faculty) to capture program learning, similar to previous years.
- Given the increase in number of sites and volunteers since last year, this is no longer a viable option given staffing and bandwidth of the MEL team.

Two months is PCR's internal deadline for close of invitation as this is the time we need to get legal and medical clears on average. Ultimately the goal is not to have invitees being cleared at the last minute. I will swing by when I get to the office.

Hi Tom,

(b)(6) is the (b)(6) in the GHSP applicant pool. We have been waiting for him to make a decision between (b) (6). He had promised to let us know by May 7, and a few weeks ago I shared with him the timing issue with legal clearances, and gave him a deadline of May 11 (which would be two months before GHSP's EOD date.) Before I let him know that we'll need to have a final decision by May 11, I wanted to check with you. It's my understanding that this is an agency wide policy. I anticipate that we might get pushback on this date. Can we hold firm on May 11?

Hi (b)(6)

I hope you are well! This email is just to touch base, to see whether any movement has occurred on your end. Not to rush you, but rather to make sure we didn't fall off your radar. The only hard deadline that we have on our end, which is a relatively new one (across all Peace Corps assignments): we can't extend invitations less than two months prior to departure, due to the timing required to obtain final medical and legal clearances. For GHSP assignments, this would be May 11. In the last year, we have seen a dramatic increase in the time needed for legal clearances. This is really the main issue—medical clearances are less of an issue with GHSP volunteers 😊

Dear (b)(6)

I am reaching out to you because the Global Health Service Partnership has the potential opportunity in 2016 to send a small contingent of nurses and physicians to Liberia. A final decision on this, however, will not be made by the Peace Corps until mid-March 2016.

Although a final decision regarding the Liberia opportunity will not be made until mid-March 2016, we would like to consider you for the group that we would send to Liberia. We therefore wanted to gauge your interest and commitment to serve in Liberia should the opportunity be approved.

If you are interested, I would like to schedule an informal 30-minute call for you to discuss this potential opportunity in greater depth with Seed Global Health's Chief Medical Officer, Dr.

Sadath Sayeed, and our Peace Corps Recruitment Specialists, Joye Wagner and Mike Robie, sometime over the next few days.

Below are a couple of days and times that are open. Do any of these work for you? If not, let me know what works for you and we can go from there. Please provide a few options so that we can be sure to accommodate your availability. Note that all times listed are EST.

- Thursday, March 10th
 - 10:30 a.m. - 11:00 a.m. EST
- Friday, March 11th
 - 1:00 p.m. - 2:00 p.m. EST

Once all is confirmed, I will send you an official notification of your conference call time and details. Thank you again for your interest in the Global Health Service Partnership and I look forward to hearing from you.

Warm Regards,
Marykate

Subject: RE: PCR spouses

Hi Joye,

I think that might have been miscommunicated because we definitely were sending CVs for the spouses to country before the GHSP spouses were notified of their placements, just because the posts need time to develop these positions and find partners. Post doesn’t tend to need to communicate with the volunteer at the start of the process, so we wouldn’t need to worry about it being awkward if they are discussing a site and the GHSP spouse hasn’t been informed yet. Sometimes they will come up with a couple of options and want to have these run by the PCR spouse, in which case we’d need to make sure that they are at that point aware of where they would be placed (but I don’t see this being an issue). It looks like there are a few unknowns at this time, but if you could get a couple of definites sent to the posts, this would help them start the process –

(b)(6) for (b)(5), Malawi – send to Towela Nyika (PM) and Robin Namoto (Support Asst)
 (b)(6) for (b)(6), Tanzania - send to Henry Meena (PM) and Avelina Lereu (Support Asst)
 (b)(6) for (b)(6), Uganda – send to Irene Atuhairwe (Support Asst) and Florence “Akiiki” Bitalbeho (PM)

I don’t know if Mike had started this or if there is anything in the application that would be useful, but it would be nice to send the posts a couple of sentences of what the candidate feels their strengths/job skills are.

Thanks and I’m happy to discuss further too.

Vanessa

Vanessa

At the farewell party that HKMU gave for me when my family arrived at the end of my service, I promised that I would return to complete some unfinished projects. Now is the time for me to honor that commitment.

Prof. Godwin Ndossi kindly sent a letter to the Florida Board of Medical Examiners to help me to renew my medical license for the next 2 years. Although my original intent was to apply for a limited license requiring volunteer service in a non-profit, I subsequently applied for and received an unrestricted license. (see attached letter)

One of the two unfinished projects for which I would like to return is to test a bank of questions that I am developing based on Mabey's Principles of Medicine in Africa. I left 20 copies of this recent textbook in the HKMU library and gave a few more away when I left. The study questions with updated references are intended to teach essential competencies appropriate to the common diseases and resources available to practicing physicians at district hospitals and outpatient clinics in Tanzania. I obviously cannot complete this task myself without the expert advice of my faculty colleagues and the feedback of students in the classrooms at HKMU. The Turning Technologies Audience Response System that I left at HKMU should be useful in refining the questions. Variations of the questions could be used on the final examinations to assure that students are prepared in medicine for their internships after graduation.

My second goal in preparations this year is to be sufficiently proficient in Kiswahili to supervise a medical student's patient interview without translation. I actually have more time for study in Duluth than I had as faculty at HKMU. When I have expanded my vocabulary, a student from Tanzania at one of the local colleges here has offered to help me with practice sessions. The other goal for learning Kiswahili this year is to understand as well as sing the words to the hymns when Prof Esther Mwaikambo invites me to attend the KKKT church services with her.

With an invitation from HKMU, I intend to return for the second semester of the 2016-2017 academic year (March to July 2017) since this is the busiest time for the Department of Medicine with the start of the Clinical Methods course for the second year medical students adding to the full academic year responsibilities for the third and fourth year classes. I can come on my own and stay with friends, but extending my previous service with Peace Corps Seed GHSP (after an extended sabbatical) has several advantages including coordination with the other Internal Medicine faculty from PC/Seed.

In your email of July 16, 2015, you wrote that "We are honored you would like to contribute. We will plan to keep you in our small group of volunteers available for specific projects/issues for which we need experienced help!" I will take you at your word for the offer and ask if now is an appropriate time to apply.

I have sent this email to some of the other people in Tanzania with whom I have corresponded in the last several months and who have supported the plans that I have outlined in this email.

The study questions with updated references are intended to teach essential competencies appropriate to the common diseases and resources available to practicing physicians at district hospitals and outpatient clinics in Tanzania. I obviously cannot complete this task myself without the expert advice of my faculty colleagues and the feedback of students in the classrooms at HKMU. The Turning Technologies Audience Response System that I left at HKMU should be useful in refining the questions. Variations of the questions could be used on the final examinations to assure that students are prepared in medicine for their internships after graduation.

Subject: Response to The Daily Caller Article Published Today

To: James.Rosen@foxnews.com

Dear Mr. Rosen,

It came to my attention today that you reached out to staff at the State Department for comment on an article that appeared on the website The Daily Caller News Foundation, concerning the the Secretary of State and the non-profit organization Seed Global Health.

The article contained a number of erroneous and inaccurate claims, and I wanted to provide you with more context on those reports. Despite the allegations of the article, no conflict of interest exists in our partnership with Peace Corps and the US government.

For the record and to clarify the false statements, Dr. Kerry's father, Secretary of State John Kerry, has had no role or influence in the decision making for the Global Health Service Partnership either in the Senate or at the State Department. The process of developing the public-private partnership adhered to full governmental procedures and policies, was transparent, and involved interagency and Congressional approval. The Peace Corps, the Office of the U.S. Global AIDS Coordinator, Seed Global Health, and the very memos cited in the article, are on record as describing the origination of the partnership as responding to a federal mandate to train 140,000 healthcare workers globally. The funding for the program was subject to Congressional oversight by a subcommittee (not including Secretary Kerry at any point) and, as per all programs under the President's Emergency Plan For AIDS Relief (PEPFAR), Congress was given 10 days to review or comment on the requested appropriations where no objections were made. The use of the word "collusion" in the article is entirely false and slanderous.

Further, Dr. Kerry's salary cited from the IRS 990 was erroneously reported as begin drawn from Seed. Review of the 990 will show that Column D is where Dr. Kerry's compensation from Seed would be included, and this column is zero. The compensation reported was from column E and column F, labeled "other compensation" and related to Dr. Kerry's role at Massachusetts General Hospital. Dr. Kerry receives no financial compensation directly from the Peace Corps or US government.

Seed is a non-partisan, non-profit, 501(c)3 organization with a mission to strengthen health education and delivery in places facing a dire shortage of health professionals by working with partner countries to meet their long-term health care human resource needs. Seed provides technical expertise to the Global Health Service Partnership and works closely with Peace Corps in areas of volunteer recruitment, training, and support. Seed specifically works in the areas of medical, nursing, and midwifery education focused on human resource capacity building, making it different than other non-government organizations. The Global Health Service Partnership has trained over 10,000 doctors, nurses and midwives over its first three years through the public-private partnership. Our plan is to make our partner countries self-sufficient so we are no longer needed and US aid and development money can ultimately be reduced.

Additionally, Seed is the only organization that provides debt repayment for US doctors, nurses, and midwives to serve internationally, something Seed does entirely through private philanthropy. Over the eight-year period of the public-private partnership agreement, Seed will raise an additional $23 million through its own effort in private philanthropy to support the program. Part of this funding is to help support the Americans serving in the program with debt repayment. By the end of this year, Seed will have helped offset $3.5 million of debt for 147 US physicians, nurses, and midwives through private funding so that the volunteers can donate a year or more to working in a resource poor setting.

A partnership between the Seed and the US government represents the best of the public and private sectors – to establish the most effective and efficient program of its kind.

Given the early success of our model, we have expanded to two additional countries this year, at the request of the local country leadership, to train a total of 21,000 doctors and nurses in the next 3 years. Additionally, data shows that working abroad increases a health professionals likelihood to work with underserved specialties and underserved populations here in the US when they return.

It is regretful that Mr. Barton didn't spend the time to research and his editors didn't check his claims, before printing the article. We will be demanding the Daily Caller News Foundation retract this article.

Thank you for reviewing this information, and please let me know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Mark Marino

Thanks for all your work on this Joye. I agree with you on the 2 conferences if they make sense for our team to attend in terms of workloads and price- I think a joint presence is always better than just them or us. The timing of those could be tough for us, but if we planned ahead we could make it work! As for the budget, I would guess that if we showed these to Laura and said that Seed suggested them, she would sign off on them without asking many questions.

Subject: Seed's conference list--just need a few minutes of your time

Hi folks,

Attached is Seed's conference list with my comments inserted for each conference.

There are four conferences on the list that we've paid for: ACNM, APHA, ASTMH and AAP. Their questions are 1) whether we would like to pay for any additional ones, or 2) help staff a Seed-purchased booth.

The "Priority" conferences are a priority, and the secondary conferences are lesser priority.

See what you think (it should only take a few minutes), and I'll give a report out on Monday's meeting. To be clear—this is not to be confused with our conference planning moving forward (the sheet that Tom and Brianna will build). Right now we're only looking at any additional conferences to consider, beyond what we've already committed to for this program year. Per my inserted comments, after reviewing the list, I identified two conferences to consider (NONPF and AACN), depending on the cost and everyone else's thoughts.

Thanks,

Joye

Hi Joye,

I am so sorry that I was not able to send you this sooner. This is a running list of conferences the nursing team is considering. We are currently working on paring this list down so it fits within our overall recruitment budget. This list includes both opportunities to disseminate information/data on GHSP via abstract submissions as well as exhibit/booth space for more more traditional recruitment.

Please let me if there are any nursing-related conferences PC would like to 1) sponsor a booth at and/or 2) help with staffing a Seed-purchased booth. We are also trying to get GHSP alumni more involved with participating this upcoming fall. Hope this helps with your discussion at 4pm today.

Hi Joye,

Thanks so much for your e-mail. Aaz is actually out of the office today but will be back in the office tomorrow. I can jump in here briefly. We are still in the process of finalizing our conference lists for the physician and nursing teams (I believe nursing has made more headway than physicians given vacation/service schedules), so it may be tough to get a final comprehensive list to you by tomorrow COB, however we could likely give you rough estimated list if that would be helpful for your meeting.

Let us know.

Thanks,

Hi Joye,

So good to see you, however briefly, in that other Washington!

I thought I'd check with you to see if you received the ACNM 2017 booth exhibit information to register for next year.

The website may be found at <https://www.multisoftevents.com/ACNM17/Exhibitors/BoothRequestForm.aspx>

I thought this year's exhibit was well-visited, and certainly generated lots of interest in the GHSP. The booths tend to sell out quickly.

Please let us know if you have questions, and best wishes for the rest of your summer.

Thanks,

Linda

Hi Lesley, Laura, and Joye,

I hope you all had wonderful weekends!

Marykate and I just looked over the style guide together and wanted to discuss a few things with the three of you. Do you have some time later this week that we could get on a call to go over it? Does Thursday after lunch work?

Thanks!

Carrie and team,

I am removing Vanessa and her assistant from this chain and adding Ken, Carlos, Joe, Marie and Tom for awareness. Vanessa's request is something that we should discuss internally. Jeremy and I just quickly chatted about this. Due to the unique nature of Peace Corps' single line item budget it is within our jurisdiction to decide to fund GHSP associated costs with appropriated $. The question is do we want to shift away from PEPFAR funding. It would be helpful if we collectively discuss if that is something we want to pursue prior to external engagement.

As I think you all are aware, Dick/Laura and Seed staff are currently in Liberia this week conducting the assessment if conditions are appropriate for a GHSP entry to Liberia this July. We are anxious to receive the report out as we are in the thick of recruitment and placement decisions for the 2016 group.

Can this group meet in the near future to discuss GHSP planning post Obama administration? There are a number of pieces that I would like to talk through: staffing needs, succession planning, external engagement and long term sustainability. The program has had great success over the years and it is very much on OGO's mind of how we can keep the momentum moving forward. We are tentatively planning to place more than 70 GHSP Volunteers in our 2016 class – that is more than DOUBLE our 2015 class. It is a very exciting time.

Thanks,
Kate

Hi Marykate and Joye,

I realize that you probably have a full agenda already for your call today, but at some point I'd be really interested to hear if you have a chance to discuss the 'wait list' message that was used this year and any feedback and sense of whether or not this was useful for retention.

Thanks for all your dedication to making the application process better and more efficient each year!

Subject: Re: today's call: application timeline

Hi Joye,

Thanks very much for your e-mail and outlining the below. In terms of the following dates, we have consensus from all regarding the below:

May 15, 2016: Applications open for summer 2017 departure

June 1, 2016: Peace Corps begins conducting interviews with competitive candidates on a rolling basis

August 1, 2016: Seed Global Health begins conducting second-round interviews on a rolling basis

November 25, 2016: Application deadline for summer 2017 departure

I would like to hold on any further discussions of other dates and process details for our 2 p.m. call today until I have time to touch base with the wider teams here. However, a few initial thoughts from my lens on our process:

1. You very rightly noted that the majority of our applicants can be more "type-A" and that providing them with distinct dates can help mitigate the challenge of calls and e-mails requesting updates. The flip-side to that is that by providing distinct dates, these applicants will also hold us to those dates. As such, we need a wider commitment from the entire team (PC HQ, Seed HQ, Seed & PC in-country reps, and our partner institutions) around invitation extension and placement notification dates as it relates both to our on-boarding process and volunteer/partner institution satisfaction.
 - o In our current process, invitations and placements are primarily dependent on two main things (and we cannot do one without the other):
 1. Receipt of site applications from partner institutions
 - Laura and Katelyn refined the site application this year to include sections where institutions have the opportunity to outline their long-term needs and goals over the next 3 years. This should also help us have a better understanding of placement needs earlier for this cycle, however it will be important to touch base with them both and Post as to whether, with this newly collected information, the site application process will still be a necessary element this year and the potential deadline for our partner institutions to complete this.
 2. Pre-medical clearance
 - There really have not been many limitations for the incoming group in terms of medical clearance which is I know due to the great efforts of the PC medical team. That being said it is hard to preliminary place individuals until we have a sense of where they can go and I know that PC medical cannot make these decisions without the necessary paperwork from applicants.

