Dear Mr. Mak:

Re: National Public Radio, Inc. et al v. United States Department of the Treasury, Civil Action No. 1:19-CV-0017 (JDB)

This letter is the Office of Foreign Assets Control's (OFAC) seventh interim response to your three Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), 5 U.S.C. § 552, requests to the Department of the Treasury as outlined below.

FOIA No.	Date of Request	Subject of Request
2018-06-192	May 14, 2018	Alexander Torshin, Oleg Deripaska
2018-08-115	August 14, 2018	Maria Butina
2018-08-116	August 14, 2018	Kalashnikov Concern, Mark Barnes, National Rifle Association

On August 22, 2019, the Court ordered Treasury to review documents at a rate of 3,000 pages per month, regardless of how many documents are identified as being responsive.

In accordance with this court order, for this seventh interim release OFAC has reviewed at least 3,000 page of records. Of the pages reviewed for this release, OFAC determined that 1,069 pages were responsive to your FOIA requests. The remaining pages were duplicates, non-responsive, or fall within the categories of records that we have agreed not to process at this time. Of the 1,069 responsive pages, 67 are duplicates or represent duplicative content; 82 pages are pending processing through the submitter notice process (see 31 C.F.R §1.5); 86 pages are pending processing as consultations to other governmental agencies (see 31 C.F.R. §1.3(d)(1)); 789 pages are being released in full; 13 pages are being withheld in full pursuant to FOIA exemptions (b)(6) and (b)(7)(E); and 32 pages are being released in part with redactions made pursuant to FOIA exemptions (b)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7)(A), (b)(7)(C), (b)(7)(D), and (b)(7)(E).

FOIA exemption (b)(5) protects from disclosure “inter-agency” or “intra-agency” records and information which would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with OFAC. OFAC used exemption (b)(5) to withhold information under the deliberative process privilege. OFAC determined that some discrete pieces of information, if released, would: 1) hinder open and frank discussions on matters of policy between subordinates and superiors; and/or 2) prematurely disclose proposed policies before they are actually adopted; and/or 3) engender public confusion from disclosure of reasons and rationales that were not in fact ultimately the grounds for an agency's action.

FOIA exemption (b)(6) protects from disclosure personal privacy information, the release of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. OFAC used a balancing test to determine that the individuals' right to personal privacy outweighs the public's right to release of the information. OFAC withheld information such as names of individuals, telephone numbers, email addresses, and portions of an individual's resume.

FOIA exemption (b)(7) protects from disclosure records and information compiled for a law enforcement purpose, the release of which would violate one of the six subparts of the exemption.

OFAC withheld records and information, compiled for a law enforcement purpose, under FOIA exemption (b)(7)(A) because release could reasonably be expected to interfere with enforcement proceedings.

OFAC withheld information, compiled for a law enforcement purpose, under FOIA exemption (b)(7)(C) to protect personal privacy information in law enforcement records, the release of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. The courts have determined that there are strong privacy interests inherent in law enforcement records. OFAC withheld such information as individual names, telephone numbers, and email addresses.

OFAC withheld information, compiled for a law enforcement purpose, under FOIA exemption (b)(7)(D) to protect the identity of a confidential source who provided information confidentially with the expectation that the source's identity would remain confidential.

OFAC withheld records and information, compiled for a law enforcement purpose, under FOIA exemption (b)(7)(E) to protect information that if released would disclose techniques and procedures that could reasonably be expected to risk circumvention of the law.

OFAC will continue to process its records until all responsive records have been processed.
