The Secret Service (USSS) uses YouTube as a place to store videos that have been previously released on other USSS social media platforms but might not be beneficial to the YouTube page. The managers of the USSS social media platforms work to create the best environment for our viewers and some videos remain private so that they can be released in playlists at the same time and be more digestible to a user. YouTube has also been used to edit or caption videos created specifically for our internal audience. These remain private because they aren't relevant to the general public.