- This year we tried to get more people through the process faster by having Mike interview everyone as they applied. We learned that while it helped to get the HHF forms completed faster, it caused problems for Angie and her team in terms of knowing which applicants to prioritize.
 - I think we can easily do a better job of organizing the priority applicants this year, especially as we will have the nursing team (the larger cohort) review resumes prior to you interviewing them

2. Laura's suggestion of identifying PCR couples earlier is a fantastic one, so as much as that is possible I agree it would help with appropriate GHSP/PCR combo placements.

Thanks again Joye for outlining this and I will plan to loop back with once I have the chance to share your below collective points with the larger team.

Thanks,
Marykate

Hi Marykate,

During today's call, in addition to discussing the communications plan, it would be helpful to discuss and consider the application timeline in general. Kate, Tom, and I have had some discussions around the advantages of setting more definitive dates, beyond just the opening and closing date. I'm curious to hear your thoughts, and that of your team, on the proposed timeline below.

Application Timeline for 2017 GHSP Volunteer Class*

- May 15, 2016 – Applications open for summer 2017 departure
- June 1, 2016 – Peace Corps begins conducting interviews with competitive candidates on a rolling basis
- August 1, 2016 – Seed Global Health begins conducting second-round interviews on a rolling basis
- November 25, 2016 – Application deadline for summer 2017 departure
- January 1, 2017 - April 1, 2017 – Invitations are extended on a rolling basis
- April 10, 2017 – all invited candidates are notified of their country of service

*Please note, this timeline may change and will be updated as needed.

Here are some of the factors we are considering:

- A significant number of applicants email or call with questions on timing, throughout the entire application process. This will always be a challenge, but the specificity of listing dates -- as opposed to months -- will cut down on the number.

- While this may be a gross generalization, we are dealing with type A personalities that want to get into the weeds on everything. More information is better, earlier is better, and the more specific the better. An invitation is the strongest retention tool that we have. The earlier we can begin and complete inviting candidates, the better.
- Applicants withdraw for a myriad of reasons. For some candidates, there comes a point when they can't wait any longer. With the current withdrawal options in Dove, we can't capture this reason in our data, but will begin doing so when Dove 2.0 rolls out in 2017.
- This year the passport and visa process was separated, due to the late timing of country placements. We can't process visas until countries placements are determined. For this reason, unlike with the two-year Peace Corps program and PCR, we instruct GSHP applicants to apply for their Peace Corps passports earlier, in advance of the visa application, rather than wait and process them both at the same time.
 - This creates much confusion, overly complicates the process, and doubles the amount of administrative work.
 - It's also more costly, with double the amount of prepaid mailing labels. Before the program doubled in size this was manageable, but with 100 + invited applicants, it's no longer sustainable.
 - This year we sent 98 prepaid return mail labels for the passports, and will send another 64 prepaid return mail labels out for the visa. Approximately 40 packages were mailed to applicants that subsequently withdrew from the process.
 - If we processed them at the same time, photos would be less of an issue. Because candidates would be relinquishing their passports closer to the program start date, fewer applicants would choose the DS-11 (which results in photos stapled to passports). I'm confident that with a combined process, we could collect enough photos for Seed to use for the licensure.
- A definitive "know by" country placement date would help applicants to better prepare, and ask fewer questions. It would provide them with a specific date by which to plan around, and cut down on the number of emails and phone calls we receive regarding "When will I know where am I going?" followed a few weeks later by "Do you know yet where I'm going?"
 - If helpful, we could notify candidates of their specific site placement later. Just determining the country would be a huge improvement to the current process.
- Laura has also expressed a need for couples placements to be determined earlier for the next cohort. Our hope is that if we (PCR) identify couples earlier, and get names to you earlier, your team can then prioritize accordingly. Couples present significant challenges to post—both in terms of finding work for the PCR spouse, and finding housing to accommodate a couple.

I'm looking forward to our call, and discussing some of the benefits and challenges to changing the timeline for the 2017 cohort.

Subject: Additional to-do

Dear Dick, Sarah and Marie,

I wanted to touch base on a few things floating out there/ on the to-do list:

- 1) Global Fund: Mark Dybul has asked me to put his teams in TZ, UG and MW in touch with a GHSP person to have the GHSP person help advocate for funding from GFATM funds. As you know these funds are now determined by technical groups on the ground and it is key to have a stakeholder at the table. This might be an important source of supplementary fundings and I wanted to make sure we moved on this quickly (He is pining me b/c he says he will lose the window). Please let me know if you want to discuss and/or if you have immediate ideas of how to do this.
- 2) PEPFAR and Liberia: Marie, did you want to give PEPFAR the heads up about CHAI's Liberia plan or would you like me to. I would like to connect with them about it as well but wanted to check with you about how you wanted to protocolize [sic] this.
- 3) MGH Fellowship: I wanted to send out an email to the volunteers to share with them their new academic status to be certified at the end of their service. I will draft an email and send it to you for approval of the wording? I know we are walking the tightrope :) I would also like to ideally do some press (MGH publications, Seed website posting and a Seed newsletter inclusion) and wanted to make sure you would be okay with it. We will also clear this with you before hand.
- 4) (b)(6) I realized in our effort to acknowledge our mutual concern with (b)(6), perhaps we did not leave the opportunity for you to give specific feedback. We are planning on speaking with her next Wed so please feel free to email any examples and/or call to touch base. We definitely want to nip this in the bud and are honestly frustrated and surprised by a lot of this.

Thank you!!

Malawi: November 12-14 with arrival on the 11 OR December 3-5 with arrival on December 2

The GHWA Forum in Brazil is November 10-13.

After orientation, we will need to firm up the IST dates and begin to think about content with posts and length of training.

Dear Dick, Carrie, Marie, Laura and Kate,

I wanted to share with you a publication Seed was asked to steward on the Global Health Service Partnership's first year results. It is now in print in World Population and Health which was just released. Available at: <http://www.longwoods.com/content/24313>

It is currently has the top billing on the WHO's Global Health WorkforceAlliance website in advance of the UN General Assembly.

Thank you for your hard work and efforts to help bring this entire program to life.

Vanessa –

Per the note below, I have been asked to ask you to the next MEPI Symposium in Harare, July 13-16. I realize that is orientation time for GHSP but I will ask anyway. Is there anyone you would like to represent Seed, if you can't make it. I, of course, would be happy to do it but your suggestion to that effect might help.

Dave Ries did a nice job representing Seed at the Beyond Flexner conference. The conference was terrific. (b) (6) etc. What's not to like? (b) (6) was there. Good conversation about GME, AHCs, and reform.

Family practice docs are a huge recruitment need for us because they are so versatile and their skill set so needed. GLOBAL HEALTH

November 2014 Newsletter

This Thanksgiving, we thank those whose support helps us to improve health care delivery in resource limited settings.

We know that each individual can make a lasting impact to improve global health. With every student tutored, class taught, and curriculum developed, each of our physician and nurse volunteers are helping strengthen the future of health care delivery in Malawi, Tanzania, and Uganda. But we know it takes more than these clinicians.

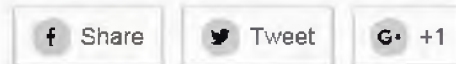

It takes you.

Become an agent of change this holiday season and help Seed raise $30,000 - our cost to send one doctor or nurse abroad to educate and mentor hundreds of future doctors or nurses. Starting on Giving Tuesday (December 2nd), a global movement to encourage charitable giving, and lasting through the month of December, you can help us reach our goal in the following ways:

Dear Caroline,

Thank you so much for taking a moment to speak. As we discussed we would plan for the funds to be allocated to each of our eleven sites with Global Health Service Partnership Volunteers. The funds would be used to invest in core medical and nursing teaching tools to enhance educational outcomes at the sites and improve the training outcomes. We would envision each site developing a brief proposal outlining 1) their training equipment/resource needs 2) the potential beneficiaries of the resources 3) their planned use. The proposals would be developed by the in-country faculty/sites with support from GHSP volunteers. We see this as an opportunity for collaboration. Dear (b)(6)

Thank you so much for taking a moment to speak.

To help outline our hopes for JSI's help, I wanted to provide a summary. Seed Global Health requested funds from PEPFAR to make direct site infrastructure investments to support the Global Health Service Partnership. Our intention is to use the funds to buy core medical and nursing teaching tools to enhance educational impact at the sites and improve training outcomes. We requested $10,000 per site for 11 sites, then later determined we should further subdivide two sites between Mds and RNs for a total of 13 sites (see below). We received $110,000 in funding for a total of $9,166.66 per site.

We have asked each site to develop a brief proposal outlining 1) their training equipment/resource needs 2) the potential beneficiaries of the resources 3) their planned use. The proposals would be developed by the in-country faculty/sites with support from GHSP volunteers. We see this as an opportunity for collaboration. Seed Global Health would help evaluate the appropriateness of the proposals and if acceptable, they would be approved.

In discussion with Peace Corps and PEPFAR, it was determined the funds should be sent to USAID who would then ideally work with a procuring agency to acquire the requested equipment and resources. We would like to request that JSI play this procurement role. We would send the site requests to JSI for purchase, and JSI would then seek funds from USAID for payment. The equipment would then be delivered to the site directly. USAID has indicated that JSI would be able to determine which "JSI project" would be best suited to do this. I am hoping this is where you can help us solve a problem/hurdle in this whole process.

Subject: PEPFAR budget check-in

Dear All,

I wanted to check in on the PEPFAR budget submission. I know it is for sometime mid-month. I was hoping to see what exactly is being submitted (numbers, a single all encompassing number, a narrative, a combination of the above) and also how and if we are angling our narrative based on Ambassador Birx and Carrie's very positive discussion.

I know we sent on to you our anticipated, all costs accounted budget but I was hoping we might be able to discuss how this fits in to the global budget. Or does that come later?

As you can see, I am a bit foggy on the process and was hoping for some clarity.

Thanks all and I hope the African Leaders Summit is going well.

Vanessa

Thanks Laura for sending out this lengthy email and explanation. We fully realize we submitted a large budget. When we originally discussed developing the new budget, PC suggested to us we develop our "wish list" dream budget from which to work with and then we would figure it out from there. I very much want to make sure you realize we developed our current submission in that spirit knowing there would be negotiation. The exercise is helpful though because it does illustrate the true costs for Seed and our fundraising burden to make this program work with the quality it will need to have an impact. Many of this would be/ are things Seed pays for on our own but which are essential to making the endeavor efficient and maximizing the program.

I realize we are under the gun to get a budget in and I would appreciate a call with you all to discuss this. It is candidly hard for us to drop to 20-25% of the running budget when we are expanding countries. We will look hard at this internally though in the next couple of days but from the costings we have done so far, there is a proportional cost increase per country for us as well that goes beyond just increasing stipends. When might be good to talk?

Thank you all.

Hi Vanessa,

Thanks for the question (and sorry for the delay in responding). I do think that we will need to have another small group discussion about the Seed funding request, but it might be good to get a revised budget of needs that would span the 4 years first. There are a few things to consider when revising this and we can meet about this to discuss first, if you would prefer. Marie believes that our ongoing funding request can be submitted into the HOP in October and has received indication that this can be in the amount communicated over the summer when talks of expansion started, which was for $15 million.

This is only $5 million more than our initial 3 years, but will include a proposed 2 more countries and 12-16 volunteers per country. The one pretty constant per unit item in the funding mix is the cost per volunteer, so that will take up a good chunk of the additional funding. Given this constant and increasing cost, adding the ~ $2 million/ year for 3 years that was submitted for the Seed budget (that needs to be reworked to cover 4 years) would put us well over the total amount (it would end up being ~ $8 million) and also take up over half of the total amount and does not include any direct volunteer costs.

In reworking the budget, I think it would help to keep in mind that initially, Seed's award was for ~ 2 million for years 1-3, but then was increased to a little under 3 million for years 1-3, which equates to about 30% of the original funding from OGAC. This increase was accomplished by curtailing the number of total volunteers (which initially was supposed to go from 36 to 48 to 60). Since the increased volunteer costs will now have to take a larger percentage of the total funding for years 4-6, it would make sense to keep Seed's costs below 30% of the total funding and close to 20-25% would allow the program to continue to grow in the way that we envisioned as a team.

However, since you will need to stretch this over 4 years (with the 4th year being projected as a potential 'draw down' year, so potentially lower costs), one proposal is to use any carryover funds from the years 1-3 total funding (which we anticipate will be around $1 million) to add to the Seed budget to cover that additional time.

Let us know if you want to go ahead and do a new mock-up of the budget or if we should schedule a call to discuss first. We will want to move on this as quickly as possible, since we are anticipating that we will be making a HOP submission this month, but don't know when precisely this will happen.

Just as a disclaimer, though, anything we discuss/review/submit at this point is unofficial and subject to change and won't be official until after we receive funding and go through the process of having the required documentation completed with contracting here.

Best regards,
Laura

Thanks so much Michelle. I figured someone else needed your attention at the end of the call ☺. Let me know if you don't get a response from Joseph or need any additional follow-up on this.

So, to get us moving on the budget talks again for years 4-6, I'd like to request a couple of things.

- Since the agreement ends in Sept 2015, but the years 4-6 budget would need to take us through 4 years to include the last year in the field and draw down period, could you submit a budget for this time period (Sept 2015 until August or Sept 2019 – based on when we think the final wrap up would occur), keeping in mind that the last year could potentially be the last year of the program and therefore would be a draw down year as recruiting, site placement coordination, orientation, etc would not occur that last year. (You may want to add a caveat that if funding continues this would require additional funding and do 2 different projections for that last year.)
- Could you also add some more specifics to the budget items, for instance breakdown on the salaries being funded, travel plans, etc., as well as a narrative for budget line items or sections that are increasing with some additional information on these costs (sort of a justification or explanation of specific need being addressed)? Although we are planning to increase our numbers in years 4-6, we also should be developing efficiencies as the program matures, so we just want to make sure that the increases are justifiable and also that the cost per volunteer remains reasonable.

Thanks for your help and feel free to call if any of this does not make sense.

Hi Laura,

Great to talk to you today! Sorry I sounded weird at the end of the call, a line of people was forming in my cube!! LOL!

Below is the email I sent to Joseph. I will let you know what he comes back with.

Attached is the narrative for Q3 that was submitted with the Form 270 & 272 back on July 31. It has my name on it, but Vanessa and the staff put together the narrative stuff. I'm the money person :)

Thanks for your help on and patience with me. I've been in the private sector over 30 years and the government reporting is new territory for me. Any guidance you would like to give me is much appreciated!

Begin forwarded message:

Dear Joseph,

I'm the new Director of Finance and Administration at Seed Global Health. I have taken over the duties of Jennifer Goldsmith and I need a clarification on our agreement number PC12-5-001 with the Peace Corps. This agreement was issued under ^{(b)(6)} back in Sept of 2012. I understand she is not the Contracting Officer and that you have taken over her duties.

The agreement's period of performance is Sept 10, 2012 - Sept 9, 2015. We submitted a 3 year budget with a fiscal year ending in Sept in the years, 2013, 2014 & 2015. The total award was $2,859,808 broken down as follows:

Year 1 - $ 650,00

Year 3 - $ 1,100,540

When I met with the Peace Corps office in July, I was informed that we could not roll funds that weren't spent from one year to the next. We could roll the advances forward, but if we did not spend the full $650,000 in year one (which we did not) or funds from year two, we could not roll these funds to year three. I've been through the agreement and I'm new to government contracts, but I could not find the language where this is stated. We would like to be able to use the unused funds from Year's 1 and 2 to roll to Year 3 and would like to know what we need to do to make this happen if possible.

You can contact me at the numbers below if you would like to discuss more.

Thanks in advance.

PEACE CORPS' AND SEED'S PROTOCOL AND APPROACH FOR GHSP VOLUNTEERS

IN THE EVENT OF EBOLA OR MARBURG AT ONE OF OUR SITES

October 29, 2014

Dear GHSP Volunteers,

We wanted to explain our policy/approach to and address concerns regarding the global Ebola outbreak and recent suspicious cases of possible Ebola or Marburg virus in several GHSP sites. We know many of you have been eager to hear more from us; we have been monitoring all reports closely, evaluating the risks to all the GHSP sites and to each of you, and formulating how best to respond.

The safety and security of Global Health Service Partnership Volunteers is our top priority. To date, there have been NO confirmed cases of Ebola in Malawi, Tanzania and Uganda where GHSP works.. Though there have been a few suspected cases at Gulu, Mbarara and Sengerema, the Uganda cases tested negative; Sengerema's case was not tested for some reason. There has been one confirmed case of Marburg in Uganda but no subsequent cases. As many of you already know, viral hemorrhagic fever (VHF, including Marburg and Ebola) is endemic in Uganda and Tanzania is vulnerable to imported cases. Prior outbreaks have been addressed effectively in these countries.

Epidemiology and Peace Corps' Response

As of October 28, 2014 five African countries have active Ebola cases: Guinea, Sierra Leone, Liberia, Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and Mali. Nigeria and Senegal had previously reported confirmed cases but both are now considered Ebola-free (at least 42 days without a reported case).

The current Ebola outbreak in West Africa began in March 2014. Peace Corps announced its decision to evacuate Volunteers from Guinea, Sierra Leone and Liberia on July 30, 2014and subsequently suspended the programs in October when it was determined that the epidemiologic situation prevented the return of traditional PCVs. Volunteers were vigilantly monitored upon their return home. Peace Corps Post staff are remaining in Liberia, Guinea and Sierra Leone and are helping to support USG operations to contain and combat the epidemic. Mali confirmed its first case several days ago, and that patient has passed away. There are currently no plans to remove Volunteers from Mali, however, we are monitoring the situation closely and conducting a training on recommended precautions for these Volunteers this week. (Peace Corps has not had a program in the DRC since it closed operations in 1991.)

We will be following up with you on each GHSP country's preparedness activities to date. Of note, because of Uganda's prior extensive experience with VHF, it has formalized protocols in place.

GHSP Specific Protocol

If there is a suspected case of VHF at your site:

1. You will be required to step back from ALL clinical care while awaiting case confirmation. Information in the early stages of an outbreak is often incomplete or even inaccurate, and we need to be particularly cautious while awaiting case confirmation.

2. Please report the suspected case immediately to your GHSP Program Manager (PM) and/or Country Director, if unable to reach your PM. (Peace Corps will report the suspected case to the CDC if your site has not already done so.)

3. Please indicate whether you had direct contact with the patient or not.

4. If you had direct contact with the patient, we will ask you to self-quarantine at your residence while awaiting confirmation of the case.

5. Your GHSP Program Manager and/or Country Director will be in contact with you about case confirmation and next steps.

If there is a confirmed case of VHF at your site:

1. We ask you to immediately remove yourself from clinical care, even if this is your patient and you wish to continue to care for them. Your safety is paramount, and we need to ensure you have the proper training and equipment to be able to provide care in a way that is safe for you, patients, and colleagues in the community.

2. We will immediately evaluate the best course of action for the Volunteers at that site, which may include mandatory evacuation from the site, service interruption if the Volunteer were to feel unsafe continuing to serve in the face of confirmed Ebola, or continuing to serve in that site in a support role. Our decision will be informed in part by our assessment of the site's safety to manage VHF, the country's preparedness and ability to respond and input from the CDC, WHO and other responding agencies. Please note, your sense of safety, and your willingness to continue working are also critical factors. . We would ask that you please let your GHSP PM and Kiran Mitha know now your current thinking so we can help plan for possible trainings.

3. We understand that as healthcare professionals, you might feel compelled to remain to provide patient care or be involved in training or infrastructure support. While a final decision has not yet been made on the issue, it is unlikely that a GHSP doctor or nurse would be permitted to treat patients with known VHF. As the epidemic in West Africa has shown, there are many variables in our operating environments that raise the risk of accidental exposure to Ebola, even for those well trained and equipped. Nonetheless, the care of non-Ebola patients can be strained at a health care institution dealing with Ebola cases, so there could be an important support role that a GHSP Volunteer could play in his/her institution. However, we would want to ensure that the institution has comprehensive training on treatment and care of VHF patients and training on and access to specialized PPE (personal protective equipment). We are currently looking into organizing specialized trainings and procuring full VHF PPE.

4. If anyone feels unsafe or concerned at any time and would prefer to leave their site or GHSP, we encourage you to let us know and will support you to make whatever decision feels appropriate.

We encourage you to continue to follow universal precautions and use available personal protective equipment when evaluating all patients including gloves, masks, and, when appropriate, faceshields. Please advise your Program Manager immediately if you are running low on PPE supplies or have any concerns about the quality of your available PPE.

Please ensure all blood samples are treated with the utmost caution and awareness. Please do not draw blood from a VHF-suspected patient. There are specific guidelines on handling the blood, and testing will likely need to be run off-site and possibly even out of country.

Education, Training and Preparedness

We are interested in exploring expanding Ebola education and preparedness at our sites through GHSP. We will be providing CDC-led education for our Volunteers at each of the upcoming ISTs; Malawi has just had theirs. We look forward to working with you in exploring how to best integrate Ebola, Marburg and VHF training at each site. We thank those of you who are already engaged in country and site efforts.

Thank you all for your remarkable service and commitment to your work. Peace Corps and Seed will continue to closely monitor the regions where GHSP sites are located for potential cases of Ebola or another viral hemorrhagic fever that arise and will stay in close communication with you all. We encourage you to raise any country-specific questions and concerns with your GHSP Program Manager, and we are here to support you and to field any broad issues or concerns.

Sincerely,

Vanessa, Dick and the GHSP entire team

Appendix

Ebola is spread through direct contact (e.g., through broken skin or through mucous membranes of the eyes, nose, or mouth) with blood or body fluids of a person who is sick with Ebola or with objects (e.g., needles, syringes) that have been contaminated with the virus. For all healthcare workers caring for Ebola patients, PPE with full body coverage is recommended to further reduce the risk of self-contamination. Assessments of the availability of PPE and access to trainings are ongoing in each country.

Presentation of Ebola:

- Fever
- Severe headache
- Muscle pain
- Weakness
- Diarrhea
- Vomiting
- Abdominal (stomach) pain
- Unexplained hemorrhage (bleeding or bruising)
- Rash
- Difficulty swallowing
- Hiccups
- Spontaneous miscarriage

Symptoms may appear anywhere from 2 to 21 days after exposure to Ebola, but the average is 8 to 10 days.

Recovery from Ebola depends on good supportive clinical care and the patient's immune response. People who recover from Ebola infection develop antibodies that last for at least 10 years.

Personal Protective Equipment for Ebola:

The PPE required for Ebola care is very comprehensive and intensive. It requires detailed training and supervision for use, decontamination, removal, and disposal. The critically needed protocols for PPE are part of the reason why we insist on not allowing you to provide care to VHF patient unless you have undergone this training.

The CDC guidance stresses the following key principles:

- Prior to working with Ebola patients, all healthcare workers involved in the care of Ebola patients must have received repeated training and have demonstrated competency in performing all Ebola-related infection control practices and procedures, and specifically in donning/doffing proper PPE.
- While working in PPE, healthcare workers caring for Ebola patients should have no skin exposed.
- The overall safe care of Ebola patients in a facility must be overseen by an onsite manager at all times, and each step of every PPE donning/doffing procedure must be supervised by a trained observer to ensure proper completion of established PPE protocols.

In healthcare settings, Ebola is spread through direct contact (e.g., through broken skin or through mucous membranes of the eyes, nose, or mouth) with blood or body fluids of a person who is sick with Ebola or with objects (e.g., needles, syringes) that have been contaminated with the virus. For all healthcare workers caring for Ebola patients, PPE with full body coverage is recommended to further reduce the risk of self-contamination.

For detailed information:

- <http://www.cdc.gov/vhf/ebola/hcp/procedures-for-ppe.html>
- <http://www.emoryhealthcare.org/ebola-protocol/ehc-message.html>
- http://app1.unmc.edu/nursing/heroes/ppe_posters_vhf.cfm
- http://www.who.int/csr/resources/publications/ebola/filovirus_infection_control/en/

To protect healthcare workers during care of an Ebola patient, healthcare facilities must provide onsite management and oversight on the safe use of PPE and implement administrative and environmental controls with continuous safety checks through direct observation of healthcare workers during the PPE donning and doffing processes.

Blood testing (from CDC website):

Ebola virus is detected in blood only after the onset of symptoms, usually fever. It may take up to 3 days after symptoms appear for the virus to reach detectable levels. Virus is generally detectable by real-time RT-PCR from 3-10 days after symptoms appear.

Specimens ideally should be taken when a symptomatic patient reports to a healthcare facility and is suspected of having an Ebola exposure. However, if the onset of symptoms is <3 days, a later specimen may be needed to completely rule-out Ebola virus, if the first specimen tests negative.

A minimum volume of 4mL whole blood in plastic collection tubes can be used to submit specimens for testing for Ebola virus. Do not submit specimens in glass containers or in heparinized tubes. Whole blood preserved with EDTA is preferred but whole blood preserved with; sodium polyanethol sulfonate (SPS), citrate, or with clot activator is acceptable. It is not necessary to separate and remove serum or plasma from the primary collection container. Specimens should be immediately stored or transported at 2-8°C or frozen on cold-packs to the testing facility.

Vanessa, thanks for sending this. I wanted to mention that last week we had an internal meeting with Carrie and Paul Jung and Carrie asked that we consider going outside of PC to get the proper training the GHSP Volunteers would need if they were to suddenly find themselves in a situation where there was Ebola. The idea behind this is twofold-- it would be a protective measure to prevent unforeseen harm to the Volunteers but could also be training that is then taught to the local physicians and nurses and especially useful to them if the Volunteers had to leave. We remain in agreement on the protocols that you state in the attached document but also think that additional training may be needed. What is Seed's position on this as we would look to you to assist in coordinating with CDC and MSF to determine next steps.

Additionally there is a good piece in today's Washington Post that talks about CDC's appreciation of the PC staff still on the ground in Liberia, SL and Guinea, particularly their relationships with local leaders, clergy and police officers and their knowledge of the local dialect and customs.

Dear Dick,

Please find attached an updated version. We received feedback from the Malawi IST and the volunteers are very eager for an official statement and policy from GHSP. They have a lot of questions. Based on this feedback, the specific questions and scenarios laid out, we revised our letter to the volunteers. I do think it needs to go out ASAP. There is some information we should fill in including where each country is in its preparedness and activities.

Please see attached. I am available Monday to finish this with you and hopefully send. Sad and Pat, please send edits and thoughts as well.

Bonny shared this amazing story with me and the nurses at (b)(6) upon his return from visiting Jean in (b)(6). We were all very moved and inspired by this life saving and teaching moment. A young man, his family and the students by your side are forever changed. You are making a difference Jean!

Thank you for Bonny for keeping us focused on these moments!

 GHSP Team,

I had the privilege of witnessing a life changing GHSP moment during our site visits last week and thought it would inspiring for you to have a feel of the great work our Volunteers are doing in the field.

GHSP Volunteer Jean Mensz (copied) is based at (b)(6) which treated up to 250 Ebola patients in the year 2000. She does about 70% bedside teaching and 30% didactic instruction. We had dinner with her and she was going through a difficult time emotionally and questioning if she is really having any meaningful impact at her site. The next day, we had a 45 minute break between meetings and decided to shadow her on a ward round.

She was leading a team of eight 3rd year medical students and a medical officer rounding in the high dependence unit (HDU). The patient on the next bed suddenly had a change in breathing pattern and shortly after stopped breathing. The team immediately started resuscitation; the medical officer grabbed an oxygen concentrator, two students grabbed the ambu bag and tubing ... For 5 minutes everyone was plugged into the process but the patient wasn't breathing.

The Medical officer then asked to call off the resuscitation - "we will not get him back" - he mumbled as he removed his gloves and walked away.

Jean calmly chimed in: "I think I can still feel a pulse. Let's give it one more try. Why don't you grab some adrenaline?" She proceeded to reposition the patient with the help of the students and instruct one on how to bag as she placed the mask. Two minutes later, the medical officer arrived with the adrenaline but the patient had already regained a strong pulse and was breathing on his own. The CPR was successful!!

They proceeded to discuss the treatment plan and pathology of the patient. This was a 25 year old HIV patient who had just been started on treatment one month ago. He was reacting to two of the drugs and was also showing signs consistent with TB. His peasant brother is currently taking care of him but they are financially constrained and his nutrition is also very poor.

A note was written to (b)(6) hospital to change his anti retro-viral therapy and address some of the socioeconomic constraints. The team planned to meet the next day, process the experience and formulate a code that could be adopted by the hospital.

This was a great example of clinical care in teaching context, modeling holistic patient care, clinical leadership and importantly how GHSP contributes to HIV care/PEPFAR goals. CPR is not necessarily part of HIV care but its a critical skill which determined whether this HIV patient lived to see the next day. Good quality health worker pre-service training forms the foundation for disease specific interventions.

Join me to celebrate Jean's service to the population of Uganda.

Best,
-Bonny

Hi Vanessa, Sad and Pat—

I wanted to give you a quick update on the comms front. Erika Brown (PCR comms) and I will be visiting Malawi before the COS conference next week. We will be doing a communications visit to KCH to film and photograph the currently serving GHSP vols. This visit is still evolving but we plan to hire a local videographer and photographer to assist in producing imagery of the volunteers. We are excited about capturing the incredible work they are doing in (b) (6).

We plan on gathering materials to help communicate “a day in the life of a GHSP volunteer” – highlighting the following areas:

- Housing
- Community life
- Classroom setting
- Clinical setting
- Counterpart interactions
- Student interactions

We are working through all the details at the moment: copyright, consents, the contract, communicating with vols, post, etc.

Let me know if you have any questions or if anything in particular comes to mind that we should highlight.

Subject: Budget discussion

Dear Dick and Sarah,

We wanted to touch base with you in anticipation of the budget discussion on Tuesday with Laura, Marie, Krista and Eric. We feel it is vitally important that both of you participate as the leadership team in decisions about the proposed submitted budget and we want you both to understand how we are justifying the budget we are requesting. We are admittedly concerned that this discussion is happening so close to the deadline that it leaves little time to come to consensus. It is not clear having a budget discussion with the PC team on Tuesday will yield much productivity if we don't reconcile some tough issues over the weekend.

Laura's email proposed Seed come closer to a 20-25% total budgetary request for the $15 million. We have also heard that the total we should/could shoot for might be around $4.5 million for the 3 year extension. You will see based on our attached sheet that despite further cuts we have made, we are requesting close to $7 million, leaving a significant gap of at least $2.5 million between PC's request and Seed's projection.

Most of our expenses come in the form of salaries for existing and anticipated new hires. We believe every single of one of the positions is justifiable and that the salaries staked to these positions are not excessive - in fact, we purposely have picked mid-level salaries for such positions for non-profits of our size. Our position is - if we intend to grow to more countries and manage more volunteers - in order to do our work effectively with good people and not stretch an already thin staff any further, we have to make a few new hires. We are happy to go line by line on each of these positions and discuss precisely what each person does or will do for Seed and how s/he directly contributes to the mission of GHSP. Please note that our Regional Director position (currently occupied by Kiran) and a Chief Development Officer position are not included in the budget for salaries.

We have also broken down travel expenses for the 3 years. We again anticipate some push back from PC's perspective - and we are happy to discuss how and why each of the trips is justifiable - if it is our intention to grow to 2 new countries and more volunteers.

Lastly, we want to flag the other, arguably MOST critical piece of the budget that affects Seed exclusively that is easy to forget from the side of USG. We believe GHSP can only work as a model with some form of stipend/loan forgiveness. Stipends are critical to recruiting quality health professionals. We are offsetting almost $1 million dollars in debt for our volunteers this year alone. We are spending much of our time at the management level trying to secure $ to guarantee all future volunteers will have access to these stipend each year. Next year, we anticipate having to offset up to $1.4 million and with our projected growth to more countries and 78 volunteers that number will reach $2.4 million in 2016, and could total $6.6 million over the three years. We trust you appreciate that this is a significant lift. And, we have learned that it puts immense pressure on our team as we are currently staffed.

We understand that from PC's perspective, there are some fixed costs per volunteer, and because the infrastructure is already built within HQ and at posts, the addition of sites and volunteers may not appear to add a lot of cost to the existing system. That is simply not the case from our perspective. We need to come to some understanding at a leadership level in order to move forward together. We hope you two can either make time for this call or we can find time in the very near future to discuss.

Best,
Vanessa, Sad and Pat

Thanks Laura for sending out this lengthy email and explanation. We fully realize we submitted a large budget. When we originally discussed developing the new budget, PC suggested to us we develop our "wish list" dream budget from which to work with and then we would figure it out from there. I very much want to make sure you realize we developed our current submission in that spirit knowing there would be negotiation. The exercise is helpful though because it does illustrate the true costs for Seed and our fundraising burden to make this program work with the quality it will need to have an impact. Many of this would be/ are things Seed pays for on our own but which are essential to making the endeavor efficient and maximizing the program.

I realize we are under the gun to get a budget in and I would appreciate a call with you all to discuss this. It is candidly hard for us to drop to 20-25% of the running budget when we are expanding countries. We will look hard at this internally though in the next couple of days but from the costings we have done so far, there is a proportional cost increase per country for us as well that goes beyond just increasing stipends. When might be good to talk?

Thank you all.
Vanessa and team

Hi Vanessa,

Thanks for the question (and sorry for the delay in responding). I do think that we will need to have another small group discussion about the Seed funding request, but it might be good to get a revised budget of needs that would span the 4 years first. There are a few things to consider when revising this and we can meet about this to discuss first, if you would prefer. Marie believes that our ongoing funding request can be submitted into the HOP in October and has received indication that this can be in the amount communicated over the summer when talks of expansion started, which was for $15 million.

This is only $5 million more than our initial 3 years, but will include a proposed 2 more countries and 12-16 volunteers per country. The one pretty constant per unit item in the funding mix is the cost per volunteer, so that will take up a good chunk of the additional funding. Given this constant and increasing cost, adding the ~ $2 million/ year for 3 years that was submitted for the Seed budget (that needs to be reworked to cover 4 years) would put us well over the total amount (it would end up being ~ $8 million) and also take up over half of the total amount and does not include any direct volunteer costs.

In reworking the budget, I think it would help to keep in mind that initially, Seed's award was for ~ 2 million for years 1-3, but then was increased to a little under 3 million for years 1-3, which equates to about 30% of the original funding from OGAC. This increase was accomplished by curtailing the number of total volunteers (which initially was supposed to go from 36 to 48 to 60). Since the increased volunteer costs will now have to take a larger percentage of the total funding for years 4-6, it would make sense to keep Seed's costs below 30% of the total funding and close to 20-25% would allow the program to continue to grow in the way that we envisioned as a team.

However, since you will need to stretch this over 4 years (with the 4th year being projected as a potential 'draw down' year, so potentially lower costs), one proposal is to use any carryover funds from the years 1-3 total funding (which we anticipate will be around $1 million) to add to the Seed budget to cover that additional time.

Let us know if you want to go ahead and do a new mock-up of the budget or if we should schedule a call to discuss first. We will want to move on this as quickly as possible, since we are anticipating that we will be making a HOP submission this month, but don't know when precisely this will happen.

Just as a disclaimer, though, anything we discuss/review/submit at this point is unofficial and subject to change and won't be official until after we receive funding and go through the process of having the required documentation completed with contracting here.

Laura

Thanks so much Michelle. I figured someone else needed your attention at the end of the call 😊. Let me know if you don't get a response from Joseph or need any additional follow-up on this.

So, to get us moving on the budget talks again for years 4-6, I'd like to request a couple of things.

- Since the agreement ends in Sept 2015, but the years 4-6 budget would need to take us through 4 years to include the last year in the field and draw down period, could you submit a budget for this time period (Sept 2015 until August or Sept 2019 – based on when we think the final wrap up would occur), keeping in mind that the last year could potentially be the last year of the program and therefore would be a draw down year as recruiting, site placement coordination, orientation, etc would not occur that last year. (You may want to add a caveat that if funding continues this would require additional funding and do 2 different projections for that last year.)

- Could you also add some more specifics to the budget items, for instance breakdown on the salaries being funded, travel plans, etc., as well as a narrative for budget line items or sections that are increasing with some additional information on these costs (sort of a justification or explanation of specific need being addressed)? Although we are planning to increase our numbers in years 4-6, we also should be developing efficiencies as the program matures, so we just want to make sure that the increases are justifiable and also that the cost per volunteer remains reasonable.

Thanks for your help and feel free to call if any of this does not make sense.

Subject: Fwd: Co-op agreement PC12-5-001

Hi Laura,

Great to talk to you today! Sorry I sounded weird at the end of the call, a line of people was forming in my cube!! LOL!

Below is the email I sent to Joseph. I will let you know what he comes back with.

Attached is the narrative for Q3 that was submitted with the Form 270 & 272 back on July 31. It has my name on it, but Vanessa and the staff put together the narrative stuff. I'm the money person :)

Thanks for your help on and patience with me. I've been in the private sector over 30 years and the government reporting is new territory for me. Any guidance you would like to give me is much appreciated!

Michelle

Dear Joseph,

I'm the new Director of Finance and Administration at Seed Global Health. I have taken over the duties of Jennifer Goldsmith and I need a clarification on our agreement number PC12-5-001 with the Peace Corps. This agreement was issued under ^{(b)(6)} back in Sept of 2012. I understand she is not the Contracting Officer and that you have taken over her duties.

The agreement's period of performance is Sept 10, 2012 - Sept 9, 2015. We submitted a 3 year budget with a fiscal year ending in Sept in the years, 2013, 2014 & 2015. The total award was $2,859,808 broken down as follows:

Year 1 - $ 650,00

Year 3 - $ 1,100,540

When I met with the Peace Corps office in July, I was informed that we could not roll funds that weren't spent from one year to the next. We could roll the advances forward, but if we did not spend the full $650,000 in year one (which we did not) or funds from year two, we could not roll these funds to year three. I've been through the agreement and I'm new to government contracts, but I could not find the language where this is stated. We would like to be able to use the unused funds from Year's 1 and 2 to roll to Year 3 and would like to know what we need to do to make this happen if possible.

You can contact me at the numbers below if you would like to discuss more.

Thanks in advance.
Michelle

Subject: CUGH panel

Dear Dick, Sarah, Laura, Marie and Shira,

I wanted to make sure you knew that Seed will be organizing a panel on Human Resources for Health for the CUGH conference in March. We will be playing a moderating role for our panelists, not really outrightly promoting GHSP. Our hope is that by organizing the panel and briefly discussing our work as an introduction to the theme, it will raise our profile but we are intentionally trying to have others speak about the challenges of HRH work and capacity building. We will have two of our partners as panelists, ^{(b)(6)} [redacted] (Uganda) and ^{(b)(6)} [redacted], from ^{(b)(6)} [redacted] nursing (Tanzania). They will be joined by ^{(b)(6)} [redacted] and ^{(b)(6)} [redacted] from the ^{(b)(6)} [redacted] work and, now, involved in ^{(b)(6)} [redacted] in Nigeria.

Thanks,
 Vanessa

Seed team,

We have been having discussions here at PC HQ regarding lessons learned and reflections on successes and challenges of GHSP Volunteer support. Our discussions have been informed by the three ISTs as well as our interactions with posts and Volunteers. Laura is drafting a document reflecting our observations and recommendations which we would like to share with you by the end of next week. We can use this document for joint discussions and decisions about roles going forward. Given the upcoming holidays and schedule of leave time, we expect that holding these conversations beginning the middle of January would be best. We are all looking forward to working closely together in the new year.

At this time, posts are thinking about the following dates for IST:

Uganda: October 28-31 with arrival on Oct 27

Tanzania: November 4-8 with arrival on November 3

Malawi: November 12-14 with arrival on the 11 OR December 3-5 with arrival on December 2

The GHW Forum in Brazil is November 10-13.

After orientation, we will need to firm up the IST dates and begin to think about content with posts and length of training.

First of all, congratulations on your thoughtful and rigorous evaluation of GHSP's first year's results. This is the kind of analysis we needed, firstly to drive program improvements, but also to promote the value-added of our approach. I have not yet been able to read the whole article, but I will this weekend. It is an incredible privilege to work with you and your team. I am always inspired by the work of our GHSP Volunteers and all of you who bring so much to our partnership. I really do believe that we are saving lives, improving health outcomes, and building health systems capacity. It takes a long time, as we know, to measure progress, but in my heart I believe we are on the right course. And we now have some results that can help guide our future planning and programming.

Many thanks to you. You put a lot of work into this article and it is fantastic to see it in a publication like World Population and Health. It is incredible that the article has top billing on the WHO's Global Health Workforce Alliance website at this time in history when so many thought leaders from around the world are gathering in New York to contemplate the future of development and adoption of the SDGs.

I admire you all so much and am so grateful to call you friends and colleagues.

Warmest regards,

Subject: First year results in print

Dear Dick, Carrie, Marie, Laura and Kate,

I wanted to share with you a publication Seed was asked to steward on the Global Health Service Partnership's first year results. It is now in print in World Population and Health which was just released. Available at: <http://www.longwoods.com/content/24313>

It is currently has the top billing on the WHO's Global Health WorkforceAlliance website in advance of the UN General Assembly.

Thank you for your hard work and efforts to help bring this entire program to life.

Best,
Vanessa

Hi again Vanessa. Caroline, Ben and I were able to speak on Friday. I learned some things about the genesis of these funds that I believe will make things easier on all of us. In conclusion, the three of us believe that the best course of action, and the one that would be quickest, would be for the head of JSI (apparently a Seed board member?) and you to speak about the equipment/services you would like, and then for the head of JSI to contact USAID's JSI COTR. This would eliminate a variety of steps and unnecessary interlocutors, like me!

Let me know if you have any questions.

Dear Marie and Padmini,

Thank you so much Marie for the introduction. Padmini, it is a pleasure to meet you by email. We are very grateful for the funds to support infrastructure and education at the sites where GHSP works. This will hopefully have an exponential effect on the impact of the GHSP volunteers. As Marie outlined, we are interested in having the funds go to the sites (i.e. Seed does not have an interest in receiving the funds, we do not take any indirects etc) but we want to ensure the funds are allocated in the most beneficial, substantial and impactful way.

We appreciate the Peace Corps' requests outlined by Marie. Marie, we would welcome any guidance as to the reporting on the funds. Our one possible pushback is that "equipment" does not fully cover some of the investments these sites need. In some cases, it may be electronic resource subscriptions, in others it may be continuing medical education course available to the Volunteers and their counterparts. In some cases, it may be to cover personnel support to a particular scale up project. We have received some very promising and well thought our proposals for specific projects which would be investments to the sites and education there but which may entail some non-equipment charges. If this is really of concern, we can certainly work around it/with it and are happy to. I just wanted to share with you some initial feedback. Sad Sayeed, our Chief Medical Officer and Pat Daoust our Chief Nursing Officer may have some additional thoughts.

We are eager to fund some of the sites and their initial requests. Please advise on how to proceed.

With best wishes and many, many thanks!

Padmini and Vanessa,

I would like to virtually introduce you two, and many apologies for my delay on sending this message. As you both know, Seed secured $110K of funding (one time allotment) from the Office of the Global AIDS Coordinator (OGAC) independent of Peace Corps' secured GHSP funds. USAID is assisting by being the recipient of these funds, with the ultimate objective of JSI/Deliver providing equipment to Global Health Service Partnership facilities in the field, in order to improve their institutional capacity.

While this donation is directly from OGAC to Seed, Peace Corps would like to respectfully recommend the following: 1) the donation to facilities should be in the form of equipment and not cash; 2) maintenance and repair costs should also be considered, above and beyond the equipment costs; 3) Seed should understand if OGAC has any reporting requirements on this donation (I would be happy to ask them if you would like); and 4) to the extent possible, the three Peace Corps posts should be kept out of the negotiations with facilities, although Posts could be helpful when determining equipment priorities.

If you have any questions on this donation, please let me know and I will be happy to assist. Otherwise, we encourage you to work directly together on this donation from OGAC to Seed.

Thank you both,

Marie

[Calling all change makers! The Global Health Corps fellowship applications is NOW OPEN]

Dear Carrie,

Great ideas don't change the world, great PEOPLE do! We are calling emerging leaders from all sectors and backgrounds to work on the most challenging health problems of our world. These young leaders will serve in paid, yearlong fellowship positions in high-impact health-focused NGOs and government organizations. Positions are available in program management, supply chain, finance, communications, monitoring and evaluation, and more, in East and Southern Africa and the United States. Fellows will engage in trainings, professional development opportunities and mentorship, and will join a global network committed to health equity.

If you meet the requirements (below) and want to make real change towards health equity, then apply today<<http://cts.vresp.com/c/?GlobalHealthCorps/7eaf5120b7/bd03d5453a/ce00cfbb89>>. Dear HRH TWG members, ECSACON will be hosting a regional regulatory nursing conference in Zimbabwe from August 25 – 29, 2014. Donors and those invested in supporting nursing development are welcome to share their successes and learn about regional nursing activities. This is an excellent opportunity for PEPFAR to demonstrate support for a local organization to build a network of regional nurse leaders. For those interested in submitting an abstract, please note the due date of March 30. Bear in mind that field participation in non-PEPFAR conferences is generally limited to those who are making oral presentations or otherwise have a speaking role on the conference agenda. If you do submit an abstract and it is accepted for oral presentation, please let HQ know as soon as possible to ensure agency sign-off on your participation.

Best,

Andrew

I think it looks more consistent across the slides. I also updated the RN slide to include our two nursing extensions, Cathleen and Mary Sebert (mary is for 6 months). I then did little things like putting all the slide titles in the same font size throughout the entire presentation for consistency. If you don't like the changes I made, let me know and I can change the goals/objectives slides back to their original slide and also revert to your original RN and MD summary slides

- Objectives and description of GHSP
- Importance to Peace Corps' mission

Then over to Vanessa for up to 20 mintues on:

- review of Year 1 and looking ahead to Year 2
- Lessons learned
- Stories from the field

Finally, Steve, for up to 10 minutes on his personal experience.

As Marie reminded us, Debbi Birx will only be there for the first 30 minutes so we need to ensure we get across all critical info in that time.

I am confused. I updated the nursing and MD slides (9+10) and they should now add to 42. There are 23 nurses including (b)(6) and (b)(6) who are renewing and 19 MDs if you include (b)(6)

I have 19+23 = 42 which is the correct number if you include (b)(6)

I adjusted the blank slide and actually formatted many others again as I realized we had two different sizes of the banner throughout.

we do not have a better picture of (b)(6) it is one of the only headshot we have. He has been elusive. Laura had one another but he is in a group and it looks like he is in the US. I think we can just apologize for it ?

Vanessa and Laura,

Reformatting looks fine.

We still need a couple things:

- we need to get the numbers right for year 2 (current slides 9+10) as they add to 40, rather than 42
- we still have a blank slide for "Lessons from Year 1" (#15) - drop or reformat and reilabel (should be Results and Lessons from Year One, and on standard format slide if we keep it)
- do we have a better picture of Matt Ronbinson (slide #36) - very out-of-focus and not too flattering

See you tomorrow.

Thanks. Agree for memo say 13. How does this sound for lingo:

1. Sites - Number - 15; Definition: distinct locations where volunteers work. This could be an RN only, MD only or both RN and MD such as MUST which is a university with multiple schools (VBK list #1)
2. Institutions - Number 13: Definition: specific learning institutions which may have both RNs and MDs and/or may have multiples sites affiliated with it. For example, KCN or College of Medicine which is one institution but has two campuses each. (VBK list #2)
3. Programs - Number 17: Definition: specific programs of learning affiliated with a given school. For example, MUST, Univ of Dodoma and Kairuki all have a nursing program and a physician program which are two distinct (Laura's list)

Oh wow, this is a good exercise because we are kind of all over the board in how we frame this ☺
Our 17 comes from noting the nursing schools and medical schools at the same institutions as different "sites", not from physical locations. So, we don't count the split campuses (KCN & CoM as different sites). We count the number of "sites"/schools within an institution that host volunteers, so although KCN has nurses at 2 campuses, there is one central leadership. Here is our list:

1. (b)(6) [redacted]
2. (b)(6) [redacted]
3. (b)(6) [redacted]
4. (b)(6) [redacted]

5. (b)(6)
6. (b)(6)
7. (b)(6)
8. (b)(6)
9. (b)(6)
10. (b)(6)
11. (b)(6)
12. (b)(6)
13. (b)(6)
14. (b)(6)
15. (b)(6)
16. (b)(6)
17. (b)(6)

I'm not certain of the best way to quantify this, but we should probably come up with how we want to represent where we work and define the term we are using and then all use the same language and numbers. I was just looking at the (b)(6) website and it doesn't even look like they have 2 distinct schools within the university, just faculties of nursing and medicine, so this might not count as separate sites or schools...

Thanks.

Ok. Thanks. It does make sense to make sure we have lingo down. I generally say sites but you are right to make distinction between institution and "site." I would consider the following distinct SITES:

1. (b)(6)
2. (b)(6)

3. (b)(6)
4. (b)(6)
5. (b)(6)
6. (b)(6)
7. (b)(6)
8. (b)(6)
9. (b)(6)
10. (b)(6)
11. (b)(6)
12. (b)(6)
13. (b)(6)
14. (b)(6)
15. (b)(6)

I used to lump the (b)(6) and (b)(6) before this exercise hence my 13.

For INSTITUTIONS I would argue:

1. (b)(6)
2. (b)(6)
3. (b)(6)
4. (b)(6)
5. (b)(6)
6. (b)(6)
7. (b)(6)
8. (b)(6)
9. (b)(6)
10. (b)(6)
11. (b)(6)
12. (b)(6)
13. (b)(6)

I would argue whether to keep (b)(6) together.

Thoughts?

Thanks for the prompt response. I will speak for myself and let Vanessa chime in on her own. I agree completely with what you say below. I don't think we misheard you on the phone call - we didn't really speak directly on this issue. From my perspective, we absolutely need a higher level, senior person to work at the level you describe in each country. If CDC or USAID is willing to work with us, terrific.

I also want to be clear that I think we need a Seed-employed clinical educator specialist in each country that can work at a more granular level with our volunteers, our counterparts and partners at institutions and the post PMs to cultivate innovation and training progress in real time - precisely to try and address the kinds of issues Kiran noted in her email. Some of this stuff is quickly fixable, and some will take more time - but my own sense (like yours) is that our volunteers, the institutional counterparts, PC PMs all don't have the bandwidth to nudge the processes forward in a timely manner. And, at least I think we shouldn't assume these kinds of issues can and should only be solved organically with the current players or by a push from the top down. It's an opportunity to nudge and innovate.

That's why we are willing to test the idea that a country focused clinical educational expert living in country full time could make a significant and measurable impact on the learning conditions at many of our sites precisely because that is all they will be doing. Someone a few years out from training, with a strong background in medical/nursing education and a desire to work in these environments. A few of these folks exist - believe it or not.

Hopefully you see the distinction. Let's plan to flesh this out more - as you suggest - in the coming weeks.

best,
 Sad

Dear Vanessa and Sad,

I fully understand your desires for significant (dare we say "radical") institutional change, and the rationale behind them. Just to be clear, I fully concur with you about the critical importance of such change. I know you both know this field well - we can have high aspirations without being naïve. The points I was trying to make in our discussion, based on the policy reform programs I designed and managed while at USAID, were as follows:

- I don't think we can undertake policy dialogue from the states or even through intermittent visits; it takes someone on the ground.
- I don't think our GHSP doctors and nurses are the right people to do this - they are too imbedded in an institution and do not have a broad enough platform nor standing.

- And, unfortunately, I don't think a one-year Volunteer attached to the Ministry of Health would suffice either.

Ironically, after our call, I suggested to Marie and Sarah that we need someone like that which you are proposing - not a "Country Director" per se but someone senior with the kind of experience to have gravitas in politically-charged policy reform, and who would be on the ground for more than one year. While that is no longer a Peace Corps program, we did think that would be saleable to USAID or CDC, and we would be willing to pitch this as a natural and powerful complement to GHSP.

Let's pick up this idea in the next few weeks and see where we can take it.

Best regards,
Dick

Subject: Follow-up

Dear Dick and Sarah:

Thanks again for spending a couple of hours with us this week discussing the future budget and the vision for GHSP. We will send you the revised (down to $5.2M) later today (once I figure out how to fix some excel thing). We both want to reiterate our strong desire to make this partnership not only work, but flourish under our collective stewardship.

We know it would still be a nice story if at the end of the next few years, we can show how a collection of nurse and clinician educators made differences in many, many students', trainees', faculties' and patients' lives in East Africa.

We think though the story of this program can be a great one. We do not want to shy away from being more ambitious and transformational. If anything, the Ebola disaster in West Africa reinforces our feeling a moral obligation to invest more, faster, deeper. It would be an incredible story if in five years time, there is no concern about the preparedness and ability for the institutions where our volunteers work to handle an Ebola disaster. We want to work much more in depth at the sites to make these places not only good learning environments, but great and hospitable places to receive care - to serve as beacons for other institutions and countries. Dick, you are spot on in saying that this needs to be done in field. Aggressively, but respectfully. We trust you both know we are not naive to the ways of Africa or any setting where history and context work against rapid change. But, we don't want to use that as an excuse for not having tried. We think we can work with our institutional partners in thoughtful ways that encourages more "culture change" if they know and understand we are in this for a longer haul alongside them.

We say all of the above because one thing we did not mention in our call today, but is arguably our biggest "ask" - is for agreement to start a search for Seed country directors for the 3 countries. Our vision for these staff would be to do the institutional craft at sites regularly, and work with the ministries and other stakeholders to foster conditions where education and training can really take off. It would not be to deal with issues for our volunteers of housing or personal issues. A prime example of the need for this kind of work is the Family Medicine program in Malawi. ^{(b)(6)} and ^{(b)(6)} are reporting that there is so much potential in ^{(b)(6)}, but no one appears to have the bandwidth locally to make things happen. The COM, the MOH, Post, and our volunteers need help to make it work - just ask them. A similar story could be told, truthfully, in some form or another at every one of our sites (See Kiran's email below).

We recognize that a single regional director is not enough to help implement all of these needs and to really move the dial. We think this is an opportunity for GHSP to work intensively to help make the conditions riper not in 5 years, but in the next 1-2. Of course our proposed country directors would work in complete cooperation with Peace Corps Program Managers (and country directors), but we think there is room for both - and we also understand and anticipate the inevitable worries about role and function that will be raised.

Seed expects and will fundraise to pay for these positions in their entirety, but we need more than just buy-in at the level of HQ. We need both of you and the team at posts to understand and agree that there is much more not only that we can do, but ought to be doing to change the world. Again, that may sound naive, but we are not. Forgive us for being impatient, perhaps, but we think now is the time to push.

Let us know your thoughts.

Best,
Vanessa and Sad

Hi team,

Sorry in advance for the length of this email. Just want to get all my ideas out and we can figure out where to go next :)

I have been doing a lot of talking with volunteers about the [sites' educational "ecosystem" including existing strengths, weaknesses, barriers, and needed investments and how Seed can empower Volunteers' ability to be effective teachers.] Below I've listed some of the major educational challenges noted by site (with obvious overlap):

Lilongwe

- * Overwhelming amount of clinical work
- * Difficulty in balancing teaching work with clinical demands, especially in the presence of other MDs who are primarily focused on patient care.
- * Difficult to organize wards to make them more conducive to teaching because of pre-existing system
- * Changing leadership without clear replacements

Mangochi

- * Patients speaking tribal languages that most students/physicians cannot understand
- * Expectation for family medicine physicians to be backup for complicated procedures (obs, minor surgeries)
- * Heavy administrative responsibilities for other MDs who are assigned to the site so volunteers feel pressured to do more than their fair share of clinical work

Gulu

- * Gaining credibility with interns/MOs/residents before students begin rotating so that volunteers are not undermined while trying to teach
- * Organizing Major Ward Rounds with large group of mixed (MD/CO) students
- * Ensuring students follow up with their assigned patients and prepare for rounds (students pick and choose what work they do, since there are hardly ever other local faculty there, they get away with not doing their work)
- * Empowering volunteers to have a voice when students/interns not cooperating - this would require better introductions of volunteers by faculty and allowing volunteers to be involved in evaluation of students and staff
- * Strengthening departments rather than filling in holes/gaps in departments
- * Balancing clinical vs. teaching responsibilities (as above)

Mbarara

- * Ensuring volunteers have adequate basic clinical equipment (i.e. drill for orthopedics)
- * Ensuring there are always some medical students assigned to volunteers (and not shared btwn multiple subspecialties within surgery)
- * Ensuring there is a teaching structure in place that a volunteer can fit into (i.e. anesthesia has none)
- * Coping with heavy emotional burden of caring for patients in a resource-limited setting
- * Placing volunteers in departments outside their field (i.e. FM placed in IM)

Dar

- * Some volunteers have no clinical privileges at their clinical teaching sites so therefore cannot participate in patient management
- * Navigating politics btwn university and hospital to get clinical teaching privileges
- * Finding alternative clinical sites if primary site not impactful

Some of the simpler things that we should make sure are done well at every site

- * PST should always include some basics to prepare volunteers for sites (this is done to varying degrees at all the sites, often depending on how much clinical knowledge the GHSP program managers have):
 - * Introduction to health care systems (health centers vs. district vs regional vs national hospitals) in country,
 - * Introduction to educational systems in country (O levels/A levels/university)
 - * Understanding role of allied health professionals (COs, RNs, etc)
 - * Providing access to local/national clinical guidelines (pocketbooks)
 - * Providing GHSP white coat and GHSP badge as a placeholder until they get institutional badges made
- * On boarding at PST and first few weeks at site: site ID badges, being added to departmental email listserve, all introductions at teaching sites/hospitals/district levels, access to lecture timetables and student rosters (even if from previous years to help give a sense of the semester's structure), copy of the MD curriculum
- * ISTs - should always include at least a discussion on effective educational methods and probably a session on how to write/mark exams and OSCEs

Equipment/Resources -

- * projectors are definitely not available at every site, and in retrospect, we probably should have focused on those as much as we did the printers from PC. There are a handful of volunteers who have asked me about projectors because they have limited/no access.
- * improving students' access to textbooks and other educational resources
- * audience response system - Geoff at Kairuki is using this system to monitor how much his students understand. Can be helpful when students spoken English is poorer than what they can comprehend of written English (for many non-native English speakers). We could consider piloting this technology at other sites
- * online repository of lectures, pdfs, etc (hopefully this is coming with the new website)

We can wait to get additional feedback from volunteers during IST, but I think many of these issues will still be present, so we could even start prioritizing and figuring out which ones seem most feasible to tackle.

Good evening everyone. I just wanted to thank you for all your work to make today's brown bag a success. I felt really proud to be a member of the GHSP team. And I know that the information you presented will help during the negotiations for future funding.

I'm sorry for the time crunch - since I don't work there anymore, I can't chase people out of the room!

Could someone please forward this to (b)(6) I don't have his email address, and I wanted him to know too how important it was to have him there.

Colleagues,

Please join us on Monday July 14 at 11:00 am for a brown bag presentation on the Global Health Service Partnership (GHSP). GHSP is an exciting collaboration between Peace Corps, PEPFAR, and Seed Global Health, which aims to improve health care services through provision of American physicians and nurses who serve as clinical educators in countries that face critical shortages of health care providers.

If you know of others would be interested in attending this brown bag, please feel free to forward the invite.

Regards,
Marie

Dear Peace Corps Team,
 Fitz Mullan and his wife (b) (6) would like to invite you, along with the GHSP Volunteers, and other friends of the program, to dinner at their home in (b) (6) on Sunday, July 13th from 5:30pm-8:30pm to celebrate the 2nd year of the Global Health Service Partnership.

Please see the attached invitation with additional information.

We kindly ask that you RVSP by Weds, July 9th so we have a headcount for food and seating.

Have a wonderful Fourth and looking forward to seeing you all on Monday!

Best Regards,

Katelyn

PS. Laura, could you forward this along to the new Malawi Country Director and also Dr. Jung? I don't have their emails.

Thank you Soletia.

Just as an FYI: Seed team will take the lead and research the countries listed above re: appropriate potentials for GHSP

We will look at the following:

HIV prevalence

Access to ART treatment/care/prevention

HRH : ration of MDs/RN/midwives to population of medical school and nursing schools (BSN /diploma)

Language

NEPI and MEPI

Once we have the data will forward on to you for input and PC post fit.

Sound okay?

Funding Meeting: 7/24/2014

Participants: Vanessa, Pat, Michelle, Madison, Marie, Dick, Sarah, Krista, Laura, Eric, Soletia

HOP Discussion (led by Marie):

- Marie let us know that GHSP will continue to be funded from the HOP (Headquarter Operating Plan)
 - o COP (Country Operating Plan) funding has been tabled for now

- Looking at reshaping proposal to align more closely with Ambassador Birx’s care and treatment shift
 - o We should try to include a pediatric AIDS component to the proposal
- Timeline for new submission is mid-August
 - o OGAC has not provided submission guidance yet
- GHSP should focus on specialties that better aligns us with the shift and will bolster our chances to secure funding for years 4, 5, and 6
 - o We can still place “one-off” specialties but our focus should be on placing RNs, nurse midwives, family medicine physicians, OBGYNs etc...
 - o Volunteers would ideally teach BSN, AMO, and Clinical Officer candidates
- Everyone on board with the proposed # of Volunteers and new country entries that was tendered to OGAC in the rough proposal submitted
 - o Concern around difficulty fundraising for stipends with increased Volunteer numbers
 - o Talks about federal loan forgiveness are slated to happen but the timeline is unclear (no clear indication that they will gain enough traction)
 - Federal loan forgiveness only for eligible federal student loans but not for other kinds of debt
- Brief conversation around graduating countries, timeline is unclear
 - o Additional discussion around working more closely with Ministries of Health and Education to help inform policy around health care worker pay and other high level advocacy interventions
 - Policy change advocacy is not a strength of Peace Corps but something we can work on (Dick)
- Pat pointed out that the shift to care and treatment by OGAC still bodes well for GHSP because it touches on GHSPs “short-term” goal of training up specific specialties (namely family medicine, RNs etc.)
 - o She mentioned that to her GHSPs “long-term” goal HRH strengthening
 - o The middle ground is making sure we provide the specialties that fits into OGAC’s new model

Potential New Country Shortlist:

- Part of the new country entry strategy is to engage with agencies that are pulling together submissions for OGAC in order to see the analysis criteria they used for the 3-4 countries on our short list
 - o Touch base with PEPFAR country teams
 - Marie and Laura already had a call with Andrew Mitchell (Head of HRH Technical Group and primary GHSP contact at OGAC)
 - o Request SIMS (Site Improvement Management System)
 - o Plan is to begin site visits in the next 3-6 months
- Countries submitted in the HOP proposal are not hard and fast can make adjustments with proper justifications down the line
- Countries Proposed:
 - o Botswana
 - o Swaziland
 - o Mozambique
 - o Ghana
 - o Ethiopia
 - o Zambia
 - o Namibia
 - o Lesotho
- Countries Currently Being Considered:
 - o Swaziland
 - Nursing and possibly Clinical Officers and AMOs
 - CD is very interested in having the program
 - Pat and Vanessa and Sad are on board with Swazi as an option
 - Program could have a high impact based on the size

- PM and Minister of Health are interested in the program
 - Mozambique
 - Possibly physicians only
 - Need to research if medical and nursing courses are taught in English
 - Zambia
 - NEPI country
 - Need to research the lingua franca at the institutions that we might work with
 - Lesotho
 - This is a possible option, but more research needs to be done as this option was floated during the meeting
- Emphasis on entering countries with a higher prevalence rate
- Low prevalence rate made Ethiopia and Ghana less favorable candidates

Thanks Laura. For a program evaluation, I should be the point of contact for now. We are about to hire a person to fulfill ALL our M&E (we have had the position posted for awhile but only recently got good CVs). Jen, Sad, and Pat will be the assists on this but please work with me for the meantime :) We just met to go over our M&E plan for the this first year so we are developing tools as a first step as we think about it which will hopefully help as we embark on an eval together!

Dear Vanessa & Jen,

My apologies for not responding sooner. We had an internal discussion about this subject and didn't close the loop by getting back to you.

We need to do a program evaluation over the next couple of months, which will be an essential component of presenting a proposal for program growth and requesting continued/additional funding. Jen, would you be the person to collaborate with at SEED on this?

Katelyn and I have been discussing a tentative new time frame for the retreat that got postponed in October, which would be a good time to discuss the big picture of the 5 year vision. However, this will likely not be until April at the earliest, so we will want to have some planning conversations before that time.

I'll be in Malawi for the next 2 weeks, but can touch base with Jen on the evaluation planning upon my return (unless there will be different point person for this) and get a call set up for a group discussion.

Thanks.

Dear colleagues,

As we are midway through year 2 of our Cooperative Agreement we'd like to follow your suggestion our December GHSP call to begin planning for the next budget cycle. Our hope is to plan a 5 year budget and anticipate expenses for program growth over that horizon.

Recognizing this will be an iterative process, we'd like to get the ball rolling and would be happy to start this conversation in person, by skype, or by phone--whatever you think will work best. Given the nomination of a new head of PEPFAR we want to be well prepared to make our collective case for GHSP.

Please let me know whom from your team should be included and how best to proceed. On the first call/meeting we would like to set a timeline for budget development so we have milestones and a clear plan together as well as beginning to define terms for program scale which will guide our budget planning.

I was thinking this might help with any budget constraints in future years (including how to bridge the 10 month gap) if we could get some additional funding. I don't know that would work but defiantly the funds could be used to make educational investments at the sites which would benefit in country more than the program. I worry (b) (6) is not the right person as well as could not cover all three countries. Do you think the GHSP PM would be a better fit? My thought was this funding could be used for direct program and/or vol support. I agree it cannot be a Volunteer. I would be happy to discuss by phone. I actually do not have a clear path forward and it may have to be an opportunity we don't pursue this year but I would welcome your thoughts.

Marie,

Thank you so much. This is very helpful. If needed, we can perhaps do a mixed model where equipment only is purchased by PEPFAR funds and Seed can supplement the non equipment. I would love to still understand what is possible though. For example, (b) (6) just asked us to help support academic journal subscriptions. This would be a great use of the PEPFAR funds if permitted

We are so grateful for your help/

 Hi Dick and all,

Hope everyone had a good Thanksgiving and still enjoying the weekend!

I wanted to respond to your e-mail Dick and thank you for such a comprehensive reply. I appreciate that the response to the question regarding same-sex couples placement may not be what you thought I was hoping for but actually what I was really asking was clarification regarding a policy that neither I, nor anyone at Seed, was aware of until we were at the moment of invitation to a GHSP applicant.

As I noted in my original note to you, I asked this specific question in June at COS and given the impression that all was okay for a placement in Malawi. The candidate then formally applied and was interviewed by Julie Marshall. He was completely forthcoming about his plans to serve with his partner who was willing to serve as a Response Volunteer. He was told that this was feasible and then passed along to Julie Anathan and me for a Seed interview. He went thru the Peace Corps pre-medical clearance and reference check...no red flags and proceeded without any hint of the policy to which you referred in your e-mail. Based on this experience I am assuming that some staff at PC may not have been aware of this policy as well.

We were all taken aback to hear, at this late date in the process, about the position taken by the Peace Corps in 2013 which prohibits same sex placements in the countries where we have the GHSP program. I guess my suggestion for moving forward would be that when policies are developed/ implemented and impact GHSP that there be some type of clear/written communication to Seed in a timely manner. As partners I would hope that we can ensure that this can be built into the system, therefore, avoiding future misunderstanding and I have to admit embarrassment when working with potential applicants.

Although the candidate was very disappointed about this outcome, I referred him and his partner to HRH and they have both been accepted and looking forward to serving in Rwanda. The second potential applicant, an MD and her partner, have also applied elsewhere.

Glad to hear that there is a policy in place that allows for visits by same sex partners. I really don't think any of our GHSP volunteers would abuse this and go beyond visitation.

Looking forward to hearing the outcome re: HIV+ clinicians and ability to apply/serve with GHSP.

Thanks again Dick for getting back to me.

Would still welcome the opportunity to meet/speak if that works.

Take care, Pat

Dear Pat,

My sincere apologies for not responding to you earlier. I was not intentionally disregarding your query, or meaning to disrespect you – I have simply been swamped without my Special Assistant, ^{(b)(6)}, and without either Chief of Operations. So, let me belatedly respond – at least initially, with the hopes we can talk personally – to the three issues you raise:

- 1) Same-sex couples placement
- 2) Partners visiting

3) HIV+ doctors or nurses serving

Same-sex couples placement

I had assumed that you had received the message from Julie, via Marykate, that conveyed the position of Peace Corps; I had given her this information to convey to the Seed team. I was unaware of discussions that you had with (b)(6) and (b)(6) which led you to believe that the placement of same-sex couples was OK. They should have been aware of the official position that the agency has taken, which was taken in 2013 (maybe even late 2012). Let me expound on the email below, to help provide some context on what we are doing and why.

First, Peace Corps same-sex couples placement initiative was worked out in close collaboration with the White House. The ONLY limiting criteria that was applied was the legal framework of the host country – where homosexuality is expressly prohibited by law, Peace Corps and the White House agreed that we would not place same-sex couples. The reasons were two-fold: (1) concern for the safety of the Volunteers; and (2) concern for the Peace Corps program, if we were seen to be overtly contravening the laws of the host country. This is different than a gay or lesbian couple visiting a country on their own, since Peace Corps request visas to permit Volunteers to serve there, under our auspices. In the case of these countries, not only do they have clear laws prohibiting homosexuality, but those laws include severe criminal penalties, and in two of those countries legal actions have been taken against same-sex couple in the recent past.

Second, this applies ONLY to same-sex couples; it does NOT apply to the placement of single LGBT Volunteers. We have gay and lesbian Volunteers serving across Africa (as I know we do under GHSP); they face special challenges, but we work closely with them to assure their safety and support. It is noteworthy that we also have (b)(6), but we do not permit site changes for them to live together. Again, the driving concerns are the safety of the Volunteers, in light of punitive laws prohibiting same-sex relationships, and associated risks to the larger Peace Corps program.

Partners Visiting

I am fine with a partner visiting and staying with the Volunteer, with the exact same understanding that we have discussed regarding other couples – the visit be a visit, not more than 3 weeks, which is more liberal than the soft policy we have for two-year Volunteers. I do not want to see, in the case of a same-sex or opposite sex couple, this “visitation” be a rouse for moving over/moving in. As we discussed earlier this year about a currently serving Volunteer who had a spousal issue, it is important that we handle visa issues straight-up.

HIV+ candidates

I believe we have HIV+ Volunteers, on ARTs, serving. But, I have asked Laura to confirm that with our Office of Health Services, along with the medical clearance requirements. I would be willing to push the envelope on this issue for GHSP applicants, if we have limitations on such service.

I hope that responds to your questions, although I fully understand that the answer to the first issue is not what you were looking for. Happy to discuss more, in person if we are together next Monday or via phone.

Wishing you a wonderful day of thanksgiving.

Warmly,

Dick

Subject: Clarification

Before we send this out to the team I wanted to see if we can clarify a couple of related issues....
As you know we have had...and presently have...gay GHSP volunteers. They have shared their sexual orientation openly and are aware of the risks of serving in countries where homosexuality is illegal. All know that there are certain behaviors and conversations that need to be avoided and are committed to basically going back "into the closet". Since this new (?) "serving with partner policy" is based on the same legal premiseI am wondering why the cautionary measures could not be considered for those wishing to serve with their partners. Considering the maturity of our candidates I know that they would be willing and open to making all the necessary adjustments to their lifestyle.
I think the subject of men/women living together was brought up as a concern, however, we have these living arrangements in place now so not sure this is a real issue.
Another question: when a gay GHSP is serving, what is the policy for a partner coming to visit and staying for a period of time as many of our straight volunteer couples have done?

Lastly, I am curious as to what prompted this policy statement. As you know I brought up this issue at the COS in TZ in June since we had a request from a nurse wishing to serve with his partner, who would apply to the response program. His hope was to serve in Malawi... (b)(6) and (b)(6) both assured me that this was entirely feasible provided the applicants knew of the risks and were willing act accordingly. I shared this with the potential candidate who then formerly applied to PC, was interviewed....and was completely open about his situation and plan to serve with his partner. No red flags.....and the interviewing process continued. We at Seed interviewed him....an outstanding candidate!!!....and were in the process of extending an early invite. And now....looks like we have to back track. Needless to say I am both frustrated and disappointed. And a bit embarrassed.

We also have a (b)(6) and (b)(6) interested in GHSP and about to begin the application process. Looks like we have to also notify them regarding this new information.
Please understand...I realize that PC is ultimately responsible for the safety and security of all the volunteers and you have this front and center. I think I can say that I and the entire Seed team appreciate the tremendous effort this takes. I just need to clarify and better understand this policy as there appears to be some inconsistencies.

I realize that the chance of changing this stance is slim but felt compelled to share my thoughts/questions. In closing I have one last question....I promise!! I am presently at the Association of Nurses in AIDS Care (ANAC) conference... presenting and recruiting. Each year I get the question regarding HIV+ nurses...who are on ART and well controlled...and if they are able to apply. Is there a clear policy regarding this issue? Thank you for considering all of the above.

Thanks you!

Subject: Same sex couples

Hi Marykate, Would you please send the e-mail below regarding same sex couples serving in GHSP countries, to the Seed team? Thanks so much, Julie

Dear Seed Team,

Peace Corps has internally discussed the possibility of placing same sex couples in the field with GHSP. As you may know, Peace Corps has launched a same sex couple initiative, allowing same sex couple placements in a number of countries worldwide. Unfortunately, this list of countries does not include Tanzania, Malawi or Uganda due to homosexuality being illegal in all three of these countries and the particularly stringent penalties that are in place for those who break this law. While Peace Corps supports the diversity of all its volunteers, the agency does not want to place same-sex couples into a situation where the safety and security of the volunteers could be at risk.

Please let us know if you have any questions.

Thank you,
Julie

Overall, I think we've made some good progress standing up this brand new program, and we've made some needed adjustments as we learned while executing.

While most of your concerns are not a surprise, I would appreciate some additional details on a few of the points raised, which I did not fully understand. Please see my notes in red in section 8 (under b, c, d and f).

From my standpoint, I would put out two issues that I am wrestling with, for your consideration and discussion on Wednesday:

- 1) Outreach by Seed through your networks seemed weak this year, leading to much lower number of applicants than had been expected. Causes? And planned remediation going forward?
 - 2) Significant staff expansion recently. I'm not sure which are funded by PEPFAR and which are funded from Seed private funding, but those in the former category should normally have been discussed in advance under a Cooperative Agreement.
- Also, we should talk about the future, beyond the three year pilot – what is our shared vision and what do PEPFAR resources look like, and how best to position ourselves?

Looking forward to being with you all Wednesday.

Subject: For Wednesday

Dear Carrie, Dick, and Sarah:

We are looking forward to sitting down with you next week and taking a moment to acknowledge the incredible feat of making it through this first year. The three of us, and the entire Seed team, feel fortunate to have partnered with Peace Corps on this ambitious pilot. We all sincerely believe there is much more to celebrate in terms of GHSP's accomplishments this past year than there is to critique. We also believe this partnership has the potential to be the coolest and most influential program in the world. We hope you feel the same.

Our upcoming meeting serves as an important early inflection point for GHSP and our partnership. It provides an opportunity for our collective assessment of the program. This year has surely taught us that there is room for difference of opinion on many issues affecting the operation of the program depending on perspective. To be successful moving forward, we need to be clearer about Seed's perspective on the nature and purpose of this mission. It informs our positions on many specific issues. In anticipation, we share with you a set of critical observations that we believe are essential to discuss when we meet.

1. Seed believes GHSP is a special program, which addresses a critical need in the places we work. We fill a unique niche among other global health programs working in the field. Many outside and interested observers acknowledge the same about our program. GHSP has the potential to be a flagship transformative engine for developing health education systems, and hopefully, health systems themselves. GHSP is not just a development program, it is a specific, impact-oriented mission.

2. We recognize and appreciate the leadership each of you has shown. We acknowledge and recognize that you moved mountains, for example, to change the trailing spouse policy. We believe there is a convincing rationale for carving out exceptions for this program relative to all others at Peace Corps. This needs acknowledgement at all levels of Peace Corps, most especially at Posts.

- a. The GHSP volunteers have years of maturity, added education and sensibility that distinguish them.
 - b. GHSP volunteers are trained to care for and save people's lives and perform these functions every day as volunteers, which differentiates them from other professional PCRVs.
 - c. Even though we have constructed GHSP as an education-driven mission, a fundamental aspect of our volunteers' work is treating and caring for real patients. We cannot take doctoring or nursing out of our unique mission, and we cannot take service out of our unique mission.
 - d. GHSP volunteers' work has them facing impossibly difficult emotional and moral challenges every day as care providers. No other PCV or PCRV can include in their job description that that must bear witness to senseless death every day while also doing the best they can to prevent it themselves and teach others how to prevent it.
3. We are worried that our perspective is unwelcome at various levels of Peace Corps. The PC commitment to parity across all volunteers is particularly problematic to us.
 4. We openly wonder if the mission of GHSP would be better served if policies were mandated from HQ, deviating from the model of decentralized command and control – where, candidly, it appears to us that Posts retain most of the authority to address volunteer concerns as, when, and however they see fit. We are very concerned that the multiple inconsistent approaches we witnessed this year based on Post “personalities” will damage the program's potential for effectiveness. We have received considerable feedback from volunteers that they are routinely frustrated, insulted and disappointed by the processes of Peace Corps. The distinction between what constitutes “whining” on the part of our volunteers and what constitutes “lack of respect and/or responsiveness” on the part of PC clearly depends on perspective.
 5. Failing to distinguish and treat this program uniquely jeopardizes our ability to recruit the most qualified candidates. There is a very limited pool of excellent doctors and nurses willing to devote a year of their lives to this mission. This limited recruitment pool has more and more good choices to choose from in order to participate in GH work. It is our assessment that the constraints and inconveniences of being a PCV may outweigh whatever prestige comes with the designation.
 6. The consequence of this is either GHSP will need to set a low bar for acceptance into the program, or GHSP makes constructive changes that acknowledge reasonable needs and expectations of our volunteers.
 7. Seed would like to see GHSP as the most coveted and sought after global health opportunity available over the next decade and one that elevates the Peace Corps as a leader in technical support and health system strengthening. To that end, Seed leadership believes it is much better to have a smaller number of very qualified and capable applicants than a larger pool of mediocre applicants just for the sake of internal or external “numbers/interest” perception. The path forward is to demonstrate to doctors and nurses fresh out of training, already on faculty, or in mid-or late-career with active teaching roles in training institutions, that this is a personally viable and worthwhile opportunity for them to seriously consider (versus recruiting out of the retirement pool of doctors and nurses in private practice, for example).
 8. Given 1-8 above, we want to outline a few concrete changes as a start that we think would make a significant difference for the program:

- a. Genuine commitment to parity with peer- in country faculty counterparts:
 - i. increased autonomy/freedom of movement of the volunteer (no constraints on weekend travel when not at work)
(I think we can find an amenable solution to this)
 - ii. Personal transportation to and from work (especially important when on call), including the possibility of driving one's self
(I think we can find a workable solution to this one, too)
- b. Increase professional allowance support so that our volunteers are, for example, not struggling to afford internet service at the end of each month.
I was not aware of this. Do you have a sense of how widespread this issue is? (one country? every country? Some or all PCVs? How short?). We can certainly make adjustments to the professional allowance based on experience to date.
- c. Refinement of/ streamlined on-boarding off-boarding process that respects the maturity of our volunteers
Can you explain what you are thinking here – I'm not clear on your actual concerns?
- d. More comprehensive expansion to spouses/families (health benefits especially)
When we spoke of this a couple months back, you wondered if Seed could pay for health and medevac insurance from private funds as we were considering allowing non-Volunteer spouses/partners to serve. At the time, I indicated that should be possible. Beyond that, what were your thoughts/concerns around this issue?
- e. Improved communication about mission, policies to post and a common and communicated understanding the program
(No issues with the importance of this, but it would be worth discussion on Wednesday about how to actually do this better)
- f. Centralization of major policies for the program at HQ
Are there policies beyond leave and transportation that remain "pain points" we need to address?

We recognize this will likely come as a tough read to digest, let alone accept. We also recognize and appreciate that each of you might read this and reasonably conclude that we propose is to make a different class of PCRV and that this is antithetical to the ethos of PC. This is precisely what we must discuss when we meet. There is little point in meeting if we avoid having the hard but necessary conversation. We sincerely believe the only promising way forward for this partnership is to start with an honest and transparent dialogue.

Best,
Vanessa, Sad and Pat on behalf of the team

Subject: Re: INFO: GHSP - For Wednesday

Thanks Dick. Highlights also did not come through :(but I think I have caught most of them looking through it.

I am going to defer some to tomorrow as it may be easier to explain in person but here some quick clarifications.

* Increase professional allowance support so that our volunteers are, for example, not struggling to afford internet service at the end of each month.*

- we have learned of this on our site visits. We have tried to quantify this a bit as we have talked to them and it sounds like they can be as much as $100 behind each month. It has occurred in all three countries. It has been about 50-60% of the PCVs it seems.

* Refinement of/ streamlined on-boarding off-boarding process that respects the maturity of our volunteers*

- this refers to the process of entering the program (paperwork, clearance) and/or leaving. Sad and Pat have good examples which we can share.

* More comprehensive expansion to spouses/families (health benefits especially)*

- we did but we wanted to make sure we really evaluated this fully and were in agreement. We also wanted to explore mechanisms to provide this.

* Centralization of major policies for the program at HQ*

- the pain points of transportation and leave are key examples but conference attendance/travel etc are other examples. This was more for discussion and exploration as there seems to be subtle differences between countries which may be better if standardized and easier to manage? It would help potentially avoid delays in dealing with problems?

Hi Laura. It was great to put a face to the name today and learn more about GHSP and PC. I don't have access to Krista, Shelley and Marie's emails right now but please pass on my thanks for being such welcoming hosts. I am sure I will be in touch very soon and I look forward to working with you all!

Subject: KCH Comms Visit new week

Hi Vanessa, Sad and Pat—

I wanted to give you a quick update on the comms front. Erika Brown (PCR comms) and I will be visiting Malawi before the COS conference next week. We will be doing a communications visit to KCH to film and photograph the currently serving GHSP vols. This visit is still evolving but we plan to hire a local videographer and photographer to assist in producing imagery of the volunteers. We are excited about capturing the incredible work they are doing in (b) (6).

We plan on gathering materials to help communicate “a day in the life of a GHSP volunteer” – highlighting the following areas:

- Housing
- Community life
- Classroom setting
- Clinical setting
- Counterpart interactions
- Student interactions

We are working through all the details at the moment: copyright, consents, the contract, communicating with vols, post, etc.

Let me know if you have any questions or if anything in particular comes to mind that we should highlight.

Thanks
 Kate

Dear (b)(6)

Thank you so much for reaching out. It is great to hear from you! I would be happy to try and arrange a time to connect by phone. It may be a challenge, but hopefully we can get a critical mass. I have a good window on Monday the 24th and Tue the 25th in the mornings EST if that might work for your team and others.

 Hi Vanessa,

It has been a while since being in contact when I was at Fogarty, where I was working as Deputy Director to Roger Glass. I remember well the construction of this important program between SEED, Peace Corps, and PEPFAR (and, on a personal note, the global health launch event at MGH, when you were so kind to my son (b)(6) stuck in tow with me at the formal "adult" dinner). I am now in (b)(6) at Global Fund, and work on technical partnerships to advance the in country work supported by Global Fund, and will be pleased to follow up on your note to (b)(6)

I am wondering about the best way to share information and "open doors". We could consider a conference call among some of us on this email? It might take a bit of effort to identify a convenient time, but it seems that the exchange of information would be much richer than only email, (of course, a call can be supported with background written materials). Next week is the Global Fund Board meeting, but we could plan for something following. I will send an off-line email for us to decide upon the best approach.

Look forward to being in further communication, and best regards,

Dear (b)(6) and all,

(b)(6) thank you so much for the introductions.

It is a pleasure to meet everyone by email. We would welcome the chance to start to think about how we might fit into the GFATM discussions in country. As you likely know, Seed Global Health partners with the US Peace Corps to send MDs and RNs to Tanzania, Malawi and Uganda (Note: not sure if Kenya was a typo above but our third country is Uganda) to serve as faculty. The goal is to help teach the next generation of doctors and nurses who are capable of delivering high quality care but also able to teach others across the health spectrum and in future years. Last year, we trained over 2800 trainees, faculty and residents. We partner closely with the public sector institutions where we work and are guided by the Ministries of Health and of Higher Education to help meet training priorities.

Seed's in-country Director is Dr. Kiran Mitha (cc'd) and we work very closely with the Peace Corps offices in country as well, hence the names below provided to (b)(6) for your contact. I would love to stay in the loop as well as convenient. Thank you so much for your time in advance!

Best,
Vanessa

My apologies for the delay in taking you up on the offer to connect our folks to your team. I hope it is still possible! We discussed with the Peace Corps and think it makes the most sense to connect the Global Health Service Partnership Program Managers and Peace Corps Country Directors to your teams. We have a Regional Director but I worry she does not have the bandwidth to manage all three countries. We are planning to hire a country director of our own in the coming year but we are not there yet :)

Dear Joel,

Thank you so much for taking a moment to speak.

To help outline our hopes for JSI's help, I wanted to provide a summary. Seed Global Health requested funds from PEPFAR to make direct site infrastructure investments to support the Global Health Service Partnership. Our intention is to use the funds to buy core medical and nursing teaching tools to enhance educational impact at the sites and improve training outcomes. We requested $10,000 per site for 11 sites, then later determined we should further subdivide two sites between Mds and RNs for a total of 13 sites (see below). We received $110,000 in funding for a total of $9,166.66 per site.

We have asked each site to develop a brief proposal outlining 1) their training equipment/resource needs 2) the potential beneficiaries of the resources 3) their planned use. The proposals would be developed by the in-country faculty/sites with support from GHSP volunteers. We see this as an opportunity for collaboration. Seed Global Health would help evaluate the appropriateness of the proposals and if acceptable, they would be approved.

In discussion with Peace Corps and PEPFAR, it was determined the funds should be sent to USAID who would then ideally work with a procuring agency to acquire the requested equipment and resources. We would like to request that JSI play this procurement role. We would send the site requests to JSI for purchase, and JSI would then seek funds from USAID for payment. The equipment would then be delivered to the site directly. USAID has indicated that JSI would be able to determine which "JSI project" would be best suited to do this. I am hoping this is where you can help us solve a problem/hurdle in this whole process.

For review our sites include:

TANZANIA

1. Bugando Medical Center - RNs
2. Muhimbili Univeristy of Health and Allied Sciences - MDs
3. Mvumi Clinical Officers Training Center - MDs
4. Miremebe School of Nursing - RNs

4. Mbarara University of Science and Technology - RNs

MALAWI:

2. Kamuzu College of Nursing - RNs
3. Muzuzu University - RNs

Equipment requests range from pulse oximeters, blood pressure cuffs, scales, EKG machines, handheld ultrasounds, mannequins for skills labs, books, electronic resources (journal subscriptions), power point projectors, pens, dry erase markers etc.

We are very grateful for this support to the sites. Please let us know how we can assist in moving this forward.

Thanks all. To keep things more simple, we can do just equipment vis JSI. DELIVER should then work? My request for non-equipment was in hope that Seed could receive some of the funds directly from PEPFAR (which I am assuming is now too late as money is at USAID) to use towards trainings on the procured equipment. If Seed cannot receive the funds to support training activities on the equipment, we can just allocated towards equipment only and Seed can fundraise/find funds elsewhere to support trainings.

Joel, thank you for your commitment and support.

I spoke with Marie McLeod at Peace Corps who has been the liaison to USAID. I also spoke with Padmini Srinivasan at USAID who was not sure either what project this might work under. My most recent correspondence with Marie McLeod suggested copying Benjamin Gustafson once you and I spoke. I have cc'd Ben and Marie here now. I am hoping they can offer some suggestions.

I am sorry I am not more helpful but I have no idea where to begin on the projects front.

Dear Joel,

Thank you so much for taking a moment to speak.

To help outline our hopes for JSI's help, I wanted to provide a summary. Seed Global Health requested funds from PEPFAR to make direct site infrastructure investments to support the Global Health Service Partnership. Our intention is to use the funds to buy core medical and nursing teaching tools to enhance educational impact at the sites and improve training outcomes. We requested $10,000 per site for 11 sites, then later determined we should further subdivide two sites between Mds and RNs for a total of 13 sites (see below). We received $110,000 in funding for a total of $9,166.66 per site.

We have asked each site to develop a brief proposal outlining 1) their training equipment/resource needs 2) the potential beneficiaries of the resources 3) their planned use. The proposals would be developed by the in-country faculty/sites with support from GHSP volunteers. We see this as an opportunity for collaboration. Seed Global Health would help evaluate the appropriateness of the proposals and if acceptable, they would be approved.

In discussion with Peace Corps and PEPFAR, it was determined the funds should be sent to USAID who would then ideally work with a procuring agency to acquire the requested equipment and resources. We would like to request that JSI play this procurement role. We would send the site requests to JSI for purchase, and JSI would then seek funds from USAID for payment. The equipment would then be delivered to the site directly. USAID has indicated that JSI would be able to determine which "JSI project" would be best suited to do this. I am hoping this is where you can help us solve a problem/hurdle in this whole process.

For review our sites include:

Thanks Dick. In the salaries tab/sheet (and please note this is very sensitive information which I am sure you know), columns K and M have the breakdown between Seed and PC. To answer your questions specifically from above (and the information is in the budget in the columns)

For the MGH positions:

Katelyn is (b) (6) Seed, (b) (6) PC. She is a full time position.

Julie (deputy CNO) is (b) (6) PC (but only (b) (6) time to GHSP/ part time). Our deputy nursing team have no outside activities to GHSP

(b) (6) is a part time administrative fee for grants management.

Our two deputy CMOs are both part time and the full time position.

(b) (6) is 100% PC (but only 50% time to GHSP/part time). They work on GHSP only.

I hope this helps.

As we were reviewing the earlier budget (and I see it holds true for the revised budget), we had difficulty understanding exactly how much of each person's time they were giving to the program. On the "Salaries 2016-18" tab, the D column is "Comment" that appears to indicate whether the person is FT, PT or NA. However, it would be helpful to know the percentage of their time that is going to the program. Is it possible to indicate that:

CNO and others who are FT --> so 100% of that person's time goes to GHSP, and the salary that appears is their total remuneration? (i.e. no outside jobs?)

Dep CNO is PT --> what percentage of their time goes to GHSP?

MGH personnel are all "NA" --> what percentage of their time goes to GHSP?

However, I am concerned about the significantly higher annual level ($2.0m and progressively increasing) that is being proposed, particularly in relation to the current level. As I have mentioned in the past, we need to be projecting something that will ensure excellence but also sustainability, and "looks right" relative to the number of countries and Volunteers. So, I expect we will be looping back this next week to discuss that further.

Thank you Eric. That is very helpful. We prepared a projection based on all our anticipated needs for each year with the increasing countries and volunteers for our call last week so we are happy to send those on again. Michelle can send them to you directly. They reflect a full accounting of anticipated spending and some line items may not need to be at Seed but at PC (funding for locally held conferences like Maureen did for example). We are happy to explain and to discuss. We prepped an encompassing budget for discussion and "started from scratch" as was suggested. Thank you all for your help and the clarifications!

Vanessa, we unfortunately still aren't sure how detailed the budget submission is going to be since the submission forms haven't been released yet. Although, we are sure that we will be submitting a $15M request, which I think is what Marie meant by being good with a budget for PEPFAR. The numbers for that budget were not entered arbitrarily. We received information that Seed would need an additional $500k, or about $1.5M/year, to expand. We are happy to get updated projections from you, though, and the earlier those can be available the better. That way we can also adjust other figures to make sure our Volunteer numbers can better inform our needed effort.

Thanks,

Thanks Marie.

I am not sure though where Seed falls in that budget to PEPFAR. Is it a general budget (meaning an overall total?) or with line items for specific costs (i.e. PC, Seed, direct volunteer costs). Seed's expected costs are higher than the amount arbitrarily put in in the budget we saw at the meeting earlier this month. I do not want that to be considered set in stone when increasing #s and countries has a significant increase in costs for us both programmatically and for the stipends. We will need to raise a substantial increase in stipend funds to support the rise in volunteers which means we cannot designate that money to support additional program. This will be a problem if we want to grow and succeed.

Thanks,
Vanessa

Thanks all for the discussion on Thursday afternoon. It was very helpful to frame some of the big picture issues. I know Marie, you wanted a budget for PEPFAR by the end of the month and I wanted to see if we were planning to discuss the big picture line items. I wanted to make sure Seed's expected needs were agreed upon for submission. With more countries and more volunteers we have been able to project our annual costs. The numbers currently in the budget were placeholders according to Eric and I want to make sure we are able to jointly develop the budget and narrative.

Thanks,

Thanks Laura. I think that is the plan in terms of GFATM but I would love to touch base with Glenda personally to just introduce her to GHSP, Seed and the idea!

Thanks,

Hi Vanessa,

I talked to Glenda earlier today (who is here in DC for Overseas Staff Training) and she indicated that they thought that someone from Seed was coming to Swaziland in the next few weeks. I clarified that it is Global Fund and that Seed is looking to work together more in our GHSP countries. She asked about next steps and I told her that my understanding is that the representative from Global Fund would be contacting her and Musa to touch base during their visit. I just wanted to make sure that this is accurate.

Thanks.

Marie, Glenda and Musa,

Thank you so much. Glenda and Musa, please let us know how we can support these conversations. Seed does not have its own person on the ground but are happy to explore how we can help our program (GHSP) most effectively including Seed helping with any efforts in support of GHSP that are not easily done through the USG mechanisms. We are deeply committed to the program and certainly being as coordinated as possible.

Dear All,

Thank you so much for time yesterday. It was such a pleasure to connect with you and to learn about GFATM work in all the countries.

I wanted to connect everyone by email. The country representatives are cc'd above.

Dr. Bonaventure Ahaisibwe - CR Uganda

Dr. Bridget Malewezi - CR Malawi

Dr. Deo Ngoma - CR Tanzania

I also wanted to provide contacts for Swaziland. As I noted, we do not yet have a Country Rep in Swazi but our core program is in partnership with Peace Corps. They have a mission in country and would be a great point of contact when you visit. I am cc'ing Marie McLeod, Peace Corps' Director of the Office of Global Health and HIV who can help coordinate. She also serves as the Deputy Principal for Peace Corps to PEPFAR. I am also cc'ing Eileen Stuart-Shor, Seed's Chief Nursing Officer who is intimately involved in our activities and planning in Swaziland.

We will draft summaries of our programs in each country which we will send soon!

With best wishes,

Vanessa

All,

I still don't have power and my phone is slowly dying. (b)(6)

Please proceed without me and I will connect with you when I can.

Some thoughts:

-Since we don't have any volunteers to present, it will be Vanessa and Dick who do the talking - unless you all decide differently.

-the more we can talk about impact, the better. Please include slides on the evaluation even though we don't have impact data at this point.

-the pressures on pepfar money are incredible. OGAC is reviewing all TWG activities and asking questions about how they are related to care and treatment of people living with hiv. HRH is different, for obvious reasons, but Laura can fill you in on the most recent HRH TWG meeting. I think this presentation can be a real opportunity to showcase the important work we do, and how we are different than other than HRH initiatives - without necessarily calling them out.

Once again, apologies for not being on the call.

Thank you for all of your emails and for trying to accommodate Vanessa and Sad's availability on Wednesday, July 23. Now Vanessa is going to be traveling during the 4 pm call on Wednesday and Sad, as you mentioned, Laura, is on service on Wednesday. Is there a chance that we could reschedule the call to either 12 pm or 1 pm on Wednesday to ensure that Vanessa can be on the call in case Sad's ^{(b)(6)} is running late that afternoon? Please let me know if either of these times work for you.

Thank you,

Hi Madison,

Thanks for helping to reschedule the meeting time. We based the initial tentative time of 4-5 p.m. on Wednesday on Sad & Vanessa's available, since they are both on service next week, and also on Marie's available, because she has a very tight schedule next week.

The most important participants from our end with limited availability are Dick, Marie, and Sarah, so I'll let them respond regarding their availability on Wed afternoon (or I guess Wed morning might be necessary, but Sad had indicated that this wouldn't work for him due to rounding). I can be available any time on Wed.

Thanks.

Hi Sarah,

I hope that you had a good time last night! It looks like Vanessa will no longer be able to make the OGAC call next Wednesday since she is going to have to fly back from NYC during that time (and it sounds like Sad cannot make that time either). I am hoping to start an email to find a time to reschedule for earlier that day, but I wanted to make sure I have all participants included. From the Peace Corps team, would it be you, Dick, and Marie? Are there others who are hoping to join the call?

Thank you!

Subject: Review needed: Resiliency and Culture Shock assessment

Hi team

As introduced briefly at the COS retreat and previously on Seed team calls, Kiran and I have been developing a GHSP quality improvement project that would look for any relationships between culture shock/adaptation experienced by volunteers, their resiliency, and different personal and structural/programmatic factors. While we collect a great deal of information during site visits, emails, and phone calls, this would allow us to get a more comprehensive understanding of what all volunteers experience, identify factors that may help or hinder successfully completing service, and strengthen the support we provide before, during, and after service.

The attached document briefly outlines the project, including the standardized tools that Kiran and I found, and the surveys to be conducted. The questions for culture shock, resiliency and perceived stress are based on pre-existing tools, but the other questions about personal and structural/programmatic factors were selected based on what information we thought would be useful to the team. We would love feedback about additional questions or edits to existing questions - but please keep in mind that this will be repeated multiple times and we want to keep the survey as short and simple as possible.

We plan to introduce this at the M&E session during the second week of DC orientation, so if you are interested in reviewing the tools, please send any feedback by next Tuesday, July 12th.

Thanks in advance for your feedback,

Thanks Dick. We are excited about this but one point if consideration for us though is our ability to expand loan repayment. We are doing well but we need to understand the siE and scope we are thinking and we believe, that if the US government is committed to the idea and to service, there must be a mechanism to include/ consider this? Can we think through a mechanism for increased support for the vols specific to this which can be included? The program would still be less expensive than others to the USG and the outcomes significant and lasting.

Also, for planning purposes Seed will have increased costs as well which we will need to consider...

Thanks all for your lead on this. Please let us know how seed can weigh in. We will need to consider our staffing needs as well. Expansion of professions for us will come with 1-2 FTE per profession. We also may need some additional manpower to help manage the moving parts. We are ready to help think this through though.

We should plan on a fourth country in year 4 and fifth country in year 5. (My gut tells me it is probably too late to try to launch the fourth country in year 3, unless we do something "simple" like Swaziland or Botswana). I'm open to other perspectives on this.

Laura, with PCR and Seed, can estimate numbers of total PCRVs for each of years 3, 4 and 5.

Have a great weekend.

Marie - thanks for starting the funding conversation with OGAC. Let's pick it up together from Botswana.

Sarah - glad to hear you can handle recruiting 50. I would expect that we should be pretty close to that in Year 3 (the upcoming recruitment) and then exceed your current capacity thereafter.

In terms of field capacity, we should probably be fine for the next couple years in the current three countries, given the GHSP Coordinator assistant. (We might have to convert one of them from split duties to full-time, but that would not have significant funding implications, could be done relatively easily, and we have time to figure that out). We can replicate this post staffing pattern (Coordinator plus assistant) for the additional countries. After the rough start this past year, we rolled out clear housing standards and guidance, which we can use in any new countries. Between working on getting staff capacity right and driving clearer standards and expectations from HQ, I think we should be fine on our end of Volunteer support. Moreover, Seed is looking at how to put their tech resources closer to the field, with Kiran as pilot.

As I have said in the past month, I think we've learned a LOT from mistakes made during the start-up year, from which we should greatly benefit going forward. So, all in all, I am pretty confident about the field side.

Laura - as you are polishing the one pager I sent earlier, would you please add this to the end of first paragraph under Overview:

"In only the first year of the program, we can already see the profound impact that high quality American physicians and nurses are able to have - helping change the role of health educators and raise the status of primary health care providers, improving pedagogy for better learning, demonstrating new medical treatment regimens and techniques, and introducing appropriate medical technology."

Thanks,

Dick

For PCR, I would say one person can handle recruitment of 50 vols but once we go beyond that we will need a second FTE. I know we are planning on adding a second assistant coordinator at each post but let's make sure we have what we need for good site development on the front end and ongoing vol support if we go deeper and expand disciplines.

Subject: Re: Urgent: GHSP Uganda - Please advise

Thanks Dick. We will reach out to lauren and get it pulled. We will also aim for an apology.

We can draft the formal apology if that works for you and have you review it. We should plan to have me,

Loucine and you sign(sound okay?)

We can also draft the letter to the vols for your, Laura, Loucine and Bonny's review.

Bonny and/or Loucine, can you teach out to must including also (b) (6) has written me and asked to speak, FYI.

Thank you all.

Vanessa and I just spoke with Lauren. She was very receptive to the discussion and reiterated that there was never any malicious intent with her blog posts. Lauren is going to remove her blog and is going to also write an apology letter.

Will keep you posted.

 Hi Katelyn,

The letter is great, no additions. Kindly send a copy signed by Vanessa then Loucine will sign and we send it to MUST.

We had a “healing” phone call with the dean at MUST and HOD for anesthesia (b) (6) – the vice chancellor is out of the country. They were both very honest about their feelings and what they have seen/felt/heard among faculty. The issue isn’t unprecedented at MUST and reference was made to a visitor at the University in 1993 who published a lancet article branding the University as a factory for half-baked physicians. They were grateful for the response from GHSP and recognize that the blog didn’t represent the program. The actions taken; opportunity to talk , apology, pulling the blog and Lauren’s expression of remorse were particularly appreciated. It seems there had been existing tensions between anesthesia and ENT departments and the blog just flared them. The perceived “bad faith” of the blog is what was highlighted as having caused discomfort within the team and they believe a personal note from Lauren to them (ENT and Anesthesia) if possible will help to further it. They also proposed that this is used as a learning opportunity to guide the current and future Volunteers and promote more respectful messaging. Ari Hoffman’s blog<<https://kellyandari.wordpress.com/>> was cited as a model for a respectful balanced blog.

Bottom line they are grateful for the partnership and would want everyone to use this as a learning opportunity.

We will follow this with the letter.

Best regards,

-Bonny

Dear Loucine and Bonaventure,

Thank you for drafting up this letter. Attached is an updated letter for your review and edits. The content in this letter does reflect the sentiments that Lauren had expressed in our conversation with her yesterday, which was extremely remorseful and weighing on her heavily that she had unintentionally offended her valued peers and community at MUST.

Document is attached for review.

If there is anything else that we can or should do in the meantime, please let us know.

Thanks for all your support with this and kind regards,

Katelyn

1. We are committed to the program and that this blog does not represent the spirit or the commitment that drives our volunteers.
2. I would ask for forgiveness and share that as parents we need to be forgiving and understanding that our young ones can make mistakes.
3. I would express our commitment and resolve to ensure that mutual respect and compassion are the values that define this very important partnership.

Subject: Re: Urgent: GHSP Uganda - Please advise

Thanks Dick. We will reach out to lauren and get it pulled. We will also aim for an apology.

We can draft the formal apology if that works for you and have you review it. We should plan to have me, Loucine and you sign(sound okay?)

We can also draft the letter to the vols for your, Laura, Loucine and Bonny's review.

Bonny and/or Loucine, can you teach out to must including also (b) (6) has written me and asked to speak, FYI.

Where is the published data or the data she collected to back up these figures? If this is the new way to get one's work published, then surely it falls way below the standards of a tabloid. If one cannot get proper work published, I would expect at least journalistic standards to be met.

How successful were her efforts in reducing the ICU mortality, and at the point of her departure what was the ICU mortality? How much of her time in the week did she dedicate to clinical work. I am sure it was much less than the three mentioned days.

The blogger mentions oxygen shortages and she must have forgotten to mention that her grant application for an oxygen plant was very successful. Or is that to come in a later blog post?

> There are incidences one would have expected to be written about are clearly missing. Should the hosts also stoop to such low standards to post the same? How many terabytes would a Ugandan anaesthesiologist need if they were to write a blog and post pictures of every case done. After all almost all are done with lack of equipment and resources. Is this the new trend of publish or perish? Are we here to care for our patients or for self-promotion (I did this, I did that) and we totally forget that we are but a small cog in a set of gears. I am pretty sure that a lot of that story is false. Anyway, as a blogger, one is writer and editor, akin to judge and jury.

> When it comes to pictures taken, I wonder under whose authority she got some of these pictures posted on the internet. How does one violate a patient's privacy to such a level. Or is this not taught during training? Because the patients are getting a service from this overseas doctor, should they have no rights? How can one stoop so low? Should we abuse these children's rights because we have to show what we are doing. Taking pictures of patients, undressed, under anaesthesia is unacceptable whatever their age. Posting this pictures on a blog is appalling. The blogger should apologise to these patients.

> I would advise the blogger to always ask the question, "Why is this done the way it is?" Healthcare is not a one size fits all. Resources available differ and they modify practice. Probably that's why the ICU "kills" 70% of its patients. I would also advise the blogger to think before posting. Crossing ethical lines is not acceptable and impacts future partnerships despite one's self gratification. The blogger should also read JAMA Surg. 2015;150(4):289-290.

I believe the blog is a good example of why collaborations with some partners fail. I may even go ahead to propose that it should be used in future training in how not to do certain things.

Peace Corps' concern is about confusion that might arise from the phrase that GHSP will "help address Ebola" - specifically that it sounds as if we are returning to help DURING the epidemic. We had to notify Congress when we evacuated all three Ebola-Stricken countries and we have not notified Congress of any intent to return yet and we don't want to raise concerns in the general public, especially among friends and family of currently serving Volunteers, that we are working in the midst of Ebola.

So, may I suggest the following: instead of "help address Ebola" that we say "help rebuild the cadre of health care providers after Ebola"

the past 11 years, PEPFAR investments have built and strengthened partner country health systems – enhancing

Vanessa and Carrie,

I just wanted to let you know that OGAC is moving ahead with plans to announce the expansion of GHSP on World AIDS Day. I am not yet clear who would be making that announcement, but I know they are hoping for Pres. Obama. I'll keep you updated as I become aware of developments.

In addition, and logically given the WAD announcement, we just received the following email from OGAC:

Carrie and Vanessa,

Based on our discussion this morning, this is the final submission that went over to OGAC today to request funding in the HOP for expansion of GHSP.

(Vanessa - please do not forward, as this is fundamentally still an internal USG document, but I figured it was OK to forward to you since you have been in direct decision-making discussions with both PC and OGAC).

Subject: Site grants

Dear Marie, Dick and Krista,

We wanted to follow-up again about the site grants. I realize this is somewhere between USAID and JSI but we are really worried about how long this process has taken.

We have a number of very strong proposals for the use of funds that we would love to see the Volunteers and their counterparts implement. We are worried about the timing as the year is getting late and we want enough time for them to be able to implement their proposals and establish plan for continuity and sustainability with their counterparts.

To this end, Seed was interested in trying to fund some of these from our own funds at this point. We have discussed these grants with all the sites - never with a guarantee or promise - but they have all submitted requests in some form or another.

We feel strongly this investment is important as an investment in GHSP and we wanted your guidance on the funds as well as to let you know our thoughts of funding directly at this point for those grants that are best developed.

Best,
Vanessa and the team

World AIDS Day 2014

US Government Investment to Expand the Global Health Service Partnership

An Increased Federal Commitment to Address the Dire Shortages of Health Professionals Worldwide

We are excited to share with you that the US Government announced today an increased investment in Global Health Service Partnership program. This programmatic expansion comes as part of a larger $116.5 million federal investment in strengthening health systems worldwide to benefit HIV/AIDS and Ebola responses. We are honored to be receiving this support as it is critical to helping eliminate the severe shortage of 7.2 million doctors, nurses, and midwives around the globe. We look forward to expanding the GHSP program to train more health professionals in resource limited settings.

World AIDS Day 2014: GHSP Expansion

Vanessa Kerry, MD, MSc
CEO, Seed Global Health

I am part of a generation that has never known a world without AIDS. I dream that someday my children will not utter these same words.

Today, on World AIDS Day, we should all reflect on how far we have come in our global understanding of epidemics and health equity. Lessons learned through the AIDS crisis over the past two decades have certainly provided some guidance in the battle against the Ebola virus outbreak in West Africa. But both crises underscore the devastating consequences of severely under resourced health systems. We face a critical shortage of human resources for health worldwide. The World Health Organization estimates that in 83 countries around the world there is a dire shortage of 7.2 million doctors, nurses, and midwives.

People are at the heart of a health system and if we are to improve health over the long term, whether for HIV/AIDS, cardiovascular disease, childbirth complications, or Ebola, we must invest in training the next generation of skilled health professionals in countries with dire shortages. That's what the Global Health Service Partnership (GHSP) - a unique public-private partnership between Peace Corps, the President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR), and the non-profit I lead, Seed Global Health - does. Working in collaboration with ministries of health and education, and local training institutions, GHSP places US health professionals at medical and nursing schools in Malawi, Tanzania, and Uganda where they serve alongside local faculty as educators strengthening the training of the next generation of local doctors, nurses, and midwives.

The US Government's announcement today to invest in the GHSP program reinforces its commitment to ensuring that HIV/AIDS patients get the care they deserve, that 790,000 children are not orphaned in Malawi due to AIDS, that one woman does not die every hour due to childbirth in Tanzania, that epidemics do not escalate to the dire state of the current Ebola outbreak in West Africa - to improving health for all. It highlights the importance of building up a cadre of health professionals capable of not only providing outstanding care, but to training others for years to come.

GHSP has had an incredible ripple effect already. In its inaugural year alone (2013-2014) 30 volunteer educators taught over 2,800 medical and nursing faculty and trainees and 85 new courses and trainings. One volunteer, for example, taught 45 labor nurses in Tanzania life-saving techniques and within only a few days, these nurses shared the updates with many other nurses and doctors in the surrounding communities. In northern Uganda, another volunteer was told by hospital officials that dramatically fewer people had died since he and his co-volunteer had started. Further, he overheard five graduating students ask if they could stay working at the government hospital, a place where people had only typically stayed because it was required, not due to choice. In an area rebuilding after war, retaining professional health care workers is even more essential to strengthening the community.

Investing in medical and nursing education is a powerful, sustainable approach that will dramatically improve the health of people around the world.

I am humbled and honored that the US government has augmented its support of this approach. Expanding the program will allow GHSP's impact to reach more people in more communities; hopefully leading to improved health outcomes for years to come.
